God's Presence With Man

Psalm 139: 1-12; 23 - 24

Some unknown writer has left this thought for our consideration: "If in the day of sorrow we own God's presence in the cloud, we shall find him also in the pillar of fire, brightening and cheering our way as the night comes on."

Bacon said, "We cannot too often think, that there is a never sleeping eye that reads the heart, and registers our thoughts."

The psalmist knew the ever present God as One who discerned.

God Who Discloses, Psalm 139: 7-12

To disclose means "to expose to view; to reveal; to make known." The psalmist experienced this with his God. God's presence was wherever he was. There was no escaping the presence of the Almighty. Man may go to the outer limits of space but God will be there. Man may descend to the realm of the dead but God will be there.

The word translated "Hell" in verse 8 is the Hebrew word Sheol. In the New Testament of the word translated "hell" is sometimes this same idea. The Greek word in the New Testament is hades. This does not do away with the Bible doctrine of Hell. Jesus spoke of hell as a place of eternal punishment, but He used a different word (Gehenna) for this sense.

The point made by the psalmist is clear. Wherever he goes God is there to confront him. But men misunderstand God. He is not there to do men harm. He is there to give men guidance and strength and comfort. "God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son . . . For God sent not his Son into the world to condemn the world; but that the world through him might be saved." (John 3:16-17).

The writer of this psalm (probably David) leard that darkness was no refuge from the presence of God. With God, darkness and light were one and the same!

God Who Discomferts, Psalm 139:23-24

This is a prayer most difficult to pray. One may speak the words, but to submit oneself to the scrutiny of God is a discomfoting experience indeed. This is the call for painful spiritual surgery. It is never an easy thing to make changes in one's life. One always feels more secure in the old ways. To ask even God to lead us is a call to change.

God is a living God. He seeks to lead men today. His leading is onward and upward. God will never allow one to be unmoved. His Holy Spirit deals with us daily. A child of God is to be content with what he has but never with what he is!

Addition At Baptist Church

Initial stages of a two story, 11,200 square feet addition to the administration building of the Clear Creek Baptist School, Pineville, Ky., are underway. An unidentified bulldozer operator prepares the foundation area for the new building that will house the school's library, music, and badly needed class rooms and offices. The theological school for adults has a capacity enrollment of 254.

MOUNTAIN MOMENTS

by K. Maynard Head

I'm Sorry, Bill Walton

My family and I are all big basketball fans. When I was a student at Middlesboro High School, I never missed a basketball game played on the home floor. At that time, Middlwboro played all her home games at the gymnasium of the Junior High School, and in the early fifties if basketball had been as popular as it is now, I don't know where the crowd could have been seated.

Lately, one of the boys that I watched throughout his collegiate career is Bill Walton who, of course, played basketball at UCLA. His performance in most games was flawless, and I expected him to "Burn the net" when he signed with the Portland Trailblazers. But he disappointed me - and my wife.

Joyce would read an article about him, and remark, "Well, what's the matter with him?" We saw a telecast about him just after his leg was put in a cast, and again, she said, "What's the matter with Him? Can't he do anything without getting hurt?" And I had begun to ask some of the same questions. But I read an article about Walton in Sports Illustrated which revealed some of the problems he has adjusting to professional basketball. I showed the article to my wife, and after she read it she said, "I'm sorry, Bill Walton, I'll never talk about you again."

The article told about Walton's self consciousness about his height, and that he was hurt many times with the remarks someone made about it. He apparently has a sinus condition, but since he is opposed to taking drugs, he must have a difficult time breathing normally. I'm sure this affects his performance on the floor. The weather in Oregon, where the Trailblazers are based, is quite different from California. At UCLA Walton was respected but disciplined. Since his entry into pro ranks, he has become his own man. He let his hair and beard grow. He does not eat properly. This may be due to having no one tell him what to eat, how long his hair can be, and when to go to bed, as a college coach would do.

When Joyce read the article about Walton, she could understand why he did some of the things he is reported to do. It's hard, however, for an avid basketball fan to understand so easily, and even harder for the club that invested the tremendous amount of money in him.

I hope Bill Walton is able to work through his problems, and come back to the game as strong as ever, and until he does, I think I will understand his odd behavior a little better.

I'm sorry Bill Walton, that I was so harsh on you.

Marshmallow
World

It's a marshmallow world—at least, through the eyes of children—a wonderful world of discovery. Each day brings new happiness; exploring exciting sights and sounds. Their trust and belief make every day a fascinating adventure.

But what happens when they grow up? The staggering pressures of today's modern world take the beauty and excitement out of life. Crises, crime and the struggle of earning a living all filter out the joy and spotlight the stress. The days are long.

But with all its problems, life is still incredibly beautiful. When we forget that it is, we need to be reminded that life has a meaning . . . we need to take on the faith of a child.

Come to that constant source of inspiration and truth and renew your strength in the Church.

The month of May in our locality is the most beautiful month of the year, May has always had 31 days and was named for Maia the Roman goddess of spring and growth, at one time May was the third month of the year then after the Romans added January and February it became the fifth month. If you still have some pruning to do on your trees and the sign and moon position is right to prevent too much spreading of the new growth and the almanac says it will improve the quality of and the flavor of your fruit. If you plant some new trees at this time you will get a good root growth. I read in Organic Gardening that if you planted garlic cloves close to the base of your peach trees it would prevent peach borers from destroying the trees.

Wednesday, May 7th

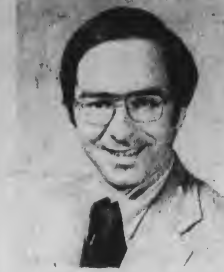

The moon went in to the cardinal fire sign Aries early this morning so this is a good day to cultivate and kill weeds also a good time to get more ground ready to plant next Wednesday and Thursday and when you do your weekend shopping buy the corn and bean seeds you will plant next week and don't forget the squash and melons while you still have a good variety to choose from. Today and tomorrow is also a good time to do home baking.

County Agent's 1/2 Acre

Today's American farmer little resembles his colonial ancestor of 2 centuries ago. He heads a commercial enterprise his fore fathers couldn't have imagined. Yet the resources, institutions, and technology that make American agriculture the world's most productive trace directly back to our early beginnings. Nature richly endowed American Agriculture. A wide range of productive land and climate permit production of virtually every agricultural commodity except some tropical fruit and vegetables, fibers, and due to genetic differences that can be transmitted to the offspring. Bulls that grow fastest themselves are likely to sire the fastest growing calves.

All bulls receive the same ration, are kept in the same shelter under the same condition. Bulls are fed and cared for according to recommendations specified at the University of Kentucky beef cattle specialists.

Bulls born this spring will be tested in 1975 and 76. Please contact me at 356-3155 or the Kentucky Beef Cattle Association, Agr. Science Center South, University of Kentucky, Lexington, Kentucky 40506, if you would like to put bulls on consignment in 1975-76. For sales also offer a good chance to select an outstanding bull on the basis of performance information. Several farmers from this area went to these sales this year to select a bull.

Summer Field Days are on their way. Don't miss the Eden Shale Field Day in Owen County on Friday, June 13. Look for a more complete program on this and other fields days in the coming weeks.

The fact that outstanding performance tested bulls are worth more to both buyer and seller was evident at this year's On Farm Performance Tested Bull Sales at Paris and Princeton.

Seventy two performance tested bulls sold for an average of $565.97 at Paris. Polled Hereford had the highest average by breed which was $735.91 for 11 head. Other breeds represented were Angus, Charolais, percentage Chianina, percentage Maine Anjou and percentage Simmental.

The Princeton Sale was split over two days. Sixty Angus, Charolais, percentage Chianina and percentage Simmental sold for an average of $716.25 with 41 Angus leading the sale of $739.88 Seventy six Hereford and Polled Hereford sold for an average of $674.74 on the second day of the sale. The seventy one Polled Hereford led the sale with an average of $681.41.

The bulls sold at these sales had gone through a feedlot trial that measured the growth rate of the bulls. Buyers had records of other trial to aid in their selection.

Feedlot gain is highly heritable. About half the difference in growth rate of bulls up to a year of age are spices. Equally important, Americans have always been receptive to technological innovations that increase production and reduce physical labor. The farmer is no exception.

The rate at which innovations have been introduced has vastly increased in the last 3 decades. In contrast to earlier times when inventions or improved practices tended to be adopted one at a time, today's farmers are using a "systems" approach to increase agricultural productivity.

The package of improved practices on typical modern farms includes tractors and other machines; improved and hybrid seeds and livestock fertilizers; productive use of water through irrigation and drainage; the application of chemicals to control weeds, fungi, and insects; the widespread use of conservation practices; and the balanced feeding of livestock. Agriculture sometimes reaches into other fields for advanced technology to solve a problem. A recent example is the conquest of the screwworm, a cattle pest, by using irradiation to sterilize the male insects.

One result of the technological changes in agriculture was a dramatic drop in the proportion of the Nation's work force needed to produce food and fiber. In 1974, only 4 percent of the Nation's labor worked in farming compared with 20 percent in 1935. In 1776, it was 90 percent.

Another indication is that since 1935, the number of people living on farms has dropped from 32 million to a little over 9 million. Meanwhile the number of farms has fallen from almost 7 million to less than 3 million.

National Head Start Day

A National Head Start Day will be observed May 14th in Communities all across the Nation, to celebrate the tenth anniversary of Project Head Start. Julian Carroll, Governor of Kentucky, has proclaimed the whole month of May, 1975, as Head Start Month.

Northern Kentucky Head Start Center, located at 18th and Holman Street, Covington - serves 180 children from Boone, Campbell, and Kenton Counties. The Head Start Program is sponsored by the Community Action Commission, funded through the Office of Child Development, Health, Education and Welfare.

The Program has a staff of 34 persons, which includes, Director, Secretary, Curriculum Specialist, Parent Involvement Coordinator, Social Service Aides, Registered Nurse, Cooks and Bus Driver.

The Head Start Program works with the children and their families in the five major components of Health, Nutrition, Education, Parent Involvement and Social Services.

Classes are in session eight months each year, running from October to May. Children spend one half day in the center, being exposed to many new and exciting experiences. During good weather they take field trips to places of interest in the surrounding area.

This spring the children have enjoyed trips to Big Bone Park, Shrine Circus, Cincinnati Zoo, and Lunken Playfield.

To celebrate the tenth anniversary of Head Start, the Center will have Open House on May 12 between the hours of 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. The public is invited to visit the Center and observe first hand, what has been done and is planned for the future, in giving the children from low income families a Head Start. The day will be climaxed with Graduation for this year's classes.

Walton Lodge Hold Meeting

The Walton Lodge No. 719 F&AM will hold its regular monthly business meeting on Thursday, May 15 at 7:30 p.m. All members are urged to attend and visitors are welcome.

"Shame & Fame"

On Thursday, April 29th, the Boone County Businessmen's Association held their third annual "Shame & Fame Night" at a meeting which was held at the Boone Aire Country Club.

It was stated that the $2 million sewer project in Walton was the greatest achievement in Boone County in the past 365 days, but that the wooden bridges in Walton were continuing to be unsafe and should be replaced.

Boone County Businessman, Bob Taylor said the 120 member association chose the start of the Walton sewer system as the county's number one claim to "fame" this year because the construction lifted building ban imposed by the state more than 2 years ago and opens the entire southern portion of the county to development.

Slides of the year's progress was shown of the Florence Mall, Booth Memorial Hospital, 45 acre development of Boone Woods Park, Construction of Merrill Road in Hebron and repair of other county roads, opening of the Boone County Vocational School, and Industrial and commercial growth in the county.

Other slides showing junked cars, and other forms of rubbish, garbage and trash continuing to litter the roadsides. This was when slides of the one lane wooden bridges in Walton were shown.

The full impact of the Florence Mall will have on the county won't be felt until the opening. The new hospital is something that the county has needed and this will add to the reputation, for a person to live and raise a family.

Boone County Judge Bruce Ferguson said that a road side clean up project will have to get underway. You never solve them, you just relieve them for a time.

Taylor also pointed out the need for a new county courthouse and jail but George "Ab" Ryan said he hopes that officials do not abandon the present courthouse in Burlington.

Walton Couple Tied Up

Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Appleguard of McCoy Fork Road, Walton, were awakened last Friday night about 2:30 a.m. by a knock at the door. When Mr. Appleguard answered the door one white unidentified male, asked if he could use the phone, saying he was having auto difficulty, then the man drew a gun and forced Mr. Appleguard back into his home, where as two other white male subjects entered the home also. They tied up Mr. and Mrs. Appleguard with electrical wire and taped their mouths with white tape.

They were robbed of valuable items, paper money and coins, according to Boone County Police. The investigation is still underway by Det. Ray Herman of the Ky. State Police, Don Stamper of Boone Co. Police and Commonwealth Det. Melvin Collins.

No suspects have been arrested at this time.

Boone County Homemakers

Shown here is Judge Bruce Ferguson signing the proclamation stating May 4 - 10 as Extension Homemakers Week. Witnessing the signing are Charlotte Taylor, County Vice-President, Lori Holloway, County President, and Beverly King, County Publicity Chairman. Posters have also been placed throughout the county and state in honor of this week.

The Boone County Homemakers sponsor many community activities through out the county. Some of the projects are - monthly birthday parties for the patients of Woodpoint, support of the Boone County Fair, i.e. Homemakers gave over $5000 to build Floral Hall, helped to install heat, gave toward furnishings for the Lentz building, in additions to the yearly exhibits. Many homemakers worked for support of the county library and items were donated to the Bicentennial auction. County clubs studied local government and how it works. One club invited the county Tax Commissioner and Juvenile Officer to their meeting to explain the various problems in our county.

The expand Foods and Nutrition Extension Program was supported by helping families and giving money and supplies to camp. The county organization has recently donated to the improvement of the 4-H Camp. Another community project, in keeping with the Bicentennial, is a listing of historical homes. Members also have participated in the Heritage Home Tour.

The club also have individual programs. Several clubs help needy families by aiding them with food and clothing. Also fruit and candy baskets are provided for people at Woodpoint and the Maplewood Home. Money is given on a club basis for a child to attend camp. One club sponsored a dance to defray library campaign expenses and they have also purchased a dictionary turn table for the library.

A part of the Kentucky Homemakers Creed is the belief in the homemaker as a leader in her community, in her responsibility for passing on to others her mastered skills and knowledge. This is carried out through programs open to the public. Some of these programs have been home gardening, cancer programs, home decorating, food preservation, a short course on housing, and beginning clothing. Each Christmas, Homemakers have a county display in to supply new ideas for the season.

This tree which was donated to the park by the Homemakers, is an Aristocrat Pear. This is the first tree to be donated to Boone Woods. The tree was developed by William Straw of Independence. It is an ornamental, not a fruit tree, and will reach 40 to 50 feet in height. There have been 20 plaques given to the tree and it has been honored in 4 states. May 18th has been set for the opening of the new park. It will offer tennis, basketball, baseball, football, and a picnic area.

The Boone County Homemakers wish to share this celebration of national Home Extension Week with their community and if you are interested in becoming a member please call the county office at 586-6101, ext. 17.

Letter To The Editor

At last after 20 years of talking and 10 years of hard work and planning we are to have a very expensive but badly needed sewer system. This project has taken the best thoughts and ideas of many intelligent, fair minded, future thinking people over these many years.

In contrast to this, those who heard or read last Thursday explanations by the sewer and or plumbing inspectors on the subject of individual sewer tap ins, have been treated to a small sample of the bureaucratic ineptness that prevails in our regimented society today.

It appears, from the explanations, that any material may be used for the sewage mains but this same good, long lasting, reliable easy to work material is not fit to use from the home owners house to the mains. What kind of nonsense is this that permits one kind of sewer line to be one thing yet forbids it in another?

I am constantly amazed and astounded at the gullibility of John Q. Public that we docily permit illogical and assinine "Horse and buggy rules and regulations" to permeate and regulate a modern technical society of which we, of this same society, will ultimately have to pay for this bungling.

I suggest that it is past time to reject these stupid regulations and to inject into any group of pseudo regulators a breath of untainted logic. I suggest that we fight, in court, if necessary, for the right of at least being able to put into the ground, on our own private property a material exactly like that put into the main distribution system, namely plastic.

I have paid the initial payment and am prepared to pay for the additional when the time arrives, however I am also prepared to do just a little better by offering to pay a bit more for a lawyer who will fight for our rights as property owners and taxpayers of this small town.

I am sick and tired of being shoved around by those who, one by one, extract any vestige of freedom granted to me by our fore fathers blood.

Garden Tips

Don't let roses die on the vine! It's bad for the plant and always cut above a five leaf cluster to encourage new growth.

He who hesitates... can lose his crops to pests. Inspect vegetables frequently, spray when necessary. Or... avoid trouble ahead by spraying regularly every 7 to 14 days.

Enroll your plants in Weight Watchers! Plants can overeat too! Read instructions on plant food package then use only the amount prescribed.

1975 ACP Announced

The US Department of Agriculture has announced operational procedures and initial State funding for the 1975 Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP) which is administered by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Services (ASCS).

The objective of ACP is to cost share with the public funds to a farmer the performance of enduring soil and water conservation measures on farmland that the farmer would normally not perform without cost sharing. County Committees are to emphasize this throughout the practice development and cost sharing approval process.

Authority to develop practices needed to solve conservation problems is being delegated to each farmer elected county ASC committee in consultation with the County Program Development Group to be reviewed by the State Program Development Group and approved by the State Committee.

The following guidelines will be used for county committees to develop conservation practices:

A. All approved practices in effect under the 1970 Agricultural Conservation Program.

B. All 1974 RECP practices or modifications thereof.

C. Additional practices needed to solve a local conservation problem which would not be solved under A. or B.

County committees are responsible for investing programs funds in practices which will provide maximum conservation and environmental benefits in the public interest. All requests will be considered on the basis of merit and equity of treatment, regardless of race, creed, color, or National origin.

As announced earlier, $190 million has been funded for the 1975 ACP level authorized by congress which includes funds to finance the Long Term Agreements signed under the 1974 program. Kentucky's share will be $4,731,501 of which $1,032,501 will be to cover the remaining obligations on contracts signed under the 1974 LTA. Individual interested in further information should contact their local ASCS office.

While most area farmers are probably aware of major program provisions, we want to assure that all farmers understand the various rates and rules as they progress with field work and planting. A few of the provisions are different from last year, but the basic programs, in effect for 1974 remain virtually unchanged.

Even though the Nation's farmers are free to plant what they feel the market process indicate will be needed and every farmer certainly needs to know where he stands with regard to Federal farm programs.

The highlights of the 1975 programs include (1) no land set aside or conserving base requirement, (2) no limit on the amount of wheat, feed grains, a farmer can plant; (3) disaster payments for prevented planting or abnormally low yields; (4) deficiency payments if market process fall below target prices; (5) acreage allotments used only to determine the maximum acreage eligible for payment; (6) crop substitution to protect allotment history; and (7) a $20,000 limitation on the amount of payments a person can receive under all programs combined.

Under the disaster provisions of the program, county ASCS personnel must inspect and appraise the damage done to the crop prior to the awarding of payments. There were some difficulties last year in many areas of the country when farmers plowed under their damaged crops before they notified the county ASCS office. The inspector got to the farm, all he could see was plowed fields, not damaged crops.

Disaster payments are made for 2 reasons: Prevented planting and low yields.

Farms eligible for prevented planting payment, the payment will be computed on the basis of the farm's payment yield times the allotted acreage on which planting is prevented.

To be eligible for an abnormally low yield payment, the total actual production for a crop must be less than the farm acreage allotment for that crop (or planted acres, if smaller) times the disaster program yield. For additional information call the Kenton County ASCS office at 356-5025, James Sheldon, CED.

Alarm Sounds A Life Taken

A year ago, Martin Nie, Independence pharmacist had a burglar alarm installed in his home on Maple Tree Lane.

Sunday morning, while he and his wife and four children were at his pharmacy less than two blocks away, the alarm sounded.

Three times it was heard and the Independence police responded but no intruder or evidence of a break in could be found.

Finally, in order to spare the police another run on what appeared to be false alarms, it was decided that Nie's two sons, Mark, 15 and John, 14 would stay in the house while they returned to work.

Their mother remembers telling her sons that if they heard anything to hit the alarm's special panic button.

Shortly before noon they did hear something and John a freshman at Simon Kenton went for his father's .38 pistol, who knew and respected guns because both sons each owned his own rifle.

But as John removed the weapon from its holster, the gun discharged and a single bullet struck Mark in the right chest.

Independence Life Squad rushed him to St. Elizabeth but he was dead on arrival.

Mark, a junior, was a member of student council and had planned to be a doctor.

An autopsy was ordered for this morning by Kenton County Coroner, Dr. Robert Reichert.

Survivors include his sisters, Kathy and Sharon both at home, grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Nie, Independence.

PCA's Has New Agrifax Director

David Foster, Field Representative at Shelbyville Field Office, has been promoted to Agrifax Director, reports Edwin Orem, President of First Kentucky PCA. Mr. Foster assumed his new duties on May 1st.

Mr. Orem stated, Foster's promotion to Agrifax Director is another step for PCA to better serve its farmer members.

Agrifax is a new record keeping system that is available to PCA members. Foster will be working with the farmers on this up-to-date system which will allow them to write down their income and expense items on a simple form each month. Then they let computers do the work of organizing the income and expense items into the proper categories and computing the necessary information for income tax filing and farm business analysis.

Pinch Penny Palate Pleasers

If you think you can't cut one more penny out of your food budget, think again. Perhaps you're serving more food and more red meat than your family needs. By cutting back portion sizes you can save money and build better health. You can extend meals with the new frozen bread dough now available. Easy main dishes shown, created by the makers of frozen bread dough, are Deep Dish Pizza and Fortuna Ring, both made with frozen bread dough. Or, for a meatless main dish, bake a loaf of frozen bread dough, cube it, and dip in the cubes in your favorite cheese fondue mixture.

Questions & Answers

Q. I'll be discharged in two months after three years of duty in the Army. Will I be eligible for GI Bill benefits?

A. Since Congress has not voted an end to the current GI Bill, you would be eligible, provided you receive an other than dishonorable discharge.

Q. I'm buying a home with a GI Loan, and wonder if I can pay off the loan in advance?

A. Yes. You may partially or fully repay your mortgage at any time ahead of schedule, without penalty provided payments are for not less than one monthly payments of $100 which ever is less.

Q. Because I was severely disabled during military service three years ago, the VA awarded me a $2,800 auto grant. The engine in the car I bought with the grant is now in need of repair. Will VA pay for these repairs?

A. Sorry, no. While VA pays for repair, maintenance and replacement of adaptive equipment required for operation of the automobile, the law prohibits such payments for the auto itself.

To protect the quality and safety of food, store it correctly when you bring it home from the grocery. Read instructions on packages or cans and refrigerate them if necessary. Some canned meats must be refrigerated and then used within a few days. They also warn that ice compartments of refrigerators generally are not cold enough for long term storage of frozen foods. Frozen foods that will be kept longer than a few weeks should go in a freezer operating zero degrees or below.

Senator Dee Huddleston

REPORTS TO THE PEOPLE OF KENTUCKY

"If Eastern Kentucky is going to supply a major portion of the resources to meet this nation's energy crisis, then Eastern Kentucky has a right to share substantially in the wealth generated by that resource." So said Senator Walter Dee Huddleston in enunciating his philosophy on the economic development of Eastern Kentucky.

"The country needs our coal, and will for the foreseeable future."

"I think we should meet those needs but I also think that we should do so in a way that when the coal boom is over we will have something of value left."

"I believe that coal production, properly handled, can provide the resources on which the diversified economy we are seeking can be developed."

Huddleston endorsed the proposal to guarantee the return of a set percentage of the coal severance tax to the coal producing counties, and also urged that the new reclamation fund to be established by anti-strip mine legislation be spent primarily in the coal counties.

Huddleston also said he is exploring the possibility of using either the Appalachian Regional Commission program or the highway trust fund to help repair Kentucky's coal haul roads.

"I believe in rural and small town development" and I believe in coal production as a means to that end. And I believe that more of the resources resulting from such production belong to the people and counties who produce the coal."

Boone County Turns Out For Harris

"It was a great night for the future of Kentucky agriculture" said Charles Patrick, referring to the Wednesday evening rally at Boone County Club for Tom Harris, Democratic candidate for Ky. Commissioner of Agriculture.

"About 100 people turned out to greet and encourage Tom" and to show a new, united front for the only North Kentucky candidate for the post of Commissioner.

Patrick, Boone County Chairman for Harris, acted as master of ceremonies for the meeting which featured a short address by Harris followed by serving of refreshments and organizational activities.

Harris, a Carroll County farmer, was chairman of the Ky. State Senate Agriculture Committee for six years, and was one of the leaders in the General Assembly for the legislation which removed the five percent sales tax from farm machinery and certain seeds and feeds. He was Secretary of the Department of Natural Resources for two years, and was named Conservation Man of the Year in 1974.

Methane & Methanol Common Fuels?

BY
M. GENE SNYDER
U.S. CONGRESSMAN
4th District, Kentucky

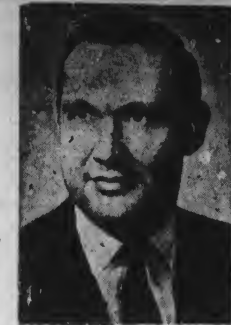

While vote-conscious politicians in Washington wrangle over energy problems centered around the prices, production, use and conservation of domestic and foreign oil, the profits made on it, enterprising but unheralded private citizens plod along seeking cost-saving solutions.

Many manufacturers, utilities and other businesses, individual scientists, technicians and others are striving to come up with alternative fuels and processes as real answers to boycotts, shortages and high prices that can save taxpayers and consumers money. Usually the politicians only create costly new paper shuffling bureaucracies that produce little but further restrict free enterprise.

This past week reports from both East and West Coasts told of the further utilization of methane gas and the liquid alcohol, methanol, as fuels. The Florida Power Corporation conducted a test at its installation in St. Petersburg for 12 hours, burning 50,000 gallons of methanol instead of fuel oil in an industrial gas turbine to generate electricity.

The test indicated reduced maintenance costs and showed reductions of more than 70 percent in the nitrogen oxide level of the turbine's emissions. The test by the Florida Corp. was jointly financed and performed by Amex Inc. which controls some three billion tons of coal reserves, and United Aircraft Corporation's subsidiary, Turbo Power and Marine Systems, maker of the turbine. Amex is interested in the development of methanol at competitive prices from its coal. While its coal is in the Midwest and Far West, this development is of interest to Kentuckians because of great coal reserves.

The test showed that the methanol burned more completely and evenly than the fuel oil, and emission levels of both nitrogen oxide and carbon monoxide were well below the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency limits. Amex is also working on the use of methanol from coal in locomotive turbines and trucks powered by diesel engines that normally burn oil.

Florida Power is also working on the utilization of garbage "politely called municipal solid waste" as a supplemental fuel. So are other firms across the country. Processes for the extraction of methane gas from material in landfill dumps and another solid waste are being perfected. In California, whether to use such methane as a fuel for utilities or as a fuel for automobiles when further refined into methanol, has already become a political question. Two bills have been introduced in the State Assembly requiring the use of methanol as a gasoline additive after 1980 to "stretch" gasoline. Up to 15 percent can be added with only minor carburetor changes.

—WE BUILD YEAR ROUND—

... about your Social Security

People who can answer "Yes" to five questions may be eligible for Supplemental Security Income Payments, according to John Walter, Social Security District Manager in Covington.

The Questions:
Are you 65 or over, blind, or severely disabled?

Is your income from pensions or Social Security Benefits less than $166 a month ($239 for a couple)?

Is your home valued at $25,000 or less?

Is your car valued at $1,200 or less?

Are your assets savings, stocks, or other things convertible to cash worth less than $1,500 ($2,250 for a couple)?

"If you think you might be eligible for Supplemental Security Income," Walter said, "Call or write any Social Security office for more information about the payments."

The Supplemental Security income program makes monthly payments to people with little or no income and limited resources who are 65 or over or blind or disabled. The program is administered by the Social Security Administration, an agency of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

Third Chief For Walton

The City of Walton has lost its third police chief in three years. Roy Hoffman, who was appointed acting chief on February 1st, is no longer with the small community's police force.

But there are conflicting reports if Hoffman who was on the Boone County police force for over 2 1/2 years, resigned or was fired.

"His version is that I resigned" Hoffman said.

"The minutes of the meeting say I resigned but I didn't."

Hoffman refused further comment until he talks with his attorney today.

Walton Mayor Sam Gamble could not be reached for comment at that time.

Hoffman succeeded Melvin Collins who was appointed Commonwealth Detective for the 54th Judicial District in Boone and Gallatin counties earlier this year.

Collins took on the job as police chief in 1974 after Tom Cady was ousted in 1974 from the force. The city council charged him with sending out fictitious water bills and other grievances.

Hoffman is a draftsman for Swedlow, Inc., at the Industrial Park located in Florence. He was also an auxiliary county police for several years.

Hoffman said the question of his job came up at a special meeting of the Council on April 22 but he would not elaborate on what was said at the meeting.

On Tuesday morning, May 6th, Mayor Sam Gamble was reached and he stated that they would continue with only 2 police and no chief due to the finances.

He also stated that Hoffman did quit and was not fired. Hoffman threw down his badge, stated Sam Gamble.

Gen. John Payne Home
Scott County

The home of Gen. John Payne is one of the oldest houses in Kentucky. It is located about two miles west of Georgetown on the Frankfort-Georgetown Pike (US-460) and one mile east of Great Crossing.

Erected about 1790, it is an excellent example of Kentucky's "stone age" architecture. This 11-room colonial residence was built by Gen. John Payne, who was born April 8, 1764, in Fairfax County, Virginia, the only son of William Payne Sr. and his second wife, Ann Jennings.

After settling in Scott County around 1786, Payne served in the state militia and commanded a company of Scott's campaign against Indians in 1791. In 1812 he was commissioned a brigadier general in the 2nd Brigade of the Kentucky Militia and commanded the Kentucky Light Dragoons, attached to Col. Richard M. Johnson's regiment of mounted infantry in the Battle of the Thames. He participated in several other major battles in the War of 1812.

John Payne married Miss Betsy Johnson on April 10, 1782. She was the oldest daughter of Col. Robert Johnson, a Revolutionary War soldier who built Johnson's Station near Great Crossing.

General Payne was a state senator from Scott County from 1830 to 1832. He died at this house on September 9, 1837, and is buried with his wife in the family graveyard on the place.

Col. Asa Payne, son of the general and also a soldier in the War of 1812, resided on a large farm near Payne's Depot, which is named for the family.

John A. Lucas Receives Flying Cross

To All Who Shall See These Present, Greeting:
This is to certify that the President of the United States of America authorized by act of Congress July 2, 1926 has awarded

The Distinguished Flying Cross

To

Staff Sergeant John A. Lucas
United States Air Force

For extraordinary achievement while participating in aerial flight

23 April 1974

given under my hand in the city of Washington

This 30th day of June 1974

John W. Vogt
Commander in Chief
Pacific Air Forces

Citation to accompany the award of the Distinguished Flying Cross

To

John A. Lucas

Staff Sergeant John A. Lucas distinguished himself by extraordinary achievement while on a flight from Kwajalein Atoll to Guam as an AC-130 OH Illuminator Operator. On that date, while climbing out from Kwajalein he was diverted to search for a sinking Landing Craft Utility. Under conditions of low visibility and ten foot swells with white caps, he located and was singularly responsible for the rescue of 14 people. In extremely difficult weather conditions, he was able to orbit these survivors for five hours, thus enabling the rescue forces to locate them. The professional competence, aerial skill, and devotion to duty displayed by Sergeant Lucas reflect great credit upon himself and the United States Air Force.

Seminar On Hunger

The Northern Kentucky Interfaith Commission in response to the 1975 IFC's Convention Resolution on World Hunger has set its first Seminar for May 17th from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. at Thomas More College, Science Lecture Hall. Dr. Eric Walter of the Kettering Foundation, Dayton, Ohio will be the speaker and he is a specialist in Environmental Research will make a major presentation on the Global Food Crisis.

Two thrusts will be made (1) to inform the participants about the Food Crisis and identify actions that individuals and groups may take to aid in its solution, (2) to demonstrate a model program on World Hunger that can be repeated in the local church or community with an abundance of material being introduced for resource aid.

Everyone is invited, but especially leadership from every church in N. Kentucky is desired so the model program availability will be known in each congregation.

No registration fee is required; but a call to IFC Office (581-2237) indicating one's intention to attend will be appreciated for planning purposes. Lunch will be at TMC cafeteria at everyone's personal expense.

Moral Imperatives
(Leviticus 19:2; 9-18; 35-37)

Modern-day man has an even greater need to grasp the truth of this statement made years ago by Henry Ward Beecher: "Morality without religion has no roots - It becomes a thing of custom, changeable, transient and optional."

Charles Hodge said, "All moral obligation resolves itself into the obligation of conformity to the will of God."

Many would like to forget that man has been given some moral imperatives. Multitudes reject any attempt of any person or institution which might bring them under restraint.

There are some "Thou shalt not's" and there are some "Thou shalt's." But man needs to bear in mind that God's mandates are for man's own good. God gave His moral imperatives out of a heart of compassion.

Compassion,
Leviticus 19:2; 9-10

God called Moses to speak to the children of Israel because God cared for them. He wanted them to be holy because they needed to be holy. The word "holy" literally means "different". God Himself is holy. He is different from all other persons or things. He wants His people to be as He is.

God's compassion is further shown in His instructions concerning the gleanings of the harvest. When the harvest was gleaned in the fields, something must be left for the poor and underprivileged. Even the stranger must be allowed to gather from the vineyards. God's care reaches to the least and the last, to the poor and the prominent.

God has issued some moral imperatives because they build character in His people.

Character,
Leviticus 19:11-18

Because man has continued either to ignore or to treat lightly God's commands, his world has become a fearful place in which to live. God demands that every man respect the rights of other men to own property, to expect honesty in dealings and truth in transactions.

No man is right in the sight of God who wrongs his fellow man. Don't curse the deaf, trip up the blind because God sees and knows what they cannot see or know.

God is concerned about justice for all. His is displeased when the reputations of people are destroyed or damaged by those who have nothing better to do than wag tongues motivated by idle brains. Man is his brother's keeper because man is his brother's brother. Love for his neighbor is to be equal to that of himself.

Our final passage deals with the matter of compliance.

Compliance,
Leviticus 19:35-37

John Wesley told his followers that the instructions he had given them had not been given to them to be altered but to be obeyed! God's moral imperatives have not been suggested as a more helpful means of getting along with one another in this world. God's laws have been given because without them man can never be all God planned for him to be. God's directions have come from His Holy Being. There are no circumstances where His laws do not apply. His directions are not outdated because human nature has not changed.

God had redeemed Israel from bondage in Egypt. He fed and clothed them for forty years as they wandered in the wilderness. He fought their battles for them in the land of Canaan. Because He loved them and delivered them He could and did expect them to obey His commands.

Jesus Christ has redeemed us from the bondage of sin. His love for us inspires our love for Him. Our world today needs to be aware of the fact that unlimited freedom and unrestricted permission to experiment will lead us to self destruction.

The uncompromising demands of God are in force today whether or not we face up to them. But let us beware lest we find ourselves in the deplorable situation of ancient Israel where "every man did that which was right in his own eyes."

MOUNTAIN MOMENTS

by K. Maynard Head

The Invitation

My son David came home from school recently with an application blank for membership in a fraternal organization for boys his age. There was one thing about the club he didn't understand - initiation.

After spending some time trying to explain the meaning of the word, I am not sure I gave an adequate explanation.

In grade school a lot of boys were initiated into the various clubs of the community. And the most popular initiation was to take the new members "snipe hunting." We had a lot of fun with this game and it's still surprising how many people have never been "snipe hunting". It's even more amazing how many people who don't know what a snipe is! I'll be happy to describe a snipe to anyone who'll write me - that is, if you don't know already.

The first initiation of which I was a part was in 1955 when I became a member of the Thespian Club of Middlesboro (Ky.) High School. I doubt if the club initiates new members in the same manner today, but it seemed a lot of fun then.

neighborhood dogs, but I was so ashamed I out ran them all. I even lost a chicken bone earring in the chase!

If anybody asks you what initiation means, tell him to come and see me. Believe me, I know!

New Minister of Music

He is a student of the Cincinnati Bible Seminary in Cincinnati, Ohio. He plays on the varsity basketball team at C.B.S. He is married, and his wife's name is Vici. They will continue to make their home in Cincinnati. Bro. Blackmore will begin his youth ministry with the Nicholson congregation on May 11th. Charles Carter is minister.

GETTING A NEW START

"I never want to move again!" I told a friend. Even before the moving van arrived, there were days of sorting, discarding and carefully packing the things we treasure. There were farewells and last minute errands.

Then early one morning, the huge truck came lumbering up the street, and the movers began loading beds, tables, chairs, dishes and books. After several hours, the last box was in the van, and our belongings were on their way to a new home.

A new home, new friends, new community—so many things with which to become acquainted.

The church is a fine place to get a new start—to make new friends and strike up a vital relationship with the Maker of us all.

Coconut Bars Go

Portable desserts are the answer to all the outings in store this season. Include future picnics, too. Make it easy by packing individual sack lunches for youngsters: sandwiches, fruit, small bags of chips, and a sweet. Bar cookies are easy to make and wrap and hold up under the stress of travel. Cherry Chew Chews fill requirements wonderfully with tender shortbread crust topped with a layer of Baker's Angel Flake Coconut, maraschino cherries, and chopped walnuts. Moist, tender flaked coconut makes this the perfect portable two layer bar cookie.

Cherry Chew Chew
1 cup unsifted all purpose flour
¼ cup butter or margarine, softened
3 tablespoons sugar
¼ cup unsifted all purpose flour
¼ teaspoon double acting baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ cups flaked coconut
¼ cup chopped maraschino cherries
¼ cup chooped walnuts

Combine 1 cup flour, softened butter, and 3 tablespoons sugar; blend well. Press firmly in the bottom of a 9 inch square pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes. Meanwhile mix together ¼ cup flour, the baking powder and salt. Add ¼ cup sugar to eggs, beating well. Add flour mixture and vanilla. Stir in coconut with cherries and nuts; spread over baked crust. Bake 35 minutes longer. Cut into bars while still warm. Makes 24 bars.

Happy Hour Homemakers

Clothing was the topic area for the April meeting of the Happy Hour Homemakers. Mrs. Lori Holloway began the day with a T-shirt demonstration. These pullover shirts are very inexpensive and easy to sew. This makes them a good sewing project for beginners and, due to comfort and wearability, they are well liked by all ages.

After devotion, Mrs. Wilma Jackson, a club president, and members set up dates for an airport tour, a cancer program, and members signed up for the county Arts and Craft Day, May 6th. Then the club surprised Mrs. Sharon Smith with a shower.

Mrs. Janice Jones and Mrs. Sharon Smith continued in clothing ideas when they presented the lesson for the day on "Recycle Your Wardrobe". Recycling means to make something useful out of what you have that now seems use less! This may mean only small repairs or new additions, such as buttons, belts, or trims. If you want some new garments, but can't afford them, why not make some major changes? Some suggestions are: converting an A-line dress to a tunic or top, constructing a vest from a jumper, or making a bodysuit from a dress, sweater, or blouse. With warmer weather coming, a simple change is cutting off slacks to make shorts. Many children's garments can be made from adult clothing. Colors should be bright and designs in proportion to size.

If more room is needed in a straight skirt, insert gored, godets or pleats. To lengthen a garment insert yokes or midriffs. If the same material isn't available try a contrast plaid or check; then make a yoke, blouse or bow of the contrasting fabric to co-ordinate the outfit. With today's fashion trends many colors, designs, and textures can be combined for a pleasing affect.

If articles can not be reconstructed from the garment and if the fabric is worth the time and effort, new clothes can be made from the old. This means ripping the seams apart, cleaning and pressing the fabric, and selecting a pattern for the new garment. Save all buttons, snaps and zippers that are reusable. If the garment is hopeless use for dust cloths, to stuff toys or quilts, tie up plants, or give to the children for playing dress up. With clothing prices climbing, we're all challenged to use what we have. Not only will we save money, but gain a great deal of satisfaction from utilizing something thought worthless. We also get to create something special and original.

Mrs. Connie Williams was a welcomed visitors at the meeting. The next club meeting will be May 8th and Meal Planning will be the lesson. If interested in attending please call 283-2911 or 283-2449.

Gardening Tips from Extension Specialists at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture

Producing sweet potatoes in the home garden requires some backbending and the expenditure of a bit of elbow grease, but in the opinion of those who have grown and sampled this root crop baked, fried, candied, or served up with legendary "possum" the reward is worthy of the effort. Sweet potatoes also command a high price at digging time should there be a surplus to sell. When available at all last year, home grown varieties sold for $5 or $6 per bushel at the patch.

Sweet potatoes need a long growing season and they grow best in from medium to light loamy soil, that is well drained and relatively low in nitrogen. Excess nitrogen, results in long, spindly roots scarcely larger than night crawlers. Tight, heavy soils frequently cause tubers to assume the shape of monstrosities.

There are two types of sweet potatoes - moist flesh and dry flesh. Both are excellent and a gardener can hardly go wrong with either type. But to help him make a selection, the skin colors of the dry or popular root varieties vary from yellow to white. Skin colors of moist or "yam" types can be either red, pink, orange, or bronze.

More important perhaps than type is the preparation of the soil and setting out the "slips" or plants.

First the soil should be plowed and disked thoroughly till off rows of 3 feet apart, and then dug up into ridges 10 inches high. The plants should then be set every 15 inches in the ridge. After the plants have been set out, a starter solution composed of 1/4 pound of 10-52-17 or similar analysis fertilizer stirred up in 5 gallons of water. Use a half pint of this solution to each plant. Usually the home gardener growing a small patch of sweet potatoes for his own use prefers to purchase transplants from a local grower or some commercial plant producer. If not, any county extension agent can provide an instructions for making a "potato bed".

Since sweet potatoes require a long season and continue to grow until the vines are killed by frost. The plants should be set out as early as possible in the spring, or when the danger of frost is over. The potatoes may be dug for table use any time they reach eating size, but for winter storage they should be left alone until about September.

A good sweet potato growing practice is this: In the fall, when there is a possibility of frost, the vines can be mowed to make it easier to dig the roots. To reduce rotting during storage, cure the sweet potato roots for a week at about 80 degrees and 85 percent relative humidity. After the curing period store the potatoes at 55 degrees. And be sure they are put away clean, dry and free from injury.

Your food dollar..!

Dating on food packages can help in selecting food at the grocery, but don't let these dates give you a false sense of security. Once you take the package home and open it, the food inside may not keep its quality as long as indicated on the package. For example, meat, (lunch) has been opened it will not keep for more than a few days.

Dollars & Good Sense

Clothes are like any other item you purchase. If you plan your needs ahead of time and avoid impulse buying, you can benefit from considerable savings and obviously, it's wise to shop during sales. But is it helpful to know what different types of sales can mean in terms of merchandise as well as in potential savings.

A clearance sale will usually be your best bet. You can often save 50 per cent or more. But be especially careful to inspect each item for damage and also, make sure that the article you are considering is a genuine sale item with regular and sale prices clearly indicated. Otherwise you may end up with merchandise specially brought in by the store for the sale. Savings on such an item will be less, and the item may not be of the same quality.

A pre clearance sale will usually offer the store's regular merchandise at reduced prices, with less savings than at a clearance sale but with greater selection.

There are also special purchase sales. A store will bring in special merchandise bought in bulk and offer it at a discount of about 10 to 20 per cent.

Seasonal sales offer the best opportunity to plan ahead. A winter coat bought in spring will save you as much as 50 per cent. Choose a conservative style, and you won't worry about being fashioned out by the time you are ready to wear it.

Cucumber - Radish Salad Is Great

Slice cucumbers and radishes and salt them. Let stand then drain. Mix vinegar with salt, pepper, sugar to taste, diluting with water if you like, and pour over cucumbers and radishes. Raw onions are also good with this dressing.

More For Your Money's Worth!!!

Getting the best value for your shopping dollar always takes extra time. This is especially true when buying clothing and if you follow a few simple rules, you'll end up with clothes that will last longer and fit better than if you had paid alot more for them.

You should carefully inspect every piece of clothing you are considering. First check the fabric for small holes, rips, loose threads, and other imperfections. Then examine how the item is put together. The stitching should be small and close together, with no loose or broken stitches. The pattern should match at the sleeves, pockets, seams, armholes and collar. In a well made garments, seams will be about one half inch wide and pinked to prevent unraveling.

The button holes should be reinforced and horizontal rather than vertical, to prevent stretching. And if the buttons are out of the ordinary, see if you can buy extras. That way you won't have to replace the whole set if you loose one.

The most important step in buying clothes is trying them on. Before you look in the mirror, walk around, sit down and bend and stretch a bit. If the garments's not comfortable, try another size. But even if it feels great, don't let a salesperson tell you it looks great if the mirror tells you otherwise.

How Kitchens Have Changed

Kitchens aren't what they used to be - thank goodness. Back in the Victorian days of the last century, the basic kitchen appliances in a well appointed household consisted of three fireplaces. There was usually one for boiling water and cooking, and one for cooking on spit, and a primitive stone oven for baking bread.

Floors were basic too; well trodden earth was common, with stone flagged floors found in the wealthier households.

Improvements came slowly. The first electric cooker was introduced in 1893. The popularity of electricity in the kitchen increased and by 1930 there were 19 types of electrical appliances for the kitchen on the US market.

Today, there are over a hundred from electric can openers to microwave ovens - most available in decorator colors to brighten and add cosmetic touches to the kitchen.

Even disposable paper towels are produced in attractive colors and prints to coordinate with kitchen furnishings.

Designers at Scott Paper Company say they must always be aware of the consumer's ever changing taste. Colors and patterns for ScottTowels, for example, are brighter and cleaner in keeping with the trend toward more vibrant colors.

To coordinate colors in the kitchen does not necessarily mean to "match" colors. For instance, a gold colored refrigerator or dishwasher can be enhanced by bright yellow paper towels and other bright yellow accents.

While function and worksaving features play an important part in the consumer's selection of modern kitchen products, attractive appearance has just as great an effect on the buying decision.

FEARLESS FORECAST

By: R.W. Lancaster
Thursday, May 8, 1975

This is the day to take affirmative action, if you have outstanding debts collect during the morning hours, if you have been wanting a new position have the interview any time today, if you want a promotion, list all your good points and have a serious discussion with your employer and then be patient, good things don't happen overnight but if you don't make the first move they may never happen.

Friday, May 9th

The Moon moves in to the fixed earth sign Taurus at mid morning, so if any of you women have had trouble with your hair not holding a permanent wave try to get an appointment at the beauty shop this afternoon, or any time tomorrow and see if it doesn't last longer and look nicer. For the men who hate to visit the barber, get a haircut after lunch or any time tomorrow and you won't have to make another visit for a month.

Saturday, May 10th

The moon in the last quarter before the new moon is a good time to plow and cultivate, and also a good time to spray for bugs and insects in the garden. Start planning what you are going to plant next Wednesday and Thursday to grow above the ground, if you have your lettuce bed ready it will only take a few minutes next week to sow the seed.

Sunday, May 11th

The solar eclipse early this morning could bring on a negative mood, so I will pass on a few words from the Unity Messenger. (Moods are destructive, debilitating, negative, and worthless. I sure bar their entrance into my mental household. I would not allow a stranger to walk into my home and take over. Why should I allow moods of anger, jealousy and depression to take over? When a mood comes, I will challenge it. I will do battle with it, rather than let it advance. My sure armor against moods is to interest myself in some worthwhile activity, to read something of a spiritual nature, to meditate, to reestablish my oneness with God, against whose great peace no mood can prevail.)

Monday, May 12th

The new moon in Gemini today and tomorrow is a poor time to plant seeds. One almanic states that seeds planted in this sign will mostly rot in the ground but it is a good time to cultivate and kill weeds and save the planting until Wednesday. Incidentally this is a good time to have teeth extracted so that the gums will heal quickly and be ready for plate impressions the last of this month. Have your eyes examined today or tomorrow for a good fit in glasses.

Tuesday, May 13th

The aspects indicate this to be a safe day for traveling and with the moon still in Gemini friendly calls will be enjoyed by all concerned, so think of some friend you have been neglecting and go visit today. Those little chores you think are so important will wait until tomorrow and you might even enjoy doing them later.

Wednesday, May 14th

The new Moon entered the water sign Cancer early this morning, so between now and Thursday night try to get a lot of planting done, any above ground crops corn, okra, beans, cabbage, or tomato plants, peppers etc., also seed beds lettuce and flowers of all kinds and don't forget to plant some marigolds in your bean patch to keep the bean beetles away, and a few chives among your rose bushes is supposed to keep the aphids away. The flowers most used for repelling insects and bugs are Nasturtiums, Marigolds, Asters, Chrysanthemums, Cosmos, and Coreopsis and probably more, that I haven't heard about so if any of you readers can add to the list let me or the Advertiser so we can share the information with your neighbors.

6-90 Cowman's Club FARM NEWS AND ANALYSIS

By
Darwin Foley
Kenton County
Extension Agent

A cattleman must be a top manager to meet the standards of the 6-90 Cowman's Club. He must feed the cows and the bull properly and keep them healthy so that the cows will be bred early in the breeding season. It will also be necessary to control diseases such as brucellosis, leptospirosis, vibriosis and I.B.R. Which affect reproduction.

Cows should be gaining weight in the breeding season to reduce breeding problem.

A spring calving season of late

February and all of March means cows will be breeding back in May and June when pastures are at their peak.

What's a cow worth if she can't produce a calf? A cow that falls behind three months in breeding is really only three fourths of a producer. To guarantee a six week calving season next spring, put the bull in with the cows for six weeks, the take him out. Cull the non-breeders and replace them.

To improve the quality of your herd why not select your replacement with computerized performance testing. Call me about it.

If you meet the qualifications for the 6-90 Cowman's Club you're already a winner. Why not fill our an entry blank and let the rest of the state know.

Last week beef producers in Kenton County received a challenge and invitation to become members of the 6-90 Cowman's Club of Kentucky. They received this in their monthly Beef Cattle Facts Newsletter. Several farmers in Kenton County will be eligible.

The purpose of the 6-90 Cowman's Club is to give recognition to beef producers who have developed a management system that allows them to have a shorter calving season. To apply for membership, a cattleman should obtain an entry blank from the Kenton County Extension Office.

Applicants with 15 cows or more of which 90 per cent or more have calved during a six week period are considered to be members in good standing. R.O. Basham of Butler County was Kentucky's first member.

Farmers like George Finnell of Morning View have told me that a six week calving season has simplified their feeding, breeding and calving problems.

County Agent's 1/2 Acre

By: Joe Claxton

The clover mites have invaded Boone County. We have received a number of calls from concerned home owners about this tiny little insect. Clover mites are tiny 8 legged creatures smaller than a period on this page.

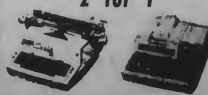

They feed on clover and grasses where they usually cause little harm. They sometimes are a pest on ivy. When they migrate indoors in large numbers, they are particularly annoying to people who have a fear of them or who confuse them with chiggers. Clover mites do not "Bite". When you try to brush them from the surfaces they are on, they are crushed and leave a blood red stain that is a nuisance to remove.

Pyrethrin aerosols are recommended for quick knockdown of those mites that gather on the walls or around windows and doors inside the home. Pyrethrin sprays must hit the mite to kill it. For longer lasting effects inside the home, prepare sprays of 2 per cent chlordane, or 1-2 per cent malathion. Spray around doors, windows, and other places where they might enter. Do not overdo or treat more areas than is necessary.

Most of the problem inside the home can be avoided by treating a 10 foot band around the outside of the house with a drenching spray of 0.5 per cent malathion or 0.5 per cent chlordane. Also, treat the outside wall of the house to the level of the windows. Repeat the treatment of 3 week intervals from late summer through fall.

Images of Abraham Lincoln, Betsy Ross and other figures participated and there was even a skit showing Uncle Sam congratulating Astronaut John Glenn while President John F. Kennedy looked on. Above, playing the roles, are Rick Vories, Leroy Mason, and Dennis Kelly.

Searching For New Facility

Northern Kentucky Comprehensive Care is actively searching for a hospital facility to serve patients in eight Northern Kentucky counties, including Boone and Kenton.

Dr. J. Emmanuel Willett, executive director of Region Seven, has been working on three fronts to obtain a hospital in the area instead of sending patients to Eastern State Hospital, Lexington, or to an Ohio Hospital.

1. He and members of the regional board are continuing exploratory talks with officials of Booth Memorial Hospital, Covington, and Boone County officials on the possibility of constructing a 100 bed facility near Florence and the proposed new Booth Hospital.

2. Similar conversations and explorations are being conducted with Kenton County Judge James Dressman and the Fiscal Court on the use of the present TB Sanitorium with its 65 beds.

3. Discussions with officials of St. Luke Hospital, Ft. Thomas, on the possibility of establishing a psychiatric unit in that institution.

Dr. Willette emphasized that all discussions thus far have been preliminary but talks will continue.

Softball Reminder

As we begin our fifth season of the Women's Area Churches Softball League, we encourage our participants to keep in mind that we are Christian representing our church and will continue to have good sportsmanship on the ballfield at all times.

When we organized the Women's Softball League four years ago, we had five community churches involved in softball activities. We now have progressed to ten area churches in the league and will continue to grow if lights are made available at the Verona Ballfield.

We wish to thank our loyal fans of previous seasons and expect to see in good faith a larger number of spectators this year to help support their team to a victory.

Our games will be played each Tuesday evening beginning at 6 p.m. at the Verona ballfield and 6:30 p.m. at the Walton High School Field throughout the summer months.

Come out and see the young and not so young ladies in action!!! REMINDER Roster sheets of 20 players per team, a manager, two coaches and minister of said church are due on May 27th.

Walton Prepares For Memorial Day

The Traditional Memorial Day Parade will be held as usual this year with our American Legion boys, band, fire department and all the rest on hand to make it as sincere and important a parade as will be held anywhere on Monday, May 26th.

True, the parade is not as big as some others around, that is if you judge by mere physical standards. And then too, the sewer construction project is in full swing so things are a bit dusty.

But, if you've been ever before on Walton's Main Street on Memorial Day and watched the finest bunch of veterans, followed by the best small school band, best small town fire department and best kids and proudest parents in the world go marching and walking and riding by, you know you've seen and felt something well worth remembering.

About a year ago, a fellow who never misses either the parade or the services at the cemetery made a very appropriate remark. He said, "You know, I'm toward Walton like I am toward my own kids. Even if they are far from perfect, they're still mine. I love 'em and won't tolerate too much criticism about 'em except from myself and now that's just the way I feel about my hometown."

The Spring of the year is at its height on Memorial Day and so is community pride. It's a good feeling.

The Walton Cemetery is the hub of the activities of the day, is always beautifully groomed and seems to be just waiting for the moment of the rifle salute and the echo of Taps. Taps, now there is a sound like no other, sad, touching but so beautiful. See you at the Parade!

Kenton Elementary PTA Meets

The Kenton Elementary PTA will meet on Thursday, May 15th at 7:30 p.m. at the school.

The Sixth Grade Band will provide the entertainment for the evening. Awards will be presented for physical fitness and the Science Fair. Mrs. Robert Gibson will install the officers for the coming year. Please plan to attend.

To The Editor:

One More Survey Needed For Walton

We commend the Ky. Highway Department for care in making several surveys for this road, all of which, up to the present one, have been rejected.

- One route that has not been surveyed, although suggested, lies to the north of Walton.
- Some advantages of this route are:
1. It would go over comparatively level and open land.
 2. There are few if any houses to be purchased.
 3. There is no long, high bridge over a railroad to be built.
 4. There is a possibility that this would open up land for building a new subdivision for Walton and consequently increasing taxes for highway funds and increasing business for the town.

5. One Walton council member agreed that this route should probably have been taken from the first.

6. To sum up - this route is much less expensive than the route presently proposed and much less disruptive to Walton's streets, businesses, homes of citizens, and beauty of the town which would be damaged by cutting down the trees that line this south part of main street.

Two of the objectives that have been raised as to this route are:

1. Those people between Walton and Crittenden who work in Cincinnati would have to use Walton streets to get to the interchange both morning and evening. This would wear out the streets!
2. The interchange would be in too close to the Richwood exit.

Rebuttal for No. 1 - There are not that many of these workers, and, anyway, they and any others using this exit might just decide to use Walton's facilities - hardware stores, groceries, bank, etc. - if they could pass by them conveniently.

Rebuttal for No. 2 - Many interchanges are this close.

Concerning the route presently proposed for the Access Road to Walton from I-75 these comments are made. The surveyors and engineers have evidently worked hard to come up with this plan and are to be commended for their efforts.

However, there are serious objections:

1. It is extremely careless of Walton Citizen's comfort and of the taxpayers' money if a less expensive and more convenient route to the north of Walton should prove feasible - if surveyed - an idea which has been suggested but not tried. Why not survey to find out? Who is holding up the survey?
2. The present plan calls for:
 - a. Making a deep fill to the west of the railroad. Expensive? Yes! Conducive to building new homes? No!
 - b. Making a long, high bridge over the railroad. Expensive? Yes! Increasing the value of those homes on Welsh Avenue facing this bridge? No!
 - c. Compensating many homeowners for taking their homes, but NOT compensating Walton for loss of property taxes, water and sewage fees, and NOT compensating Walton businesses for probable loss of customers.

d. Cutting down trees and damaging the beauty of this residential section of South Main Street. A minor matter? Perhaps, but, it is important to present homeowners and to those who might want to buy homes here in the future.

The conclusion should be that one more survey to the north of Walton should be made before any final decision is reached about this Access Road.

All those people agreeing with this conclusion should be present and express their opinions when the State Highway Department calls a meeting. This meeting has not been announced as yet, but a notice should be published in the paper.

To The Editor:

Dear Mr. Meadows,

I was so surprised to learn that you never published the sad news of Robert Cecil Dickerson and family's home that burnt to the ground. They need help and here no one even knows it. They have lived in Walton all their lives. He is up in age and they lost all their keepsakes and life in that home.

I am somewhat surprised that the Fire Department didn't say something. As they were called and in 2 hours, the house was nothing but ashes. I believe this happened on April 22nd.

Thank God they were not hurt. But they have not one single thing at all left.

I don't see how you're paper could miss something that big around Walton. Both Thursday's papers said not one thing about the fire. I am sure disappointed in you're staff.

I would of thought you'd have a photo of the burnt house and a plea for help for the family. As I know the people of Walton are so good to each other in the time of need. And I believe all they have done for people. I believe its their time for getting it back in return.

Sincerely,
Annette Dixon

Federal Intermediate Credit Bank

The Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Louisville makes short and intermediate term loans to full and part time farmers and rural residents through 39 Production Credit Associations in the Louisville District. FIBC President, Dr. Donald Roark stated that, as of March 31, 1975, Production Credit Associations has $1,564 billion in loans outstanding. Dr. Roark explained the 6.7 per cent increase over the $1,465 billion in loans outstanding on December 31, 1974 in this way: "Farmers need more credit to operate in the first quarter to spring planting activities and purchase of production inputs such as seed, insecticides, herbicides, fertilizer, and equipment."

SHORT ROWS

By Neville Shockelford

Gardening Tips from Extension Specialists at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture

Since the so-called home or backyard gardener usually grows a variety of vegetables but in limited amounts, he does not generally experience the insect problems of his commercial counterpart - the farmer who practices monoculture and puts in large acreages of a particular crop, thereby providing a particular insect with unlimited food supplies.

The backyard garden is not totally immune to bad insects. Unchecked, the Mexican bean beetle can ravage the home gardener's patch of white half runners, Colorado potato beetles can lessen the size of his spud crop, and worms can wreak havoc among his cabbages. But the appearance of insect in the backyard garden shouldn't be a cause for panic and a rush for commercial bug killers.

Without exception, insecticide use should first be minimized by non chemical controls. Removing and burning last year's crop residues will destroy havens for overwintering insects and diseases. The, if available, vegetables varieties resistant to insects and diseases should be planted. Keep down insects-harboring weeds around the garden, and when practical, handpick and squash or otherwise destroy all injurious insects and their eggs found on vegetables. Alertness to, along with proper identification of, insects is essential to achieving insect control.

Roving the garden every day and checking plants for feeding, boring, or cutting signs. Look under leaves for clusters of insect eggs and larval activity. Pay particular attention to the actively growing tips of plants and, if insects are seen, start laying the wood to them - but make certain you know the insect before trying to control it. Some insects found in such places are beneficial. Learn the harmful ones, pick them off hand if possible, and if this method fails, start using insecticides.

For chewing insects such as beetles and worms, use Sevin or methoxychlor. For sucking insects such as aphids and shiled bugs, use malathion.

Many insecticide labels give mixing instruction on a 100 gallon basis only, and to convert basis, follow these general rules. For every pound of wettable powder recommended per 100 gallons of water, use one level tablespoonful of powder per gallon of water. For every pint of liquid concentrate recommended per 100 gallons of water, use one teaspoonful of concentrate per gallon of water.

Also if the garden is bothered by soil insects Spectracide may be used as a soil treatment before planting. Usually, a soil insecticide such as this is needed only in gardens located in freshly broken sod ground.

Senator Dee Huddleston

REPORTS TO THE PEOPLE OF KENTUCKY

Senator Walter Dee Huddleston today announced that he is sponsoring legislation that would establish an American Folklife Center in the Library of Congress.

Huddleston noted, "Our national heritage is an important and integral part of lives and must be preserved and protected just as any other thing of value. To fully understand and ourselves as a nation, we must understand our past attitudes and beliefs which helped shape us into a great country."

The bill would establish a broad mandate for the proposed Center to collect, document and publish available folk material such as folk music, manuscripts, documents, books, photographs and other graphic materials which portray our folk culture. It also would direct the Center to undertake the dissemination, exhibition and performance of American Folklife. Huddleston particularly pointed out that the Center would develop programs utilizing folk singing, craft demonstrations, storytelling, exhibitions, lectures, ethnological films, and traditional dance and drama and would make them available for all to appreciate.

The Kentucky Senator added, "The diversity of American Folklife is astounding, but this only serves to emphasize that we need a central organization to coordinate and lead the tremendous effort that is required. It truly will be a monumental task but one, I assure you, that will reward us many times over when we enjoy the product of these efforts. I have urged the Senate to approve this bill before we lose more of our folk culture to the dim memories of the past."

USDA Seeks Comments on Change

The U.S. Department of Agriculture today asked for comments on proposed changes in policy to permit the transfer of Burley Tobacco Quotas to farms not now holding a basic quota. USDA currently requires a farm to hold a Burley quota before permitting the transfer of additional quota poundage. (Under the Burley program, unlike programs for other types of tobacco, quotas are expressed in terms of poundage rather than acreage.)

Under the proposed program, transfers to nonquota farms would be subject to the same terms and conditions that currently apply to transfers to quota farms. The main exception would be that the quotas indicated on marketing cards issued to nonquota farms by USDA's ASCS would be limited to the actual poundage leased.

USDA Officials feel that the proposed change in policy may be necessary to permit a number of interested individuals, not currently eligible for a new farm quota, to enter the Burley Tobacco Market.

Such quotas leases would be filed in the local ASCS Office or Agricultural Service Center and would have to be between farms in the same county.

Recommendations concerning the proposed change in policy should be submitted in writing no later than May 22nd to the Director, Program Operations Division, ASCS, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Consumer Comments

A consumer recently wrote our office to tell how she bought some expansion pots and pans and ended up with tarnished cookware and a tarnished view of cook ware salespeople. Don't put your common sense on the back burner when it comes to buying pots and pans.

There are reputable dealers who sell cookware door-to-door, but there are also those who sell door-to-door because of the reduced sales resistance of people approached in their homes with out advance notice. When a demonstration of cookware takes place in the home, a consumer cannot comparison shop by going to the next counter or the store down the block. A well known ploy is for the salesperson to offer a discount or free gift "for tonight only", encouraging consumers to buy now and comparison shop for later when it's too late.

If you're interested in buying cookware, check around. Know the various types and their approximate cost. It's not worth a free gift to be stuck with inferior cookware.

There are other gimmicks too. A consumer might be told that he or she was especially selected to test a new brand of cookware. Remember anyone who offers you a special deal on cookware is probably just interested in cooking up some business.

One consumer wrote us that she was told her old pots and pans were poisonous. Don't listen to scare tactics like these; ask another dealer if you have questions about your cookware.

Deal with reputable businesses and ask about the warranties. If a salesperson and his company are not from your vicinity, you might have problems returning defective cookware, or even finding the company.

Lasting Detente Impossible With The Communists!

BY
M. GENE SNYDER
U.S. CONGRESSMAN
4th District, Kentucky

A major factor underlying our defeat in Vietnam has been the continuing self-deception we practice by putting any hope at all in the false promises of "detente". What I said on this subject April 12, 1974 demands repeating:

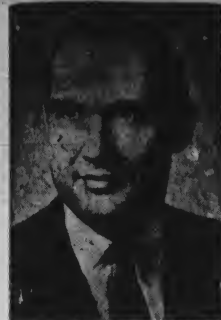

Detente is defined as "a relaxation of strained relations or tensions (as between nations)". A world tired of war has been talking about detente between the United States and the U.S.S.R. and Communist China since President Nixon visited both those countries.

Soviet agitation of the Arab countries to initiate and continue an oil embargo against us led many to believe that the detente is but one sided.

Since peace initiatives are not to be condemned, but we must know the thinking of the men with whom peace is sought. This is not understood by everyone where the Communists are concerned. Too many people think Communist countries have communism within their borders. Communist propaganda is not responsible for this mistake. The Communists always proclaim that so far they only have socialist societies, with socialist governments and socialist economies. For example, the Soviet Newspaper KRASNAYA ZVEZDA (Red Star) put it very plainly on December 5, 1973 in an editorial lauding "Constitution Day" in the U.S.S.R.:

"under the leadership of the Communist Party, a developed socialist society has been built in the Soviet Union, the equal nations and nationalities have united into an indestructible monolith and true people's power is triumphing. The further flourishing of socialist democracy is augmenting these historic achievements and accelerating our advance along the path toward the cherished goal communism."

The Communists took over Russia in 1917, yet they still only have socialism, still are on "the path toward the cherished goal communism". Why? The answer to that which also tells us a lasting detente with them is impossible. The answer is that Communists believe communism will be in the final stage of human society. They teach that socialism is the next to last stage, a transition from capitalism. They say communism will be stateless, but that it cannot supplant socialism until there is no longer any capitalist society anywhere on earth. By their definition, capitalism is bent on conquest. There fore, a state structure a socialist one must be maintained for defensive purposes against capitalist states such as our own. Thus, for the Communists to achieve their ultimate goal of communism the United States must be changed from a capitalist society into a socialist one. Hence, they can never desist from forcing that change upon us. This involves subjecting us to total government control!

We won't forget these vital facts if we keep in mind that the letters USSR stand for the Union of Soviet Socialist (not Communist) Republics.

Members of the Special Weapons and Tactics Team (SWAT) are the featured guests on the May 18th production of "Police Call". "Police Call" airs every Sunday at 10:30 a.m. to 11:00 a.m. on Channel 9. Colonel Don Shanks, Chief of the Mariemont Police Department, is host of the Sunday morning public service program.

In one portion of the program, team members will repel the walls of the Channel 9 studios.

"Police Call" is directed by Tom Samad and produced by Todd Hunter and Col. Don Shanks.

... about your Social Security

A leaflet, "A brief explanation of Medicare," is now available at Social Security Offices.

The leaflet explains how Medicare Hospital and Medicare Insurance work. It includes a list of services that Medicare covers and a list of services that Medicare does not cover, according to John Walter, Social Security District Manager in Covington, Kentucky.

Medicare helps pay the health care bills of people 65 and over, of disabled people who have been entitled to Social Security Disability benefits for at least 24 consecutive months, and of many people with chronic kidney disease.

Medicare is administered by the Social Security Administration, an agency of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

Dust . . . oldest air pollutant

A speck of true dust is smaller than 4/100,000 of an inch. Coarser dust may be as large as 2/10,000 of an inch.

The dust in the air can range from 15,000 particles in a cubic inch of clear air over the mid Pacific to more than 5 million particles in a cubic inch in the smoky air over a large city.

Two kinds of dust deposits cover hills and valleys. One is volcanic dust. The other is mineral dust blown from areas once covered by the ice sheets of the great ice age.

When the ice melted, it left vast plains of bare mud and when these plains dried, winds blew the dust to other areas of the earth.

Today, ordinary dust in the atmosphere comes from such places as bare soil, crumbling rock ledges, mud flats, plowed fields, and unpaved roads. Calcium Chloride is frequently used on unpaved roads to hold down dust.

Frog Season Opens For Froggers

A 170 day frog season opens in Kentucky May 15th.

The season runs through midnight October 31st and frogs can be harvested with bow and arrow or firearm on a hunting license, by pole and line on a fishing license, or by gig or hand with either license. The limit is 15 frogs per hunting day, which runs from noon to noon. The possession limit is 30 frogs after two or more days of frogging. No more than 15 frogs can be in possession in the field.

Most waters around Kentucky support frogs. Farms ponds and seldom frequented streams are considered the best places to catch frogs, though public lakes may be frogged.

Most frog hunters take the amphibian by gig, though bow and arrow hunting is said to be the most sporting method. When hunting with a firearm, .22 shot shell is considered the best ammunition. The more sophisticated frog hunter usually takes his prey by hand. During the day to take a frog with pole and line, a hook can be baited with red flannel and swung near the frog's head until the frog jumps for the hook.

Frog hunting is thought to be best during moonless nights, when frogs will hold to a light. A six to twelve volt light is used for frog hunting.

Frog hunters should ask owner's permission before entering private land.

Know your seasons when buying fruits and vegetables. Some fruits and vegetables grow the year round in one section or another of the country, while others grow only in warm weather. Each has its own seasonal pattern. Shoppers who know when to expect the peak season for various fruits and vegetables can time their purchases to obtain high quality produce for low prices. The most dramatic price declines often match the local growing season.

Personal Responsibility
(Ezekiel 18:2-13, 30-32)

Dr. W. H. Griffith Thomas once interpreted responsibility to some friends as made up of two words, "response," and "ability." "Man's response and God's ability."

Another way of saying this would be "Man's response to God's ability."

Charles H. Spurgeon once remarked to a young minister who complained of the smallness of his congregation, "They are as large perhaps as you will want to give an account for in the day of judgement."

"If You Have Anything To Sell—Call Us" man who ignores that obligation will die.

Rebellion
Ezekiel 18:10-13

These verses speak of the wicked son of a righteous father. It is difficult to understand how sometimes good and upright parents bear children who turn out to be rebellious. This is always sad, but it stresses the truth that every person makes his choices of good and evil. Parents can do much to nurture the child in reverence and admonition of the Lord, but they cannot make the ultimate decisions for him.

Ezekiel again reminds us that rebellion results in death and man is personally responsible for his choice. "His blood will be upon him."

Redemption
Ezekiel 18:30-32

Everyone would be judged according to his ways. This is still God's word to man. Man may buy off the courts, bribe the judge and jury, but only in this world. The king of kings and Lord of Lords will not be bought off.

God does not desire man's destruction. Neither is He indifferent as to man's choice. He pleads with man to "repent, and turn from all your transgressions; so iniquity will be your ruin." There is a better way. Man can exchange ruin for redemption. Man must be done with the sin way of life. He must cast away from himself all of his transgressions. He must turn to God for a new heart and a new spirit. God will meet that need, but man must make the choice.

Leads Tours Of Israel & London

Randy Snyder
Randy and Annie Snyder of the First Church of Christ, on U.S. 42 and Evergreen Dr., in Florence, will lead a ten day tour of Israel and London this October. Any man who thinks he is more intelligent than his wife is married to a smart woman.

MOUNTAIN MOMENTS
by K. Maynard Head

R C Cola and Moon Pie

I'm sure I have mentioned to you already that besides my brother, Leroy, I have four sisters. Odd-sounding names have a tendency to run in my family and to prove my point, here are my sister's names beginning with the oldest: Shelvee Jean, Cleadia Faye, Georgia Gearldine, Emileatia Paulette!!!

To simplify matters somewhat the girls gave themselves nicknames. Once again, I'll start with the oldest: Shell, Tracy, Gerry, and Emi.

All of them are logical except for Cleadia Faye's. How she got Tracy out of that, I'll never know. But Cleadia was never very logical anyway!

My sisters are all married to men from different parts of the country and they live from Maryland to Texas.

The varied backgrounds of my sister's husbands are topics of conversation quite often, especially when we all get together.

Shelvee's husband, Jim, is from Chicago - and he never lets you forget it! Mayor Daley, Marina Towers and the Kennedy Expressway always pop up when he is around. When he talks about the tall buildings however, I just show him "The Pinnacle at Cumberland Gap" or Chained Rock at Pineville, and he shuts up!

Lance, who married Cleadia, may be the smartest of the whole outfit - he was born in New York, grew up in Baltimore, Maryland, but likes Kentucky best of all. If Lance is not the smartest then he is the diplomat of the century!

Emi is married to a man from Indiana, but they live in Florida. Vern likes everybody and everything. He smiles so much it makes me uncomfortable sometimes. He agrees with everything I say and smiling all the time.

Bob, Gearldine's husband, is the opposite. He disagrees with everything everybody else says. He's somemore, been to more places, spent more, earned more, and knows more than anybody.

Love and Security

You don't need to know much about polar bears to get the message here. This cub hasn't a worry in the world. But one day he'll grow up to know all the frustrations of life in captivity.

Motherhood is security... but only for awhile. And the human mother is no more able to perpetuate the bond of total protection than is her wild counterpart.

Some parents today have abdicated their responsibility to guide their children. They have broken the family bonds too soon. Their children pay for this negligence: They age—but they don't mature.

Whims are fickle... and momentary. The Church strives to replace such elusive goals with something more substantial, something more stable. The inner values of character and faith remain as vital today as ever.

In our turbulent society, tranquility can only be found inside a person. Such stability and serenity could be your greatest gift to your child.

Oriental Flavor

Chinese food has falsely earned the reputation of being difficult and time consuming, reserved for the patience of skillful cooks.

While Chinese dishes have exotic and delicious flavors, they can also be no more complex than meat and potatoes and certainly a welcome diversion. Oriental cooking can be an economical and time saving art and at the same time, provide an abundance of vitamins, minerals and protein. In most cases, vegetables are stir fried, retaining the nutrients which are lost in over cooking.

Chicken is a dish popular in Chinese homes. Sweet and Sour Chicken combines sweet and tangy flavors with juicy pineapple for a taste which has long been popular in the U.S. It browns right in the oven making its preparation simple. Serve Sweet and Sour Chicken with fried rice, an Oriental staple, and quick fried vegetables for a meal that will impress both your family and friends, and only you will know how simple it really is to prepare.

Sweet & Sour Chicken
1/4 cup Squeeze Parky liquid margarine
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup of soy cause
1/2 cup vinegar
1 13/4 oz. can pineapple, tidbits drained
1 2 1/2 to 3 lb. fryer-broiler cut up
2 tablespoons cornstarch

In a 10 inch skillet combine margarine, sugar, soy sauce, vinegar, and pineapple; mix well. Arrange chicken pieces skin side down in skillet. Bake at 350 degrees for one hour and fifteen minutes, turning the chicken pieces after the first forty minutes. Remove chicken and pineapple to serving platter. Blend cornstarch with small amount of sauce; stir into remaining sauce. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture boils and thickens. Simmer three minutes, stirring constantly and pour over chicken.

Fried Rice
1/4 cup green onion slices
1/4 cup Squeeze Parky liquid margarin
2 cups cooked rice
16 oz. can water chestnuts, drained and sliced
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1 egg beaten

Saute onions in margarine and add rice and water chestnuts; cook stirring over low heat 2 to 3 minutes. Add soy sauce and egg; cook over low heat until egg is set.

Oriental Vegetables
2 cups carrot slices
1 cup diagonally cut celery slices
1/2 cup green pepper strips Squeeze Parky liquid margarine
1/4 teaspoon salt

Stir fry vegetables in margarine until crisp tender. Season with salt.

Farm Credit Banks Record Quarter

Quarterly reports at the Farm Credit Banks of Louisville indicate that gross loans outstanding have rised from $3,105 billion on December 31, 1974 to $3,279 billion as of March 31, 1975. This amount represents short, intermediate, and long term loans to 137,347 full and part time farmers, and seasonal and long term loans to 339 agricultural cooperatives. Thomas Farr, Chairman of the Presidents Committee of the Farm Credit Banks of Louisville, said that the $172 million increase in loans outstanding is generally attributable to an increased demand for money by farmers and cooperatives as agriculture prepares to meet the nation's ever growing need for food and fiber.

The Farm Credit Banks of Louisville serve one of the twelve districts comprising the nationwide Farm Credit System. Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio, and Tennessee constitute the Louisville District, also known as the Fourth Farm Credit District. Three banks, fulfilling three district agricultural credit functions, make up the Farm Credit Banks of Louisville: The Federal Land Bank of Louisville, The Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Louisville and the Louisville Bank of Cooperatives.

Sorting It Out For Summer Outings

Scores of Americans will once again hit the trail this summer, filling their days with camping, hiking and cycling of all kinds of outdoor excursions.

They'll be joined by a number of people heading into the wilderness for the first time and facing the problem of what to take in the way of food and clothing.

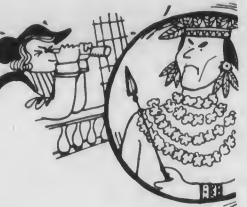

Camping veterans know that the watch words for outdoor supplies are lightweight and low bulk. And while these rules should be followed particularly where food is concerned, you don't have to live off of beans and berries. Camping should be fun, and a trip can include some favorite fun foods like popcorn.

Popping kernels are lightweight easy to pack and no extra trouble to fix. A fresh batch of corn is fun to pop over an open campfire and will make a perfect evening snack.

Recently found was an easy way way to prepare popcorn specialty for the great outdoors. Use the leftover grease from fried bacon or sausage for popping up a batch of corn. Place the grease in a heavy skillet, pour in the popcorn kernels, cover and in minutes you'll have a treat the entire family can enjoy.

You don't have to eat like a Spartan when heading for the outdoors. Popcorn is a convenient food that brightens up an outdoors menu no matter where you travel - high in the Rockies or in your own backyard.

Did You Know?

Columbus was surprised to find the natives of the West Indies wearing popcorn decorations when he arrived in the New World!!

American colonists were introduced to popcorn by the Indians when Quadequina, brother of Iroquois Chief Massasoit, brought some in a deerskin bag to the first Thanksgiving dinner!!

Colonial housewives saw a good thing in popcorn and were soon serving it with sugar and cream as a breakfast cereal??

FEARLESS FORECAST

By: R.W. Lancaster

Thursday, May 15, 1975

The new Moon still in the water sign Cancer you can finish planting any of those above ground crops you didn't get in the ground yesterday. And then catch a mess of fish any time today or tonight, starting tomorrow the fishing will be rather poor until next Thursday. This is also an excellent day for home baking as the yeast dough will rise and bake to perfection. Do your house cleaning tomorrow and save your sewing and mending for the weekend.

Friday, May 16th

The Moon moved in to the fixed fire sign Leo early this morning so today through Sunday will be a safe time for traveling and the planetary aspects indicate that business affairs should go smoothly at this time so if you want a short vacation mixed with business make your plans accordingly.

Saturday, May 17th

Next Saturday is going to be an excellent time to sell property and personal items so if you are not too busy today start planning a sale for next week. Clean out your attic and garage and maybe do a little fixing and then write your ad for next Monday noon, some of the goodies you have hid away will probably bring in a good price.

Sunday, May 18th

The moon moved in to Virgo this morning the sign of virtue and Jonathan Swift once said ("When men grow virtuous in old age they are merely making an offering to God of the Devils leaving. And Abraham Lincoln said ("It has ever been my experience that folks who have no vices have very few virtues").

Monday, May 19th

This is a good day to cultivate and spray your garden and flowers but a poor time to plant, starting tomorrow afternoon through Saturday the Moon will be in fruitful signs so just be patient. If you have any bad teeth today or tomorrow morning would be a good time for extractions so your gums will heal with not too much bleeding and you will be ready for impressions the end of the month.

Tuesday, May 20th

The Moon moves in to the fruitful sign Libra at noon today, so this is the time to plant flowers for beauty and vine crops for quick growth. Squash of all kinds will make quick and I am going to concentrate on my favorite the small yellow summer squash. If you will plant some spearmint, julep mint or tansy near the kitchen wall you won't be bothered with ants in the kitchen and you will have a nice aroma close to the house.

Wednesday, May 21st

If you have your garden in good shape why not do some home baking while the moon is increasing in a Cardinal sign, professional bakers claim that yeast dough rises better at this time and the bread seems to brown a little nicer. You will never know unless you try. Today and tomorrow is also an excellent time for an eye examination if you need new glasses and the aspects indicate that you will be satisfied with any new purchases made at this time.

Hay in May FARM NEWS AND ANALYSIS

By Darwin Foley Kenton County Extension Agent

your farm and tramp down what they don't eat. Bale the excess before it gets too mature. Mowing and restricted grazing will make best use of your valuable forage.

To restrict grazing to smaller fields close gates or put up electric fences. We have a publication called Beef Forage Systems which will help you set up a system on your farm.

Fields which have been renovated should be grazed short to hold down grass growth. They should be grazed until the cattle begin biting off the tips of the young clover or alfalfa seedlings, and then the cattle should be moved. Before being grazed again or cut for hay, clover should be allowed four to six weeks to recover, and alfalfa should have eight to ten weeks.

Fields renovated with alfalfa and clover should be grazed on a rotational basis. Stock the field heavy enough to graze it off in ten days or less and let the legumes recover before putting the cattle back in.

In summary restrict grazing to smaller fields when pastures are growing fast and starting putting away the rest of the hay in May.

You're about to bleed!

If proposed changes in Kentucky's Air Pollution Control Regulations are approved, consumers will be forced to pay millions of dollars for unproved "scrubbers" to remove sulfur dioxide from the smoke of coal-fired electric generating plants. Your wallet will bleed.

The Environmental Protection Agency's own funded studies have found little relationship between sulfur dioxide levels and health. EPA environmental regulators admit that sulfur dioxide by itself probably doesn't matter much. Wholesale electric energy costs will increase by approximately 63% if "scrubbers" have to be installed. And nobody knows what to do with the acres of sludge leftover from scrubber operations.

We want the best possible life for all Kentucky consumers. But we simply can't understand how we can improve our quality of life by squandering consumers' money.

Increased reliance on technology has meant that today's farmer must buy more of the things needed for production from industry or other farmers than his dad did. He also sells a much larger share of the output of his farm. Except for the subsistence farmer on one hand and the gentlemen farmer on the other, he's a commercial operator, producing for the market.

Further, his market is no longer just down the road to the closest town. It's also national and international. Demands vary from year to year, and largely because of changes in foreign requirements. This broadening of the market has opened up opportunities for the farmer, but also exposed him to some problems.

Ideally, farmers together should produce the exact amount each year that would meet the market demands and, at the same time, yield fair returns for labor and investment. But variations in weather, combined with an unpredictable foreign demand and the fact that each farmer makes up his own mind about what he will plant and have brought problems of alternating surpluses and shortages.

Drex Davis State Secretary

Drex Davis

State Treasurer Drex Davis was in town today campaigning for the Democratic nomination for Secretary of State in the May 27th primary election. A twenty three year veteran of state government service, Davis is "Meeting the people" in a grass roots campaign for his third statewide elective office. In addition to serving as Deputy Clerk of the Court of Appeals for twelve years and as Administrative Assistant to the Secretary of State for four years, Davis has served a full term as Clerk of the Court of Appeals, and is presently completing his term as Kentucky State Treasurer.

Davis is most proud of his accomplishments as State Treasurer. Davis initiated a program by which state monies are invested overnight and over the weekend, earning the state $2 million in its first year of operation. Davis has also raised the interest rate for state time deposits. "Kentuckians can be confident that their funds are being invested safely, efficiently and responsibly", Davis said.

Davis promises that this will be the most vigorous campaign in his political career, and plans to visit all of Kentucky's 120 counties before the May 27th primary.

Drexell Davis is the current State Treasurer of the Commonwealth of Kentucky. Davis was sworn for a four year term on January 3, 1972.

Davis is a former Clerk of Kentucky's Court of Appeals having served 16 years in the Clerk's office. He was elected Clerk in the November 1963 general election taking office in January 1964, and serving until December 1967.

A native of Shelbyville, Kentucky, born July 19, 1921, Davis graduated from the Shelby County Schools in 1940. He attended Georgetown College where he was a member of the Kappa Alpha fraternity.

Davis is active in the Lions Club, having served as Secretary, First Vice-President and President of the Frankfort Club. He has also served as district governor of the Kentucky Lions representing 65 clubs in Central and Northern Kentucky.

A World War II Veteran, Davis served in the U.S. Army Signal Corps from October 1942 to December 1945.

He is a member of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign War, Hiram Lodge No. 4, York Rite Bodies, and Oleika Shrine Temple.

Davis is a member of the Highland Christian Church in Frankfort. He is married to the former Sarah Lillis of Frankfort. They have two children, Drexel, Jr., a graduate of Morehead University, and Ann, a junior of Franklin County High School.

Cincinnati Zoo Welcomes Keen Agers

The Keen Age Group of the Walton Area boarded the Walton Baptist Church bus on Monday, May 19th and were driven to the beautiful Cincinnati Zoo gardens. It was a lovely day weather was nice and since most had not visited the zoo for some years it was a lovely experience to see the animals - birds, reptiles, and fishes.

Many of the group remarked of the many changes in the way the inhabitants were exhibited.

The following members enjoyed the day:

Bro. Robert Sheffield, Clarence Bauford, Mrs. Alle Mae Williams, Mrs. Mattie Fairchild, Mrs. Fanny Adams, Mrs. Jesse Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Flynn, Mrs. Opal Phelphrey, Mrs. Lucite Neumeister, Mrs. Leona Jump, Mrs. Clara Presser, Mrs. Mabel Johnson, Miss Betty Johnson, and our most able bus driver, Woodrow Greene.

Our trip for June may be to Salem, Indiana.

For Governor Todd Hollenbach

"On thing I have learned here in this area is that Northern Kentucky citizens are tired of being treated like second class Kentuckians. They are tired of paying Cincinnati's telephone and electric rates, hearing the noise of the airport, seeing that only Ohio news is on their televisions in short, being Ohio's back door. Worse than their problems with Ohio is the treatment they get from their own state capitol - Frankfort, Ky. They feel their roads and schools are neglected and that Ky. has written them off. This feeling was no more evident than in their recent fight with Cincinnati over rate increases.

On Saturday, May 24th a Boone, Kenton, & Campbell County rally will be held in the Lion Park located in Erlanger, Ky. from 2 to 6 p.m. See you there!

Wallace Grubbs Walton Resident

More than 50 years ago in Walton, Wallace K. Grubbs went courting Mary Scott Chambers and at this time he found him a wife and a career at the same time.

In 1925, Mary Chambers was the first woman embalmer in the state of Kentucky.

The following year, Wallace married her and developed an interest in the Chambers Embalming Business. He started his business in 1928 after receiving his license in 1930 upon his graduation from the Cincinnati College of Embalming.

"Back in those days, they'd work out of the homes of the deceased and 90 per cent of the funerals were held in the churches," said Grubbs' youngest son, Jim, a funeral home director in Independence.

In 1936 Mary and Wallace Grubbs built the Chambers & Grubbs Funeral Home in Walton which was to be his home from that time on. Jim said that this was the first funeral home in Boone County.

He spoke of 47 years of his fathers' life being dedicated to being active in the business and during this time he opened a second funeral home in Florence in 1946 where his oldest son, Wallace Scott "Buddy" Grubbs is the director and a third one in Independence in 1961.

The middle son, John, a superintendent at Walton Verona High School was never much interested in this type of business so he went on to become a superintendent.

On Thursday morning, Wallace Grubbs was working in his office at the home located at 45 North Main and then later walked down for a bite to eat at a nearby restaurant in town.

"He wasn't feeling well when he got back," said Jim so at 12:30 p.m. the Walton Ambulance took him to St. Elizabeth Hospital where he apparently died from a heart attack at 10 a.m. on Friday.

Grubbs was a member of the Walton Christian Church, Walton Masonic Lodge, Kentucky and National Funeral Directors Association, and past member of Florence Rotary.

Survivors include his wife, Mary Scott Chambers Grubbs, and three sons: Jim Grubbs, Wallace "Buddy" Grubbs, and John Grubbs, daughters: Mrs. Jenette Clore of Grant, Mrs. Elizabeth Poore of Walton and his sister, Myrtle Chapman of Arizona; 14 grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Services were held for him on Monday at 11:00 a.m. with his burial in the Highland Cemetery.

May 18th Dedication Boone Woods Park .

Judge Bruce Ferguson & Steve Wills

By Luellen Wolsing, Reporter

Dedication of Boone Woods Park was held on May 18th, at two thirty. The Invocation and Benediction was given by Reverend John Murphy, and the main speaker of the ceremony was Judge Bruce Ferguson. Music was supplied by the seventy piece Connor Concert Band.

Facilities of the 45 acre park include four double tennis courts, picnic grounds, a regulation size baseball field, a combination soccer and football field and a soft area for volleyball and badminton.

The park so far has cost about $250,000 and $100,000 will be spent this summer on the park.

Future plans include a swimming pool, water, sewage, lighting, two additional tennis courts, basketball courts, and also a creative playground. This playground was described by Steve Wills, chairman of the park board committee, as "One big sandbox."

Activities sponsored by the park will be a Fourth of July "Good ole days" program in conjunction with the Bicentennial Commission. This will feature a craftsmen's fair and a fireworks display. There is also plans being made to sponsor a Teen night at the Boone County Fair.

The park is open from daylight to dark and at this time there is no admission charge. For more information about the park, contact Richard Clements, recreation director, at the Burlington Courthouse.

1925 Holds Memories And Anniversary

"Do you know me?" was a familiar phrase heard at the Golden Anniversary of the Class of 1925 held on Saturday, May 10th in the Transylvania University.

About 25 classmates gathered together for a reunion to bring back fond memories of their years spent learning and growing together.

Reunions fall into a certain pattern of remembering, trying to place faces and just having the knowledge of knowing how close you were to each other.

As one memory was brought back you could see a sophisticated lady with her silver gray hair, pearl earrings, and a red dress which boosts a silver pin given to her in 1970 after retiring from teaching, sitting in a dining room holding a small white china cup and saucer.

"This reunion is bringing back old memories," she said. "I feel a very special feeling for Transylvania, even though the campus has changed."

Do you remember who this fine lady might be? She is Mrs. Frances Stevens Wilson of Verona, Ky., a teacher who was admired by her many students and classmates of yesterday and today.

A Golden Anniversary doesn't happen everyday, but she will always remember the fond memories it held for her and the many people she lent a helping hand to.

Homemakers Make It Seem Easier

With food prices flying upward it sometimes seems the consumer is just along for the ride. The homemaker is challenged each day to stretch that inflation dollar just a little further. Meal Planning is a great help in the "battle of the budget" and a few minutes spent in planning time can reduce time spent in food preparation and save money through wiser shopping. Marilyn Cole and Evelyn Roadcup were club leaders at the May meeting of the Happy Hour Homemakers. Here are a few tips they gave on "Meal Planning."

It is more economical to plan meals for a 3 - 7 day period and if storage space is available, shop only once a week. Much of the shopping dollar is wasted on impulse buying. With a limited budget the quality of food is of importance and extra, less nutritional foods should be eliminated. A written grocery list and a good meal directly before shopping will steer the smart shopper away from the convenience, snack foods which seem so appealing when we're hungry and are pressed for time.

Shop the specials! Coupon clipping does pay off and good menu planning can also include good buys. If you seem to be preparing the same foods each week, why not take advantage of the recipes available through the local papers! Trying a new recipe each week is a good way to break the monotony and introduce the family to new foods.

In club business, new officers were announced for the 75-76 year. Evelyn Roadcup will serve as president. Assisting her will be Maxine Hicks, vice - president, Evelyn Tow, secretary, and Janet Stewart as treasurer. Our thanks goes to Wilma Jackson and her slate of officers who served the club so well this past year.

After devotions, plans were made for the Woodpoint's birthday party and the club's trip to Berea for the Arts and Crafts Festival. The club voted to send a needy child to camp again this year. Supplies, such as sheets, towels, toothbrushes, and paste, will be brought to the next meeting. If anyone is interested in sponsoring a child or donating supplies, please call 586-6101 ext. 17. Mae Swango, Evelyn Roadcup, and Phyllis Adams served as hostesses to the club. Before the luncheon, the club expressed best wishes to Mae Swango and her family on their move to Florida. Recipes were given by each member as a small remembrance of friendship.

Debbie Carney was a welcomed visitor. A picnic was planned for the June 3rd meeting. Anyone interested in membership or would like to attend the next meeting, please call 283-2911 or 283-2449.

Josephine Bickers

In memory of our loved one Josephine Bickers who would have celebrated her 85th birthday on May 24th.

Your gentle face and patient smile
 With sadness we recall
 You had a kindly word for each
 And died beloved by all.
 The voice is mute and stilled the heart

That loved us well and true.
 Ah, bitter was the trial to part
 From one as good as you.
 You are not forgotten loved one
 Nor will you ever be.
 As long as life and memory last
 We will remember thee.

We miss you now, our hearts are sore,
 As time goes by we miss you more.
 Your loving smile, your gentle face
 No one can fill your vacant place.

How Is Nutrition On The Run

Breakfast skipping has almost become an American tradition, and that's not such an honorable distinction! Nutritionists tell us breakfast is perhaps the most important meal of the day. Since 12 hours or more have passed since the previous meal, the body needs refueling. Nutrients and calories are needed to "break the fast". Yet, millions of Americans still do not eat breakfast.

In households across the nation, the once popular, hearty sit down breakfast is a lost cause. Teenagers rush out the door yelling they don't have time for breakfast. Some children refuse even to look at "traditional" breakfast foods in the

Kenton Extension Council

Kenton County Leaders met Tuesday night May 13th by invitation from Kenton County Extension Agents to reorganize the Kenton County Extension Council. Members will serve as an advisory council to the Kenton County Extension Staff.

Seated from left to right are Doris Ballard, Mrs. Richard Gibeau, and James Hummendorf. Doris Ballard is a 4-H Leader, a producer of registered beef cattle and a horse and an engineer by profession. Mrs. Richard Gibeau is serving as President Elect of the Kenton County Homemaker Council and was elected as Secretary of the newly formed County Extension Council. James Hummendorf was elected President of the County Extension Council. Jim is a corporation president in the Florence Industrial Park and a morning, let alone taste them. And for working parents, often there is not enough time to prepare a sit down breakfast.

At the University of Iowa, students showed that breakfast skippers run into problems early in the day. They tend to tire easily, concentrate less effectively, and generally have a reduced work output. They may even have less than cheerful dispositions. The simple cure is a good breakfast but making the decision of what to eat for breakfast becomes a real problem.

No law says that breakfast has to be bacon, eggs and milk, so think instead of quick, good tasting, favorite foods which rate a plus in nutrition. The important thing is that whatever you choose for breakfast should supply about 25 per cent of the day's total nutrient needs in vitamins, minerals, protein, and other essential nutrients.

A new way to get a breakfast boost instantly is with Carnation Breakfast Bag. It has the chocolaty, crunchy taste of a candy bar and when combined with a glass of milk, provides a good balanced breakfast.

Members of the Kenton County Board of Education and members of the screening committee on winding up their interviews of candidates seeking the post of school superintendent.

However, Robert Scott, board chairman, has not set a deadline for final action.

At a meeting at Simon Kenton High School he told interested citizens that 19 applications have been received from such states as Colorado, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, and Kentucky.

Serving with Board Members Scott, Joe Bishop, Robert Taylor, C. B. Menefee, and Tip Richardson, are three faculty members, Mrs. Sharon Felte Coomer, Turkeyfoot Junior High School, Mrs. Mildred Tipton, principal of the Hinsdale Elementary School, and Dan Yelton, president of the Kenton County Education Association.

Two citizens also are on the committee, Mrs. Ruth Eubanks and R. C. Richardson.

Bishop, who is vice chairman, said the group is seeking a man with expertise in curriculum, finances and public relations. Taylor told the audience that candidates thus far interviewed have had experience on high administrative levels, others have published in professional journals and still others have had background in both curriculum and handling major budgets.

Yelton said the committee process has been excellent.

Should you buy convenience foods? Decide according to the food and to your situation. These foods that already have some of the preparation done often cost more than their simpler counterpart. However, the busy homemaker may find the added cost offset by the time and effort saved in the home. Remember, too, that convenience foods may not be quite the same as home prepared products. For example, canned or frozen meat dishes usually have less meat than the same dish prepared at home from basic ingredients.

Those southern Kenton County craftsmen, all students at Simon Kenton High School, captured their fourth straight industrial arts championship at the annual fair sponsored by Eastern Kentucky University. Above, Tim Wilson, sophomore, fashioned a beautiful Kentucky - Pennsylvania long

LOOKING BACK

Thursday, May 19, 1955

Mayor R.M. Hall has issued a proclamation designating Saturday, May 28th as National Poppy Day for the town of Walton. Poppies are sold by the American Legion Auxiliary.

Mr. and Mrs. Layne Cheesman of Louisville, were blessed with their first child on Friday, May 13th, a daughter weighing six pounds and fourteen ounces, born at Norton Hospital in Louisville. Mrs. Cheesman is the former Coretta Rice, and she and her husband are well known in this area. Grandma Mildred Cleek is also doing nicely.

Wa Na Club will hold Kindergarten "Graduation" in the Walton Methodist Church on Thursday, May 26 at 7:30 p.m. The teacher is Mrs. James Webster.

William Charles Kidd, son of Mrs. Carrie Kidd of High Street in Walton, enlisted for a four year term in the Navy on May 9th.

The pupils of Mrs. T.P. Strittmatter will give a piano recital on Thursday, May 26th at Walton School.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Chance and family and Miss Lynelle Flynn were the Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Allen and family spent Sunday with her brother and wife of Dry Ridge, Mr. and Mrs. John Fields and daughter.

Important Decisions When Buying Clothes

One of the most important decisions you'll make in purchasing clothes is where to buy. Department and discount stores and catalog houses all have special advantages to be taken into consideration.

Large department stores often feature both national brands and their own brand. And if you inspect both items carefully, you may find you'll save most on the store's brand. If you decide on a national brand, though shop around for the best price.

Some department stores also have bargain basements. You'll find terrific savings here, but watch for damaged goods.

Discount houses have one main selling point - lower prices. The surroundings will not be as pleasant as you'll find elsewhere, but the prices will make up for that. Some stores feature brand name merchandise without the label. You can realize good savings on such items, but, once again, inspect before you buy.

Catalog sales allow you to shop at your leisure, pick any style you like, and there are no high pressure sales people urging you to buy. The big disadvantage is that you don't get to try anything on. Most catalogs do include detailed instructions on measuring your size. To insure good fit, follow these closely.

James Ray Losey and Tommy Johnson are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hiner Losey and Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Johnson.

Miss Kathleen Flynn was the weekend guest of Miss Sandra Downing, Verona Road.

Marion A. Waller of Campbellsville, spent the weekend with his mother, Mrs. Pattie Waller. Verona Homemakers met on May 6th with Mrs. John Kannady as the hostess. Next meeting will be June 6th.

Time changes will be different at the Walton Christian Church. Passing of the Senior Class of 1955 of Walton Verona High School will be Thursday, May 19th at the High School Auditorium.

Children Deserve Special Attention

In recent columns, I've discussed some general rules for getting the best value for your clothing dollar. These principles apply to every member of the family, but children's clothing deserves special attention.

Children's clothing is usually replaced, not because of style changes or because they wore out, but because children grow so fast. So it is usually a waste of money to invest in super durable clothing unless you plan to hand it down to other children in the family.

It's often best to stick to the basics for every day wear - jeans, slacks, t-shirts, and sweaters. And be sure that everything you buy is machine washable.

If you can, bring your child along when you buy. Youngsters develop their own tastes and styles and, if you buy something they don't like chances are they won't wear it.

You might also want to look into children's exchanges. Often you can trade out grown but still wearable clothing for similar items that will fit your kids. Also check out swap meets for great used clothing bargains.

For shoes, choose inexpensive styles, but check the fit carefully. Never hand down shoes from one child to another. You can really do damage to young feet with ill fitting shoes.

Questions & Answers

Q. Some six million veterans were released from military service between 1955 and 1966. Is it true that these veterans have an additional two years to use their GI Bill benefits under a recent law?

A. Yes. Under a law approved in July 1974, veterans released during that period who have not exhausted entitlement have 10 years or until May 31, 1976 whichever is later, to complete training. Farm cooperative, flight, apprenticeship and on job training are available to them until August 30, 1977.

Tornado Map Available Now

Imagine you are sitting in your most comfortable chair. It's early evening and you're watching your favorite television show or listening to the radio.

Suddenly from your television or radio the regular program is interrupted and you hear the announcer say, "Ladies and gentlemen, the National Weather Service has just issued a tornado watch for an area 60 miles either side of a line extending from ten miles east of Liberty to Winchester, Ky. Stay tuned to this station for further information."

Since April 3, 1974, all Kentuckians have been aware of the dangers involved when severe weather strikes the Commonwealth. Many citizens did not know exactly what to do then and many did not know the difference between a tornado watch and a tornado warning. And still today, many people do not know just how they should act and react before and during severe weather such as a tornado. Eastern Kentucky University offers some free assistance to Commonwealth citizens.

The EKU Geographical Studies and Research Center has prepared a tornado severe weather plotting map which is available free of charge upon request. This publication presents a two color specially drawn map of the Commonwealth on which can be plotted the path of severe weather. Also included are specific instructions as to how the map should be used.

In addition to the plotting map, there are printed various definitions used by the National Weather Service in reporting severe weather. For instance, the definitions to the terms "Tornado Watch" and "Tornado Warning" are clearly indicated. Also included are the four most important aspects of tornado safety, with special attention given to shelter areas and how they should be used.

This free tornado severe weather plotting map, which is suitable for posting on an office or home bulletin board, is available at many locales in the greater Richmond Lexington area. They are also available through the mail and requests should be addressed to "Weather Watch Map", WEKU-FM Radio Station, Eastern Kentucky University, Richmond, Kentucky 40475.

Telephone requests may be made Monday to Friday, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and the number is 606-622-2474. This map is offered to Kentucky citizens as a public service from Eastern Kentucky University.

Dust

the oldest air pollutant
Raindrops help wash impurities from the air including dust and other solid substances.

It's been estimated that a rain lasting five days in London, England will wash tons of impurities from the air.

Sometimes these dust particles are so thick they can actually color the rain. "Blood Showers," "Red Rain," "Brown Snow" and "Black Snow" are all names given to rain that has been darkened by the same process.

Many different types of air cleaners are used in business, industry and homes to eliminate dust and other impurities in the air.

Calcium chloride is often used as an "Air Cleaner" for unpaved roads. A surface spray of the chemical "Anchors" dust keeps it damp by attracting moisture from the air.

Senator Dee Huddleston

REPORTS TO THE PEOPLE OF KENTUCKY

Senator Walter Dee Huddleston has criticized the President's veto of emergency farm legislation, calling the action "Short sighted."

Huddleston said the President's action represents "a failure to recognize that inflation has hit the farmer just like everyone else in many cases more so."

Huddleston, who is chairman of the Senate Agriculture Subcommittee on Marketing, Production, and Stabilization of Prices, said increased production costs have jeopardized the farmer's ability to make a fair return on his investment.

"Assuring the farmer a decent income, in the long run, in the best interest of the consumer because it will stimulate increased production which will hold down prices," the senator added.

Huddleston earlier secured Senate passage of an amendment raising the price support for tobacco to 70 per cent of parity but it was dropped in the Senate House conference committee and was not in the legislation vetoed by the President.

"I still believe the tobacco farmer, like other farmers, is being victimized by increased production costs," Huddleston said. "An I still think the tobacco farmer is deserving of a modest increase in his support price. But unfortunately, the obstacles to such an increase seem to be growing rather than diminishing."

Questions & Answers

Q. I'm an 18 year old son of a World War II Veteran who died two months ago. Am I eligible for a GI Home Loan from the Veterans Administration?

A. No. Only unmarried widows or widowers of service personnel killed an active duty, or of veterans who died from service connected disabilities, and spouses of service personnel missing in action or captured for more than 90 days, are eligible for GI home loans.

Amendment Forces Balanced Budget

BY
M. GENE SNYDER
U.S. CONGRESSMAN
4th District, Kentucky

The American people have watched an exercise in futility on the domestic front as politicians debated just how much red ink the country should operate in over the fiscal year 1976. The argument was not whether or not we should be in the black, but how much in the red.

The Congress has established two budget committees—one of the House - which their proponents claimed could look at the whole budgetary picture - jig saw puzzle would be better - and make recommendations to House and Senate that no individual standing committee could.

Many members voted for the establishment of the committees with little hope of real accomplishment, figuring anything that might bring about a balanced budget that would begin to stop our runaway inflation was worth a try.

Well, a futile hope it was, little as it might have been.

President Ford earlier in the year proposed a budget for fiscal 1976 with a deficit of a mere $60 billion dollars! But each of the Congressional budget committees proved better at recommending red ink than Mr. Ford!

The House Budget Committee proposed a deficit of $73.2 billion, and the House of Representatives voted 200-196 for $70 billion in calling for spending 368.2 billion. The Senate Budget Committee proposed a deficit of $67.2 billion, and the full Senate OK'd that figure by 69-22 in voting to spend $365 billion.

I am supporting a House Joint Resolution, H.J. Res. 318, proposing a Constitutional Amendment which requires a balanced budget on an annual basis. It would require the President at the outset of each session of Congress to

... about your Social Security

Working people under 72 getting Social Security retirement, survivors, or dependents payments should report any changes in their 1975 earnings estimates as soon as possible, according to John Walter, Social Security District Manager in Covington, Kentucky.

Social Security payments to people 72 and over aren't affected by their earnings. "But earnings can affect payments to people under 72," Walter said. "They should report any change in their work or earnings on the post card sent to people who work and get Social Security checks. If the post card is lost, the report can be made by calling or visiting any Social Security office."

"People who find they are earning less than they originally estimated may get additional Social Security payments during 1975 if they report the change," Walter said. "But people earning more than they originally estimated who don't report the change may get Social Security payments not due them and have to pay back some money at the end of the year."

Social Security payments are not affected by earnings of $2,520 or less for the year. Payments are reduced $1 for each $2 earned over $2,520, but no matter how much people earn in a year they can get their full Social Security payment for any month they neither earn over $210 nor do substantial work in their own business.

The Social Security administration is an agency of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

submit his estimate of government receipts and outlays, other than trust funds, and his determination of a surtax to be levied if necessary to bring income up to spending levels. It would require the Speaker of the House during the first and third quarter of each fiscal year to make similar estimates, and any surtax he deems necessary to balance outlays with tax income would be levied in place of the President's earlier surtax.

In the last month of the fiscal year the President would be required to review the receipts - expenditures picture, and if he determines income will not have equalled spending at the end of the year, he will determine a surtax to be levied in the following fiscal year to make up the difference.

With the levying of such taxes, surely the taxpayer will demand a halt to increased Federal spending which now continues at full speed - it's up 50% in less than three years - because it's financed by borrowing, a costly process not fully appreciated by the people although the inflation it causes hurts them.

What They Have Been Spending

The Federal Government spent a total of $223 billion through June 30, 1974, providing benefits through the Veterans Administration and its predecessors. World War II veterans accounted for a major portion of the expenditures, nearly 48 per cent, according to VA.

Increase Allowances

Spurred by a recent 22.7 per cent increase in education allowance and economic conditions, a record 74,548 veterans enrolled under the GI Bill for the first time in February, pushing total enrollment to 1.6 million, the Veterans Administration reported recently.

May 15th Gathered All Homemakers

Sixteen members and a guest met on May 15th at the home of Mrs. Margaret Dickson. The devotionals, "They Are My Friends" and "Telephone Of Your Mind" were given by Mrs. Ruth Powers. The business meeting took longer than usual as the various chairman asked for information which enabled them to fill out the forms they are to send in.

A delicious meal was enjoyed by all and Mrs. Dickson's daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Russell, took care of the clean up job.

A check from station W.U.B.E. was given to our treasurer, Mrs. Judy Spegal. This repaid us for purchasing, gathering and saving articles from some of the station's C.C.A. Sponsors.

The lesson leaders, Mrs. Betty Skelton and Mrs. Loretta Sterbling, very aptly gave the lesson, "Care and Safety of Food". This was given at the proper time when so many of us are considering picnics and canning.

Mrs. Alice McHale gave us the impulse to travel when she let us see all the snapshots taken recently to her trip to Hawaii.

Miss Elma Taylor, a neighbor of Mrs. Dickson's was a welcome guest at the meeting. The members present were: Connie Schneider, Hazel Kunkler, Ruth Powers, Susan Kelly, Judy Spegal, Ruth Kelly, Joan Ellis, Carrie Hall, Ruth Andrews, Loretta Sterbling, Ann Wolsing, Pat Blanton, Loretta Dewald, Alice McHale, Betty Skelton, and the hostess, Margaret Dickson.

What Americans Do Prefer

Popcorn is not only a native American food; it's also one enjoyed by we U.S. natives more than anyone else in the world.

Nearly 400 million pounds of popcorn is consumed every year in the United States about two pounds per person on the average. According to the popcorn king, Midwesterners consume the most popcorn of all, with Minneapolis St. Paul being the popcorn consuming capital of the world. Twin Cities' residents enjoy more than four pounds of the fluffy stuff a year per capita.

Think Of Children When It's Fire

A fire breaks out in your house. Smoke billows, flames leap. Have you taught your children what to do, where to go, which exit to use? If not, their chances of being seriously or fatally burned are greatly increased.

The best way to keep a fire from becoming a tragedy is to hold regular family fire drills where emergency tactics and various escape routes are discussed and practiced.

The first course of action when a fire starts is for the entire house to be vacated as fast as possible. Too often people underestimate the potential of a small fire. Even if you just smell smoke, get out. Then report the fire.

Parents must make sure children can open all doors, windows and screens to main and alternate escape routes. In addition, children should know the location of the nearest fire box and how to use it.

If trapped, stay close to the floor where there is less smoke and the air is less toxic.

A flashlight in every room can be an invaluable aid to escape at night.

Poppin Good Chocolate Clusters

When was the last time you snacked on something really different? Not bottled, boxed, wrapped, these Poppin' Good Chocolate Clusters are fresh from the oven, made with gourmet popping corn and a melting pot of flavors.

As the undisputed expert on gourmet popping corn, Orville Redenbacher has some very definite ideas about fixing up popcorn treats. These chocolate clusters are one of his very own specialties.

Follow his recipe and blend the delicious flavors of nuts, golden raisins, caramel, granola and gourmet popping corn into Poppin' Good Chocolate Clusters the next time you get the urge for something different and these chocolate treats will keep for a week in a tightly sealed container - just in case they're all not eaten right away.

Poppin Good Chocolate Clusters

2 tablespoon milk
1 tablespoon butter
24 chocolate caramels
8 vanilla caramels
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup dry roasted cashew nuts, chopped coarsely
1 quart of popped popping corn
1 cup Granola
½ cup raisins

Combine milk, butter, chocolate and vanilla caramels, and salt in top part of double boiler. Melt over hot water, stirring until smooth and creamy. In large bowl, combine gourmet popped corn, granola, raisins, and nuts. Add melted chocolate mixture; stir to mix thoroughly. Drop by teaspoonfuls on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake at 200 degrees for 15 minutes. Allow to cool completely before removing from pan. Makes approximately 4½ dozen clusters.

Sixty Three Years Girl Scouts Founded

Sixty Three years ago on March 12, 1912 Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. was founded in Savannah, Georgia. From that small group of 18 girls has grown the largest volunteer organization for girls in the free world. Today there are more than 3.3 million adult and girl members throughout our country. Over the years, millions of girls have benefited from the fine Girl Scout Program and the varied opportunities available.

The main sources of income for most councils is a Community Chest Allocation, Cookie Sale Proceeds and additional financial support from friends of Scouting. Sustaining Membership Enrollment is a campaign sponsored by the Licking Valley Girl Scout Council, Inc. to elicit support from parents of Girl Scouts and from other friends of Scouting. Both the backing and financial assistance of these persons are needed in order to maintain Girl Scouting and to offer the program to more girls in the Northern Kentucky area. In order to carry out the program, volunteers spend many hours of service. A financial contribution from others is their way of helping the girls and their communities.

Mr. Ted Richardson of Taylor Mill is chairman of the S.M.E. campaign and the president of two companies, Purestream Industries and Cardinal Engineers, Mr.

Richardson is also a member of the Board of Greater Cincinnati Airport and of the Board of the 1st National Bank and Trust Company. Most important, he is the father of an enthusiastic Girl Scout and he understands the financial needs of the council.

Mr. Richardson has working with him a group of men who have generously volunteered their time to help make S.M.E. a success in all areas of the council.

Tom Ward Meets With Members

On Wednesday, May 14th, Senator Tom Ward, candidate for Lt. Governor met with members of the press at the Roundtown Motor Inn in Ft. Mitchell and following the press conference, a reception was held for Mr. Ward where, among others, many teachers and friends of education were present. In addition to the expected socializing, Mr. Ward discussed his proposal for funding education which calls for a two cent increase in the coal severance tax and a reform of some assessment procedures used as a basis for that tax. With recent public arousal over the needs of primary and secondary public education, and with financial hardship apparent at all levels both public and private, such a proposal which would not call for additional taxes from private citizens is greeted with enthusiasm. Before leaving, Mr. Ward announced the endorsement of his candidacy by the Kentucky Post and Times Star.

Meet With The Representative

Congressman Gene Snyder's District Field Representative, Jim Evans, will be in the Room 310 of the Federal Building in Covington for most of the day on Wednesday, May 28th, to help residents of the Fourth Congressional District who are having problems with the Federal Government. Those who wish to see Jim should call my Covington District Office at 606-491-0105 for an appointment.

New Directory For 200th Birthday

The cover of the new directory features a salute to the 200th birthday of the United States and the 100th birthday of the telephone. Depicted on both the front and back covers are 32 characters historical, present day, mythical personalities all using a different telephone developed by the Bell System in the last 100 years.

A 96 year old book whose cast of characters has grown from approximately 300 to over one half million will be available to Greater Cincinnatians soon. It's the 1975 edition of the "Cincinnati Area" telephone directory, distribution of which takes place on Tuesday, May 27th. It is expected to take about four weeks to complete delivery of the more than 702,000 white and 445,000 yellow pages directories.

The colorful cover for the 1975 Cincinnati Area directory features a salute to the 200th birthday of the United States and the 100th birthday of the telephone. It's "Happy Birthday, America!" from Cincinnati Bell.

Created by Stanley Meltzoff, noted artist and illustrator, the cover depicts 32 characters figures from American history, images of our family and friends, mythic personalities all talking on the telephone across time, space and the two covers of the phone book. For example, there's Abraham Lincoln talking to Shirley Temple; Marian Anderson calling George Washington; and Alexander Graham Bell speaking to Jackie Robinson. Everyone is using a different phone developed by the Bell System in the last 100 years.

What they are talking about is anybody's guess; but the key to identifying the cover characters and the kind of phones they are using is on the last page of the directory.

Only one white pages directory will be delivered per household this year (distribution to businesses will remain the same.) However, a red, white and blue notice will be inserted in each directory telling customers how to order additional copies. George Heitzman, Cincinnati Bell Directory Manager said, "We're fighting inflation wherever we can. Of course those who need an additional directory need only call the toll free number listed on the insert."

The new Cincinnati Area Directory like last year's will contain every listed telephone number in the company's entire Ohio, Indiana, and Kentucky operating territories and will again be divided into an Ohio Indiana Section and a Northern Kentucky Section.

"Each right hand side of the white pages directory," Heitzman said, "has a designation of either the Ohio-Indiana Section or the Northern Kentucky Section for quick reference. Like last year's directory the Northern Kentucky pages will have a black edge, making them easily and quickly distinguishable when the book is closed."

Separate smaller telephone directories for Greater Hamilton, Clermont County, and Harrison, Ohio, and Gallatin, Grant and Pendleton Counties, Kentucky will continue to be published.

Cincinnati Bell, one of the nation's leaders in the recycling of old telephone directories, suggests that customers have their old directories ready when delivery of the new books are made. It is not economically possible to make a return trip to pick up old books. Disposal of the uncollected directories should be handled in the same method as other periodicals or magazines. Recycling is strongly urged. "Last year Cincinnati Bell recycled more than 1,100 tons of directories," Heitzman said. "We are proud of our 46 year history of recycling old phone books."

Heitzman concluded, "As always, the Cincinnati Area directory is our customers' personal book. Underlining numbers, circling them, or folding pages are just some of the ways of making the books easier and quicker to use for those frequently called numbers."

Dear Friend:

Many Kentucky Democrats will go to the polls May 27th concerned only about the two top slots on the ballot. But, the future of our state depends on every elected office capably filled and properly functioning.

The Commissioner of Agriculture is one of the most important, particularly to our future economy. . . and it has been taken for granted for years. It's been two decades since we've had a farmer in the agriculture post. This is the year - and we have the man, TOM HARRIS. Tom, a farmer and a successful agri-businessman, - has the experience essential to rendering sound service.

The Department of Agriculture touches on virtually each phase of the life of every Kentuckian. The Department's regulatory functions protect you as a consumer of food, fuel and thousands of other items. The Department renders hundreds of services to farmers and consumers as well. It administers the School Lunchroom Program, touching every family. And, it promotes agriculture. It's time it is placed in the hands of a man who has proved his ability to meet problems head on and find solutions - Tom Harris.

I know Tom and am personally interested in his election. I know him to be honest, qualified, and dedicated to agriculture, agri-business and the people of Kentucky.

Tom has been a farmer all his life in Carroll County. He graduated from the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and is the first and only Chairman of the Tobacco Research and Health Board.

A two term State Senator, Tom was Chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee for six years and led the fight to remove the 5% sales tax from farm machinery, seed, livestock feed, fertilizer and several other farm related items. For two years Tom Harris was Secretary of the Department of Natural Resources and was chosen Conservation Man of the Year in 1974 by the Kentucky Association of Conservation Districts.

Tom is a tobacco grower and warehouseman, has grown every kind of crop, and raised both beef and dairy cattle. I would consider it a personal favor, if you will work and vote for him on May 27th. . . and urge your friends to do so.

Let's put a farmer in the Department of Agriculture - Tom Harris.

Thank you for your help.

Sincerely,
Charles Patrick-Dist. No. (1)

BOONE COUNTY
“Circuit Court Clerk”

—AN OPEN LETTER—
To The Residents of Boone County

An open letter to Boone County Democrats:

I decided to run for the office of Boone County Circuit Court Clerk after much discussion with my family and friends and lengthy meditation about the needs of the office and how I could best serve all the people of our county as your Clerk.

I'm in the race now and I want and need your help, your support and your vote.

Under my direction the office of the Circuit Court Clerk will be used solely to serve the people and business of the county and assist in the orderly development of the county, not as personal political base.

As Circuit Court Clerk I will continue to work for improved community services and betterment of our area in this age of rapid growth as I have in the past as a director of the Boone County Jaycees, a director of the Boone County Businessmen's Association, vice-president and treasurer of the Boone County Democratic Club, a member of the Boone County Democratic Executive Committee, and the American Legion.

I now live on North Bend Rd., Hebron, with my wife Annie and sixteen year old son, Max, and I know what our county needs and want to help. Since returning from service in the Air Force I have sold real estate, been an inspector for the Occupation Safety and Health Association, and as deputy property evaluation administrator and dedicated to the progress of Boone County.

Since there is no race for the office slated in the fall, my victory in the May 27 primary will assure you of a new look of service in the clerk's office. So, I ask for your help. I want and need the vote of every farmer, teacher, housewife, union member, businessman, senior citizen, student - everyone in every walk of life. We are all affected by the conduct of the Circuit Clerk's Office.

Be certain you vote May 27th. . .and vote for Ronnie Jones, for Circuit Court Clerk.

*Thank You,
Ronnie M. Jones*

"Learn" About Ky.'s No-Fault

Kentucky Insurance Commissioner Harold B. McGuffey is urging motorists to "learn as much as possible" about the no-fault insurance law that takes effect July 1, 1975 in Kentucky.

The law requires that all motor vehicles in Kentucky be protected by auto liability coverage and by basic no-fault personal injury insurance (unless the latter is rejected by the person insured), said the commissioner.

"This means that when motorists register their vehicles, they must obtain basic auto liability protection," said McGuffey. "Just as they have in the past, they still must have this basic protection in the amount of $10,000 for each person injured in an auto accident; $20,000 for all persons injured in an auto accident, and $5,000 for personal property damage in an accident."

"And, beginning July 1, they must also have $10,000 basic no-fault benefits for each person, unless the person insured decides to reject this coverage."

McGuffey said that beginning July 1 persons injured in traffic accidents who are entitled to no-fault benefits will receive immediate payments of their out of pocket losses up to $10,000. Benefits will be paid by the company insuring the auto in which they are riding regardless of who was to blame for the accident. It will no longer be necessary to await the results of the lengthy investigation to determine liability before payments can be made.

McGuffey continued, "After July 1, 1975, the following no-fault benefits, up to a total of $10,000 per person, will be paid regardless of fault: medical and rehabilitation expenses; up to $200 per week for loss of income, replacement service or benefits for survivors; and $1,000 for funeral and burial expenses."

"If you already have an automobile liability policy it will be automatically changed by your insurance company to include the basic no-fault personal injury coverage," McGuffey noted. To get this coverage your right to sue will be limited in the case of minor injury. If you do not want this lawsuit limitation you have the option to reject the benefits.

"If you decide to reject the lawsuit limitations, your rejection must be in writing on a form which you can obtain from your insurance company, your agent, or the Ky. Department of Insurance," he said.

McGuffey emphasized that a 10 per cent reduction will be reflected in bodily injury liability rates in the first year if all members of the family accept the lawsuit limitations.

The Ky. Insurance Department estimates that about 27 per cent of the licensed drivers in Kentucky are now uninsured. These drivers will be required to purchase the liability coverage and basic no-fault benefits by July 1, 1975.

McGuffey explained that the new no-fault law will change the manner in which the insurance industry compensates people injured in automobile accidents.

"For many years, Kentucky has had what is known as a tort liability auto insurance system," McGuffey said. "This system requires the negligent driver to pay for injuries caused to accident victims who are not negligent."

"Studies have shown that this system developed some real problems over the years. Insurance payments were sometimes delayed until fault could be proven by investigation or a lawsuit. There were instances of injured persons being paid less than they deserved; others being paid more than they deserved.

"Kentucky's new law is designed to solve these problems by doing away with the necessity of proving fault. That's where the system gets the name no-fault."

"It simply means that if you are injured in a traffic accident and are entitled to no-fault benefits, you do not have to wait until a guilty person is identified in order to receive a check from that person's insurance company. Under Kentucky's new no-fault law you will receive prompt payment directly from the company insuring the auto in which you were riding whether you caused the accident or not."

McGuffey also pointed out that the law contains incentives to encourage the insurance companies to make prompt payments. "If payments for a legitimate claim are not made within 30 days the company that did not pay will be subject to penalties of as much as 18 per cent per year interest," he noted.

"It was the fundamental intent of the Ky. legislature, in enacting the no-fault law, to keep the minor automobile accident cases out of court, but also to preserve the people's option to sue in any serious case."

If you are entitled to no-fault coverages, you also can sue when medical and rehabilitation expenses exceed $1,000 or if there has been death, permanent disfigurement, a fracture to a weight-bearing bone, a compound or comminuted or displaced or compressed fracture, loss of a body member, permanent injury within reasonable medical probability or permanent loss of body function.

The Kentucky Insurance Commissioner pointed out that restrictions on lawsuits do not apply to a motorist who has filed the no-fault rejection form, regardless of whether the other party in an automobile accident has accepted the lawsuit limitations or not. "This means that a person who rejects no-fault must prove who was at fault in an accident before he can collect his claim."

McGuffey also explained that Ky. motorists can have no-fault protection without accepting any lawsuit limitations. "You may complete, sign and file the rejection form and purchase, for an additional premium, the no-fault protection from your insurance company."

Damage to Ky. motorists' cars will be handled as it is under the present automobile insurance system according to McGuffey.

"If your car is hit by someone else, you collect under the other driver's property damage liability coverage," he said. "If you hit another car, or damage your car in a single vehicle accident, you collect from your own collision insurance which is a form of no-fault protection."

"Kentucky's no-fault: auto insurance law which goes into effect July 1, 1975 is tailored to help meet the needs of Ky. motorists," he concluded.

Veterans Are Qualifying More

More than 1,200 veterans qualified for Veterans Administration education loans during the first three months of the new program, established by the Vietnam era Veterans Readjustment Act of 1974.

Veterans attending school under the GI Bill who are in need of additional financial assistance to meet education expenses, are eligible to apply for loans up to $600 per academic year. The loans are in addition to the monthly GI Bill stipend.

A principal factor in determining eligibility is the comparison of "actual cost of school attendance" to the student's "total financial resources," a VA spokesman said.

Applicants must be enrolled at least half time and have sought a loan under the guaranteed student loan program of the Higher Education Act of 1965. Courses must be lead to a standard college degree or be at least six months duration and lead to "an identified and predetermined professional or vocational objective."

Repayment of principal and interest is deferred while the student is enrolled at least half time. No interest accrues until repayment is started.

Installment payments start nine months after the student ceases half time enrollment. Interest at the rate of 8 per cent is deferred until that time and full payment is due within 10 years and nine months. There is no penalty for prepayment.

A 3 per cent loan fee is deducted from the face amount of the loan to provide a fund to insure against defaults. Defaults are to be considered overpayments with recovery in the same manner as other debts due the government.

Students may apply through the VA regional office through which they receive educational benefits.

Dangers of False Security

(Jeremiah 7: 4-12; Micah 6: 8-8)

It is said that the late president Theodore Roosevelt, when a colonel in the army, visited the reservation of the Navajo Indians. In conversation with a Christian missionary, the colonel asked, "Do you think if we were to provide these Indians with better living conditions, better housing, clothes, and the like, that you could more easily reach them with the Gospel?" The missionary replied, "Suppose, Colonel, that when the prodigal son was in the far country someone had given him a good home, a new suit of clothes, and a bank account; how soon would he have returned to the father's house?" Colonel Roosevelt pondered a moment and then snappily answered, "Never!" Could it be just a possibility that our new and modern homes, our totally adequate retirement plans, insurance coverages and etc., are keeping us from returning to our heavenly Father?

Deceitful Words

Jeremiah 7: 4-8

The ancient Israelites had deceived themselves into believing they had security in a ritual of words. They regularly attended the Temple services. They probably took great pride in the large crowds in the Temple. They even came to the point in their experience where they were sure that because they attended the temple they were safe and secure. They repeated in ritualistic fashion, "The temple of the Lord, the temple of the Lord." In other words, "This is God's house, no evil can overcome us as long as we came here." Jeremiah disagreed! Unless there was a drastic change in their way of life they would find themselves without a temple at all. No outward rituals or ceremonies can replace our treatment of our fellow man or our attitude toward God. Lying words can only result in self deception. They cannot profit.

Degenerate Ways

Jeremiah 7: 9-12

A in that day, and our inour timen believe they can steal, murder, commit adultery, lie, serve false gods, and then run to the house of worship on Sunday and God overlooks them! How deceived and degenerate can men be? Jesus taught again and again that outward religious observances could never serve to bring God to an evil heart and corrupt ways. Instead of finding security in God's house they had turned it into a den of thieves and robbers. Those who steal, murder, and do evil deeds usually have a place where they can take refuge from the authorities. Those of Jeremiah's day used the temple in somewhat the same way. Do you teach a Sunday School class?

Are you singing in the choir? Are you the minister of a congregation? Why These words are not given to belittle the people of God. But people deceive themselves into believing they are secure in these outward observances. Jeremiah says, "Not so!"

Devoted Worship

Micah 6: 6-8

What then is required of man? What does God want of us? Micah answers such questions. It is not merely in our coming before God. Church attendance is not a substitute for vital worship. The quantity of our offerings will not suffice. Tithing is taught in God's word, but it is not to replace devoted worship. Not even the best we have to offer is sufficient. God wants us not ours! God had revealed to the prophet Micah that what He required was that man "do justly", "love mercy," and "walk humbly with thy God." This is what is good in the sight of God and that's what counts in the matter of security which lasts for all eternity!

Mrs. Rufus Tanner Given Memorial Service

MOUNTAIN MOMENTS

Surprise Birthday Party

Have you ever given anyone a surprise birthday party? Let me tell you about one we gave for my mother once. The surprise was really on us, but as it turned out Mom enjoyed it, too.

Geardine and Emileatia, and I decided it would be fun to get our families together and really throw a big surprise party for Mom - who never wanted us to fuss over her. In fact, if she knew we were planning anything for her, she would discourage it.

But - we planned the surprise this way . . .

I was to order a cake and bring it to Mom's just a few minutes before the party. Geardine was to bring some soft drinks, and Emileatia was to come by the house and take Mom out about thirty minutes earlier.

Any everything worked to precision. Emileatia was on time for the first time in her life and took Mom on an errand. My wife, Joyce, went to Mom's and decorated the table, and Geardine brought the drinks. Everyone walked so no cars would be seen. The gifts were placed on the table, and we just waited . . .

Dad was posted to open the door when Mom and Emileatia reached it and the rest of us were to begin singing, "Happy Birthday!"

The lights in the house were turned off so we could see Emileatia's car lights when she approached the house. As soon as I saw the headlights, I quickly lit the candles on the cake.

The car door slammed and footsteps approached the door. Quickly Dad flung it open, and we immediately began singing - at the top of our voices!

I think I got two words out when I realized that standing there in the doorway was a complete stranger.

All the color had drained out of Dad's face and he stood with his mouth open and his hand frozen to the doorknob.

When we saw that we were singing to a strange woman, the comedy of the whole situation grabbed us, and we burst into hysterical laughter!

The woman was saying something, but no one was listening to her - and Dad looked like he was about to pass out. Finally, the lady simply shook her head and walked away. I have often wondered since that night what she thought and I only hope if I ever see her again, she doesn't recognize me!

plain as the nose on your face

That's the way Grandma described things that were absolutely clear.

Religion was one of these!

Of course, she knew that theologians debate certain subjects. She sometimes lamented the fact there were so many denominations - which in her day weren't cooperating as they are now. And Granny was fully aware that a few individuals claim to be atheists or agnostics.

But the idea that God created us . . . loves us . . . seeks us . . . saves us. To Granny that was plain as the nose on your face.

As Granny often added: Even a child knows that! Every Sunday millions of them are proving her right.

STANDING ON A BARRIER of land left around an active mine to prevent dirt and water from escaping over the mountainside, officials of the division of reclamation in the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection inspect the site of the only mining operation in Kentucky using the block cut method mountaintop removal. According to state officials, block cut mining has wiped out acid drainage, silt and landslides—typical plagues of strip mines—at the West Coal Co. site five miles east of London.

Perk Up Your Picnic with Nougat Bars

"A loaf of bread, a jug of wine and thou" may have been all the makings of a good picnic in Omar Khayyam's day. But, you'll want to fill your picnic basket with more hearty fare if planning to feed an active family.
Perk up the traditional fried chicken and potato salad family picnic lunch by serving Peanut Butter Nougat Bars for dessert. Quick-to-ix and easy-to-take-along, these sweet pleasures combine the crunch of gourmet popping corn and granola with the smooth texture of chocolate, peanut butter and butterscotch.
Personal favorites of Popcorn King Orville Redenbacher, these Peanut Butter Nougat Bars are so convenient and delicious that if they were known in Khayyam's day, the poet himself might have preferred them!

FEARLESS FORECAST

By: R.W. Lancaster

Thursday, May 22, 1975

The moon increasing in the fruitful water sign, Scorpio after 2 p.m. today, so if you want bountiful crops plant your melons, squash, corn, tomatoes and any other above the ground crops. Also a good time to sow grain hay and fodder. The fishing should be good this afternoon, and tomorrow—and Saturday until dark.

Friday, May 23rd

The Moon stays in Scorpio until 5:18 p.m. tomorrow, so you can finish your planting today and tomorrow and if you want to do some budding, grafting or transplanting this is an excellent time to get the job done and the plants will have a good top growth. If we are having a dry spell the water signs are a good time to irrigate or water plants and crops as they have the tendency to absorb and retain moisture during this Moon cycle.

Saturday, May 24th

If you want your hair to grow back fast and thicken up a bit get it cut today and then give the scalp a good massage. If your hair is already too thick and you want to slow the growth get it cut next Thursday or Friday. If you have been planning on weaning an infant make preparations over the weekend and then start Monday, it may be easier than you thought.

Sunday, May 25th

The full moon today could make us do a lot of thinking so we should channel our thoughts as suggested by Bishop Porteus. (What we are afraid to do before men, we should be afraid to think before God. Bad thoughts are worse enemies than lions and tigers; for we can keep out of the way of wild beasts, but bad thoughts win their way everywhere. The cup that is full will hold no more; keep your hearts full of good thoughts, that bad thoughts may find no room to enter. Every one must see and feel, that bad thoughts quickly ripen into bad actions; and that if the latter only are forbidden, and the former left free, all morality will soon be at an end.)

Monday, May 26th

Some old fishermen claim that the fish get hungry the day after a full moon, so it might be worth a try, the water temperature should be just right this time of year and if the winds are from the south or west with a slight ripple you are bound to have luck. The moon goes in to the cardinal earth sign, Capricorn late tonight so save your planting for tomorrow.

Tuesday, May 27th

Today and tomorrow is the time to plant your root crops, potatoes, beets, carrots, onions, and anything else you can think of that matures under the ground and if you can't get them planted these two days, June 1st and June 2nd will be just as good maybe a little better, one thing to remember the fishing is poor right now and will be excellent next Sunday and Monday.

Wednesday, May 28th

The moon in a cardinal sign is the time to do home baking and will turn out nice even for amateurs, try it and give yourself a surprise. If you want to make some preserves or jellies wait until tomorrow when the moon moves in to a fixed sign and you will have better luck. If you have been bothered with corns or callouses start treatment Tuesday or Friday or even Saturday of this week and you feet should feel good all summer.

County Agent's 1/2 Acre

By: Joe Claxton

In 1972-73, surpluses disappeared on the heels of world wide weather disasters and increased foreign commercial demand for American products. By 1974, when famine again hit several nations in Asia and Africa, the U.S. faced demands it could not meet, driving food prices higher and higher in the grocery stores. Government controls on production were removed in 1973 and 1974 but bad weather in 1974 drove crop production down. Given halfway decent growing weather, however, there is every reason to believe that the shortages will be only temporary.

Such belief, and optimism over agriculture's ability to produce, is grounded in historical fact. U.S. Farm output has increased by a fourth since 1960, by a half since 1950. And it's doubled since the 1930's and nearly tripled since the start of the 20th century. The roots of this almost constantly increasing production go back to the American Revolution. Among the causes of the Revolution were British controls over trade in colonial farm products and restrictions on expansion to new farmlands in the West. The land question was tackled by the new Nation soon after it won its independence and before it adopted the Constitution. The Ordinance of 1785 provided for surveying the West into townships, each containing 36 sections of 1 square mile, and then offering them at auction. One section in each township was reserved for public schools.

The Ordinance of 1787, one of the most important laws ever passed in the U.S., provided for dividing the old Northwest into territories that would become States on equal terms with the original States when population reached a certain level. Settlers were protected by a bill of rights and slavery was prohibited. The genius of the ordinance lay in preventing what could have become a "colonial" problem by providing for the equality of new States.

Search Stills Goes For Boone Men

The Boone County Water Rescue Team and Kentucky water enforcement officers were scheduled to resume their search of the Ohio River today for two Boone Countians, missing since Sunday morning and presumed drowned.

Authorities have refused to release the identities of the men until the bodies have found.

The victims, a younger man and his father in law, had just left the Aurora Ferry landing near Petersburg when nearby residents heard a crash and several calls for help.

Employees of a nearby boat dock rushed to the scene, but found only the capsized boat and a hat floating in the water. The men's auto and boat trailer were found at the ferry landing.

Celebrate Salad Days

During this season's salad days, put all your ingredients in one bowl to create a salad that's great for meals on the go. The two salads featured were developed in the Kraft Kitchens with outdoor excursions in mind.

Vegetable Patch Salad is a tangy combination of macaroni and cheese dinner and crisp vegetables blended together with spicy Miracle Whip salad dressing. For a family outing, mix the salad in advance so the ingredients are well chilled and the flavors have a chance to blend. Pack in an insulated container, or carry to the picnic in a cooler.
Tote 'n' Toss Salad is a mixture of crisp greens sparked with cucumber slices and cherry tomato halves. The unique flavor of this combination salad depends on the use of a tangy Italian, French, or Blue Cheese dressing. Carry ingredients to the picnic site in a tightly sealed plastic bag, tossing with dressing just before serving. For convenience, dressing may be added to greens and tossed right in the plastic bag.
Both salads are delicious with barbecued chicken, ribs or hamburgers as well as other sandwiches. For dessert, bring along a basket of fresh fruit and some homemade cookies. You'll have a meal which is perfect picnic fare - nutritionally balanced, delicious and easy to tote.

Rainy Day Fish Fry Southern Style

What do you do on a rainy day when the family's spirits match the weather, and you've already played nine games of Monopoly? Well, if you've a taste for Southern tradition, you just might have a fish fry in spite of the situation.

Almost a way of life in the South, fish fries usually mean a mess of catfish or any finny creature fresh out of the nearest water hole - french fries, hush puppies and cole slaw.

Since visiting a local lake is out of the question on such a wet day, do your fishing in the grocery and pick up a couple dozen fat, juicy shrimp. Cooks at the Holiday Inn fancy up their rainy day fish fry with a beer batter shrimp they claim will lift the lowest spirits. Up in the Ozark town of Harrison, the Holiday Inn has a recipe for crispy homemade hush puppies that the cooks says never misses. Top off the meal with some deep fried potatoes and chilled cole slaw and you may find yourself looking forward to the next rainy day.

Beer Batter Shrimp

2 dozen extra large or jumbo green headless shrimp
1 cup flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon white pepper
3 eggs beaten
1 can beer

To prepare shrimp, peel to last ring of tail. Using small paring knife, split shrimp lengthwise about halfway through. Sift salt and pepper with flour and stir into beaten eggs. Slowly add beer, stirring to prevent lumping, and batter should be consistency of thin pancake batter. If more flour is needed, add 1 tablespoon at a time.
Holding each shrimp by tail, dip into batter and fry in deep, hot fat until golden brown.

Hush Puppies

2 cups white corn meal
1 cup all purpose flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
1 tablespoon salt
2 teaspoons garlic salt
2 eggs, beaten
1 1/2 cups buttermilk
1/4 cup onion chopped
1/4 cup oil or fat, melted

Sift dry ingredients together. Combine eggs, buttermilk, onion and fat. Add to dry ingredients and stir until blended and drop by tablespoons into deep hot fat, for 3 or 4 minutes. Drain on absorbent paper. Dipping the spoon into the hot fat each time will help to prevent the next hush puppies from sticking to the spoon.

Dough may also be formed into balls and frozen for future use. Before freezing put in fat until hush puppy just begins to brown and after freezing thaw almost completely before dipping into the fat.

How About Some Kitchen Lifesavers

When you run out of food or cooking ingredients in the midst of meal preparation, never fear. Try these handy kitchen lifesavers.

If a recipe calls for canned or cooked green peas or beans and you don't have any on hand, substitute some other fibrous vegetables - cooked carrots, corn, lima beans, or strips of green pepper. Stay away from turnip or parsnips which tend to be too strong in flavor and squash might be too watery.

Keep a large supply of Scotties luncheon napkins and dinner napkins around for mealtimes as elegant substitutes for the cloth variety. Plus, you won't have to throw them in the laundry.

If you are right in the middle of baking dessert and discover you're out of vanilla extract, substitute a 1/4 teaspoon of nutmeg in place of one teaspoon of vanilla. Or, flavor the recipe with grated lemon or orange rind, plus a little lemon juice.

If you don't own a garlic press, you can pulverize garlic for recipes by placing a garlic bud between two layers of Cut Rite wax paper. Hit the garlic with a hammer or heavy soup spoon and the wax paper keeps the garlic juice contained and your counter top clean.

Buy some of those dried onion, green pepper, parsley and celery flakes and store them in your cupboard for the times you run out of the fresh kind.

If a recipe calls for one stalk of celery or one medium onion or green pepper, you can substitute two tablespoons of flakes.

Make "emergency" meals ahead. Next time you're preparing a large dish, such as chili or rigatoni, increase the recipe to make an extra big batch. Then, freeze what's left over. This will come in handy to serve when the neighborhood kids stay for dinner.

Bourbon Iron Furnace
Bath County

The Bourbon Iron Furnace was the first charcoal iron furnace west of the Alleghenies, and was operated by the first-known company to use coal commercially as a source of energy.

The ancient stack stands on the banks of Slate Creek, 2.6 miles south of Owingsville on the Preston-Owingsville Pike (Ky-36).

Jacob Myers, John Cockey Owings, Christopher Greenup (later governor), Walter Beall and Willis Green purchased a large tract in what is now Bath County, and formed a company to smelt ore found locally. Bourbon Iron Furnace went into its initial blast during the late summer of 1791, the iron ore coming from the Howard Hill and Block House banks, two miles from the furnace.

Its blast machinery was driven by waterpower from Slate Creek, which was often insufficient to keep the furnace working regularly.

The production of this primitive furnace was about three tons a day when in full blast, using nearly three tons of ore to make one ton of finished iron. Ten-gallon iron kettles, plowshares, anvils, cooking utensils, heating stoves, castings, pig iron, bar iron and implements needed for the pioneers' use were produced here.

During the War of 1812, a shipment of cannonballs, canister and grapeshot from this furnace was floated down the Mississippi River and used by General Jackson in the Battle of New Orleans.

Col. Thomas Deye Owings, in January 1810, acquired a controlling interest in the Bourbon Furnace, or Slate Creek Iron Works, and ran it until 1822, when he failed financially. Kentucky's oldest iron furnace was subsequently purchased by Robert "Old Duke" Wickliffe of Lexington, who operated it until it went out of blast in August 1838, after running 47 years.

A candidate for his doctorate at the University of Cincinnati, Roebker works as a consultant with Northern Kentucky companies to help solve problems costing both the company and the worker untold thousands.

"An average plant in Northern Kentucky," he explains, "has 250 workers with an average income of $9000. Thus, they can see the value of contracting with a professional consulting service to reduce the related costs."

Senator Dee Huddleston

REPORTS TO THE PEOPLE OF KENTUCKY

The Senate Appropriations Committee has approved legislation providing for additional public service jobs and acceleration of public works projects in Kentucky and elsewhere, according to Senator Walter Dee Huddleston.

Huddleston, who is a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, said the bill which must go now to the Senate floor and then to a Senate House Conference Committee includes the following provisions:

*A speed up of projects and programs already approved that are ready or almost ready for initiation.

*Additional funds for water and sewer construction and increased forest protection.

*Funds for repair of rail beds and lines which in many areas are badly deteriorated.

"In other words, under this bill we are investing in projects which will return identifiable benefits to the country while at the same time providing additional employment," Huddleston said.

TERROR

BY
M. GENE SNYDER
U.S. CONGRESSMAN
4th District, Kentucky

Terror assumes many forms. Essentially, it is the use of intimidation to inspire fear ranging from mild apprehension to extreme fright, depending on the purposes of the terrorists. The seizure by Cambodian Communists of the American freighter is a relatively mild intimidation, directly testing our country's moral fibre and will. The liquidation of South Vietnamese anti-Communist leaders by Viet Cong and North Vietnamese Communists, is to terrorize completely the rest of the population, and bring about their total submission. Executions by triumphant Communists in Cambodia serve the same purpose. Both the testing and the merciless slayings suit Moscow's purposes as the fountainhead of the World Communist Movement. We must not be blind to the Soviet Union's total commitment to the use of terror as a standard tactic in conquest and control of peoples.

Leonid I. Brezhnev, General Secretary of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, hailed Fidel Castro in Moscow on June 27, 1972:

"V.I. Lenin, the founder of our party and the great leader of the world proletariat, pointed more than once to the complexity of revolutionary work which begins after the transfer of power to the working class and its allies. It takes hard day to day work and concentration of all moral and physical strength of the people to reform radically social relations and mould a new man. (emphasis mine) These challenging tasks have to be tackled while fighting strenuously against a strong class enemy, and, in your case, in close proximity to the biggest imperialist power." (He was speaking of the U.S.A. of course).

One of the tasks Brezhnev referred to was the need to follow Lenin's decree to utilize legally declared, official terror "to reform radically social relations and mould a new man."

On May 17, 1922, Lenin wrote to Comrade Kurysh, his Commissar for Justice, the following letter regarding the drafting of a new criminal code for the Russia he was transforming into a socialist state:

"Adding to our discussion, I'm enclosing an outline of a supplementary paragraph to the criminal code. It is a draft which of course, requires changing and polishing. I hope however, that the basic idea is clear, irrespective of the rough draft's defects: to lay down openly our position, based on principles and politically frank (and not just juridically narrow), which motivates the essence and justification of terror, its inevitability, and its limits. (Lenin's emphasis)

"The court must not eliminate terror; to promise this would be self deception or deception. The court must substantiate and legalize terror on principle, clearly, without falsehoods, and in its true colors. The formulation must be the broadest possible, since it is the revolutionary legal consciousness and revolutionary conscience alone which will set the conditions, more or less broad, for the application of terror in practice. With Communist greetings." (V.I. Lenin on state and law. Vol. II, State Publishing House of Juridical Literature, Moscow, 1958, P. 718)

Lenin's idea is clear! Wake up Americans! Use of terror is a way of life for the Communists!

... about your Social Security

Almost 50,000 blind or severely disabled children of parents with little or no income and limited resources are getting almost $4.7 million a month in federal supplemental security income payments, according to John Walter, Social Security District Manager in Covington, Kentucky. The Supplemental Security Income Program makes monthly payments to people in financial need who are blind or disabled or 65 and over. "Depending on the parents' income and resources, payments can be made to blind or disabled children until they're 18 or until 21 if they're in school, Walter said.

The average federal supplemental security income payment to blind or disabled children is $95 a month.

Starting at 18, or at 21 if they're in school, blind or disabled people may be eligible for supplemental security income payments regardless of their parents' income and resources.

"People can get information about applying for supplemental security income payments by calling or writing any social security office.

The Social Security Administration is an agency of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

Kitchen Almanac

We know she's not old enough to remember first hand, but Mrs. Judy Zuhlke of Minneapolis informs us that a cookbook dating back to the turn of the century detailed preparation of "Fotted Birds" 1/2 dozen birds or pigeons - for dinner. (We can't help wondering if this wasn't just another "fly-by-night" dish???)

To get the maximum number of slices from every pound of meat (with no crumbs), cook the meat at a low temperature. A roast crumbles only when cooked at too high a temperature.

How To Buy Cantaloupe: The expert say look for a smooth, rounded, depressed "scar" at the stem end. This indicates the melon was picked at full maturity and separated easily from the stem. Avoid bruised or damaged fruit.

When was the last time you made popcorn at home? Fresh popcorn makes a great TV snack... If you're a calorie watcher, one easy way to cut down on calories is to simply trim visible fat from meat - before preparing it.

How Does It Work?

The Trash Compactor: We went to researchers at KitchenAid appliances - one of the country's leading producers of compactors - for the answer.

They say this modern marvel, called the first really new kitchen appliance in more than 30 years, works very much like an old fashioned "Foot Stomper". A ram is driven downward with a force of up to 3,000 pounds, and refuse is compacted to about one fourth its original size.

The researchers stress the built in safety of compactors. A key must be turned to the "on" position and the unit completely closed, before it will operate.

Use a preheated griddle for evenly browned pancakes. The griddle is the correct temperature for baking when (1) a few drops of water sprinkled on the surface "dance and hop around violently" before evaporation, or (2) when the temperature is 390 - 400 degrees.

Top pancakes with heated maple syrup and chopped nuts OR raisins OR coconut... To remove chewing gum from fingers or skin, try rubbing the gum with peanut butter.

Real Estate VS. Dow Jones

When talking about fortunes made in investments - the mind normally equates with the stock market. However, when we compare the results over the past decade between stock market profits and real estate increases, we'll see quite a dramatic difference in dollars.

In the decade from January, 1964 to January, 1974, the Dow Jones Industrial average jumped from 688 to 800 - an increase of 16% in ten years.

Gardening Tips from Extension Specialists at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture

Few things out of the garden taste better than a kettle of slowly cooked well seasoned white half runners or some other variety of green snap beans. Served up with boiled corn, sliced tomatoes or cucumbers, and wedges of good thick cornbread, the taste approaches the sublime.

The beauty of the green bean is that it can be grown just about anywhere - in rows in the garden, on a trellis in a flower bed, on a string tied to the post of a sunny porch, or along a yard fence. It is, however, subject to blights, various diseases, and the ravages of the Mexican bean beetle, but most of these problems can be controlled with fungicides and insecticides.

The snap bean comes in two types - bush and pole. The bush type requires less space and readies itself for the pot in a few days sooner than the pole bean - usually in from 50 to 60 days from time of planting. The pole bean that requires some form of support upon which to grow, requires about 65 days from seedtime to harvest and will usually bear over a longer period of time. Some gardeners lessen the work involved in securing and erecting supports by planting pole beans in their form patches and letting them vine up the stalks.

Since bean roots grow close to the surface of the ground, it is recommended - clean, shallow cultivation. Deep cultivation is likely to cause injury by destroying the roots near the surface. Actually, as tests have shown, were it not for the necessity for weed control, bean cultivation would not be required at all. The test showed that other than keeping the weeds from taking over and smothering out the beans, little other benefits resulted.

Bush snap beans require moderately fertile soil and should be planted in rows 24 to 30 inches apart. Seed should be spaced 2 inches apart in the row and planted from 1 to 1½ inches deep. Pole beans should be planted in rows 48 to 60 inches apart and in hills about 36 inches apart.

As the spores of the fungus causing rust and possibly other diseases are easily carried from sick to healthy plants at such times, cultivation should never be attempted when bean vines are wet.

How The Bible Came To Be

(Exodus 24:3-8; Jeremiah 36:1-4; Revelation 1:10-11)

Marion McHull said these words concerning the Bible: "The Bible is composed of sixty six books, attributed to more than forty writers who lived over a period of about fifteen hundred years. They were men of varied interests, education, training, lands . . . yet when these men write they all speak of one theme, of one person, and none of their statements are contradictory. There may be apparent contradictions, but they are only apparent. Further study always reveals them as perfectly harmonious.

Could you get forty physicians covering a period of fifteen hundred years to write on any medical topic and find leather strong enough to bind the book? Or forty Lawyers? Or forty engineers? Or forty geologists? Or forty farmers? Then what is the explanation here? God! God the Holy Spirit, breathed through Moses and Joshua and Samuel and David and John and Paul."

God's word came to man in the idea of a covenant.

Covenant, Exodus 24:3-8

God spoke to Moses at Sinai. Moses related all of the words of God to the people. The people made a favorable response. They agreed to do all of the things spoken by God to them through Moses. In other words a covenant was made between God and His people whom He had redeemed out of the land of Egypt. An altar was built which symbolized God's presence with His people. Twelve pillars were erected symbolical of the twelve tribes of Israel. Burnt offerings and peace offerings were made unto God.

Comprehensive Care Has Anniversary

Northern Kentucky Comprehensive Care will mark its ninth annual anniversary with a business meeting, dinner and election on June 9th at the Boone Aire Country Club near Burlington. Notices have been sent to the members of the Mental Health Mental Retardation Regional Board and friends.

There will be a social hour beginning at 6:30 p.m. with dinner at 8:30 p.m. The business meeting follows.

Comprehensive Care covers eight Northern Kentucky Counties, Kenton, Campbell, Boone, Pendleton, Grant, Owen, Gallatin, and Carroll.

Blood was sprinkled on the altar and on the people. The covenant was between God and the people. The altar again representing God's part and the people the other party to the covenant relationship.

Thus we have before us the first references to the writings of a part of the Old Testament. The words of the Lord are written down for man.

How did the Bible come to be? One sees in this next passage that God's concern played a significant part in the written word.

Concern, Jeremiah 36:1-4

The word of the Lord came to Jeremiah. Jeremiah was unable to relate God's word to the king and the people so he dictated the words of Baruch. Baruch wrote down the words on a scroll as Jeremiah spoke them. They were words from God to Israel in the hope that the people would make the proper response and be delivered from their sins. Verse 3 says, "It may be that the house of Judah will hear all the evil which I purpose to do unto them; that they may return every man from his evil way; that I may forgive their iniquity and their sin."

How needed is such a message in our own day. How men need to hear God's word. There is a suggestion from this passage that every man should turn from his evil way. We hear a lot about the need for our leaders to turn but what about the 'every man' of God's word? Every man can make a significant contribution to his country, his community, his church today. The greatest contribution any man can make is a genuine Christian life. How sorely American needs such lives today.

How the Bible came to be? The final answer to this is that the theme of the Bible needed to be presented to man. That theme is a person Jesus Christ.

Christ Revelation 1:10-11

The apostle John was in the Spirit on the Lord's Day and heard the voice of Christ. That voice revealed to John that Christ was in the Alpha and the Omega, the first and the last. Alpha is the first letter in the Greek alphabet. Omega is the last word in the Greek alphabet. Christ is the first and the last. He's also all that is in between! The Bible came to us to reveal Christ who in turn reveals the Father.

MOUNTAIN MOMENTS

by K. Maynard Head

Driving Nails!

For as far back as I can remember, my father, who was called Dock by everyone who knew him, always did things around the house. He never called a plumber when the sink stopped up and he unplugged it himself!

Dad had a lot of tools and he was always adding to his assortment. We dug out a space under the house to make a workshop and all the tools had places and Dad expected them to be there when needed.

On his days off, he always "pattered" and Mom always "fussed". Mom could never understand why Dad had to do all the things he undertook. From tightening a screw in a cabinet to reroofing the house, Dad was constantly busy.

But you know what stands out in my mind about it all? I was always amazed at how well Dad could drive a nail!

Have you ever watched a good carpenter drive a nail? There is an art to it - and when it is done properly, driving a nail can be very beautiful. It is art in motion.

Dad could take a nail (I wish I could tell you more about the size here, but I must confess that I'm lost when it comes to sizing them) and drive it through two 2x4's with only five licks. And it seemed as if he could go on forever. Five licks to the nail and the job was done.

This week I built a picnic table. Joyce and the boys helped me and, of course, they all wanted to drive some nails. David did all right for a 13 year old and I suppose Mike was about average for his age. But Joyce! Now that's another matter.

Most women I know just can't drive nails. Some of you may know girls who can, but Joyce is not among them.

I counted how many blows it took for her to drive one of the nails. Eleven. And then she bent it.

Well, I got the picnic table built and it looks pretty good I have to say, but I learned something during the project my wife can't drive a nail.

A good umbrella keeps you dry—unless the wind starts blowing. In this case, you are bound to get soaking wet!

There is really no such thing as total protection; neither in an umbrella nor in living through just one day. There are all sorts of windstorms, and they sweep into our lives and upset the best made plans. When this happens there is no such thing as finding an umbrella under which to hide.

Since life is so complicated, each of us has to learn to face it in his own way. Those with a strong and unshakable faith are the lucky ones. They have gained a sense of proportion and basic values through their church. And they didn't just "get" faith! They had to start looking for it. YOU do, too. And where? In church, of course!

TOTAL PROTECTION

Make Summer More Safer

In order to make the summer months ahead safer and more enjoyable for participants in water sports, certain important rules for safety in the water should be followed according to the Red Cross. Some of the rules are:

Swim a safe place. The presence of life guards usually indicates that the area is safe for swimming. Stay away from the vicinity of a diving board.

Before Diving, check the water for sufficient depth and for the absence of rocks and other hidden objects. In pools, look for depth markings before diving.

If you have not been swimming since last summer, take it easy at first. Know your limitations and stay within them.

Wait at least an hour after eating before swimming, and do not swim when overtired or overheated.

Make certain the reaching poles, bouys, and similar rescue equipment are immediately available in your swimming pool area.

Don't depend on an inflated inner tube or flotation to hold you up. It may slip from under you.

When ever a storm approaches, get out of the water. It is a conductor of electricity, and a lightning strike near you could be fatal. Head for shelter immediately, but not for shelter under a tree. These also are conductors of lightning.

The importance of these safety rules and many others will be stressed at a Kentucky Division Water Safety School to be held on June 6th and the 14th at Camp Cedar Ridge in Jeffersonton, Kentucky. At the same time the Red Cross will offer training in advanced lifesaving, swimming, and first aid.

Participants must be 15 years or older, be certified by a physician to be in sound physical condition, hold a senior lifesaving certificate, or be an excellent swimmer. An all inclusive fee of $65 covers board, lodging and insurance for the length of the school.

FEARLESS FORECAST

By: R.W. Lancaster
Thursday, May 29, 1975

The moon goes in to the fixed air sign Aquarius at 8 a.m. this morning and stays there until Saturday evening so the next few days will be a good time to spray and cultivate your garden and flower beds. And save the planting until next Monday when the waning moon goes in to a water sign. This is also a good time to set fence posts, lay foundations and do concrete work in general.

Friday, May 30th

If you have any pets or children that need weaning today or tomorrow would be a good time to get started and you will have the job done before the new moon, also a good time to go on a diet or break any bad habits such as smoking, tipping or eating too many sweets all of which seem to be enjoyable but not too healthy.

Not Responsible For Accidents

Saturday, May 31st

If you don't like to go to the barber too often get your hair cut any time today and it will look nice and be slow growing back, also a good time to have your corns and callouses removed and if you can go barefoot occasionally your feet will be healthier and you will probably be happier. The fish will start biting this evening and the indications are that the fishing will remain good until Tuesday morning, Monday will be an exceptionally good fishing day.

Sunday, June 1st

On this day in 1792 in Kentucky was admitted to the union as the fifteenth state of the Union, looking back in the history of the past 183 years the citizens of the great Commonwealth of Kentucky have much to be proud of. Two presidents, Zachary Taylor and Abraham Lincoln for the North plus Jefferson Davis, President of the Southern Confederacy and let's not forget Alben Barkley the 35th Vice President of the U.S. and the nation's greatest statesman and orator Henry Clay who started his law practice in Lexington in 1797 at the age of 20, politicians and planters, poets and writers, Indian Fighters and nurses and great women, like Dr. Mary Breckinridge founder of the Frontier Nursing Service the list is endless. Yes we have much to be proud of.

Monday, June 2nd

The moon in the third quarter in the water sign Pisces is a good time to plant any root crops and planting bulbs for seed will give you a bumper crop, we should be having rain but if not this would be a good time to give your flowers and vegetables a good watering. The fish will be biting until early tomorrow morning and this is a safe day for traveling, so enjoy yourself.

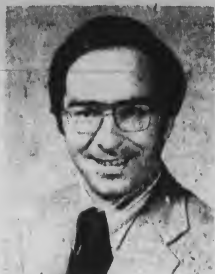

Tuesday, June 3rd

The moon went in to the cardinal fire sign Aries at 7:24 this morning so this is a good day for home baking if you want the best, bakesome extra and put in the freezer it will keep for months, any fruit or vegetables harvested now will keep well and this is also an excellent sign for dehydration and drying.

Wednesday, June 4th

The moon conjunct Mars early this morning could make driving hazardous so why not use that extra spurt of energy doing some house cleaning and then plan on entertaining at home this evening, the pleasant vibrations due us from Jupiter this evening will make our community a pleasant place to be, serve some of those goodies you baked yesterday and make a lasting impression on your guests.

Coming to the building in mid September is a new UHF radio system costing 275,000 dollars. It is being financed with the help of Crime Council Grants. With this radio and a 200 foot radio tower, the police can dispatch local police with the exceptions of Covington and Erlanger and fire departments except in Covington, Ludlow, Erlanger, Fort Mitchell, Fort Wright and Erlanger. The police will also be able to communicate with Boone County and Campbell County.

Caramel Corn Brittle

2 qts. popped corn
1/2 cup dry roasted peanuts
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup corn syrup
1/2 cup water
2 Tables. molasses
2 Tables. butter
1 Teas. vinegar
1 Teas. baking soda

Combine Popcorn and nuts in a buttered 9 x 13 x 2 inch pan. In a separate heavy sauce pan, combine sugar, corn syrup, water, molasses, butter, and vinegar. Stir mixture while heating until sugar is dissolved. Then cook over a medium heat, without stirring, until mixture reaches 300 degrees on candy thermometer (Hard Crack when boiling syrup dropped into very cold water from hard threads which upon removal from the water are brittle). Remove from heat. Add baking soda, stirring in quickly only enough to mix. Pour immediately over popcorn and nuts and toss to coat. Turn mixture out on a large buttered surface. With two forks, pull apart into pieces as thin as possible and let cool. Then break into smaller pieces and this makes approximately 2 quarts.

A Special Treat

A jar of homemade jelly or jam has a special place for family meals or as a gift, and by following a few simple directions you can have good results.

First, choose a tested jam, jelly, or preserve or marmalade recipe. Readily available sources are circulars from the Extension Office, current home canning booklets and directions from pectin packages. Fruits have varying amounts of natural sugar, acid and pectin, and it is these three ingredients that must be in proper balance to get a jelly.

Another precaution is to measure very accurately. Fruits, if whole, can be slightly rounded but if the recipe calls for crushed fruit, this will be a level measure.

For a good product, make only one recipe at a time. If you double or triple the recipe, it will take longer to reach the necessary cooking temperature and alter the results.

Substitutions of ingredients cannot be made. Powdered and liquid pectin are not interchangeable. Therefore, use the form called for in the recipe and substituting a fruit other than the one called for in the recipe can alter results too.

Current recommendations from U.S.D.A. are for heat processing all jellies, jams, preserves, butters, and marmalades in a boiling water bath. This is to kill molds and other micro organisms that contaminate the produce while filling jars. Exceptions are if you use a proper paraffin seal.

To capture the goodness of the season's strawberries, try this recipe for the U.K. Circular:

Strawberries Preserves

1 1/2 qt. Prepared Berries
3 c. sugar

Mix sugar and berries in a sauce pan without crushing. Place sauce pan on the stove and heat slowly until the sugar is dissolved and the juice is extracted from the berries. Cook rapidly 8 to 10 minutes. Remove from stove and cover until preserves are cool, then pour into shallow pans and let stand overnight. Boil the syrup until thick, pour over berries, and pack preserves in hot, sterilized jars. Partially seal and process in a water bath 212 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes. Completely seal, and store in a cool dry place.

Canning & Freezing Tips

From Nancy Norman

Strawberries directly from the patch are without a doubt one of the first pleasures for the garden. To capture the delightfulness of strawberries freeze some for use next winter.

Strawberries, like most fruits can be frozen by any of the three methods: dry, sugar, or syrup pack. Let the end use determine the method used. Dry packed strawberries are good for fruit cups, salads, and garnishes; sugar or syrup packed strawberries can be used over ice cream and short cake.

Select firm, ripe strawberries about two thirds quart of fresh berries are needed for each pint frozen. Wash berries a few at a time in cold water. Lift berries gently out of water and drain.

DRY PACK: Leave hulls on berries to be used for garnish; remove hulls from those to be used in other ways. Blot to remove any excess moisture. Freeze on cookie sheets in a single layer. As soon as frozen, package. When frozen in this way, each berry is separate and only the amount needed can be removed for use.

SUGAR PACK: Remove hulls and slice berries into a bowl or shallow pan. Sprinkle sugar over berries - three fourth cup to each quart of berries. Turn berries over and over until sugar is dissolved and juice is formed. Pack into containers. Leave at least one half inch head space per pint.

SYRUP PACK: Prepare berries

and pack into containers. Cover with a cooled 50 per cent syrup which is made by dissolving four and three fourths cups sugar in four cups of water. Leave half to one inch head space.

Most berries such as raspberries, blackberries, and blueberries can be handled in a similar manner. For further information on freezing, call or visit the Boone County Extension Service in Burlington, Phone 586-6101, Ext. 17 or 18.

"Good Old Days"

The Boone County Parks and Recreation Board and the Boone County Bicentennial Committee members, while not remembering, are planning a "Good Old Days" celebration July 4th and 5th at Boone Woods Park in Burlington, Kentucky.

Of course none has a first hand knowledge of what it was like . . . but they have done a great deal of research on the subject of good times of past Fourth of July celebrations.

Starting at noon on the 4th, there will be arts and crafts exhibits and demonstrations. Through the day the Parks and Recreation Board will sponsor athletic competitions, such as tennis matches, critter races and other sporting events.

Special attractions will be held both days. On July 5th the W.E.B.N. ballroom and sky divers will perform. There will also be band concerts and entertainment will be provided throughout the entire celebration.

Artist, clubs, craftsmen and organizations wishing to display their crafts may call Laine Marshall at 356-5671 or contact the Boone County Park and Recreation Department Court House, Burlington, Ky.

Committee members include Mrs. Michael Conner, Rick Clements, and Steve Mills representing the Boone County Parks and Recreation Board. Also Mrs. Betty Moore, Patrick Raverty, Mary Nell Sutherland, Ted Bushelman, Laine Marshall, from the Bicentennial Committee.

Garden Club Tour Peddie's Greenhouse

The Boone County Garden Club recently toured Mrs. Scott Peddie's Greenhouse in Georgetown, Ky. Many different and useful herbs were viewed. Each member was presented a money plant and was given an opportunity to purchase herbs from the greenhouse. They then visited Log Cabin Antiques, Georgetown, where they enjoyed a Pioneer Women's Garden. The Pioneer Woman's Garden was all important to the early settlements. Not only did it provide food, but from it came a tea to lower a child fever, dried leaves smoked for the relief of asthma, flavors for foods and dyes. The garden has many herbs and old fashioned flowers. Lunch was then enjoyed at Bluegrass Inn where a short business meeting was held. Next stop was the Wee Shop where many handmade and old fashioned items were for sale. Guests were Mrs. Richard Compton and Mrs. William Anderson. Members attending were Miss Lucy Grant, Mesdames Carmon Barnes, J.C. Berkshire, Frances Berkshire, Larry Burcham, C.L. Cropper, Kirtley Cropper, Rick Douglas, Florence Eades, A.W. Fullerton, Jr., Wallace Grubbs, Louis Judy, Charles Kelly, Courtney Kelly, Kay Kelly, K.E. Lanter, Roy Lutes, Grant Maddox, Harry Scroggin, Luther Smith, John Walton, M.A. Yelton, and Deane Poore.

Kenton County Garden Club

Mrs. Wesley Hall, 6404 Taylor Mill, hosted the Garden Club at her beautiful home at 7:45 p.m., May 22. Mrs. William Straw, president, had charge of a short business session.

An inspirational devotional on "Amazing Grace the Grace of God" was given by Mrs. Chalmers Ballinger. Her scripture selections were John 12:47, John 3:16 and Matthew 28:20. She closed with prayer.

The club's year books are in the hands of the committee. The programs and hostesses for the ensuing year were announced.

In lieu of a regular June meeting the members will participate in the Garden Tours of greater Cincinnati sponsored by the Federated Garden Clubs. A few members will visit the Loveland-Branch Hill Area on Sunday afternoon June 1st. On May 3rd, the club will tour gardens in the Northern Kentucky Communities of Ft. Wright, Ft. Henry, Ft. Mitchell, Fortside, Villa Hills, and Lakeside Park.

The guest speaker, Mr. William Straw, Nurseryman and retired Kenton County Agricultural agent was introduced. His talk on "Lawns" was most helpful, especially to several members, who have new homes. He discussed soil testing, seeding, when to water and when to fertilize, how to mow and how to control insects, such as white grubs and sod web worm. He suggested that the members read an article on Lawns in Readers Digest, August 1969.

The club members toured and admired Mr. and Mrs. Hall's yard and vegetable garden.

Members and guests present were: Mmes. Chalmers Ballinger, Edwin Damon, Sandra Murphy, Dora Pennington, Virginia Palley, Leontine Stephens, Kenneth Webster, Francis Webster, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Hall, Mr. and Mrs. William Straw and Misses Margaret Stephens, Elma Taylor and Alice Jane Williams.

Mrs. Hall, assisted by her husband, served delicious refreshments during the social hour that followed the meeting.

Senator Dee Huddleston

REPORTS TO THE PEOPLE OF KENTUCKY

The Senate passed a resolution sponsored by Senator Walter Dee Huddleston urging that the Agriculture Department's annual white corn survey not be discontinued, as has been proposed. Huddleston, who said the annual survey is necessary for market stability, pointed out that Kentucky is the nation's top white corn producing state with several thousand farmers growing 10.5 million bushels in 1974.

The cash value of Kentucky's white corn crop varies between $25 and $50 million. "The statistical data compiled by the Department of Agriculture in its annual surveys have provided valuable assistance to producers, handlers and processors," Huddleston said as the chairman of the Agriculture subcommittee on marketing, production and stabilization of prices.

Cope With Inflation

BY
M. GENE SNYDER
U.S. CONGRESSMAN
4th District, Kentucky

The recession causes many problems, especially unemployment, but inflation remains with us. We still have rising prices. Understandably, demands continue for higher wages and fringe benefits but these, when granted, force prices up still more. Average pay and benefits have risen steadily in recent years, but for most people the increases never seem to help them get ahead. In fact, it seems to get harder just to break even. The curse of inflation is that any new added purchasing power is soon reduced and offset by new prices rises.

Uncle Sam hasn't been hurt as much as his citizens. The Federal government has been getting automatic increases in tax income all along, without any new legislation providing for them. The increases have come about in income taxes not by a change in the tax rates, but in taxpayers stepping up from lower to higher tax brackets as their pay has gone up. Rightly or wrongly, higher incomes are taxed at higher rates than lower incomes. Many workers, having received pay hikes or cost of living increases, find themselves pushed into higher tax categories. Often the higher tax almost offsets the pay increase.

... about your Social Security

This is a reminder to June Brides: Change Your Name With Social Security!

June brides should remember to change their name with Social Security and that reminder comes from John Walter, Social Security District Manager in Covington, Kentucky.

"No matter which month she's married in, a bride should give us her new name so we can keep her Social Security Card and her earnings record accurate and up to date," Walter said. "When earnings she had both before and after her marriage can be correctly credited to the same record."

Earnings women have in jobs covered by Social Security will determine the amount of their cash benefits and not just when they retire, according to Walter. "During their working years, women also build disability, survivors, and medicare protection for themselves and their families," he said.

To get her name changed on her record, a new bride can call or write any Social Security office. Or she can use a form available at any post office and at many employer personnel offices.

The Social Security Administration is an agency of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and welfare.

Some even lose with a raise because the additional tax more than wipes out the added pay.

The Federal government, ironically profiting from the burden of inflation which its deficit spending has inflicted on all citizens, has kept up with rising costs far better than Mr. and Mrs. America. First the government causes the inflation. It borrows enormous amounts of money at interest you must pay, to finance its deficit spending. New money is created by the banking system when banks buy Federal debt securities bonds, notes or bills that are Uncle Sam's I.O.U.'s. This inflation of the currency by the banking system dilutes the value of the dollars we have, shrinks their purchasing power. (Unless there is a proportionate expansion of business productivity which has not been the case.) Then the government taxes workers more when cost of living or other raises which higher prices soon nullify put them in higher income brackets. Through the built in device of progressive taxation, Uncle Sam profits from inflation, but makes the taxpayer's burden still heavier.

The effects of government deficit spending stick the taxpayer with (1) higher consumer prices, (2) higher interest on the national debt, (3) higher taxes and ultimately, (4) recession, with loss of investment income and unemployment. And then Uncle Sam suddenly loses all the income taxes of many bankrupt businesses and investors and laid off workers from whom more tax money had been coming in previously. The day of reckoning comes for all men and governments that spend beyond their income!

SERMON

Joe McKay, Evangelist

What Is The Bible?

(Deuteronomy 6:1; Luke 1:1-4; II Timothy 3:14-17; II Peter 1:20-21)

Flavel said of the Bible: "Bad men or devils would not have written the Bible, for it condemns them and their works good men or angels could not have written it, for in saying it was from God when it was but their own invention, they would have been guilty of falsehood, and thus could not have been good. The only remaining being who could have written it is God its real author."

This does not mean, of course, that God literally took up paper and ink and wrote the different books of the Bible. We know that God used holy men who were dedicated and committed to His will and purpose. What is the Bible? It is a book of instruction.

Instruction
Deuteronomy 6:1

The Bible contains commandments, statutes, and judgments for men to live by. Man needs guidance throughout his life on earth. He needs to know how to live at peace with his creator. He needs to know how to get along with other people.

What would our world be like if we did not have the Ten Commandments? The Sermon on the Mount? The letters of Paul and John?

God's people are called upon to be a holy (different) people. God has given His instructions for proper behavior. Those instructions are in the Old and New Testaments.

What is the Bible? It is a book of information.

Information
Luke 1:1-4

This is close to the first answer but it is more. The Bible informs as well

Joe McKay

Joe McKay will be preaching at the Church of Christ, Nicholson, located at Rt. 16 on Walton Nicholson Road, Independence, Ky. on Sunday, June 8th. at 10:30 a.m. He is the evangelist for the Northern Kentucky New Testament Church Evangelism Committee which establishes a new Christian Churches of Christ in this section of Kentucky.

Bro. McKay will be establishing a new congregation on August 3rd of 1975 at Hebron, Kentucky under the direction of the committee. Charles Carter, minister at the Church of Christ is also president of the New Testament Church Evangelism Committee. He cordially invites the public to come and hear Bro. McKay on Sunday morning, June 8th at 10:30 a.m. at the Church of Christ, Nicholson.

as instructs. It especially informs man of his sin, his sinful nature, his rebellion against God, and the consequences of his unbelief.

The Bible informs man concerning the love of God and the sacrifice God has made for him. Luke wrote to Theophilus, and to us, to give an accurate and orderly account of the life, death, and resurrection of the Son of God. In the Bible one finds the greatest love story ever written. One finds a loving God bidding man to turn from sin and eternal punishment to fellowship and eternal joy.

The question of our lesson cannot be fully answered apart from a word concerning inspiration.

Inspiration
II Timothy 3:14-17

The Bible claims for itself inspiration from God. The holy scriptures are able to make one wise unto salvation because all scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for teaching, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness. God spoke to men His word. The result is the Bible.

God used Moses, Jeremiah, David, Luke, John, Paul and others but the word is the word of God. How else could the man of God be complete and equipped for every good work? No explanation short of divine inspiration is sufficient here. One final word concerning the Bible:

Interpretation
II Peter 1:20-21

According to this passage we have not been left to follow cleverly devised myths. Peter and others were eyewitnesses of what took place concerning the coming of Jesus into the world. They had seen Jesus transfigured before their eyes on the mount. They had heard God's voice out of heaven saying, "This is my beloved Son."

Understanding the Bible is not a matter of one's own interpretation! Man of his own impulse did not speak God's message. Man of his own impulse will not rightly interpret God's message. Holy men of God spoke as they were moved by the Holy Spirit. The Holy Spirit must move upon man's heart today if he is to rightly interpret the scriptures.

Conway spoke well of the Bible when he said, "Scholars may quote Plato in their studies, but the hearts

Church Holds As Meeting Place For Clubs

The May meeting of the Goshen Christian Missionary Ladies Group was held in the church luncheon room with Mrs. Elva LaFollette as the hostess.

The vice president, Mrs. Hazel Mullins called the meeting to order and presided over the business. Roll call was answered by eleven ladies reading a verse of scripture with the word "Judge" in it. The Sunshine Report showed that 69 cards had been sent and 45 visits made to the sick.

The Grundy Mission Project is still in progress and the flower planters in front of the church will soon be filled with geraniums and petunias.

At the noon hour, a very nice luncheon was enjoyed by all present. They were Mrs. Hazel Mullins, Mrs. Georgia Cornelius, Miss Darlene Thornberry, Mrs. Esther Glenn, Mrs. Lillian Elliott, Mrs. Nannie Fisk, Miss Ruth Piner, Mrs. Faye Bray, Mrs. Goldie Glenn, Mrs. Ruth Worthington and Mrs. Elva LaFollette.

Our Bible Study was from Romans 2 with Mrs. Lillian Elliott as lesson leader.

Hostess for June will be Mrs. Goldie Glenn and program leader, Esther Glenn with the word for roll call will be "deeds".

MOUNTAIN MOMENTS

A Historic Speech

Getting out of school, for any reason, was exciting when I was a student at Noetown, a small village near Middlesboro, Ky.

One day, Mrs. R. W. Parker, our seventh grade teacher, told us that a very famous person was to make a historic speech. She said that the class was going outside later to hear the address. Of course, this excited us all and we had difficulty concentrating on our studies the remainder of the day.

Finally, the hour came and we were dismissed to go outside. Mrs. Parker had a radio in her automobile and the class gathered around the car while we tuned to the station for the speech.

There were a couple of songs, the names of which escape me, an announcement, a commercial message, and a station break. Some of the students played on and around the car, others stood talking, and a few gathered as closely around the radio as possible.

The announcer on a major radio network began the introduction of the program and Mrs. Parker quieted the class members.

The speaker's voice came in strong and clear at the beginning but appeared to falter as the talk came to a conclusion. I remember only the closing statement: "Old soldiers never die, they just fade away, and so I will now fade away."

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, hero of Bataan and liberator of the Philippines, who had earlier been relieved of his Far Eastern commands by then President Truman, had just concluded his now famous farewell address to Congress and the people of the United States.

Because of the foresight of a dedicated public school teacher, I was a participant in a historic event still remembered not only by the people of the United States, but by the citizens of the world.

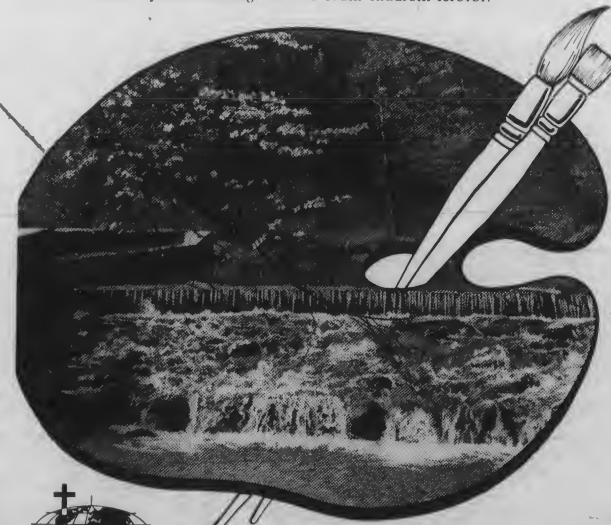

Few of us realize the impression we make on people each day. I can remember most of the teachers I had in school, about whom I will write later. But almost without exception, it is with fondness that I reflect on my school days. It may be that I recognize the debt I owe to my tutors who taught me more than the A B C's!!!

The Master's Touch

God must love beauty, to use it so lavishly. The Master Artist dapples the soft green leaves with golden sunshine, turns the brook to flowing crystal, and puts a song into Spring itself.

There is beauty in us, too... because He put it there. In His sight, none of us are ugly, none of us are forsaken, none of us are "lost."

But sometimes, in the busy process of day-to-day living, we turn blind eyes upon the world's loveliness, and take for granted the gifts which should brighten the hours and years. We need a faith that gives us vision to find again the inner beauty He gave us in the beginning... a gift which He never takes away. Let us go, then, to His Church. Let us "enter into His gates with thanksgiving... for the Lord is good. His mercy is everlasting; and His Truth endureth forever."

FEARLESS FORECAST

By: R.W. Lancaster

Thursday, June 5, 1975

The moon will be in the cardinal fire sign, Aries until mid evening so this would be a good time to do your house cleaning and do any home baking you have been putting off, save your sewing and mending for tomorrow and Saturday and you will probably do a better job and enjoy it, this is a poor time for traveling and visiting so save your trip for the weekend.

Friday, June 6th

The waning Moon in Taurus today and tomorrow is the right time to get a permanent wave, it will look nice and stay in a long time, also a good time for the men to get that long lasting haircut from the barber, but if your hair is getting thin and you want it to grow back fast wait until next Tuesday or Wednesday. This evening would be a good time to buy new shoes if you want a good fit.

Saturday, June 7th

The fish won't be biting today but this is the right phase of the moon for setting posts pouring concrete and painting, also a good time to start any new construction but if you want to stretch a wire fence it would be best to wait until next Thursday afternoon, Friday or Saturday and it will stay tight. And save the fishing for next Tuesday or Wednesday.

Sunday, June 8th

According to statistics more people get married during the month of June than any other time and next Saturday will be especially harmonious day for the ceremony. John Seldon had the best advice for newly married couples a couple hundred years ago. (Of all the actions of a mans life, his marriage does least concern other people, yet of all actions of our life, its most meddled with by other people) and also (The happiness of married life depends upon making small sacrifices with readiness and cheerfulness.)

Monday, June 9th

The moon in the barren sign, Gemini is a good time to cut grass if it has been growing too fast and also a good time to kill weeds and garden pests. We have a new moon tonight so now is the time to make plans for the new projects you will be starting the next couple of weeks, this is also the right time to advertise if you want quick sales and a fair profit.

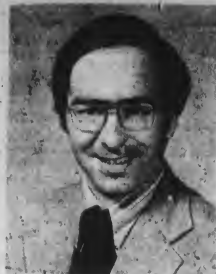

Tuesday, June 10th

The fish are going to bite now through Thursday noon and any garden planted now will make quick growth, this is the time to plant above ground crops and vegetables, squash will do exceptionally well and flowers will have abundant foliage. If you need new glasses try to get your eye examination any time today.

Wednesday, June 11th

Today and tomorrow morning is the time to do home baking as the yeast dough will rise to your satisfaction and brown to perfection. If you want to speed up your hair growth get it cut today and then have a good massage. This is a lot safe day for traveling so save your shopping for tomorrow and do your house cleaning today.

Periodical Cicadas

Parts of Kenton County and Northern Kentucky have been hit by "locusts" in recent weeks. "Locusts" are more properly called periodical cicadas because broods make their appearance at regular intervals of 17 or 13 years. Their occurrence is widely distributed over the eastern half of the United States, and occur nowhere else in the world.

The 17-year and 13-year life cycle does not mean that periodical cicadas are seen only at these intervals. The 17-year species have 17 broods and the 13-year species have 13. Most years at least one brood emerges in the same general area. The last year in which a brood emerged in Kenton County was 1970. In 1974, as much as one third of Kentucky's counties had emerging cicadas.

When cicadas come out of the ground they head for upright objects. A tree is the ideal plant. It secures a good hold on the object, splits its nymphol skin along the middle of the back and works itself out in an hour or less. The cicada is now an adult, but soft and white. In a few hours it hardens and dardens to become fully mature.

The insects mate within a week and females begin laying eggs 7 to 10 days after emergence. The female punctures the bark of a twig and lays her eggs there. The eggs hatch in 6 to 7 weeks and fall to the ground. They burrow into the ground and find suitable roots to suck on at a depth of 2 to 24 inches. They continue to feed and develop until the spring of the 17th or 13th year. Several weeks before emerging they start burrowing toward the surface.

Egg puncture by female cicadas can severely damage or even destroy young transplanted trees in orchards, yards and nurseries. Seventy to eighty species of trees, shrubs, and plants are used for egg laying and include oak, apple, peach, grape, and maple.

One application of Sevin just before egg laying starts should protect trees for 5 to 8 days. Three to five applications may be necessary where they are heavy infestations. A cover of tobacco canvas or netting can be used to protect small or valuable trees. The canvas should be put on when cicadas appear and remain on for about five weeks.

Milestone On The 13th

Mrs. Lee Waters

A Boone County mother, Mrs. Lee Waters, will mark a milestone in her family on Friday the 13th when the Booth Memorial Hospital School of Practical Nurse Education holds capping ceremonies, a symbolic event of a student's determination to make nursing a career. Two years ago her daughter, Janet, did the same thing and today is studying for her advanced degree at the Jewish Hospital School of Nursing, Cincinnati. Mrs. Waters, mother of four, credits Janet with encouraging her to return to school and realize a childhood dream of becoming a nurse. The Waters family lives in Florence and Mr. Waters is a drug salesman. Other Boone Countians to be capped include Rebecca Gerkin, Florence, Marcia Spare, Burlington, Mrs. Jane Whitehead, Florence and one from Independence, Mrs. Alma Paul, and one from Verona, Regina Speagle.

Thursday, June 9, 1955

Joe Ballard, husband of Doris Hand Ballard received his discharge from the Air Force on May 28.

Third son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Tudor on May 18, in the Navy Hospital on the East Carolina.

Mrs. George Hamilton held the meeting of the Verona Homemakers at her home in Verona.

Last Saturday the editor received a call from Orville Simpson and Ralph Scott on U.S. 25, saying something had fallen out of the sky. The object landed on the roof of his home and come to find out it was a tobacco canvas that had come quite a long distance.

The following parents and children were dedicated on Sunday at the Walton Christian Church: Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Jones and Evelyn, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Ryan and Ricky, Mr. and Mrs. Art Kent,

What Are Those Things?

Several requests have been received concerning those "funny acting" bees that dart around the house, patio and outbuildings. They are large (1/2 inch long) beautifully colored, fast flying bees which closely resemble the bumble bees. However, the abdomen of the carpenter bee is usually covered with bands of yellow and black "hair". In addition, the carpenter bees do not nest in the ground but instead cut tunnels in solid wood of buildings, fence posts, and trees.

The entrance hole is about 1/2 inch in diameter and cut straight into the wood for approximately one inch. Tunnels are then cut at right angles to the entrance hole for some distance. New tunnels are often made in the same timbers each season. In time, damage to those timbers can be quite extensive.

Insecticides injected into the entrance holes should control these bees. Either apply 2 percent carbaryl spray or inject 0.5 percent dichlorvos aerosol spray into the entrance. The insecticide should be applied into the tunnel during the late evening. The entrance should then be plugged with mud, clay, wood putty or a similar material.

A good coat of paint is also useful in discouraging carpenter bees from beginning to tunnel in building timber or eaves.

'65 Class Reunion.

On Saturday June 7, 1975 the Class of 1965, Walton Verona High School, held a class reunion honoring their 10th anniversary. The reunion was held at Ramada Inn, Florence, Ky., where a meal and program were enjoyed by thirty of the forty-five graduates of the class and by their spouses.

The class members enjoying the evening were: Beverly Rushing Searcy, Pat Yancey Wethington, Betty Waters Hensley, June Poteet Jones, Sandy Spillman Orchelle, Candy Thornton, Dana Bowling Otte, Linda Blish Smith, Carolyn Armstrong Roark, Carol Groger

Senator Dee Huddleston

REPORTS TO THE PEOPLE OF KENTUCKY

Senator Walter Dee Huddleston recently criticized President Ford for his efforts "to blame Congress" for the worsening military situation in South Vietnam.

Huddleston specifically referred to remarks by the President last week before the American Society of Newspaper Editors in which he said the whole tragedy (of South Vietnam) could have been eliminated "if Congress had agreed to make available military and economic assistance over the next three years."

"The public knows that this unfortunate war was largely perpetuated by the executive branch under five different Presidents. The policy President Ford and Secretary Kissinger would have us follow carries no guarantee that we will not be supplying millions upon millions of dollars six or ten years from now."

"What they are arguing for is an open ended, continuing commitment of American military and economic aid for however long it takes. I believe 50,000 lives, 500,000 troops, $150 billion, and fourteen years is commitment enough."

Solar Energy

BY
M. GENE SNYDER
U.S. CONGRESSMAN
4th District, Kentucky

Since the Arab oil boycott there has been growing public interest in the use of solar energy as power for heating, cooling and transportation, and other applications. The President and others have proclaimed the need to hasten the day solar power can substitute in part for fuel oil and lessen our dependency on imports. Congress has appropriated funds to accelerate research and development in this area.

But, as we should expect, free enterprise and private initiative have long been at work seeking the answers to the ancient problem of how to directly harness the sun's fantastic power. Last week in Washington there was a public presentation of many of the results of years of study, experimentation and practical work in this field of enormous opportunity.

Some fifty exhibitors from all over the country, ranging from nationally known corporations to unknown entrepreneurs, showed their products at the first major solar industry trade show. The International Solar Industry Expo '75 at the Sheraton Park Hotel was chiefly the effort of the Solar Energy Industries Association. Two recently created Federal agencies, the Federal Energy Administration, and the Energy Research and Development Administration, participated in the show's workshops.

The show seemed especially timely since it opened the same day President Ford made his televised speech to the Nation announcing a second dollar a barrel levy on imported oil and his intention to deregulate the cost of domestic oil.

The exhibitors and officials were surprised and pleased at the sizeable crowds and the clearly evident enthusiasm. Most of the printed literature describing products was exhausted on the first day of the three day show. It was obvious that everyone attending was conscious of the rising costs of fossil fuels and wanted to know costs of solar power equipment and installation.

Exhibits included a variety of panels or tubes to collect sunrays and photographs of their installation to heat homes, water boilers, or swimming pools. There were a number of actuated demonstrations. One company was operating a small portable television set with a solar battery receiving light from a 1,000 watt light bulb. It had two inch diameter propellers spinning from the power of small batteries placed under a fluorescent desk lamp. This firm has been selected by the Federal Aviation Administration to sun power an instrument landing system beacon at an airport in Alaska. Another exhibitor had a working model steam pump that could lift water from wells for irrigation ditches or propel a boat with water raised sucked into a tube and forcibly ejected under the steam pressure. The steam boiler could be fired with sun power. Another firm showed a sun powered windmill that could charge the batteries of its electric motorcycle and automobile.

Glenda Jackson Hosts Oak Island Women

Mrs. Glenda Jackson hosted the club's Annual Spring Luncheon at her beautiful country home on June 2nd. Grace for the delicious meal was given by Miss Elma Taylor.

After the bountiful lunch, Mrs. Betty Goebel, president, took charge of the regular monthly meeting.

A devotional on the topic "Forgiveness" was given by Mrs. Leontine Stephens and her question was "Can you forgive another? For how serious an offense?"

Mrs. Goebel announced the July 11-13th Homemakers Summer Camp at North Central 4-H Clubs campgrounds in Carlisle, Ky.

The members reviewed the club's programs and activities for 1974-75 for the leaders' annual reports.

Plans were made for the club to serve lunch at Mr. C.S. Sipple's public sale at his farms, Moffett Road on June 28th.

Plans were made for the club's annual money making project at the home of Mrs. Margaret Rector.

The leader for the June lesson "Let's Beat The Energy Crisis - Energy Conservation" was Mrs. Mary Whalen. Her lesson was informative, timely and very helpful at this time of high priced energy.

Members and guests present were Meses, Elizabeth Barberick, Betty Goebel and daughter, Dixie Dressman and daughter, Dawn Ellen, Kathryn Guttridge, Lydia Huffaker, Glenda Jackson, Mary Jackson, Elmar Manter, Carrie Northcutt, Margaret Rector, Aileen Riddell, Betty Rucker and son, Leontine Stephens, Mary Whalen and Miss Elma Taylor.

Friends and neighbors are cordially invited to attend the variety sale on June 13th.

STOP BURGLARY

A GOOD NEIGHBOR REPORT ALL
SUSPICIOUS PERSONS

Nationally in the past five years, burglary has increased 70% and larceny 109%. These crimes against you and your neighbors therefore represent a countrywide problem. These two crimes alone total in excess of 70% of all reported crimes.

In spite of these statistics, it is still true that "Where Neighbors care, crime decreases. Be a good neighbor."

CHECK THESE TEN IMPORTANT POINTS BEFORE YOU GO ON VACATION

- ☐ 1. Notify your local police agency of your vacation dates. Request them to make periodic checks of your home during your absence.
- ☐ 2. Don't advertise that you're on vacation. Cancel all home deliveries of newspapers, milk, etc., pick up tools, lock the garage and gates, and don't provide a means for entry to a burglar.
- ☐ 3. Padlock the garage door, especially if it is attached to the house. Why hide a burglar who's breaking into your home?
- ☐ 4. Leave different lights burning every time you go out at night. An inexpensive timing device is helpful. Phone your neighbor; inform him when you leave and when you expect to return to your residence.
- ☐ 5. Join Operation Identification. Engrave all your personal property and identify your home as being a member of Operation Identification. Record all items that you cannot engrave.
- ☐ 6. Leave a key with your neighbor; don't put a key under your doormat. Ask him to pick up your mail. Change position of your blinds and drapes daily.
- ☐ 7. Take that extra minute or two to check your home before leaving. A few months' salary can be taken from your home in seconds.
- ☐ 8. Help your neighbor. Barking dogs could mean prowlers. Look and listen!
- ☐ 9. Was that light a beam from a flashlight? You may see it only once. If you know your neighbor is away, call your local police.
- ☐ 10. If you have reason to believe that a burglary was committed while you were away, DO NOT ENTER! Use your neighbor's phone and call local police officer IMMEDIATELY. The burglar may still be there. Watch the house and wait for the police.

Except for such crops as asparagus and rhubarb which live more than one year, crops should be rotated each year to prevent a buildup of soil diseases and insects. Moving a vegetable only a few yards from where it grew the previous year will assist in soil disease control. Vegetables belonging to the same family, such as cabbage and cauliflower, should be followed by a crop not related. Shallow rooted crops such as radish, cabbage, beans, and carrots should follow deep rooted crops such as tomatoes, pepper, and corn. Preparing and keeping a map of the garden will assist in developing a good rotation system.

Cultivation is one of the necessary evils of gardening. There are only two reasons for cultivating: (1) to kill weeds and (2) to break the crust which forms at the soil surface. Cultivation should be only deep enough and often enough to control weeds and break the crust. A cultivation one inch deep will usually do this. Deep plowing or hoeing cuts roots. This results in a stunted or slow growing plant and a poor yielding one.

Yields of some vegetables can be doubled by proper use of mulch. Straw, leaves, sawdust, damaged hay, and lawn clippings are the most common organic mulching materials. Cover the soil 1 or 2 inches deep when using one of these materials. Black plastic, paper, and aluminum foil on plastic have been used by many gardeners in recent years.

Mulching materials assist in (1) controlling soil moisture; (2) controlling grass and weeds; (3) obtaining favorable soil temperatures; (4) preventing fruit of fruiting vegetables from coming into contact with the soil; (5) producing quality vegetables; and (6) preventing soil compaction.

Before applying mulch, cultivate to destroy all grasses and weeds. If additional fertilizer is needed it may be applied before the mulch is put in place or it may be applied at a later date by pulling the mulch away from the plants and replacing the mulch after fertilizer is applied. Additional fertilizer may be put on without removing organic mulches, such as straw or grass clippings, if irrigation water is available to carry the fertilizer through the mulch into the soil.

After the crop has been harvested,

Open House At Eden Shale Farm

The University of Kentucky College of Agriculture is sponsoring an open house at Eden Shale Farm on Friday, June 13th beginning at 9:00 a.m. The farm, located in Owen County, is typical of the Eden Shale soil type a type which covers all or parts of over 30 Kentucky counties, including Boone County. The farm was established for the use of the university in 1955 through donations, most of which came from farmers in the Eden Shale area. The Eden Shale type of soil is characterized by steep slopes and poor storage of ground water, and presents special problems to farmers. Research projects conducted by UK scientists at the farm are aimed at solving some of the problems.

You will see at the Open House some of the steep slopes on Eden Shale Farm which are typical of the area. Most of the area shown here was covered with brush when the University took over the farm. However, clearing, fertilization, and seeding turned it into lush pasture land. Also on the tour you will see the following: A herd of beef cows used for studies on beef cow management and forage utilization conducted at the farm; how studies on apple to stock evaluation and orchard management are being conducted at Eden Shale Farm too steep for growing crops have been found to be well-suited to Christmas tree production; how UK agronomists are comparing tobacco varieties on the farm to find out which varieties are best suited to the Eden Shale soil type; an excellent stand of tall fescue has been established on this area of the farm which was once covered by brush. UK researchers are studying how to best use this forage for maximum beef production.

Everyone is invited, it is a good time to get out in the country and see the countryside and enjoy demonstrations.

They're A Winning Team

Eagles

The Eagles of the American League, coached by Edith Ashwoth and Carol Trout, played a heart breaker game before the largest crowd so far this season. The toobits won the game in nine innings 11 to 10. It was a shame to see either team lose the game because both teams played their hearts out. Good Luck in your coming games.

Mighty Midgets

Bev Botts and Cheryl Bungar are coaches of the Mighty Midgets in the Minor League. Bev and Cheryl are doing a fine job in coaching their team which has a 3 and 2 record at this time. These girls, both players and coaches, are hard at work to improve since this is the first year for most of the players and also the first year for Bev and Cheryl to coach a team. So girls, keep up the hard work.

SUNDAY

SERMON

Why The Bible Was Written

(Jeremiah 28:1-6; Luke 24:44-47; John 20:30-31; I John 1:1-4)

The late President Woodrow Wilson suggested that, "When you have read the Bible, you will know it is the Word of God, because you will have found the key to your own heart, your own happiness and your own duty."

The Bible is God's Word to man. It is the Word of God to men through other men. The first passage of scripture in today's lesson will tell us something of the way God spoke to man in the Old Testament.

The Procedure Jeremiah 28:1-3

God's Word came to man in a historical setting. Whether in the Old Testament or the New, God's Word always came in flesh and blood situations. This passage begins with the time and something of the political situation of the day.

"Thus saith the Lord" is the preface to every message of the prophets. Their message came not by the will of man. It was not of their own impulse. They spoke as they were moved by the Spirit of God.

Jeremiah was commanded to stand in the court of the Lord's house and deliver God's Word to the people. He was to speak all of the words of the Lord. Not one word was to be omitted. The response of the people would be in their own hands and hearts, but grave responsibility rested on the prophet to speak all of God's message.

The second passage of scripture will suggest a unique privilege.

The Privilege Luke 24:44-47

According to Christ himself, everything written in the law of Moses, in the prophets, and in the psalms pointed to Him.

Having assured them of this, He then opened their understanding so that they could understand the scriptures. This is not only one of man's greatest needs today, but it is also one of man's greatest privileges.

It is impossible for anyone to rightly understand God's Word apart from the illumination which Christ gives. Once that illumination comes, then man sees that the heart

Tent Revival At Baptist Temple

Dr. Harold Rawlings

Florence Baptist Temple will conduct an "Old Fashioned Tent Revival" June 15 - 22nd nightly at 7:30 p.m. Evangelist Fred Vaught will speak all day June 15th. Monday June 16th through all day Sunday, June 22nd, Dr. Harold Rawlings from Landmark Baptist Temple in Cincinnati will speak. Clyde Burns will be the guest soloist each night. Dr. Rawlings is Associate Pastor of Landmark Baptist Temple in Cincinnati, one of America's largest churches. In 1969 he conducted the Morning Worship Service at the White House by request of President Nixon.

June 22nd is the church's second anniversary and the goal is 400. Just 23 months old, Florence Baptist Temple averaged almost 300 for the month of May with highs of 326 and 305 on Mother's Day and Memorial Day.

The public is invited and for information you may call 586-6090. The church is located just 3 miles west on (old) Ky. 18 off I-75.

of the message is world redemption through Christ.

The Bible was written to reveal to us the way to the Father. But that way is not a system or an institution, it is a person.

The Person John 20:30-31

The writer knew first-hand concerning the word of life. He had heard, seen, looked upon, and handled that word of life. The "word of life" was the Christ of God manifested in the flesh. Jesus of Nazareth was that word of life. If the gospel of John was written to declare that the Christ was Jesus!

John's purpose in writing this letter was to pass on to his and other generations what he had personally experienced. The relationship and the fellowship enjoyed by John is possible to everyone who reads these lines. Moreover, this is the path to fullness of joy.

Walton Women's Club

The Walton Women's Club met on June 4th in Fellowship Hall of the Walton Christian Church.

Mrs. James Lee Cobb presided and opened the meeting with the reading of the Club Collect and Saluting the flag.

Hostesses Mrs. Melvin Wasson, Mrs. Claude Thompson and Mrs. William Brown served a dessert course of good cherry pie and ice cream all in their color theme of pink and white tables. Bouquets of June flowers, roses etc. tiny hand made hats and a center piece of flower trimmed straw hats in draped pink velvet - composed the setting for the program on Hats of History.

Mrs. Claude Thompson Vice President, and Program Chairman presented the speaker.

She was Mrs. Martha Brock a very attractive young woman from Cincinnati Bell. Mrs. Brock brought a huge trunk of hats was so entertaining and delightful as she modeled each one that we lost count of the number.

Each hat and story about it, was reminiscent of a well known woman and her role in that period of American History. First the sun bonnet and life story of Susan Anthony, and Dolly Madison's turban was pretty. The hats were readily associated in our minds with their owners.

Spiritual Guidance given by Miss Rachel Acree was most impressive, helpful and thought provoking. Her subject "Beauty" The exquisite beauty of our world, flowers, lakes and mountains - prove the reality and majesty of our Father in Heaven.

In closing this last meeting of the club's year, which begins in September and ends in June - Mrs. Cobb wished all present a pleasant summer.

MOUNTAIN MOMENTS

Ray

His name was Ray, and I was introduced to him about 15 years ago when I was a young ministerial student at the Clear Creek Baptist School, a theological school for adults in Pineville, Ky. Ray was older than I by more than 20 years and I almost revered him for the practical knowledge he possessed.

He was able to transform an ordinary event, such as the removal of a splinter from one's finger, into a teaching session; and he would take a long time away from his studies to help someone.

One day Ray and I, with our wives, went upon Pine Mountain for a picnic. It was a beautiful spring day. The birds were singing, and the smell of wild flowers seemed to attract a lot of hummingbirds. With the abundance of laurel so prevalent, I think I learned why Pineville's spring festival is named for mountain laurel. We spent an hour or so talking after we finished the lunch the women had prepared, and then decided to walk out to see the famous chain that is attached to the huge rock in the side of the mountain above Pineville. And as many of you know, this is no small chore! Joyce (my wife) swears that this is the best way to lose weight, because if you don't lose several pounds getting to the chain, you will certainly will on the return trip!

While we were all getting our breath on Chain Rock, Ray and I started talking about how it might have been during the Civil War in this area. We imagined the hard times the troops had getting over Log Mountain, especially in the winter months. One could easily see the way they must have traveled to get to Middleboro. It's hard to think how difficult travel was just a few years ago. Mud rocks, rock and earth slides in the winter and dust in the summer. No wonder most people stayed home! And no wonder the Civil War lasted so long.

On the way back to our homes on the campus of Clear Creek, we discussed the classes we would be taking the next school term. Sometimes you had a choice - and other times the course of study was prescribed. English was one of the courses which was required and all freshmen took the course. If you were lucky, that was enough; if not, then other English courses were necessary.

Well, I just about cracked up! And every time I hear a double negative, I always think of my friend Ray.

FEARLESS FORECAST

By: R.W. Lancaster
Thursday, June 12, 1975

The moon is increasing in the fixed fire sign, Leo, today so you may as well let the garden rest until next Monday evening and don't plan any fishing trips until next Wednesday night. The morning hours would be a good time to collect any outstanding debts and any time today would be good for making economical food purchases, you may get some real bargains in fresh vegetables.

Friday, June 13th

Now is the time for renting if you want to stay a long time with this decision and also a good time for buying property for a long term investment, but if you want a quick turnover wait until about the twentieth. Any clothing or furniture bought now will have better wearing qualities due to your making the right choices. A salesman once gave me some good advice I will never forget. He said (The quality and satisfaction will still be with this piece of merchandise long after the price is forgotten.)

Saturday, June 14th

As I mentioned last Sunday this is a good day for a marriage ceremony but you had better be sure before you say I do, because this will be a lifetime investment in happiness or discord as vows taken now will be hard to break. This is also a good day for sporting activities, swimming and boating but no good for fishing, you could practice your casting and be ready for next Wednesday night and be looking for some new fishing spots.

Sunday, June 15th

The moon in the sign, Virgo, this Sunday and I have noticed people born under this Sun sign usually have more patience than most mortals, and Franklin said (He that can have patience, can have what he will.) And Shakespeare (How poor are they who have not patience! What would did ever heal but by degrees.) And George Eliot (It's easy finding reasons why other folks should be patient.)

Monday, June 16th

Any time today would be all right to visit your dentist and get any bad teeth extracted, but wait until the 26th or 27th for fillings or plate impressions and you will be better satisfied with the work. If you are going to do any late planting buy the seed today and get the ground ready for tomorrow and try to do a kind deed before nightfall so you will get a good night's rest.

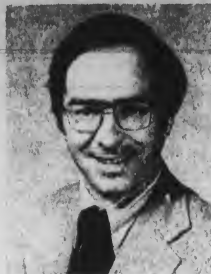

Tuesday, June 17th

All the rest of this week will be good planting days for above ground crops and vegetables, today and tomorrow will be best for vine crops, and flowers planted now will have exceptional beauty. Thursday and Friday will be best for beans and leafy vegetables, squash will do well planted any time this week and come Halloween the kids will enjoy the pumpkins, even though you only have a small yard there should be room next to a back fence for the kids to have a few pumpkin vines and a few ornamental gourds would be very educational and fun this winter.

Wednesday, June 18th

The next few days would be a good time to advertise new ventures, write your ad now for next weeks paper and it will be easy to sell your merchandise next week during the full moon, and you will be pleased with the fair profit. The public enjoys seeing their local merchants making a fair profit and a decent living but become very angry at being ripped off by monopolies such as big oil companies and the utilities, especially when backed by our elected representatives.

FARM NEWS AND ANALYSIS

By

Strawberry
Rejuvenation

Rejuvenation means to stimulate, to make youthful again, or to restore to an original or new state. This is a very apt word for describing what is needed by the strawberry plant after it has fruited. The rejuvenation of a strawberry patch should be completed immediately after the last berry is picked. Do not wait.

Why is rejuvenation so important, and why must it be done in a timely manner? Strawberry plants are perennial - they live many years. However, the roots are only functional for about one year, and the roots usually die about the time harvest is completed. At the same time leaves may become less efficient due to insect and disease attacks. The plant's reserves are at a very low ebb at this time and need to be "rejuvenated." For fruit the following year, the plant needs to develop a new set of roots as well as new foliage in order to manufacture new foods through the process of photosynthesis. This is necessary so that the plant can produce many leaves and a large crown before fruit bud initiation takes place. The fruit buds for next year's crop are initiated in late summer and fall of the preceding year, and the number of fruit buds and their condition is directly related to the factors mentioned. Therefore, you can see that it is vital to waste no time in the rejuvenation process, which should be undertaken no later than a day or so after the last fruit is harvested. The rejuvenation process itself is described below.

Renewing the patch consists first of mowing off the tops of the plants (if needed) immediately after harvest and finishing the whole renewing operation as soon as possible. If insect and disease problems are not serious you need not mow. The mulch may be incorporated into the soil unless the mulch is very heavy. If it is, part of it may be raked off and the remainder cultivated in. If there is a disease or insect problem, the leaves and mulch should be burned in the alley between the rows.

Narrow the rows to the desired width (about 18 to 24 inches) with a light plow or rototiller or by other means. The middles should then be thoroughly torn up with a cultivator or other tool and then cultivated the rest of the season to control weeds and keep the soil loose.

In recent years many growers have used rototillers when renewing the patch. This tool thoroughly tears up the soil and incorporates all organic matter into it. The rototiller is also very efficient for narrowing rows to the desired width.

Irrigation is helpful after the patch has been worked. Droughts occur frequently at this time of year when the plants need water most to recover from fruiting and to re-establish themselves.

Fertilizing after rejuvenation should involve a fairly heavy coat of well rotted manure if it is available. Nitrogen is needed to stimulate new growth and to aid in decomposing mulching materials and leaves. Some growers use as much as 120 to 150 pounds (1 - 1 1/4 lbs. per 100 ft. of row) of ammonium nitrate or its equivalent per acre. If phosphorus and potash are low, a complete fertilizer should be applied. As much as 500 pounds or more of 10-10-10 or 12-12-12 may be used (4-5 lbs. per 100 ft. of row.)

The fertilizer should not remain in contact with the foliage, but should be brushed off foliage immediately after application. Irrigation at this time, if the season is dry, is especially helpful in getting the nutrients to the plants and stimulating new plant growth.

Post-rejuvenation care includes the same practices used in the first year. (Ask for Extension publication HO-16, "Strawberry Production in Kentucky" at our office in Independence). The goal after harvest is to develop the crowns and flower buds of the plants already present rather than to encourage new runner plants.

You're about to bleed !
If proposed changes in Kentucky's Air Pollution Control Regulations are approved, consumers will be forced to pay millions of dollars for unproved "scrubbers" to remove sulfur dioxide from the smoke of coal-fired electric generating plants. Your wallet will bleed.
The Environmental Protection Agency's own funded studies have found little relationship between sulfur dioxide levels and health. EPA environmental regulators admit that sulfur dioxide by itself probably doesn't matter much. Wholesale electric energy costs will increase by approximately 63% if "scrubbers" have to be installed. And nobody knows what to do with the acres of sludge leftover from scrubber operations.
We want the best possible life for all Kentucky consumers. But we simply can't understand how we can improve our quality of life by squandering consumers' money.

John Mann & Students

When the Kenton County schools closed their doors for the summer one principal was on hand at the bus to bid them farewell and advice them to have a good time but to take a peek at their books from time to time. Above, John Mann, principal of the Caywood School, counsel with four of his departing students as they board the bus for home for the last time this school year.

Permitted Parking Only

Riding over the hills and dales on the Kenton County school system property on those motorcycles and mini bikes is verboten.

The Kenton County Board of Education, noting the rutted trails and eroding hillsides, has ordered signs posted. Henceforth, is the ruling, only parking will be permitted.

Robert Barnes, assistant superintendent, explained that officials are not "so much interested in punishing youngsters but want to stop damage."

Broken shrubs are listed as part of the damage. On several pieces of property the eroding soil, Barnes noted, has muddied small lakes which supply water.

Town Council Holds Meeting

By Luellen Wolsing, Reporter

Walton's Town Council meeting was held on June 10, 1975 at 7:30 p.m. The meeting was opened by the Mayor and then the minutes of the last continuing meeting were read by Ms. Simpson. First business of the night were complaints addressed to Mr. Clark, engineer, about the road and yard repair that needed to be done.

Mr. Hicks asked the council to extend city water off of Route 16 by annexation or at his own personal expense.

The next item discussed was the smell in the city water. Superintendent, John Taylor, explained that the algae had bloomed, this was the cause of the smell. This was eliminated, although the mains would have to be flushed out. Complaints were made about several leaks found in the city.

A representative of the fire department then asked the council about putting in a eight inch culvert in their parking lot so it could be used during the festival. It was also asked of the council if it would help the fire department pay some of the expenses incurred when sending three men to fire school.

Engineer, Mr. Clark presented the bills of the connected with the sewer project, and also he presented the request for three grants from EPA, KPA and HUD. This money would go toward the sewer project.

Repavement of the street was discussed next by Mr. Clark. The cost of repavement of all street with armor damage except Welch, High and Church Street would be $42,584.72. Approximately 17,177 dollars of this is included in the contract. The city has to provide approximately 25,406 dollars. This proposal was accepted by unanimous vote. The sidewalks damaged during the project will be repaired without additional cost to the city.

The Dispersements were read and the meeting was adjourned.

Hay Making Field Day

First Kentucky P.C.A. and the Boone and Kenton County Cooperative Extensive Services are co-sponsoring a Hay Making Field Day on June 25th. The program will begin at 10:00 a.m. This field day will be located on the R.C. Durr Farm located on Chambers Road one mile north of Walton off U.S. 25.

The program will include two Extension Specialists, a demonstration of new hay making equipment and a free lunch to all. We anticipate a large and successful program with a large audience.

Another Site

The Kenton County Board of Education is looking for a site for a third high school.

Members went into action following the June meeting when word came from the Kentucky Department of Education that a third high school was preferable to other plans which had been suggested.

It should be located south of I-275 and near Madison Pike and should be constructed to accommodate between 1000 and 1200 students.

The Department, in a letter signed by Dr. Lyman Ginger, state school superintendent, also recommended the renovation of the present high schools, Dixie Heights and Simon Kenton.

All schools would take care of grades 9 through 12. However, state officials said that the present schools should be renovated by adding additional buildings.

The state recommendation, the letter pointed out, means re-districting the county in three high school districts and should be accomplished to assure a balance of students.

The recommendation also listed as a second priority the construction of an elementary school in the Villa Hills area and another one in the Beechgrove area (a third priority.)

New Superintendent

Robert Barnes

A native of Kenton County, a veteran of the armed services and a former assistant superintendent of the Kenton County School System will become the new superintendent on July 1st. Robert Barnes was given a four year contract at the June meeting of the Board of Education.

He started his teaching career in Pendleton County and then returned to his native Kenton when he was named principal of the White's Tower School. After serving as principal of Simon Kenton High School, from which he graduated, Barnes moved up to assistant superintendent four years ago.

The new school chief is a graduate of the University of Kentucky. A daughter now attends U.K. and another daughter is a student at Twenhofel Junior High School.

Earlier Barnes had withdrawn his application for the post. However, a petition was presented to the board signed by 902 citizens who urged his appointment.

In a closed session (permitted by law,) Barnes was asked to reinstate his application and his election followed.

50 Years of Service

Mrs. Mary C. Grubbs

By Luellen Wolsing, Reporter

Mrs. Mary C. Grubbs was awarded a certificate for her 50 years of service as a Funeral Director and Embalmer on June 12 in Louisville. She started working with her father, C. Scott Chambers, when she was thirteen years of age. Mr. Chambers was the owner of C. Scott Chambers Undertaking Company. This was later changed to Chambers & Grubbs.

Mrs. Grubbs graduated from Walton High School and attended Hamilton College for six weeks. When she returned home she entered Cincinnati College of Embalming in 1923. She was only 19 years of age. Till she graduated she was the only girl in the school. Mrs. Grubbs graduated June 8, 1925. She then became the first lady embalmer in the state of Kentucky. She is also licensed in Ohio and Indiana.

In 1936, Chambers & Grubbs started to remodel a old building in Walton that was to become the first funeral home in Boone County. The home opened in July of '37.

Mrs. Grubbs is not planning to retire and she says, "One of the greatest satisfactions out of this profession is knowing that you have been a comfort to the family you have served."

In mentioning my family don't forget I have three sons, John A., Supt. of Walton Verona, Jim, a funeral director in Independence and Buddy, a funeral director in Florence, a daughter Elizabeth Poore now serving her apprenticeship for Funeral Directors License.

Pipeline To Kenton Co

Cecil Northcutt & Robert Northcutt
Luellen Wolsing, Reporter

Perhaps Mr. Robert Northcutt, Kenton County's Dairyman of the Year, summed it all up when talking about cows he said, "They are just like people."

On his and his father's 144 acre farm, just off Route 17 he is milking 18 cows and milks as many as 24 at times. Altogether he has 33 cows, he raises corn, hay, and a crop of tobacco. His corn goes into a 150 ton trench silo, which is later fed to his cattle.

He keeps his own records on the wall of his ten year old parlor because he says if you do not the poor cattle are overfed, and the good cattle are underfed.

His milk that is picked up every day pours into his 305 gallon tank from his pipeline. This pipeline is one of the few in Kenton County.

With today's rising costs, uncertain weather conditions and other problems in the industry, Mr. Northcutt says, "You have to weather the storm."

... about your Social Security

Students and other people planning to get summer jobs should apply without delay for a Social Security number if they don't already have one, according to John Walter, Social Security District Manager in Covington.

"Some employers won't hire you unless you have a Social Security number," Walter said. "Delaying your application might prevent you from being hired or cause you to lose time and money."

People can get information about applying for a Social Security number by calling or writing any social security office.

"You should apply for your Social Security number at least several weeks before you need it for a job." "When you don't recall having had a Social Security number before, your application is screened against central files in Baltimore to make sure a second number isn't issued to you. And screening takes time."

A worker builds disability, survivors, retirement, and medicare protection by work and earnings credited to his Social Security number. He gets credit if he's paid $50 or more in a three month calendar quarter in work covered by Social Security.

More than nine out of 10 jobs are covered by Social Security.

Senator Dee Huddleston

REPORTS TO THE PEOPLE OF KENTUCKY

Senator Walter Dee Huddleston has raised a number of questions and expressed serious reservations about the proposed sale of Peabody Coal Company to the Tennessee Valley Authority. Huddleston did so at a hearing before the Senate Public Works Committee.

"I am sympathetic with TVA's objective of guaranteeing a coal supply at lower prices in order to reduce the cost of electricity to their consumers," the senator said. "But the prospect of an independent government agency buying the largest coal producing company in the country raises very serious questions."

"Do we want to inject the federal government further into private enterprises? Do we want a federal agency competing with private concerns? If TVA Plans to supply only their own needs with Peabody coal, what happens to their other suppliers, especially small independent operators in Kentucky?"

"In Kentucky, Peabody pays more than $7 million in severance taxes, not counting corporate income and other taxes. But TVA is exempt from taxation at the state and local level. Would this exemption extend to Peabody?"

Huddleston said these and other questions must be examined in great detail before any sale is approved. "The ramifications on the coal industry, the nation's energy supplies, and the free enterprise system as a whole mandate such an inquiry," the senator added.

Are Ford & Nato Wising Up To "Detente?"

BY
M. GENE SNYDER
U.S. CONGRESSMAN
4th District, Kentucky

On May 30th, after meeting in Brussels, Belgium, and The North Atlantic Council - the heads of state and government of the North Atlantic Treaty Organizations - issued a communique which stated, "The armed forces of the Warsaw Pact continue to grow in strength beyond any apparent defensive needs."

President Gerald Ford and the other NATO Leaders in that single sentence publicly recognized the reality of the increasing military threat of the U.S.S.R. and its Eastern European satellites to Western Europe. There is little doubt but that this, in turn, strongly influenced the United States Senate which in the aftermath of the Vietnam debacle, took up our defense budget last week.

On the other hand, the NATO leaders did not openly recognize detente as the makes it is for unrelenting Communist aggression. In fact, they affirmed it as a positive condition, although they declared a need for allied strength within that condition. The communique contained these two specific references to detente:

"The collective security provided by the alliance, on the basis of a credible capacity to deter and defend, is a stabilizing factor, beneficial to international relations as a whole, and indeed an essential condition of detente and peace."

"They (The NATO Allies) reaffirm that there is an essential connection between detente in Europe and the situation relating to Berlin."

The Free World has always been able to see danger in the military build up of Communist dominated countries. But it has usually failed to recognize the danger in the psychological and sociological warfare maneuvers of the Communists. Their whole purpose in proclaiming the concept of detente has been to tempt free men into yielding more and more to Communist demands. They know that a world tired of wars wants a relaxation of tensions and will give much to achieve it. Consequently, Communists live and thrive on the creation and worsening of tensions through which they can gain more and more.

The NATO communique, except for the first statement I quoted, was not very strong. However, President Ford spoke tough language in Brussels that might hopefully indicate a no nonsense approach on his part to future dealings with the Communists but though still giving lip service to detente. For example, he said NATO members need to cooperate more "in developing a productive and realistic agenda for detente - an agenda that serves our interests and not the interests of others who do not share our values." Certainly the Communists don't share our values. Only time will tell whether Mr. Ford will do what this statement seems to imply - to be as realistic about our own interests as the Soviets have been about theirs, and no longer be taken in by them. He said of the American people, "We have the willpower, the technical capability, the spiritual drive and the steadfastness of purpose that will be needed." This was well said, and true . . . provided he makes and keeps our national purpose crystal clear in the face of the continuing Communist drive for world conquest and our destruction.

Cincinnati Bell Makes It Easier

Cincinnati Bell is changing its telephone number to make it easier for Greater Cincinnati, Greater Hamilton and Clermont County customers to call the Company's Business Office.

Beginning June 9th the firm's General Office number will change from 396-9900 to 397-9900. Also, on that date a new "Direct Inward Dialing" method will begin for customers wishing to call the Business Office. The new system eliminates the need for calls to be routed through an operator before reaching the desired party.

Residence customers wishing to call the Business Office will dial "565" plus the First Four Numbers of their home phone numbers; for business customers, "566" plus the First Four Numbers of their business phone number. Calls will be routed directly to the Service Representative that is in charge of the proper records.

Here's an example of how the new system works: Say your residence or business telephone number is 999-1234, and you want to call the Business Office to ask a question about your telephone service. A residence customer will dial "566-9991" a business customer, "566-9991". In either case the call will go directly to the person handling the records without having to go through one of Cincinnati Bell's switchboard operators.

The new numbers apply to all calls except those for repair or requests for new service. Customers seeking either new residential or business service should dial 565-5551. Repair service numbers remain the same (611 for most customers.)

All Harrison, Ohio and Gallatin, Grant and Pendleton County, Ky. customers will continue to dial their local Business Office number.

Greater Hamilton and Clermont County customers who must dial an access number before making a local call should continue to dial that number first.

Dialing instructions for all areas served by Cincinnati Bell can be found on pages three and up to page eleven in the front of the new "Cincinnati Area" telephone directory, being delivered now to all Cincinnati Bell customers.

The Business Office number to dial will be shown on the monthly bill of each customer.

During the dust storms it was often impossible to see for more than a few feet and many people wore masks to protect their throat and lungs.

SERMON

Is The Bible Relevant?

Psalm 18:7-11; Matthew 4:1-10

John Z. Adams once said, "I speak as a man of the world to men of the world; and I say to you, Search the Scriptures! The Bible is the book of all others, to be read at all ages, and in all conditions of human life; not to be read once or twice through, and then laid aside, but to be read in small portions of one or two chapters every day, and never to be intermitted, unless by some overruling necessity."

These are the words and thoughts of one who had evidently experienced the relevance of the Bible to everyday life.

To answer the question posed by the title of this lesson one must consider the contents of the Bible.

The Contents

Psalm 19:7-11

This passage assures us that what we speak of as "the Bible" contains "the law of the Lord." In every part of the Bible is revealed the will of God. God made His will known to Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden. He made His will known to the people in the days of Noah. God revealed His will to the children of Israel, especially at Sinai. In the New Testament God has spoken to us through His Son. Jesus came to reveal the will of His Father.

The Bible contains the testimony of the Lord. God spoke and men wrote. The statutes and commandments of the Lord are in the books of the Bible. Instructions on life's greatest issues abound in the Bible.

What is the character of the Bible? By this question is meant the nature, the integrity, the disposition of the Bible.

The Character

Matthew 4:1-4

We are again reminded in this passage of the flesh and blood situations which brought to us the word of God. The Bible was written to deal with life. Life is a struggle in any age. Man has a foe, an enemy, an accuser.

Jesus set Himself to do the will of His Father. Once that decision was made public, as at His baptism, all the forces of evil redoubled their efforts. The battle was joined. After forty days of spiritual preparation

Jesus was hungry. There is no bread but there are some stones nearby. He could turn them to bread and satisfy His hunger. He could also meet the needs of hunger and poverty all over God's world! This is a temptation to misuse His relationship to the Father.

Jesus met that temptation with a passage from the Old Testament (Deut. 8:3). It had been centuries since that passage was first written down, but it was relevant in that crucial hour!

The Bible is relevant because it is God's Word and God's Word is eternal. Another proof that the Bible does meet the needs of every age is the comfort it brings to all who make its content a part of life.

The Comfort

Matthew 4:5-10

Jesus found more than just "a way out" by His use of the Scriptures. He found encouragement, strength and comfort. Let us bear in mind that these temptations were not mere sham battles with Satan. They were battles to the death. They were designed to be appealing even to God's own Son. This enemy of righteousness is the same one who deceived the first man in the Garden of Eden. Thanks be unto God that he did not deceive the Last Man in the wilderness or in the Garden of Gethsemane!

Senior Citizens

Met At Church

Rev. Melvin Riley led the devotional period and Mrs. Ballinger recognized the Birthdays of the month and also Father's Day. Mrs. Marie Rich gave a poem dedicated to all fathers for their day of being recognized.

Those present were Marie Rich, Ruby Armstrong, Stella Webster, Gert Oebxly, Ethel Wiehl, Lida Rue, E. Mann, G. Rapp, C. Binder, C. Ballinger, K. Galloway, R. Hutchins, Walter Wolf, Mr. and Mrs. H. Kindling

One of the daily tasks I had as a boy growing up in Noetown, a small settlement west of Middlesboro, Ky., was chopping "kindling." This term probably does not mean anything to most youngsters today, but to anyone who ever warmed himself or ate meals prepared on a coal burning kitchen stove, the mere mention of "kindling" brings back memories: the smell of wood and coal crackling on a frosty, winter morning; of bacon sizzling in an iron skillet; and of coffee perking.

Since the fire in my mother's "Majestic" cookstove burned out during the long, cold night, the chopping of kindling was a duty I performed late every afternoon. It wasn't an easy job, especially on rainy days when everything was wet! My brother Leroy had the companion responsibility of carrying into the kitchen two heaping buckets of coal which Mom used to build a warm fire each morning.

Frequently, Dad would remind Leroy and me to get in the kindling and coal. I could never understand why we had this to do, but since reaching adulthood, I realize that he was trying to develop within us a sense of responsibility. Sometimes now I wish there were still an abundance of these stoves so that my children could learn as I did.

One morning about 4:00 a.m. Dad shook me out of sleep to tell me that I had forgotten to cut kindling the day before.

I had to leave my warm bed and shiver into the darkness and find wood to cut. With teeth chattering, I finally found enough dry wood to build a fire, but I didn't soon forget the lesson I learned that deary morning.

Sometimes think that growing up is the hardest part of a person's life. And learning doesn't come easy. When I first began giving my sons a weekly allowance, a privilege I allow my wife, Joyce, since she began working, I knew they had to learn the hard way. That is, they must learn not to "Spend it all in one place!" That isn't hard to do nowadays, either!

One week my younger son, Mike, spent his allowance soon after he received it. Later in the week he saw an article in a store he had wanted for a long time - but his allowance was gone! I had to explain to him that he should save for situations such as this, but he still wanted Daddy to buy the toy for him. And I don't really know whether he wanted it more badly than I wanted to purchase it for him. But, there was a lesson to be learned here, and I explained that he would just have to wait until he received his next allowance.

Some of the important lessons life teaches us are not learned in a classroom!

There are times when you just know you'll get a hit—until you swing and miss that third strike!

Success is never certain in this world—even to the fellow with confidence written all over his face.

Frequently, achievement comes with giving your best when you're not convinced your best will be enough.

Religion cannot guarantee success to any man.

It promises all men the spiritual impetus to realize their best.

When you come to church next Sunday, you'll gain a deeper understanding of your virtues and of your faults.

Such understanding—with God's help and God's forgiveness—inspires us to give our best to every challenging opportunity.

Flea beetle damage to newly set tobacco is running high in the 1975 crop. The adult beetle is rather small, measuring only about one sixteenth of an inch in length. It is dark brown, with two darker areas on the wing covers. The name flea beetle is derived from the fact that it can hop like a true flea.

Typical damage consists of adult flea beetles chewing small rounded holes through the leaves, especially from the underside. Newly set tobacco plants remain wilted for several days and seem to be especially attractive to the flea beetle. As a matter of fact, you remember the days of hand suckering, don't you? Well, you also remember that the suckers that were cast to the ground seemed to draw the beetles. My point is, let's watch the newly set plants especially close until they become established and really start jumping in growth. Otherwise, we may have severely weakened or killed plants due to flea beetle attack.

There has been a running argument about the degree of damage caused by flea beetles to tobacco, from bed to barn. Well, consider the facts, the flea beetles eat ten times their own weight each day, not much but then there are a lot of them and, flea beetles feeding may predispose the plant to fungus diseases.

We all recognize flea beetles and their damage on tobacco, but do we understand how to control them? There are at least 3 generations of flea beetles per year in Kentucky. If an insecticide could be applied prior to or at transplanting to reduce the number of first and second brood adults, then season long control might be achieved.

A broadcast soil treatment of a systemic insecticide is the most practical method for the control of this pest on burley tobacco. The preventive control can be achieved by using either granular carbofuran or disulfoton. These materials should be applied as broadcast treatments, disked into top 3 inches of soil, prior to transplanting. If you have not already set your tobacco, you should consider this management option.

If you have already set your crop and did not use a soil systemic insecticide then you should use the economic damage threshold as a guide for timing your spray applications. We estimate that newly set plants with three or more flea beetles per plant should be sprayed. You can choose one of the recommended compounds...Sevin, Guthion, Lannate, Nudrin, Supracide or Orthene.

We believe that sprays are justified on Knee-high or larger tobacco only when there are 25 or more flea beetles per plant.

For further information on rates, compound performance against tobacco insect pests, etc., drop by my office and pick up the free publication ENT-15 entitled, Insecticide Recommendations for Tobacco Fields.

Food Preservation

By: Nancy Norman

Should I use a boiling water bath canner or a pressure canner? It depends on the food to be processed. All canned foods need to be heat processed to kill microorganisms that cause food spoilage.

Fruits, tomatoes, pickles and relishes, and jellies and jams can be processed in the boiling water bath. Low acid vegetables and meats require pressure canning.

A higher temperature - 240 degrees at 10 lbs. pressure - is reached in the pressure canner. This high temperature will kill heat resistant bacteria which includes the ones that cause botulism. Regardless of processing time, the temperature within a boiling water bath is 212 degrees.

There has been a great deal of controversy about whether tomatoes should be processed in the pressure canner. According to the latest research from the University of Kentucky, all varieties of red tomatoes grown in Kentucky have an acid level sufficient to make processing in a boiling water bath canner perfectly safe. In other words, the recommendation for tomatoes remains the same. Open kettle canning is not recommended. Pickle products require a heat treatment to destroy organisms that cause spoilage and to inactivate enzymes that may affect flavor, color, and texture. Fermented cucumbers, fresh pack dill, and sauerkraut are timed from the time the jars are placed in the rapidly boiling water. All other pickles are times from when the water returns to a boil.

For specific processing times for all home canned foods, call or visit your Extension Service to pick up your circulars. The Boone County Office is located in Burlington and the phone is 586-6101.

FEARLESS FORECAST

By: R.W. Lancaster

Thursday, June 19, 1975

Today and tomorrow are both good planting days, plant trees for quick growth and flowers for a good bloom, beans, melons, and squash planted now will have quick maturity and any other above ground crops will do well, and don't forget the pumpkins for Halloween and a few ornamental gourds for the kids.

Friday, June 20th

I forgot to mention that the fish were biting yesterday and also today and tonight but will slack off tomorrow when the moon goes in to the fire sign Sagittarius. This is a good day and the right time to graft some new types of limbs on your fruit trees, maybe your neighbor has a type you would like to try and could spare you a cutting to graft on your present stock. Your county agent will be glad to give all the instructions if you do not understand the process.

Saturday, June 21st

All the planetary aspects indicate a good weekend is in store for us, it is an especially good time for entertaining either at home or visiting, and any outdoor sporting activities will be fun, the fish aren't biting so you will have more time for boating and swimming and maybe learn to water ski. Don't forget your life jacket.

Sunday, June 22nd

Take the advice of E.G. Bulwar the English novelist this Sunday and leave the word "But" out of your conversation, he said, ("But" is a word that cools many a warm impulse, stifles many a kindly thought, puts a dead stop to many a kindly deed. No one would ever love his neighbor as himself if he listened to all the "Buts" that could be said.)

Monday, June 23rd

The moon enters the Cardinal earth sign Capricorn at mid morning and we have a full Moon tonight so you can start the week out with some baking while the yeast dough will rise to your satisfaction and the rolls and bread will brown to please any gourmet. If you want to make some quick sales and a fair profit this week get your ad in the paper this morning and then get the merchandise ready for the customers that will be along in a couple of days.

Tuesday, June 24th

The first few days after a full moon is supposed to be exceptionally good fishing so you should do good the rest of the week and have exceptionally good luck over the weekend when the moon goes in to the water sign Pisces. This is also a good time to collect outstanding debts and if you happen to have a few overdue bills get ready to settle up, as Franklin said (Getting in to debt, is getting into a tangleome net.)

Wednesday, June 25th

The moon goes in to the fixed air sign Aquarius this evening so start planning that diet you have been putting off and you will have two weeks of the waning Moon to lose weight, and also a good time to quit any other bad habits as your cultivated habits and desires should lessen with the waning moon. Try it, you don't have anything to lose but some extra weight and some unnecessary bad habits. Fruits and vegetables harvested now through Friday will have good keeping qualities.

TANK Has New Schedule Changes

The Transit Authority of Northern Kentucky announced today that schedule changes will go into effect on June 15th with new services added to the Erlanger, Florence, and Cold Springs, Alexandria areas; effective on June 16th.

New timetables will be available on that date at the Dixie Terminal, TANK's offices and many locations throughout Northern Kentucky area.

New services include #Erlanger - Florence, Sunset, Lloyd, McAlpin and Cowie and #Erlanger - Florence Kathryn, Wallace Curtis and Kentaboo. #15-24 Cold Springs Alexandria, will serve Grants Lick.

Extra runs have been added to certain areas during rush hours and the Main Street, Park Hills will have service every 20 minutes during rush hours. Changes and additions have been made to provide better service, more economically.

For further information please call 431-7000.

Flea Beetle Damage To Newly Set Tobacco

Flea beetle damage to newly set tobacco is running high in the 1975 crop. The adult beetle is rather small, measuring only about 1/16 inch in length. It is dark brown, with two darker areas on the wing covers. The name flea beetle is derived from the fact that it can hop like a true flea.

Typical damage consists of adult flea beetles chewing small rounded holes through the leaves, especially from the underside. Newly set tobacco plants remain wilted for several days and seem to be especially attractive to the flea beetle. As a matter of fact, you remember the days of hand suckering, don't you? Well, you also remember that the suckers that were cast to the ground seemed to draw the beetles.

We may have severely weakened or killed plants due to flea beetle

Get Ready To Can
By: Nancy Norman

Canning time is just around the corner and now is the time to get canning supplies in order.

Check the condition of your boiling water bath canners and pressure canners. Boiling water bath canners should be deep enough to accommodate a rack, the jars, and 2" of rapidly boiling water over the top of the jars.

To check the pressure canner, a pressure gauge should be tested annually. Weighted gauges do not need to be checked but be sure steam vents are open. The petcock should be free from obstruction. The material in the safety valve needs to be firm enough to prevent steam leaks. The rubber gasket should be pliable. If it has dried out, try soaking it in soapy warm water for 15 minutes. If it is still dry, it will need replacing.

Jars should be free from nicks and cracks. Only standard canning jars should be used. A standard jar always has the name of the manufacturer on the side.

Packer's jars such as used for salad dressing should not be used for home canning for several reasons. The glass in packer's jars has not been tempered to withstand the extreme temperature changes encountered in canning. Packer's jars also use a glass that is thinner than that of standard jars and it might not take the pressure and strain during processing. The neck of packer's jars are also shorter which makes it difficult to screw a lid down all of the way. Check your supply of lids and stock up. Jar lid manufacturers assure us that there will be an adequate supply if hoarding doesn't occur. Buy only what you'll use this year.

Another idea is to check other supplies used in canning, such as salt, paraffin, pectin, spices, ascorbic acid and sugar. Only fresh spices should be used.

If you need the most up to date information in canning, call or visit your extension office in Burlington, 586-6101, Ext. 17 or 18.

In 1934, great curtains of dust, were carried clear across the continent to the Atlantic Coast and far out into the Gulf of Mexico.

attack. Consider the facts, the flea beetles eat ten times their own weight each day . . . not much but then there are alot of them . . . and, flea beetles feeding may predispose the plant to fungus disease.

We all recognize flea beetles and their damage on tobacco, but do we understand how to control them? There are at least 3 generations of flea beetles per year in Kentucky. If an insecticide could be applied prior to or at transplanting to reduce the number of first and second brood adults, then season long control might be achieved. A broadcast soil treatment of a systemic insecticide is the most practical method for the control of this pest on burley tobacco. This preventive control can be achieved by using either granular carbofuran (Furadan) or disulfoton (Di-Syaton). These materials should be applied as broadcast treatments, disked into top 3 inches of soil, prior to transplanting. If you have not already set tobacco, you should consider this management option.

If you have already set your 1975 crop and did not use a soil systemic insecticide, you should use the economic damage threshold as a guide for timing your spray applications. We estimate that newly set plants with 3 or more flea beetles per plant should be sprayed. You can choose one of the recommended compounds . . . Sevin, Guthion, Lannate or Nudrin, Supracide, or Orthene.

We believe that sprays are justified on knee-high or larger tobacco only when there are 25 or more flea beetles per plant.

For further information on rates, compound performance against tobacco insect pests, etc., drop by our county extension office and pick up the free publication ENT-15 entitled, Insecticide Recommendations for Tobacco Fields - 1975.

Oldest Pollutant Dust

Russian scientists have melted and evaporated layers of snow found in glacial crevasses of the Caucasus Mountains to find how much dust fell in a year's snow.

At the University of Wisconsin, computers are used to try to discover what effect dust may have on worldwide temperature patterns.

Climatologists know that dust particles suspended in the air affect weather and climate, often becoming the center around which raindrops and snowflakes form.

Dust can also affect the amount of the sun's radiation that reaches the earth.

Always a pollution problem on unpaved roads, dust stirred up by moving vehicles makes a mess of everything in its path including people, nearby homes, lawns, and crops. A light spray of calcium chloride will keep dust on the road, where it belongs.

Verona Alumni Association

The consensus of opinions of the members of the Verona Alumni Association seems to be as someone once said "Tempus sure does fugit." Latin for time sure does fly.

It seems to each of us to be but a few short months since we proudly (but with shaking knees) marched across the stage of the Verona High School to receive our diplomas. This entitled us to membership in the Verona Alumni Association.

Through the years some have lost interest in old friends and do not return to our annual reunion and banquet, but many come or write to let us hear where they are, in what they are presently engaged and why they could not attend. These letters are greatly enjoyed by their friends in attendance.

The fifty first (51st) annual banquet of the Verona Alumni Association was held in the dining room of the Walton Verona Elementary School in Verona June 14th. The Auxiliary of the Verona Volunteer Fire Department served a delicious chicken dinner. The tables were decorated in red, white, and blue in keeping with our Bi Centennial years.

The class of 1925 was honored since this was their 50th anniversary and two of the class members, John Sullivan and Louise Johnson have gone to their Heavenly Home. The remaining members were 100 percent in attendance.

The business session was conducted by President Donald Kemper, during which time it was decided to send a gift to Booth Memorial Hospital in memory of Margaret Sturdivent Schilling, an Alumni Member who passed away during the current year.

New officers elected for 1976 are: President; William Vest, Vice President; Fred Hamilton, Secretary and Treasurer; Marion Waller, Recording Secretary; Clifford Myers.

Entertainment was furnished by the Servants II, vocalists accompanied by a pianist and guitarists. This was enjoyed by all. After the entertainment a time of reminiscing was spent with friends of yesteryear.

Those in attendance were: Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Roberts, Mr. and Mrs.

Lester McBee, Mr. and Mrs. George Powers, Mr. and Mrs. Rickman Powers, Mrs. Helen Steele, Mr. and Mrs. David Steele, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Garrison, Lloyd Waller, Clayton Renaker, Mrs. Ruby Goderives, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Myers, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kemper, Mr. and Mrs. William Vest, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Waller, Mr. and Mrs. Hess Vest, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Harris, Elizabeth Kemper, Lillian Stephenson, Ida Mae Eliotson, Helen Chipman, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Porter, Dr. and Mrs. William Waller, Mr. and Mrs. William McNeely, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Connelly, Mr. and Mrs. Fernot Blackburn, Alberta Collins, Frances Balckburn and Mr. and Mrs. Robert K. Porter.

"Pick Me Ups" To Try Now

A summer picnic can be a delightful change of pace for the entire family, and a few special touches can make picnicking easier and more fun for everyone.

Pack all picnic items, including food, silver or plasticware, paper plates, and napkins, plastic glassware and cups, in a large tote basket. It's much easier to find everything if it's all together.

Try making hamburgers ahead. Form patties, add salt and seasonings, chopped onions if you like, wrap them in foil (6 to a package with Cut Rite wax paper in between the patties to prevent sticking together) and freeze. By the time you arrive at your picnic spot and get the grill going the hamburgers should be thawed and ready for cooking.

Fresh corn on the cob makes a picnic perfect. Don't try to pick off the corn silk - take a damp, clean paper towel and rub downward on the ear. The strands will come off easily.

Take along colorful place mats and decorated napkins. Because they're paper, they can be tossed away in the trash can when the picnic is over for less clean up and less to carry home. Kids and picnics often add up to messy hands and faces. Take along plenty of damp, clean paper towels in a plastic bag for sticky fingers and faces or anything else that needs a quick wipe.

Hurricane lamps make an ideal centerpiece for picnic tables. They're colorful and particularly useful as the picnic runs into the late evening hours.

Be considerate and clean up after your picnic so the spot will be nice for others. Put all disposable items in a trash barrel. If no trash barrel can be found, take your trash home in a plastic bag or disposal.

Last year we brought you
$1,049,000,000 worth of furniture.
You've got a lot riding on us.

furniture rode our rails in 1974.

We estimate that the manufacturer's value of furniture we shipped amounted to $1,049,000,000.

And when you put Southern's shipments together with all other railroads, you've got almost half of all the furniture Americans buy.

Why do the furniture industry and so many other industries ship by rail? They know it's usually the most economical way to go.

Consider these figures for the thousands of things shipped by rail.
The average cost per-ton-mile by truck is three times as much as rail.
Air shipping is almost forty times more expensive.

And the fuel crunch has made railroad efficiency more than just a matter of dollars and cents. It's a matter of delivering the goods with the smallest possible use of fuel.

Then there's the reliability of rail shipping. Add this on to everything else and you have a good idea why there's so much riding on us. And why you need Southern.

So next time you sit back in your easy chair remember, it probably rode the rails to your living room.

Veterans Report

Veterans Administration payment tapes for GI Bill education checks due 219,279 veterans were being processed at the Department of Treasury disbursing office in Kansas City, Mo., within minutes after the President signed the $15 billion second supplemental bill.

This was reported today by Richard Roubush, Administrator of the VA, who said VA had been assured by Treasury Department officials that they would do everything possible to process the checks and place them in the mail at the earliest possible moment.

The payment of GI Bill education checks had been halted since June 1st when funds in VA's education and training accounts were depleted.

Roubush said the VA had continued completing all of the paperwork processing for each of the delayed payment cycles just as though the checks were going to be paid on schedule. As a result, he added, VA processing was already done when the President signed the bill into law and veterans were thus assured of no administrative delay in the VA.

In addition, a VA courier had flown the completed payment tapes from the Agency's computer center in Hines, Ill., to Kansas City for immediate delivery to the Treasury office as soon as the President approved the legislation.

A total of $62,839,000 is represented in the 219,279 checks now being processed in Kansas City. The sum includes $45.7 million due 158,686 veterans for delayed payment tapes that normally would have gone to Treasury on June 2nd, June 6th and June 9th.

Another $17,162,000 for an additional 60,593 veterans was included in the tape delivery for the regular VA pay cycle due at Treasury on June 13th.

With the supplemental money now available, Roubush said additional VA payment tapes due at Treasury on June 16th, June 20th, June 25th and June 27th will be delivered promptly on the due dates.

The vast majority of GI Bill checks due veterans trainees were paid on schedule June 1st before VA ran out of money. These June 1st checks, totaling some $222 million, were sent to more than 900,000 trainees.

... about your Social Security

People should promptly report changes in circumstances that could affect their Supplemental Security Income Payments and should not wait to hear from Social Security, according to John Walter, Social Security District Manager in Covington.

The Supplemental Security Income Program makes monthly payments to people with little or no income and limited resources who are 65 or over or blind or disabled. Eligibility and monthly payments amounts can be affected by changes in income, living arrangements, marital status, and other circumstances.

"To get the right Supplemental Security income checks to the right people on time," Walter said, "The Social Security Administration periodically contacts people getting payments to review their eligibility and monthly payment amounts."

"But we may not be in touch with people as often as their circumstances change," he said. "So they should report changes to us as promptly as possible."

People have 30 days to report changes that affect their Supplemental Security income payments. Failure to report change or delay in reporting can mean penalty reductions in payments.

The Greater London Council that runs Britain's largest city ordered eighty new subway cars. When delivered recently, they were found to be too big to go through the subway tunnels. The Council, having already saddled taxpayers with $65 million worth of oversized subway cars, decided to lower the tracks so the cars would fit the tunnels at an unannounced additional cost.

This bureaucratic achievement should destroy the concept that government can do everything better than free enterprise, and that bigger government can do it even better. Our country has been deluded by another fable that as a people we can spend ourselves into prosperity. As of May 31st, the national debt stood in excess of $529,170,000,000. But we have inflation and recession, not prosperity.

Six weeks ago I reported in this column that I was supporting a Constitutional Amendment Resolution, H.J. Res. 318. This would require a balanced Federal budget on an annual basis. Subsequently, I have also sponsored House Joint Resolution 471. This calls for a Constitutional Amendment that would go still further, requiring that the national debt be repaid over a one hundred year period. Every ten years one tenth of the debt would be repaid. This Amendment would first prevent additional annual inflation of the currency through government borrowing that would drive all consumer prices up higher, and second, would gradually reduce the impact of current inflation by the liquidation of those hundreds of billions in indebtedness.

The Pied Piper officials, who have for decades spent public money far in excess of tax incomes, have almost bankrupted whole communities, and will, if unchecked, wreck the entire country. An outstanding current example is the great city of New York, which recently found itself unable to sell its municipal bonds because of public loss of confidence in its ability to pay off on them. Debt-ridden New York is on the verge of laying off some 50,000 city employees. While this is a traumatic experience for the individuals concerned, tens of thousands of people were hired in previous years when the city's shaky finances made it highly imprudent to expand its payroll. But borrowing money to provide more government jobs prevailed in New York just as it did in Washington, on the theory that an outpouring of public money for public services would stimulate the whole economy as a result. What really took place was that higher costs and taxes forced more and more companies to flee the city to other locations. This in turn deprived the city of jobs and tax income.

What has happened to New York can happen to the U.S.A. unless common sense returns to the halls of Congress, and Federal spending is kept within the bounds of Federal income.

Short Takes On Home Gardening

Thin Garden Seedlings - One of the worst mistakes a gardener can make is to leave his plants too thick, according to C.R. Roberts, Extension vegetable specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. Seedlings that are too close together compete for light, air, and moisture, become spindly, and are likely to produce poorly. Since sowing just the right number of seeds for a perfect stand is difficult, it is easier to sow seeds thickly and then thin the seedlings to provide adequate growing space. Check the back of the seed packet for information on spacing of seedlings or ask your county Extension agent for information on this and other garden topics.

Insect control in the small garden - Much can be done in the small garden to control insects before resorting to insecticides, says W.W. Gregory, Extension entomologist at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. First, plant vegetables varieties resistant to insects and diseases, if such are available. Keep down insect harboring weeds around the garden. Check the garden every day or so for signs of feeding, boring or cutting. Look under leaves for clusters of insects eggs and larval activity, and look closely at the actively growing tips of plants. When practical, hand pick and squash or otherwise destroy all injurious insects and their eggs. If this method fails, then start using insecticides.

The New Washbasket

Time was when "wash day" meant just that - a full day of backbreaking toil for the homemakers, boiling and scrubbing clothes, wringing them out and hanging them up to dry - all by hand.

The modern automatic washers and dryers have changed all that, but now it has become a vital necessity for the homemaker to use these costly appliances properly to achieve satisfactory results. Here are some pointers.

Load the washer loosely don't stuff it, only wash one king or queen size sheet per load. Clothes must flow freely through the water. Also, overloading causes excessive strain on the motor.

Overloading is a dryer taboo, too. It strains the machine takes clothes longer to dry and causes wrinkling.

Clean the lint filter after every washload.

Tallying up the value of all cattle on U.S. farms last January 1, you arrive at $21 billion... equal to the combined value of this country's farm exports in fiscal 1974.

If this sounds like a record, your memory is failing. Recall that in 1974 the cattle inventory chalked up a worth of $41 billion at a time when the herd was 4 million smaller than now. To the cattleman, this tune is as familiar as "Home on the Range" and it goes by the title of cattle cycles.

Every 10 or 12 years the growth in beef supply finally outruns consumer demand, explains one cattle expert. The upshot is a break in cattle prices. He adds this footnote: "Although the cyclical transition in the mid-1970's is not without precedent, it is producing the greatest financial hardship for cattlemen in 20 years."

Since late 1973, cattle feeders have reported losses of $50 to $200 per head, even though prices of fed cattle last year averaged the second highest on record. And the men selling those cattle to the feeders watched their prices nosedive 50 percent between 1973 and 1975.

The break in cattle prices is worse than usual this time for a combination of reasons: consumer boycotts, Governments price controls, drought conditions, record high feed prices, energy problems, and the ailing economy. But, the industry will recover from the sickbed the expert believes.

"Just because ups and downs in beef production and cattle prices have existed for a long time provides little consolation for cattlemen now. It does, though, provide a basis for optimism about the future."

"A healthy and profitable cattle industry has emerged from low points in the cycle after large inventories have been worked down for a year or this time will be no exception."

Gardening Tips from Extension Specialists at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture

From the earliest times, growing plants has challenged the skill and imagination of mankind. For a few pennies and the expenditure of a reasonable amount of elbow grease, the miracle within a seed packet can unfold before one's very eyes. Within a few weeks too, one can enjoy the goodness of fresh vegetables he produced himself.

The fun and challenge of a vegetable garden - and a lot of good eating as well - need not be restricted to those with several acres of land. Actually, every square inch of a homestead lot that is available for plant growth can be utilized. Flower beds, nooks, border areas, and fence rows are excellent places to grow colorful, tasty vegetables.

Something else: actually many vegetables plants are as ornamental and attractive as plants customarily used for borders and flower beds. The only requisites are that most vegetable plants require full sun for most of the day and must be fertilized, weeded and watered regularly.

To give some idea of what vegetable can best be grown in limited space and which may be the most attractive, pole beans, cucumbers, and sweet potatoes make the best cover plants for trellises and fences. Okra, whose foliage, flowers, and fruit make it a very pretty plant, is excellent for screening or background purposes. In addition, many miniature varieties of vegetables are available that are both attractive and space-saving.

Tomatoes probably give the greatest return for the space and effort expended. Properly staked and pruned, they can serve as centerpiece for flower beds or "vegetable beds". A tall tomato plant tied and trained up the side of an out-building is very pretty, indeed. It even prettier surrounded by bell peppers and a border of onions. This combination makes a vegetable bed that will attract the attention, excite the envy, and serve as a conversation piece for the whole neighborhood.

Beans or cucumbers on the lawn fence or front porch trellis, cabbage along the walk, or peppers in beds in the yard will require as much care as if they were in the usual garden plot. It will be necessary to check them often for insects and diseases and, if such are found, treat them with the same remedies as those in the garden.

Mulching around the plants will cut down on the weeding, conserve moisture and help define the border area or vegetable bed. And some kinds of mulch will also add to the beauty of the area.

To keep fruiting vegetables in full production for a greater length of time, harvesting mature fruits often, even though a surplus may already be on hand.

How To Enjoy A Vacationless Summer

If you find your family sulking in the sultry weather because it's no vacation year for you, lead them into spirited fun by declaring a surprise backyard party. Provide them with a feast they'll long remember but prepare an easy menu so that you can enjoy the day, too.

Picnic Heroes are special, delicious, but simple to do: instant onion soup make the basis for a tasty barbecue sauce for grilled sausage - mushroom - green pepper kabobs. Serve on rolls and pour over the extra sauce for a savory touch. A green salad and iced tea will perk up the taste buds as well as the spirits.

Picnic Heroes
2 enveloped Lipton Onion Cup a Soup
1 can tomato sauce
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 pound Italian sausage, cut into one inch pieces
1/4 pound fresh mushrooms
1 green pepper cut into chunks
4 hero rolls, split

In small saucepan, combine instant onion soup, tomato sauce, sugar, and vinegar; simmer 5 minutes.

On 4 skewers, alternately thread sausage, mushrooms, and green pepper; grill or broil, turning frequently and brushing with sauce; until sausage is done. Slide kabobs onto rolls; top with remaining heated sauce. Makes 4 servings.

A Berry Cheesy Quick Bread

Enticing cheesecake aroma tells you you're in for a special treat when you bake A Berry Cheesy Quick Bread. Just sample a warm square topped with plump strawberries and savor the cheesy filling nestled between light, lemony layers. You'll never let it be.

There's no need to fuss with grating rind or squeezing juice for that delicate flavor cheesecake eaters love. Instant lemon pudding mix does the trick. Another time saver, white frosting mix, is blended with cream cheese to create the fluffy, rich filling.

Serving A Berry Cheesy Quick Bread for dessert is one way to help your family meet its daily bread requirements. Prepare the coffee cake with enriched flour and everyone gets the benefit of the three essential B Vitamins.

A Berry Cheesy Quick Bread
1 coffee cake
3 cups flour
1 package of instant lemon pudding mix
1/4 cup sugar
2 tablespoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups milk
1/4 cup oil

Fluffy Cheesy Filling
Sliced Strawberries
Strawberry Preserves

Stir together dry ingredients. Combine milk and oil; add all at once to flour mixture, stirring only until flour is moistened. Spread half the batter over bottom of greased 9 inch square baking pan. Pour Fluffy Cheesy Filling over batter. Spoon remaining batter over filling. Bake in preheated 375 degrees oven for 45 to 50 minutes or until golden brown. Cool slightly and place sliced strawberries on top and glaze with strawberry preserves.

Fluffy Cheesy Filling
1 package fluffy white frosting mix
2 packages cream cheese, softened

Prepare frosting mix according to package directions. Blend in cream cheese.

Better Eating Kitchen Almanac

Use fruit cocktail syrup as liquid for cooking rice. Add orange marmalade and fruit cocktail to rice and chill. Serve topped with whipped cream. Need shredded cheese? It takes about one half pound of cheese to make two cups of shredded cheese.

What is "corned beef"? The National Live Stock and Meat Board says the term generally implies a beef brisket that has been cured in a processing solution called "pickle". Sometimes pieces of round, chuck, or plate - as well as brisket - are "corned". The name comes from an earlier method of processing in which beef was cured by sprinkling with coarse grains of salt, called "corns".

Stale Bread? Try this trick: Lightly moisten the top and bottom crusts with a few drops of water. Wrap the loaf tightly in aluminum foil and heat for 15 minutes in a 400 degrees oven.

It's easy to plan nourishing, well balanced breakfasts. One simple, easy to follow formula consists of fruit or juice, cereal with milk, bread and spread, and a beverage.

What kind of recipes do women like? According to one study, the order of preference is: Salads (29%), quick and easy dishes (26%), and casseroles (20%).

Staggering Statistics - Fresh pizza is over a $4 billion per year industry. Here's the best excuse we've ever heard for using an automatic dishwasher: over a 15 year period, a homemaker can spend up 6,240 hours washing dishes by hand. (That's a whopping 780 eight hour days!!!) If you are planning remodeling your kitchen, a dishwasher should be a must. You don't have to wait to remodel, however. Here's a tip from researchers at KitchenAid - one of the country's leading appliances manufacturers: consider a convertible portable dishwasher. You can use it as a portable now - without installation - and build it in when you're ready.

But you didn't know: the spread and popularity of peanuts in the United States is credited to three things - (1) the Civil War, (2) the circus, and (3) baseball.

BEECHGROVE HOMEMAKERS

Mike Fink's Restaurant was the dining place for fourteen Beechgrove Homemakers and some guests on their meeting day June 19th. Quite a selection of food was available and everyone enjoyed their meal. The members at the restaurant were: Susan Kelly, Ruth Ann Andrews, Ann Wolsing, Loretta Dewald, Loretta Sterbling, Margaret Dickson, Betty Skelton, Joan Ellis, Ruth Powers, Minnie Letcher, Alice McHale, Ruth Kelly, Ronnie Mutch and Carrie Hall.

After leaving the "steamboat", members went to Mary Jane Kleemeier's Keyboard Laboratory in Florence, Kentucky, where the meeting was held in her living quarters. Lemonade and snacks were greatly appreciated by the members. After the meeting, Mrs. Kleemeier had some of her students put on a little program. The demonstration was quite interesting and remarkable. Mrs. Kleemeier was very informative and some of the members tried out these latest techniques while "plunking" on the electric controlled pianos and organ.

In the meeting, the nominating committee gave the following selection of officers who will take office in September. President: Carrie Hall, Vice President: Ronnie Mutch, Sec.-Loretta Sterbling and Treas.-Joan Ellis. Issues and Concerns and Cultural Arts will be taken care of by Ruth Ann Andrews and Alice McHale. A drawing for hostess and co-hostess was made for the next two years.

A picnic is planned for July 27th at Hazel and Roy Kumler's. In case of inclement weather, the picnic will be held the following Sunday. The September meeting will be held at the home of Ronnie Mutch with Georgiana McHale as co-hostess.

FHA Fair

One hundred thirty nine State and Regional Officers of the Kentucky Association of Future Homemakers of America from all parts of the State gathered for the "FHA Leadership Fair" held on June 16-19th. The annual leadership camp involved State Officers training Regional Officers and was held at the FFA Leadership Training Center at Hardinsburg, Kentucky. Advisors of officers served as consultants.

The three day program included sessions on leaderships and responsibility making yearly plans by Regional and State Executive Councils as well as many recreational activities. Some of the highlights of the week included: a presentation by Miss Jewell Ellis, State Director of Home Economics Education, entitled "Judged by Your Manners", and demonstrated appropriate manners for FHA Officers; Mrs. Agnes Foster, State FHA Advisor, used a display of blue ribboned canned foods at a fair in order to encourage regions to become blue ribbon winners.

Those attending from Simon Kenton and representing Region 7 were Martha Tolliver and Mrs. Beverly Searcy, advisor. Their responsibilities at the meeting were to learn duties of the office of 2nd vice president and then train chapters 2nd vice president at fall regional meeting.

The Kentucky Association of Future Homemakers of America is sponsored by the Home Economics Unit of the State Department of Education, Frankfort.

A New Person
In Christ

John 15:1-11

Dr. T. D. Brown used to say to his classes of young ministerial students, "Boys, as long as you stay green you can grow!"

The New Testament places a lot of emphasis on "staying green." Human experience teaches us the tragedy of failing to "Stay green."

The Christian must continue to hunger and thirst after righteousness. He must continue to recognize that he is not sufficient within himself. He knows that the source and fountain of life is Christ Jesus the Lord.

To be a new person in Christ presupposes an attachment to Christ.

Attachment To Christ

John 15:1-3

The grape vine was a common sight in the land where Jesus walked with His disciples. The Old Testament made a number of references to Israel as the vine. God had planted Israel and extended to her His tender and loving care. He had supplied Israel with abundant resources for a productive life. He had done all He could for Israel, but Israel had brought forth wild grapes which were of no use to God or man (Isaiah 5:1-7).

Jesus came saying, "I am the true vine." Where Israel failed, Jesus would be productive. Just as Jesus was the vine, His disciples were the branches attached to the vine. Wherever there was only a superficial attachment that branch would be cast aside. Was Jesus referring to Judas in this saying (verse 2)? It is not enough merely to profess discipleship, there must be that vital union with Christ.

Those who were vitally related to Christ could expect pruning. Only as pruning took place could they expect to bear fruit. God is the vinedresser and He will see to the pruning.

Verse 3 indicates that Jesus was encouraging His followers to grow and bear fruit. He was not threatening them because He saw them as already having been cleansed through His Word. Jesus knew those who were really attached to Him just as He knew those like Judas who were never really of Him (see 1 John 2:19).

Jerel W. Treas
Receives Degree

Rev. Jerel Treas

Jerel W. Treas, a 1971 graduate of Murray State University in Murray, Ky., recently received the Master of Divinity Degree from the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary here during spring commencement exercises.

He is the son of Mrs. Stanley Treas of Paducah, Ky., and the husband of the former Pamela Sue Futrell also of Paducah. Treas currently serves as pastor of New Bethel Baptist Church in Verona, Ky.

William Hull, dean of the seminary's School of Theology, delivered the commencement address. Hull will leave the seminary after 24 years to assume the pastorate of First Baptist Church, Shreveport, La., next month.

Southern Baptist Seminary, the oldest of Southern Baptist's six seminaries, graduated 212 students in the spring commencement. The seminary has three schools: theology, church music, and religious education which prepares men and women for the Christian ministry.

What Excitement!

On Monday, June 16th, the Walton Baptist Church held their first day of Vacation Bible School at the First Baptist Church.

Children from all over gathered for this event which was to take place.

Around 11:30 a.m., horns, children's laughter, and police sirens were heard all through the town of Walton.

This was their annual parade to let everyone know that Vacation Bible School had started.

Commencement Exercises are to be held on Wednesday, June 25th at the First Baptist Church. All ages will be showing and displaying what they have learn in the days of Bible School.

Abiding In Christ

John 15:4-7

It is essential that one be attached to Christ. If one is to bear fruit, he must abide in Christ. He must draw his life from Christ even as a branch receives its life from the vine.

Fruit bearing will be the natural result of abiding in Christ. The branch does not bear fruit by its own strivings and strainings. "The branch cannot bear fruit of itself." The business of the branch is to abide in the vine. The challenge of the Christian is to abide in Christ. The disciple is as much a failure without this abiding in Christ as the branch is apart from the vine.

Verse 6 is a reference to judgment. Failure to abide in Christ is to be useless and lifeless. It would even be a hindrance to the "live" branches! To abide in Christ means that what one needs he will continue to receive from Christ by means of prayer simply by asking!

Affection From Christ

John 15:8-11

God does not receive glory by the number of branches on the vine, but because the branches are continuously bearing fruit. The person who is bearing fruit has the greatest and surest proof that he is a disciple of Jesus.

Jesus inspires His followers by assuring them that He loves them just as the Father loves Him. This is no mere sentimental, emotional affection. No, this kind of love results in a genuine obedience to what He has told us to do!

MOMENTS

Uncle Ancil And A Dime

The other day my oldest son, David, walked up to me and said, "Dad, how are you?" And when he patted me on the back, I knew I was in trouble.

"Ok, Dave, how much do you want?" I asked.

"Well, I guess a dollar would do it, but if you have two that would be better," he answered.

I gave him a dollar, and as he left for the ball game, I thought just how much times have changed since I was a child. Of course, prices are much higher now, and parents have a larger income, but children still cannot understand that there are limits to the family's cash supply.

During my early childhood my relatives visited us quite often. My double first cousins, Ronald and G. W. Morgan, frequently spent a night in our home - and my brother and I usually spent a night with them the next week.

I always looked forward to those visits and we made the best of the time we had together. The grown ups sat on the front porch and talked until late at night and we were permitted to stay up later than usual. Of course, there was no television to silence the conversation and games, and our families just enjoyed each other's company.

One of my relatives whom I really looked forward to seeing was Uncle Ancil. He was married to Mom's sister Mary and they had two boys, Gaylord and Ray.

Uncle Ancil lived in Oak Ridge, Tennessee, most of the time, but their visits back home were frequent. Before he moved his family to Oak Ridge he spent two years in the Army. During that time Mary and Gaylord (Ray wasn't born yet) lived with my grandmother. Gaylord was just learning to talk and to differentiate between the two women in the home, Gaylord's mother was commonly referred to as Little Mom and grandmother was called Big Momma, a name that stuck with her until she died.

Most people outside our family thought our calling grandmother Big Momma was humorous. You see, she would probably weigh 98 pounds soaking wet!

Well, back to my story. Uncle

Ancil usually came to visit us on Sunday afternoon and while our parents visited and talked, we boys explored the woods, played marbles, roley holey, or mumblepeg. Time passed all to quickly, and soon my cousins were called in and good byes were said.

Almost without exception, Uncle Ancil called me and my brother and sisters over - and he gave us all a dime! I thought he must be a rich man to afford that much money. He won my heart and I think of him to this day with great fondness.

A couple of years ago, I was visiting Mom and Dad in Florida, and while I was there Uncle Ancil and Aunt Mary came for a visit.

While we talked I asked Ancil if he remembered giving us those dimes. And you know what he said? He told me that many times he had given us the last dime he had!

When he told me this, my admiration for Uncle Ancil increased 100%!

For centuries men have been using nets to reap the rich harvest of the sea. There is a classic rhythm to the saga of the sea and fishermen. It is a tale filled with danger and persistence—success and failure. Indeed, it is very much akin to life itself.

You may not have to wrest your living from the sea, but you can learn a lesson from those who do. Fishermen the world around are, for the most part, devout folk. They've learned the meaning of faith. They know God. Seldom will you see even the smallest harbor town without a church. There men—and the women who wait for them—go to pray.

Have you been to your church lately?

Double Chocolate Chip Cookies

To a chocolate cookie monster, only one thing can be better than chocolate chip cookies. That's Double Chocolate Chip Cookies - chocolate cookies with chocolate chips.

And during warm weather and outdoor activity, these delectables are more than welcome. Bake a big batch in the morning before it gets too hot. Then pack the cookies for picnics or out of doors snacks.

Enriched self rising flour in the cookies provides a double bonus. First, its convenience makes baking easier. It already contains salt and baking powder. But, more important, three essential B vitamins - niacin, thiamine and riboflavin - and the minerals, iron and calcium nutrients needed everyday for good health, are added in the enrichment.

Double Chocolate Chip Cookies

- 2½ cups enriched self rising flour
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 cup butter
- ¼ cup sugar
- ¼ cup packed light brown sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 3 squares unsweetened chocolate
- 1 cup semi sweet chocolate morsels.

Stir together flour and soda. Beat butter and sugars until light and fluffy. Add eggs and vanilla; beat well. Blend in chocolate. Stir in flour mixture until smooth. Fold in chocolate morsels. Drop by rounded teaspoonfuls onto lightly greased baking sheets. Bake in preheated oven 350 degree for 10 to 12 minutes. Remove from baking sheets and cool on wire racks.

Pineapple Pancakes

Pancakes, American style, usually arrive at the table with a pat of butter and a choice of syrup, jam or jelly. But Pineapple Pancakes, a new and enchanting variation, now appear to claim the crown for pancakes with "pizzazz."

At first glance, these golden rounds may not immediately reveal their secret. At first bite, however, the mystique of new flavors may overwhelm you. You savor the refreshing taste of pineapple, the crunch of nuts and fragrance of orange peel - all combined for a sensational way to breakfast, brunch or snack.

Made with enriched self rising flour these pancakes are also quick to fix as well as nourishing. Quick - because the baking powder and salt are already added to the flour. And nutritious because enriched self rising flour contains three essential B vitamins - niacin, thiamine and riboflavin and plus the important minerals, iron, and calcium.

Pineapple Pancakes

- 1½ cups of enriched self rising flour
- 2 tables. sugar
- ¼ teas. nutmeg
- 1½ cups milk
- 1 can of crushed pineapple
- 1 egg beaten
- 3 table. oil
- ¼ cup chopped nuts
- ½ teas. grated orange rind

Stir together flour, sugar, and nutmeg. Blend together all remaining ingredients; add all at once to flour mixture, stirring only until flour is moistened. Bake on greased preheated griddle

FEARLESS FORECAST

By: R. W. Lancaster
Thursday June 26, 1975

The Moon in the fixed air sign Aquarius today and tomorrow would be a good time to get a long lasting haircut, but if you want it to grow back fast wait until July 9th. Also pick fruit and harvest vegetables these two days for good keeping qualities. Painting done now will penetrate the wood and have good lasting qualities.

Friday June 27th

The planetary aspects indicate that today would be the time to ask for a raise in pay, look for a new position or apply for a loan to put over any business deals you have been planning and read this Spanish proverb before you say I will do it next week, (God keep you from "It is too late" when the fool has made up his mind the market has gone by.)

Pinkeye In Cattle

This is the time of year when cattlemen may notice that animals in their herd are infected with pinkeye. Scientists have not been able to identify with certainty the cause of pinkeye or the way it spreads.

A bacterial organism called Moraxella bovis can often be found in eyes infected by pinkeye. This organism can live in face flies for up to three days, an outbreak of pinkeye is often associated with a high face fly population. A virus disease called infectious bovine rhinotracheitis (IBR) is sometimes associated with pinkeye. Irritants such as intense sunlight, dust, pollen, seeds, awns, and tall grass seem to increase the severity of the disease.

The disease occurs more often in cattle with unpigmented skin around the eyes, but several infections are not uncommon in cattle which have pigmented skin around the eyes.

Saturday June 28th

The Moon enters the water sign Pisces early this morning and stays until Monday evening so you can plan on that fishing trip and make some record catches. The waning moon in a water sign is said to be the best time for home canning and I suppose that would include home freezing. I will study that aspect and let you know what the authorities say, anyway if you are fortunate enough to have a surplus of early fruits or vegetables think how good they will taste about Christmas.

Sunday June 29th

The Moon at apogee on the equator should make for a calm Sabbath and with the intuitive sign Pisces holding sway you might do well to meditate for a short period, and Bishop Hall can best explain why, (It is not hasty reading, but seriously meditating upon holy and heavenly truths that makes them prove sweet and profitable to the soul. It is not the bee's touching on the flowers that gathers the honey, but her abiding for a time upon them, and drawing out the sweet. It is not he that reads most, but he that meditates most on divine truth, that will prove the choicest, wisest, strongest Christian.)

Monday June 30th

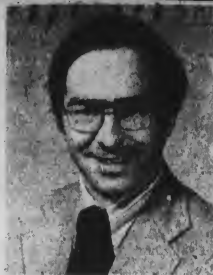

The last day of June and the year is half over, and looking at the positive side and the good planetary aspects in store for us, we know the second half is going to be better than the first. With the national elections coming up next year the politicians are going to listen to the voters this winter and won't dare to get too far out of line or give too many concessions to big business or the utilities we hope. On the local home front, the moon enters Aries and Mars enters Taurus tonight, so we will get a spurt of planetary energy to start the month of July.

Tuesday July 1st.

The moon in the Cardinal sign Aries is a good time to do home baking and an excellent time for house cleaning so if you get your home chores caught up today and tomorrow you will have some free time to enjoy the fourth. The almanac also says that this is the right time for drying apples, but around here that seems to be one of the lost arts.

Wednesday July 2nd.

If you need a new permanent wave try to get an appointment for tomorrow or Saturday morning and the curl will stay in and look nice for a long time; and if you men want your hair to be slow growing back get it cut any time tomorrow. If you want to do some home improvement over the holiday start your painting or concrete work tomorrow and finish up on the fourth and you will be pleased with the results.

a deficiency is suspected, supplemental vitamin A should be supplied by injection.

2. Pasture management. Pastures should be clipped to eliminate seed heads and to keep stubble below eye level.

Cattle which have had pinkeye and recovered from it seem to be immune from further infection, but they can serve as a source of infection for other animals.

There is no single cure-all for pinkeye. The "answer" to the problem is one instance may have little or no effect the next year or in a different herd. However, close attention to the following factors may reduce the number of cases of the disease or its severity.

1. Vitamin A nutrition. Vitamin A helps keep the eye healthy. A deficiency of this vitamin can cause eye problems, but there is no evidence that levels of vitamin A over and above normal requirements can prevent pinkeye. Unless cattle have suffered from a severe deficiency of vitamin A in the winter they should be getting enough of the vitamin if they are on good pastures. Deficiencies may occur, however, if cattle are grazing pastures affected by dry weather. If provide some control of face flies. Fly control should begin early in the fly season.

4. Immunization. An effective vaccine is not available for use against the Moraxella bovis organism. Mixed bovine vaccines have apparently helped in some herds. All herds of cattle should be vaccinated routinely for IBR, this should be done under the guidance of a veterinarian, since there is a possibility of IBR vaccine inducing abortion.

5. Treatment. Several antibacterial preparations are useful in treating pinkeye. If treatment is needed, the preparation should be used in both eyes of all cattle in the herd, thereby reducing the source of new infections.

Eyes affected by pinkeye should be protected from sunlight and other irritants. The animal can be confined to a dark pen, the eyelids can be sutured together, or a patch can be placed over the eye. A simple patch made of burlap and held in place with back tag cement is effective, and commercial patches are also available.

3. Fly control. A dust bag or face wiper containing insecticide and placed so that the cattle are forced to bump their heads against it provides the most effective means of controlling face flies. It can be placed in a gateway through which the animals must pass to get water, or hung in the front of a mineral or salt feeder. Backrubbers will also

Town Meeting Of Independence

By Luellen Wolsing, Reporter

June 26th was the date of an Independence Town Board Meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the Courthouse. One of the main items of the night was the discussion of a city sewer system. Present were the representatives from various organizations concerned. Nothing definite was decided at the meeting.

The next item discussed were complaints about broken subdivision regulations and it was asked if the city could do anything about it. It was explained by city attorney, Wayne Bridges, if a subdivision regulation is broken it is up to the people in the subdivision to file a civil suit, not to the city.

Fire Chief, Warner Cox was asked about the new fire houses. He said that firehouse number two still does not have a plumbing permit but on firehouse three they were to take option on the land.

TANK was contracted about shelters for bus riders by Mr. Pennington. He said that TANK had ordered some before and if any were left over Independence would have a good chance of getting some. Several possible sites were talked about. Possible sites that were mentioned were near the courthouse, near Cherokee Shopping Center and by Nies Drug Store or the school.

It was decided that the council would appoint a member to fill the vacancy left by Paul Cooper. Interviews are to held Thursday on July 4th at seven o'clock at the city office in closed meeting.

A curfew was discussed for the city and several proposals were made but it was decided that this should again be discussed at the meeting after curfew ordinances from other cities were obtained.

Mr. Warren made the motion that a full time police chief be advertised for. The advertisement would run for fifteen days. The starting salary would be $9,000 and at the end of the first year it would increase to $9,250 and $9,500 plus fifteen percent of the salary would be the final pay at the end of the second year.

Day Camps Held

By Luellen Wolsing, Reporter

Two camps were held on June 26th and 27th at the Kenton County Fairgrounds. The first day camp was held by the Expanded Food and Nutrition Families in connection with the Cooperative Extension Service. About twenty children participated in the first day camp. The second day camp was sponsored by the 4-H Extension and about sixty children participated. Those who participated had an opportunity to play ring toss, horseshoes, archery and to make ceramic crafts.

Working in these programs was a new 4-H Summer Assistant, Lee Harless, hired under the Manpower Summer Youth Employee Program. He will be working in the Taylor Mill Area.

Boone and Kenton County Cooperative Extension Services and the Productive Credit Association sponsored a Hay Making Field Day on June 25th. There were eight dealers that came out to show their equipment. They were: Calvin Cress & Sons, Erlanger Tractor Company, John Deere Company, Kenton Tractors Company, Penick Farm Service, Ryan Implement Company, Trapp's Farm Supply and Vermeer Manufacturing.

After the welcome by Kenton County Extension Agent, Darwin Foley, the program began. Demonstrations of mowing, conditioning, and hay were shown using the various equipment. Before each piece was used it was explained by the dealer or representative.

Mr. Ken Evans an Agronomist from the University of Kentucky spoke of hay cutting and how to lesson waste of hay which occurs. Following him was Dr. Russell Bredahl, Beef Specialist, from University of Kentucky gave some comments on the proper storage and usage of hay.

After lunch provided by the P.C.A., demonstrations were continued. Included in these demonstrations were types of hay bayers and machines that handle the finished bale.

Energy Hazards At Home

We have all grown to rely very heavily on the services and conveniences that energy makes possible. Our houses would be quite different without the electricity, natural gas, fuel oil, coal, and gasoline we use every day. These convenient energy forms are used in enormous quantities every day with an almost incredibly good safety record. This excellent safety record has been achieved because our Petroleum, Gas, and Electric companies spend millions of dollars each year improving their products and services to make them safer for our use.

Although these energy forms are indispensable and are usually quite safe, there are hazards associated with their improper or careless use over which the suppliers of this energy have no control. This improper or careless use is responsible for almost one third of the accidental deaths around our homes. The following pages treat some of the common hazards associated with the use of our home energy sources, and suggest ways in which we may reduce our risks.

To maintain the quality of eggs, you buy, pick up the eggs just before you check out of the supermarket and then take them home to the refrigerator as soon as possible. Leaving eggs in a hot car while you do other shopping chores will quickly lower the eggs' quality.

Many insects attack the bean, but the most serious pest is the Mexican Bean Beetle. Both the larva and the adult are injurious and, when present in abundance, they feed on all parts of the plant. The larva feeds on the underside of the leaf, leaving the midribs, veins, and usually the epidermis intact. The adult also feeds on the underside but frequently eats through the upper surface.

SHORT ROWS

Gardening Tips from Extension Specialists at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture

Bicycles

More people are riding bicycles today than ever before. The energy shortage has added further incentive to the increased use of bicycles. Bicycles are an excellent, economical, non polluting form of transportation and they offer good exercise. One should bear in mind, however, that nearly 1000 cyclists are killed and 40,000 are injured each year.

Some safety problems center around the nature of the bicycle itself:

(A) bicycles are difficult to see. They are not as big or as fast or as brightly colored as automobiles. Some motorists do not see them simply because they are subconsciously looking only for cars and trucks, and not bicycles.

(B) bicycles are much slower than cars so they encounter many more autos than would another automobile. The number of chances for an accident are therefore increased. The majority of bicycle accidents are a direct result of cyclist error.

colored and, when full grown is covered with long branched spines.

Another serious bean pest is a small insect called the bean leaf beetle. It is a hard backed critter about one third inch in length, yellowish to reddish in color, with six dots on its wing covers. It looks something like the spotted cucumber beetle and is often mistaken for such. It generally appears earlier in the season than the Mexican bean beetle.

Feeding from the underside, the bean leaf beetle eats large irregular holes in the leaves, a damage sometimes laid to the door of grasshoppers.

The eggs of this beetle are laid on the ground at the base of the plant and the grubs feed on the roots and main stem just below the surface. The insect can produce up to three broods a year.

In a small garden, picking these insects off by hand and squashing egg masses when found may give sufficient control. If this method fails, however, the best chemical control measures for these two pests is dusting with Sevin and or spraying with malathion. These insecticides can be purchased at most farm and garden supply stores. Before using, read the label directions and follow all instructions and precautions listed.

These instructions should be applied to as soon as the eggs are found or as soon as the adults appear in sufficient numbers to do noticeable damage. To be most effective, the insecticides should be applied so as to cover all parts of the plants.

Dusts should be applied early in the morning while the dew is still on the plants and sprays should be applied when the plants are dry, preferably late in the evening so as not to kill foraging bees. Treatments should be made at intervals of three to seven days until the pests are under control.

Camping The Easy Way

Campers are the lucky ones who enjoy the grandeur of the great outdoors as they cook, eat and almost live in all the beauty outside. Part of the delight is when food smells come wafting through the campsite as the chef in charge gets out the skillet and fixes the fire.

An unusual pork and beans scramble is simply delicious, seasoned just as the family likes it. A colorful Mustard and Catsup Set by Tupperware is set outside, so each person can add the condiments he likes. Stacking canisters (in avocado or harvest gold) another modern outdoor necessity are responsible for the ease of the campers' cooking since they keep foods fresh, crisp and just the way they are supposed to be. Candy, crackers, staples, baked goods, and the like are sealed tightly into the 2 quart plastic containers and kept handy in the camper. Nothing spoils! Camping the easy way guarantees delectable dinners, striking scenery and happy holidays for all!

Western Style Beans

- 1 pound ground beef
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1/4 cup chopped green pepper
- 1/2 cup catsup
- 1 tablespoon prepared mustard
- 1/4 tablespoon salt
- 2 16 ounce cans pork and beans

In a 10 inch skillet brown beef, onions and green pepper. Stir in catsup, mustard and salt. Add beans and heat through. Makes 8 servings.

Deep Dish Pizza

- 1 frozen white bread dough
- 1/2 cup tomato sauce
- 1/2 cup canned tomatoes, chopped
- 1 pound ground beef
- 1/2 cup green pepper chopped
- 1/4 cup onions chopped
- 1/4 cup chopped mushrooms
- 8 ounces shredded or sliced Mozzarella cheese
- 1/2 cup grated Tomato or Parmesan cheese
- 1 tablespoon oregano
- 1 tablespoon garlic powder
- salt and pepper

Let dough thaw and warm to room temperature. Shape into a round ball. Roll out to a 12 inch circle or shape to fit the baking dish. Grease baking dish (a 12 inch skillet or pizza pan, or a 13 x 9 inch baking pan). Place dough in baking dish and pat out to edges. Dough will be springy. Let rest for 12 to 25 minutes and pat out to edges again, repeating if necessary.

Combine tomato sauce and tomatoes; set aside. Brown beef; add green peppers, onions, and mushrooms and cook until tender; set aside. When dough fits pan, make a ridge along edge so filling will not run out (do not make holes in dough). Spread with tomato mixture; then with meat mixture. Place Mozzarella cheese on top. Sprinkle with Romano or Parmesan cheese, oregano, garlic salt, and pepper. Bake at 450 degrees for 20 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Green beans should either be frozen or processed in a steam pressure canner says Nancy Norman, Boone County Extension Agent for Home Economics. She explains that pressure canning is a must for most vegetables. Only pickled vegetables and tomatoes can be safely canned by the boiling water bath method.

Even folks with a freezer often prefer canned green beans to the frozen product. Here are directions for canning green beans. Stop by the Extension Service Office in Burlington for your free copy of "Home Canning of Fruits and Vegetables," which will give you step by step directions for canning other produce as well.

Wash beans, trim ends, and cut into 1 inch pieces. Pack raw beans tightly into jars to 1/2 inch of top. Add 1/2 tablespoon salt to pints; 1 tablespoon to quarts. Cover with boiling water, leaving 1/2 inch space at top of jar.

Wipe jar rims clean, adjust jar lids, following the directions that came with your lids. Put 2 or 3 inches of boiling water in the pressure canner. Set filled jars on the rack in the canner spaced so that steam can flow around each jar. Fasten cover securely so that no steam can escape except through the vent (petcock or weight gage opening). Heat canner quickly until steam begins to flow. Leave vent open until there has been a steady flow of steam for 10 minutes to drive out all air.

Close the petcock, or placed weighted gaged on the valve opening, and allow pressure to go to 10 pounds (240 degrees). Begin counting processing time, 20 minutes for pints, 25 minutes for quarts. Keep pressure constant by regulating heat under the canner. Don't lower pressure by opening the petcock. Keep drafts from blowing on canner and when processing time is up, remove canner from heat immediately and allow temperature to go to zero.

When pressure registers zero, wait 2 minutes, the open petcock or remove weighted gage very slowly.

Follow carefully the manufacturer's directions for opening a canner with a weighted gage. (Don't rush cooling by pouring cold water over canner). Unfasten cover, tilting the lid so that steam escapes away for you.

Take jars from canner, one at a time, using a far lifter and thick potholders or mitts. Set jars on a rack or cloth, top side up. Allow space between them for free circulation of air. Keep jars out of drafts. Follow directions for completing the seal if necessary. Then wait 12 hours before double checking seals and storing jars.

This is the raw pack method here for filling the jars. Directions for the hot pack method as well are given in the University of Kentucky freezing manual available in the Extension Office.

Some time ago, Environmental Protection Agency spokesmen declared that sulfur dioxide from coal burning plants endangers human health. But EPA's own funded studies show little connection between sulfur dioxide levels and health.

The use of tall smoke stacks has successfully cleaned up the air in London, England. But proposed changes in Kentucky's Air Pollution Control Regulations ignore tall smoke stacks.

If those regulations are approved, our generating stations will be forced to install unproved "scrubbers" at a cost of approximately 70 million dollars. That's more than the entire construction cost of our two existing power stations. It will increase wholesale electric energy rates by approximately 63%.

Veterans Use The Home Loan

The Veterans Administration suggest that during these times of rising housing costs, veterans interested in becoming home owners should consider the advantages of a GI Loan.

Officials noted the agency has approved nearly nine million loans valued at $111.3 billion since World War II, and more than half the loans have already been repaid in full.

"As buying a home generally is the largest and most important expenditure a family ever makes, care should be taken to insure value received for money paid," officials stressed.

A veteran who buys a home with VA assistance usually finds the loan easier to obtain because the agency guarantees part of the loan. No downpayment is necessary unless required by the lender, or the purchase price exceeds the reasonable value as determined by Recent increases in so called "fringe benefits" accruing to Members of the House of Representatives caused considerable press and public reaction. It is important that this development be seen in its true perspective as a behind the scenes play of the 2 to 1 Democratic majority in the House. The highly objective Congressional Quarterly reported that House Republicans unsuccessfully tried in floor action to overturn the increases in Members' staff and other allowances made solely by the House Administration Committee on which Democrats outnumber Republicans 17 to 8.

In July 1971, over Republican objections, the Democrat controlled House passed House Resolution 457 which empowered the House Administration Committee thereafter to effect these "housekeeping" measures automatically without any vote of the full House. This so called "streamlining" of procedures was ostensibly for the purpose of eliminating the necessity of debating and voting on an average of ten "minor" resolutions each session of Congress. I voted against this unwise and inflationary move.

In the four years following that

VA. The loan may be repaid over a long period of time at a moderate interest rate, with the option of paying off all or part of the loan in advance without penalty. VA appraises the home to determine its reasonable value in the market prevailing at time appraisal was made.

The agency also makes available an inspection service, in most cases, on proposed new homes to insure that they meet accepted standards of good construction, and conform to plans and specifications on which the agency's appraisal was based. When there are justifiable complaints, the agency tries to assist in getting the builder to correct defects.

VA advised veterans who want GI Loans to first select a home, then take a certification of eligibility issued by the agency to a private lender, and apply a loan. The agency guarantees 60 per cent to a maximum $17,500 of loans lenders make to eligible veterans.

Questions & Answers

Q. Does the Veterans Administration assist veterans in finding jobs during these times of high unemployment?

A. Yes but although the labor department has primary responsibility, job assistance for veterans is available also through Veterans Assistance Centers in 72 major cities. Suggest unemployed veterans check local telephone directories for locations of these centers after first registering with local state employment offices.

Q. Because I received an honorable discharge from the army two years ago and have decided to live abroad a friend suggested I check with the VA. Why should I?

A. To learn how residence abroad affects veterans benefits. If you have a service connected disability, for example, you should obtain a statement from the VA office, which maintains your medical records. Then should the need arise, the statement and an application for medical benefits could be presented to the American Embassy or consular office in the country of travel or residence.

IT'S VACATION TIME

unwarranted empowering of 25 House Members to make decisions behind closed doors that all 435 should make in full view of the public, increase in allowance have been manifold. Optional lump sums for travel have shot up 300 percent; reimbursed trips to the home district have risen 116 percent; stationary allowances are up 80 percent; district office rentals have gone up 75 percent; telephone allowance units have been raised by 56 per cent, and clerk hire has been increased 62 percent.

These increases in Members' benefits have not been the only "achievements" of the House Administration Committee that the public should have an interest in.

A surprising new amendment to the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971 became effective in January 1, 1975. It came out of that committee but just who originated it remains clouded in mystery. While both the Washington Post and Louisville Times commented on their editorial pages on the amendment whose authorship everyone denied, there was no insistent press follow up such as characterized the Watergate coverage. Yet here, because of its implications, was an item deserving of thorough press investigation and exposure. I refer to the amendment which reduced the statute of limitations for prosecution under the Act from five to three years and applied the provisions retroactively. One wonders for whose benefit such action was deemed so vital since it got anyone involved in illegal campaign contributions off the hook two years sooner than the law previously allowed.

Amazingly, in response to my request, the American Law Division of the Library of Congress stated in writing its inability to determine the amendment's origin.

Verona Women's Softball Tournament

Women's Slow Pitch Softball is fast becoming one of the Northern Kentucky's favorite sports and the Walton Verona area has been one of the big contributors to this summertime activity. The Walton area Women Church Softball League is now in its fifth season of existence and as a result of their participation in the organization many young women have developed themselves into skilled ball players.

We feel now is the time for us to expose our local talent not only to the people of our area, but also to the rest of Northern Kentucky. To enable this general exposure to become a reality, we have decided to have a tournament at the Verona Ballfield on July 4th, 5th and 6th.

This tournament will be comprised of teams from the counties of Grant, Gallatin, Kenton, Boone, and Campbell.

Some of the outstanding teams that will participate are Seven Oaks, consisting mainly of girls who play basketball for Northern Kentucky State College, plus Donna Murphy, all state high school basketball players, and she can play softball too. This team was a recent winner of the Blue Ash Ohio Tournament also we have Ernie Bunch, who were champs in their last Ohio Tournament encounter. Cliff Butlers U.S.A. Team currently one of the stronger teams in the Covington area will be there. Cliff's team has a long history of winning ballgames. Sullivan's Trucking from Warsaw, who was last years district representative to the state tournament will certainly make their presence felt. Sparta will more than likely have one of the most and exciting teams in the tournament.

Other teams participating in the tournament will be Hanna Welding, Boonettes, Boone State Bank, Williamstown Liberty Bells, and Walton Verona All Stars, which will make a total of eleven teams competing in the double elimination tournament.

A variety of refreshments will be available beginning at 9:00 a.m. Friday, July 4th at which time the opening game will begin and proceeds from the concessions will be applied to future improvements of the Verona Ballpark.

Old Mulkey Meeting House

Monroe County

In 1773 Philip Mulkey and a group of Baptists from North and South Carolina settled about two miles from the present town of Tompkinsville. A cabin of rough-hewn logs was erected on a bluff near the present Old Mulkey Meeting House.

By 1798 the building had become inadequate for the congregation, so the present structure was built.

This historic old house of worship was also constructed of rough-hewn logs. It is one of the oldest churches standing in "the west" and historians consider it to be the oldest log meetinghouse in Kentucky.

It is made of half-hewn logs, chinked with rocks and mud. It has a wide clapboard floor and huge crossbeams, and the interior contains peg-leg benches and a rough, handmade pulpit. The roof is of hand-split oak shingles.

The Mulkey Meeting House has 12 corners, representing the Twelve Apostles and symbolic of the Twelve Tribes of Israel. The need for more corners is also pointed out as a necessity. Logs of uniform thickness were not readily available in sufficient length to enclose the size structure desired with four corners, so shorter logs were used for the side walls and rafters, and the construction of twelve corners breaks up the need for long walls.

No heating arrangements were ever made. In cold weather a log fire in the side yard served as a warming place. During services, men of the congregation often took turn in the outside keeping the fire burning and guarding against Indian attack.

The adjoining burial ground includes the grave of Hannah Boone, sister of Daniel Boone, plus the graves of many other pioneer families and Revolutionary War soldiers.

The Need For Christian Growth

(I Corinthians 3:1-4; II Peter 1:3-11)

Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman had this which he called, "My rule for Christian living." "The rule that governs my life is this: Anything that dims my vision of Christ, or takes away my taste for Bible study, or cramps my prayer life, or makes Christian work difficult, is wrong for me, and I must, as a Christian, turn away from it." This simple rule may help you find a safe road for your feet along life's road.

Last week's lesson was about the new person in Christ. The new person in Christ needs to grow in grace and in the knowledge of Christ. Our first passage of scripture deals with the behavior of the person in Christ.

The Behavior of the Christian I Corinthians 3:1-4

Paul, the apostle of the Lord, was writing to Christians in the city of Corinth. He had preached in this city in A. D. 50-51 and a church was founded. The church had many problems within its membership. The apostle Paul saw the primary cause of these problems - their failure to grow to spiritual maturity. He could not address them as spiritually mature persons. They continued to be men of the flesh. That means men dominated by sin and self centeredness rather than by God's Spirit.

They possessed the Spirit but they had not yielded themselves to the leadership and guidance of the Spirit. The result was that they had remained babes in Christ.

They had been Christians long enough to have reached maturity in Christ but they had not grown up. They were still behaving like "a bunch of children." The very fact that jealousy and strife was among them was evidence that they were still men of the flesh, and behaving like unredeemed people.

The Beneficence of Christ II Peter 1:3-4

Failure to grow up in Christ is the fault of the Christian. The divine power of Christ has bestowed upon us everything needed for the progress of life and godliness. The knowledge of Christ and His will for us is available to us. His great and

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our appreciation and thanks to all of the many loyal friends and relatives for their kind deeds during the critical illness of our mother, Savella Parker, during her stay in the hospital and after her passing.

And to all the ministers that visited her there, for all your prayers, to those who sent food, cards and beautiful flowers.

"I Love America Sunday"

July 6th has been proclaimed "I Love America Sunday" at the 2 year old Florence Baptist Temple. The Singing Brown Family from Cincinnati will be the special guest singers at 9:30 and 10:30 a.m. In the 10:30 a.m. service, pastor Wayne Cox will be speaking on the subject "Why I Love America." Everyone is encouraged to wear "Red, White, and Blue" in love and respect of our nation's birthday.

Baptist Temple celebrated its 2nd anniversary on Sunday, June 22nd with a record breaking attendance of 381! Plans are in the elementary stages of building a new 600 seat auditorium on the churches 15 acres located just 3 miles west on Ky. 18 off I-75. For information you may call 371-5107 or 586-6090. Baptist Temple is Northern Kentucky's fastest growing Independent Baptist Church!

precious promises are sufficient to enable us to escape the corruption that is in the world because of lusts, passion, and evil desires. He has made us to become partakers of the divine nature. In other words, Christ has supplied our every need for growth and development. It is His will that every Christian become full grown and useful in the Father's kingdom.

The Building of Character II Peter 1:5-11

The writer seems to have had in mind a building constructed of faith, virtue, knowledge, self control, steadfastness, godliness, brotherly affection, and love. If we think of this as a building, faith would be the foundation and love would be the roof which covers the whole superstructure.

Christians are called upon to become men and women after the order of Jesus Christ. There should be moral excellence and vigor in the life of the child of God. He ought to possess practical understanding in matters pertaining to life and godliness. Self control is essential in a day when sexual looseness is rampant. The Christian ought to be stable under pressure. The word translated "patience" or "steadfastness" literally means the ability to stay under a heavy load. The child of God ought to be like God. He ought to love others and grow more and more into the likeness of Christ.

When these qualities abound in the life of the Christian, that life will grow and the gates of that eternal city will swing wide for him when growth has ended in time and begins in eternity!

MOUNTAIN MOMENTS

My Friend, Theresa

Often my work takes me away from home, and when I am at work in my office the day begins early and ends late.

But since summer is near, the days are longer and darkness doesn't come until near 9:00 p.m. here in Harrogate, Tennessee, where I live.

Those of you who have recently become readers of this column may be interested to know that David and Michael, who are mentioned frequently in Mountain Moments, are my sons. David is 13 and Michael is 10. Their mother is named Joyce, but I'd better leave her age up to your imagination!

My family and I live in a housing development which is arranged in such a way that we have only three close neighbors. Those three neighbors collectively have three children all girls.

If you have followed me this far you have counted 5 children including my 2 sons. In addition, the four families who live in our section have 9 dogs and 2 cats. Sometimes when the dogs across the hill begin barking, things are noisy around our place.

Recently I came home from work at the Clear Creek Baptist School in Pineville and was busily fertilizing the young shrubs and trees in the yard when I was joined by Theresa Buckner, the 4 year old daughter of Bill and Judy Buckner. Theresa lives next door to us and she visits us almost daily during the warm months.

"Well, I'm mixing some food for the shrubs," I answered.

"So then get hungry?" she wanted to know.

"Yes, they do." I said while I walked to the nearest shrub.

"Where you going?" Theresa asked as she walked along with me.

As I continued the chores around the house, Theresa kept me company, occasionally stopping long enough to pick up her little puppy that she has named Charlie

Buckner. "Why you watering that rock?" she asked as I slowly poured the mixture around some flowers enclosed by decorative stones. By this time I had run out of my mixture and returned to the rear of the house to mix another supply. "What you doing?" Theresa again asked and I tried to explain that the fertilizer had to be mixed with water so it can reach the roots of the plants.

In a couple of hours I had watered most of the plants, answered 76 questions, chased two dogs out of the yard, moved the cat out of my way three times, cleaned up two messes Michael made in the yard, got Theresa a drink of water, answered the telephone, rolled the windows up in the car, told Michael 6 times that Theresa wanted him to play with her, built a hut for Michael's Big Jim, and sneezed 15 times.

Later when Joyce came home from the garden where she had been planting some beans, I walked into the kitchen and asked, "What you doing?"

FARM NEWS AND ANALYSIS

By
Darwin Foley
Kenton County
Extension Agent
Extension Is For Everybody

A mother learns to shop wisely at the grocery store and prepare more nutritious, less expensive meals for her family . . .

A farmer produces a better corn crop by using the no-tillage planting method on land so steep that the topsoil would be away if plowed . . .

An inner city girl watches, fascinated, as tiny fruit appear on her tomato plant in a bucket . . .

A town has a fund raising drive to buy new street signs . . .

What do these situations have in common? All resulted largely from programs of the Cooperative Extension Service of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Extension efforts are channeled through four major areas of emphasis: Agriculture, Home Economics, 4-H, and Community Development. Extension agents, located in each of Kentucky's 120 counties, work with farmers and inner city residents with homemakers and civic minded businessmen - with young and old citizens. Every county Extension office is a center of information and assistance to help people help themselves.

Backing the county Extension staffs is a team of area and state Extension specialists working in the departments of the College of Agriculture and College of Home Economics. The day-to-day interchange and joint efforts of these specialists with campus teaching and research staff members insure that needed information will flow to Extension agents in the counties. Just as important, this arrangement insures that problem identified in the field will be communicated to those involved in research.

Extensions uses many channels to communicate its educational information to Kentuckians. County, area and state meetings; publications; exhibits; and personal contacts continue to bring Extension help to many thousands of people annually. State newspapers and local papers help Extension get information to the people. Here in Northern Kentucky a radio program called Northern Kentucky Outdoors is also being used by Extension Agents. It's heard daily on WHKK FM at 730 p.m. Extension agents in Kenton, Boone and Campbell Counties talk about a broad range of topics as of interest to people in Northern Kentucky.

Extension really does offer something of interest to everyone. Stop in our newly renovated office in the Independence Courthouse and see what we have to offer.

Now, as you prepare to fill your freezer with fresh fruits and vegetables, is the time to take inventory of the frozen food you have on hand. For top quality flavor and nutrient content, food should be used each year and not frozen for longer periods. So place foods frozen last year so they will be used before those products put in the freezer during 1975.

Walking

With fuel in short supply, there has been an increase in numbers of people "staying home". Our nation is being made keenly aware of the importance of good physical fitness, so more people are going for walks, as well as walking instead of driving. Figures from the National Safety Council show that 10,600 people are killed annually while walking. At least 70 percent are of all pedestrian fatal accidents occur while crossing the roadway. An additional 10 percent are killed while walking in the roadway. More than 5 percent of the annual deaths resulted from playing in the roadway, and more than 10 percent occurred while standing or engaging in other activities in the roadway. Obviously, then, doing anything in the roadway may not be compatible with our wishes for a long and healthy life!

Tobacco growers should check their fields very closely to keep ahead of budworm developments. You can readily determine if your tobacco needs treating for budworms by checking 100 plants at different locations in the field. You should examine ten plants in each of ten locations.

If five or more plants are infested with live budworms, you have an economic infestation and the application of one of the recommended controls will be profitable. If the budworm activity never reaches this level it does not pay to spray.

Remember to keep nozzles at least 12-18 inches above the tobacco bud when spraying. Also, make sure you are using label rates and not double strength mixtures. Spraying plants with 2x strength mixtures coming out of the nozzles held right at the bud can kill a lot more tobacco than the budworm. We have seen this every year...let's don't have a repeat performance.

There is no substitute for your watchful eye. If you find a 5 percent or higher infestation you should treat with one of the following: Bacillus Thuringiensis, (Biotrol, Dipel, Thuricide) Sevin, Thiodan, Azodrin, Dylox, Lannate or Nudrin, Orthene, or Supracide. Research has shown Lannate or Nudrin, Azodrin, and Orthene to give most effective budworm control. When applying your compound of choice, use a solid cone nozzle held 12-18 inches over the row and apply in minimum of 25 gallons of water per acre.

For further information on performance and rate of these compounds drop by the County Extension Office in Burlington and pick up a free copy of ENT-15 entitled "Insecticide Recommendations for Tobacco Fields - 1975".

Makes Trip

Shirley Johnson, Martha Gross, Rosie Watson and Pauline Flynn enjoyed a ten day vacation visiting different sights of interest. Those places they visited were—St. Louis, Lake of the Ozarks, Silver Dollar City, New Orleans, and then back to Kentucky Lakes. They all enjoyed themselves greatly on their wonderful trip.

Farmer's Calendar

Squire Brown and I are growing old together, and sometimes we like to sit on his porch, to smoke our pipes and watch the moon come up and remember things. Tonight we remember the Fourth of July when squire had just come back as a freshman congressman from Washington. The big American flag floated proudly as the squire talked from the village bandstand. Everybody hung on his words and cheered and cheered as if he were the President himself. The little girls waved their little flags and the boys skimmed their ball gloves over the bandstand. Then the band played the Star Spangled Banner and America and everybody sang.

"You know, Squire," I said, "they should have put up a statue to you." "Pshaw!" said the squire, "they didn't. But why don't we put up statues nowadays? That little soldier boy marching away to the Civil War was our first and last statue. And how many of our boys have marched away since then!" Far over the hillside a fox barked and the crickets sang. Squire sighed and finished his though. "How long it is since we've had music from that bandstand and singing. You know, I just forgotten how to sing together."

FEARLESS FORECAST

By: R.W. Lancaster

Thursday, July 3, 1975

The moon goes in to the fixed earth sign Taurus early this morning and stays until Saturday afternoon so this is the time to get that long lasting permanent wave for hard to curl hair and a long lasting haircut that will look nice the rest of the month. If you need any teeth filled or need plate impressions, today or Saturday morning would be the right time for a satisfactory job. If you have any fence to build set the posts now and they will stay tight in the ground but don't stretch the wire until July 10th or 11th.

Friday, July 4th

Quoting William Cobbett on Independence (It is not the greatness of a mans means that makes him independent, so much as the smallness of his wants.)

Saturday, July 5th

According to the astrological weather forecasts it will be hot and humid this weekend and the fish won't bite but with the moon going in to the friendly air sign Gemini after lunch it would be a good time for visiting and entertaining and if you have plenty of shade a cookout would probably be enjoyable, a movie or dance could be enjoyed in the evening.

Sunday, July 6th

The planetary aspects point toward friendship today and Emerson said (The only way to have a friend is to be one) and Judge Home quote (The difficulty is not so great to die for a friend as to find a friend worth dying for.) But I think Confucius gave the best advice (Never contract friendship with a man that is not better than thyself.)

Monday, July 7th

The moon enters the water sign, Cancer this evening so tonight through Wednesday is going to be good fishing and today and tomorrow are safe days for traveling either by land or water but be extra cautious on Wednesday as the square aspect between the moon and Uranus will cause a lot of nervous strain and the unexpected could happen.

Tuesday, July 8th

Plan on doing your home baking, housecleaning and canning today and everything will turn out just right and it is probably not too late to plant a few flower bulbs if you want to save the roots or seed for next year. Potatoes might still make a crop if we don't have an early frost. Also a good time to do some pruning if you want slow growth.

Wednesday, July 9th

We had a new moon last night so the next two weeks it will be increasing in light so today is the time for planting any above ground vegetables for fast growth also a good time for transplanting or pruning for fast growth. Mow your lawn before dark tonight and the grass will come back thick and fast.

Transportation

Our society is certainly one of the most mobile in the world. Each year we drive almost 1200 billion miles. Unfortunately, each year approximately 55,000 of us die and countless more are injured in the process. Our current energy problems will probably reduce these figures somewhat in the coming years. However, American resourcefulness and ingenuity can be expected to limit the transportation decline to a temporary happening as we adapt to new ways of getting there. With these changes in our transportation life styles, we can expect to meet new and unfamiliar situations that could be to death of us if we're unprepared. The following pages describe some of these situations and some of the precautions we might take to avoid the problems associated with them.

Cars

Those of us who have joined a car pool have taken a major step in helping conserve energy. Let's be sure it's not a step backward in safety.

Remember at lower speeds we get better gasoline mileage and we can travel for a much longer period of time on a tank of gasoline. Base your rest periods on the time traveled and not on when you need to stop for fuel. It is wise to stop every two hours and walk around the car to relax.

Long distance cross country automobile trips, when limited to 50 or 55 mph, require more time to complete than the same trip at 65 to 75 mph. Allow for a larger number of rest periods when traveling at slower speeds. We become just as tired driving for two hours at 50 mph as at 65 mph, but do not travel as far.

At reduced speed automobiles operate more quietly, the driver tends to relax more and trips take a little longer and this situation results in an avoidable accident. Remember 55 miles per hour is still a deadly speed. Keep Alert - Stay Alive.

Kenton County Board
Drafts Guidelines

The Kenton County Board of Education has asked its legal counsel, Robert Ruberg, to draft guide lines on the disciplining of students.

Robert Barnes, superintendent, said the request was made in view of recent court decisions, including one from the Supreme Court.

However, he pointed out that "gray" areas continue, including the type of hearings and who should conduct them.

The guidelines, Barnes added, are to be ready hopefully by the beginning of the school year tentatively set for late August.

The Walton Keen Agers Group will meet on July 21st at Walton Baptist Church at 9:30 a.m. to make plans to visit the Old State Capital Museum, Frankfort, Kentucky.

The Keen Agers are a group of retired persons in and around the Walton Area. The main purpose is to enjoy fellowship with one another. We have taken some very nice tours and our group is most informal and we encourage all retired persons to feel welcome.

We are under the sponsorship of Walton Baptist Church and are grateful for the use of their facilities. However, participation is open to the public.

Agricultural Program
Has Been Announced

The Kenton County ASCS Office would like to announce the Agricultural Conservation Program for 1975. We regret that it should be so late in the year before our county program could be approved.

However, all counties in the state and nation are operating under the same situation. There simply was a delay in deciding on and setting up the program at the national level.

- RE-1 Establishing Permanent Vegetative Cover - 50 %
- RE-2 Improving Permanent Vegetative Cover - 50%
- RE-3 Planting Trees - 75 %
- RE-4 Improving A Stand of Trees - 75%
- RE-5 Water Impoundment Reservoirs - 50%
- RE-8 Diversions - 50%
- RE-10 Permanent Wildlife Habitat - 75%
- RE-12 Sediment, Chemical, or Water Runoff Control Measures - 50%
- SA-4 Applications of Lime and Other Eligible Materials - 50%
- SB-5 Livestock Watering Facilities - 50%

The 10 practices listed above may be cost shared at 80% for participants who qualify as low income.

Anyone who wishes to sign up in the program this year should do so as soon as possible since the funds are limited. Kenton County has only $6582.00 for this year's regular program.

Special funds have been allocated under a Forestry Incentives Program. To qualify under this program, the potential productivity of the stand of trees or of the site must meet or exceed minimum forestry standards.

The 2 practices available under this program are:

- FP 1 Planting Trees - 75%
- FP 2 Improving a Stand of Forest Trees - 75%

Also available are Long Term Agreements which range from 3 to 10 years in duration. Special funds are set aside for these LTA's. Anyone wishing to sign up for a LTA must do so between July 1st and July 30th, and also have a conservation plan drawn up for their farm by the Soil Conservation Service in advance of signing up.

Special Requirements for this year's program are that the needed conservation must be beyond that which the farmer would accomplish without cost share assistance, and that the practices must provide enduring benefits.

Annual Dinner
July 20, 1975

The Annual Fried Chicken and Roast Beef Dinners of the St. Mary's and St. Matthews Churches will be held on Sunday, July 20th at the St. Matthews Church, White Villa, Ky., with serving from 12 to 7 p.m.

Prices for the meals will be Adults - $2.00 and Children - $1.25.

Rev. Henry Haache and the parishmen are happy to announce we have a new church at St. Matthews. Our new school has been converted in a beautiful church. Come out and have a good country style dinner and see the new church.

Don't Forget!

Don't forget that this coming weekend will be filled with fun and enjoyment for the whole family if you bring them out to the Walton Volunteers Firemans Picnic that is an annual event offered each year at this same time.

But you must remember that the streets in Walton are in very bad shape and that when you drive your car through the town to go to the picnic, park it in a convenient place for you and your friends.

See you there, but don't forget!

Card of Thanks

I would like to express my thanks, and my appreciation to every one who was so kind to me while I was a patient at St. Elizabeth Hospital, and since I have been home. Thank you for the lovely flowers and the many cards received and a special thanks for my Pastor's visits and the prayers in my behalf.

May God bless you is my prayer,

Hazel Zirk

Mild and gentle as he was brave—
When the sweetest love of his life he gave
To simple things; where the violets grew

And he pitied as much as a man in pain
a writhing honey-bee wet with rain.
Think of him still as the same, I say
He is not dead - he is just away.

How To Freeze Beans

Pick those tender young green beans before they get too mature and put them quickly into your freezer for good eating the rest of the year. Don't forget to blanch them first dip them in boiling water for 3 minutes so they'll keep that just picked flavor.

When it comes to freezing vegetables blanching is one of the most important steps. If you don't do it, the frozen vegetables will still be top quality for a week or two. But after that, they'll start to change, losing their flavor, getting woody and tough.

That's because enzymes in the fresh vegetables will make the beans keep right on maturing, even though they're frozen. Dipping them in boiling water for the recommended time stops the enzyme action and keeps this from happening.

The only vegetables that don't need blanching are peppers. For blanching most vegetables use at least one gallon of water for each pound of vegetables. It's helpful to have a wire basket with a handle so the food can be easily dipped in the water. Start counting time as soon as you put the vegetables in the boiling water. After blanching is completed cool the vegetables rapidly in ice water. Cooling will take about twice as long as the blanching. Corn on the cob requires extra cooling time. Stir the water to aid in even cooling. Drain well.

Stop by the County Extension Office in Burlington for a free copy of Circular 626 "Home Freezing Of Fruits and Vegetables" for directions on freezing other produce or call 586-6101, Ext. 17.

Southern States Gives Reports

Reports of election results of local Advisory Boards, Farm Home Advisory Committee members and operations reports will highlight the Southern States Cooperative's Annual Membership meeting for the Walton area, on July 14th at Big Bone State Park. The meeting will be held at 8:00 p.m.

"This year, the local election is being held prior to the meeting with members voting by mail ballots," reports Chris Combs manager of the Boone County Farm Supply, the local Southern States retail outlet. "Members who have not marked their mail ballots should do so, and bring it to their agency so their vote will be counted."

Warren Van Horn of Morning View will serve as chairman of the local meeting. Mr. Ralph Curry of Verona will give the invocation.

Nominees for the local board for the area are: Ralph Curry, Tom Hodge, Robert Northcutt and Dewey Peluso all from the surrounding of Walton.

Ladies nominated for the Farm Home Advisory Committee are, Mrs. Jimmy Barker, Mrs. Charles Gibson, Mrs. Joe Jones and Mrs. Paul Phanstiel.

There will also be the presentation of Cooperative Service Awards to Boone County Farm Supply and to manager Combs.

The following committee chairman will assist with the local meeting: Mrs. Raymond Massie, and Mrs. Chris Combs.

A Consumer Tip from Extension Specialists at the UK College of Agriculture

When you go to the supermarket leave small children at home, if possible. Small children take your attention away from the serious business of finding the best food buys. In addition, television conditions kids to try talking you into purchases that may be nothing but junk. Store displays with vivid colors, prizes and pictures of circus like characters may also start kids begging for items not on your shopping list.

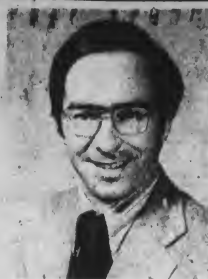

Unusual packaging and bright pictures on food containers may be "come ons" used by manufacturers to persuade you to buy items of doubtful value. Keeping mind that you're at the supermarket to buy food not works of art or gimmicks.

What Is Christian Maturity?

(Ephesians 4:11-16; Philippians 3:12-16; 1 John 3:1-3)

Rowland Hill once visited a home and saw a child riding a rocking horse. After watching the little boy for some time, he wittily remarked, "He reminds me of some Christians. There is a great deal of motion but no progress."

It is the duty and privilege of the Christian to grow into a mature and useful servant of God. It is the call and challenge of Christ, that men reach maturity through the abundant resources He has provided. In the matter of growth as in the matter of conversion, man has a choice. God calls but men must respond.

Choice
Ephesians 4:11-16

God, in His wisdom gave the Church apostles, prophets, evangelists, pastors and teachers. His purpose in these gifts is stated in verse 12, "For the perfecting of the saints for the work of the ministry, for the building up of the body of Christ." God's will is that His people attain to the unity of the faith and the knowledge of His Son. God's goal for His people is that they come up to measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ. Until the Christian reaches the stature of the fullness of Christ, he is less than God wants him to be.

God is grieved when His children are tossed to and fro by every wind of doctrine. Like little clouds with no ability to determine their direction and destination, they wait for anyone who will suggest a course for their lives.

Christ is the head of the body. The body is the Church. Let every member of His body determine to grow up into Him. Christ must be our goal. He must be our life. He has made available His grace and resources for abundant growth and fullness of life.

Concentration
Philippians 3:12-16

There must have been some Christians in the city of Philippi who felt they had reached perfection. The apostle Paul uses himself as an example. He has not attained the goal of the Christian life, but he is "on the way."

The apostle shared with his readers some helpful advice. One is on the way to perfection only if he realizes he has not yet reached it. He sees perfection, not as an attainment, but as a goal. When a Christian sees himself as far behind the goal as he really is, he then sees the need to forget past achievements or past failures and concentrate on the goal. Paul exercised whole hearted concentration on the race before him. Christ was calling him upward. Nothing must be allowed to divert his attention or his energy from that call.

Young men used to be advised, "Son, put all your eggs in one basket and watch that basket!" Paul found a Person and a cause for which he could freely give his whole being. When one is committed to Christ in such a manner as Paul suggested in this passage, God will guide him to a goal.

Confidence
1 John 3:1-3

The writer of this passage sought to inspire his readers with the assurance that they were children of God. God loved with the kind of love that gave His Son to die on our behalf. The world will not understand the Christian because it did not understand Christ. Confidence in His love and acceptance will enable the Christian to go on toward the goal.

There is no way for us to know what we shall be after this earthly life. The series of man have never experienced that. But we have the confidence that we shall be like Him. That is enough! What more could one ask for? Oh, to see Him as He is and to be like Him! Yes, such hope brings purity and growth to the child of God here and now.

Kentucky Baptist's Manager Retires

The Business Manager of the Kentucky Baptist Convention for the past 23 years retired as of June 30, 1975. Garnett B. Morton's responsibilities over the 23 years have included personnel, central purchasing, payroll, building and grounds management, property, mail room, services and supervision of computer programming. All this along with the receiving, acknowledging, accounting and disbursing of funds for missions (the Cooperative Program) for some 2,200 Kentucky Baptist churches. This item alone has grown to over five million dollars annually.

Mr. Morton is a Graves County native. Coming to work for the Kentucky Baptist Convention was a fulfillment of a call felt as a member of the Farmington Baptist Church while still a high schooler. Mr. Morton was graduated from the Union University, Jackson, Tenn. with both the bachelor of science and a bachelor of arts degree. After his graduation, he served as principal of Dublin High School, Farmington, Ky. and taught mathematics. Later he worked for the Kentucky Highway Department and also for a construction firm building synthetic rubber plants in Louisville.

Mr. Morton is married to the former Emma Dungan and they had one son, Richard Eugene, who was killed in a plane accident aboard the USS Coral Sea.

Upon the retirement of Mr. Morton, Mr. Barry Allen, former associate to Mr. Morton was appointed Business Manager for the Kentucky Baptist Convention.

MOUNTAIN MOMENTS

Where Will They Take Us?

In a recent issue of a local newspaper there appeared two articles which caught my attention. One regarded a fund goal set by the Middleboro (Ky.) band to attend the 1976 Mardi Gras. It is estimated to take between $8,000 and $10,000 for the trip next February.

To raise the needed funds for the excursion, the band members and band boosters have planned an extensive events program including a car wash, a rummage sale, a bake sale, a talent contest, and a "rent-a-kid" day. The "Rent-a-kid" day is interesting. Students volunteer for odd jobs such as cutting grass, washing windows, and general clean-up work. The money they earn is then donated to the Mardi Gras trip fund.

Don Flowers, a Middleboro band booster spokesman, told me that the Mardi Gras parade route covered 7 miles! That means the band will march in uniforms, carrying instruments, for 7 long miles! And you know what I thought? It's a good idea to plan such activities to whip the band members into shape! If you are interested in helping the band in any way, you may contact me and I'll be happy to point you in the right direction.

The other article I saw told about the Marion County (Ky.) High School track team running 65 miles to see Governor Julian Carroll. According to UPI, the 10 members of the Marion County High School (MCHS) track team ran to Frankfort, Ky., with a petition for Gov. Carroll urging his support for increased financing for elementary and secondary education in Kentucky.

But the hitch was this—Governor Carroll had just left minutes before for Washington, D.C. Now the trip would have ended for most people, but not this ambitious and courageous track team! The runners decided to head on out to Washington—over 500 miles—to present their petition to Wendell Ford and Walter Huddleston, Kentucky's senators.

The MCHS track team was followed by their coach, whose name was not given in the article. The trek originated in Lebanon, Kentucky, where earlier the signatures on the petitions had been gathered.

These two articles did something for me. They reinforced something I already knew. We have outstanding young people in our great nation who are rarely publicized for deeds like those mentioned in these articles. And though I may sound idealistic and stupid, it helped me rest just a little better to realize that one day those young people will step into places of leadership and take this country of ours farther into the future.

And when a high school track team will run over 500 miles to deliver a petition to United States senators, who knows how far they will take us?

PICNIC MORNING

Happiness is a picnic morning. Happiness is a day spent with the family. Happiness is walking and talking and sharing the fun and beauty of God's world with those you love.

A picnic is always a happy idea. Somehow, just getting away from the daily routine does wonders. The sound of a cool waterfall, the rustle of a bird on the wing, the warmth of a friendly sun: all of it makes you "come alive" with a new kind of freshness.

There is another place where we all may renew our strength for the times we live in. The atmosphere, fellowship, and inspirational teachings of your church will do much to keep you walking happy. Spend next Sunday morning in church.

REPORTS TO THE PEOPLE OF KENTUCKY

What Should Be Made Public?

During the current investigation of the CIA and domestic intelligence gathering agencies, the question has arisen: should uncovered material be made public? And if so, when and how should it be done?

As a member of the Senate's select committee conducting this inquiry, I take the view that we should be as open and candid as possible, so long as it does not endanger national security or the lives of individuals.

The public has a right to know what kinds of activities these agencies have engaged in, to what extent illegal or improper actions have taken place, and the method by which such activity was authorized.

Take the matter of alleged assassinations or assassination plots of some years ago. While this is an extremely sensitive matter, there is no need to keep the essential facts secret either the general nature of the involvement or of the countries and subjects allegedly targeted.

These revelations will be embarrassing, but I do not believe they pose a threat to national security. We will have to bear whatever embarrassment may accrue; that is the price of living in a free and open society. Besides, such knowledge is essential if Congress and the American People are to understand the nature of these agencies and make judgements about possible changes in their mission or operations.

However, I do have some grave concerns about the timing and manner in which this information is released to the public. It should not be done by "leaks" to newspapers based on partial or incomplete information; it should not be released by Members of the Congressional committees before they have all the facts; and it should not be done in a sensationalistic fashion designed to capitalize on media coverage.

The proper way to release this information is either in public hearings in which all sides and aspects of the situation can be examined; in final or interim reports issued by the respective committees with accompanying evidence; or in the release of relevant transcripts and testimony.

All parties involved must exercise the utmost responsibility and restraint especially with regard to the release of delicate information. We must eliminate any abuses in these agencies, but we must not impair their ability to perform with vital intelligence and law enforcement functions.

Kentucky Senators On Committee

Kentucky's two U.S. Senators have been named to an advisory committee which will help establish, then work with an independent commission on the improvement of Senate operations and procedures.

Senators Walter "Dee" Huddleston and Wendell Ford were the only members from a single state picked for the special assignment by Majority Leader Mike Mansfield.

They join Senators John Culver, Iowa; Lee Metcalf, Mont.; Robert Byrd, W. Va.; Floyd Haskell, Colo.; Herman Talmadge, Ga.; and Philip Hart, Mich.

The committee will advise a commission of private citizens, expected to be established by resolution in the near future. If approved, the commission membership will be selected by both the Democratic and Republican leadership.

In letters to Huddleston and Ford, Mansfield indicated he would meet with Minority Leader Hugh Scott on what he termed, a "blue ribbon commission" formation.

The advisory committee would assist in the Senate's formal establishment of the commission, and continue offering input on matters pertaining to law-making, representation and oversight.

During the commission's tenure, expected to operate throughout the 94th Congress, areas of examination would probably center on such topics as committee and floor procedure, information resources, workload, work space, equipment requirements, conflict of interest, and internal management.

Both Ford and Huddleston have been advocates of improved Senate operations, a subject growing in interest especially among those members representing the last three classes.

Amendment Passed By House

BY
M. GENE SNYDER
U.S. CONGRESSMAN
4th District, Kentucky

Congressman Gene Snyder, Republican Representative from Kentucky's Fourth District, was the author of an appropriations amendment passed today 246 to 164 by the House of Representatives.

Snyder's amendment to the Appropriations bill for the State and Justice Departments provided that no funds appropriated under the measure could be "used for the purposes of negotiating the surrender or relinquishment of any U.S. rights in the Panama Canal Zone."

"I am very pleased by the adoption by the House of this amendment," Mr. Snyder said after the vote, "because it implements the will of the American People who are overwhelmingly opposed to any yielding of our sovereignty over the Canal Zone or our operation of the Canal. Despite this known feeling of our citizens, the State Department in recent years has been pursuing revisions in our treaty with Panama whereby we would yield our sovereignty in a series of piecemeal concessions. Regardless of what the conference committee may do, I hope the State Department gets the message contained in this vote that our people don't want to see this country knowtowing to the outrageous demands of left wing minorities in Latin American any more than they wanted us to fold up in the face of the Cambodian capture of the Mayaguez!"

... about your Social Security

People can get a report on the earnings credited to their social security record free of charge by calling or writing any social security office, according to John Walter, social security district manager in Covington, Ky.

"You don't need to pay anyone to help you get a statement of your earnings." "Just ask any social security office for a 'request for Statement of Earnings' post card. Fill in your name and address, date of birth and social security number. Sign, stamp, and mail the card. Social security will send you a statement of earnings credited to your record free of charge."

Earnings credited to the workers' social security number build retirement, disability, survivors, and Medicare protection for workers and their families. The amount of monthly social security payments is based on the worker's average earnings over a period of years.

The Social Security Administration is an agency of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

FEARLESS FORECAST

By: R. W. Lancaster

Thursday, July 10, 1975

The moon entered the fixed fire sign Leo, late last night so the fishing prospects will be poor until next Wednesday but it is a good time for all other outdoor sporting activities also a good time to stretch a wire fence kill weeds and briars and spray the garden to get rid of the plant pests.

Friday, July 11

This is a good time to rent or buy property for a long term commitment but if you want to sell or move on or speculate wait until after the full moon to make your deals, after the 23rd. A good time to paint any wood structures as the paint will penetrate and make a long lasting job, look nice also. Anyone couple getting married today will be stuck for a lifetime so give it some serious thought before saying I Do.

Saturday, July 12th

The moon entered Virgo late last night so this is the day to get any bad teeth extracted so the gums can heal nicely without too much bleeding and you will be ready for plate impressions after the 23rd. Also a good day for an eye examination if you need new glasses, if your health and teeth are in good order this is a good day for house cleaning, sewing, and patching but the home baking would go better this Monday.

Sunday, July 13th

This will be a nice sabbath to sit in a cool place and read some good literature and if you can't decide what to read take the advice of President James Garfield. Quote: He who would understand the real spirit of literature should not select authors of one period alone, but rather go to the fountain head, and trace the little rills as it courses along down the ages broadening and deepening into the great ocean of thought which the men of the present are exploring.

Monday, July 14th

The moon entered the cardinal air sign Libra late last night so today or tomorrow is the time to do your home baking as the yeast dough will rise and brown to perfection, even an amateur homemaker can have luck try it. If you are looking for beauty in home furnishings make your selections today or tomorrow but don't have them delivered until Wednesday or Thursday and you won't be changing your mind and sending them back.

Tuesday, July 15th

If you are all caught up on your baking and buying why not spend a couple hours on a manicure, you can do a beautiful job on your nails today and they will stay nice a long time or if that doesn't appeal to you the aspect are right for sewing or mending but it isn't too good time for home canning things will keep better if canned a little later this month but use your own judgement on home freezing.

Wednesday, July 16th

The moon entered the fixed water sign Scorpio early this morning so if you have your fishing tackle ready and plenty of bait you should have good fishing today and tomorrow anyway the long range astrollogical weather forecast says rain this week in the Ohio Valley so it will be too wet to work in the garden, save the home chores for the hot weekend coming up.

Help With Your Tomatoes

Several fungus diseases that attack tomatoes can result in severe losses of fruit and even death to the plants. Not the least troublesome of these diseases is early blight, which often shows in warm, moist, weather as small dark brown spots on the leaves. These spots usually enlarge into circular markings that resemble rifle targets and other symptoms include brown cankers that may girdle plants at the ground line and dark, leathery, decayed spots at the stem ends of fruits.

The fungus of this disease lives in the soil and may be carried on seeds. Once it starts out in a tomato patch, it is most difficult to control. To prevent losses, the best method is to prevent rather than treat its attack. To prevent or lessen the possibility of attacks by early blight and other fungus disease a good sanitation and rotation program in the garden. All garden residue or litter that could harbor blight organisms should be raked up and burned and the location of tomato patch changed from year to year.

Then suggests choosing varieties, such as Ramapo, Jet Star, and Better Boy, that are relatively tolerant to blight. But even though these plants are used and the crops rotated each year, the diseases possibility remains. To help prevent its ravages, a good spray program be initiated.

To insure satisfactory results from spray program, the trick is to choose the right material, apply at the right time and get thorough coverage of the spray over the surface of the leaves, fruits, and stems.

To combat or help prevent early blight a homemade spray can be made by mixing 7 tablespoonsful of copper sulfate and 12 tablespoonsful of hydrated lime in 3 gallons of water. This spray of course is the old fashioned "Bordeaux mixture" that has been in use for generations but is still good. It is also good for late blight and leafspot fungus that may strike tomatoes at any time.

Consumer Comments

Some people furnish their homes or apartments in "Early American" and others prefer "Old Attic". Whatever type of furniture you buy, new or used, learn to examine it carefully before you make your purchase.

Always begin by checking the framework, to see how well something is put together. A good quality frame won't creek or give when you push against it.

If you are looking at something with drawers, pull them out and examine the inside corners of the chest frame. Wood corners posts are a sign of good quality. The drawers should pull out smoothly, and the sides and bottoms of drawers should be solid. When closed, drawers should fit squarely in the openings.

If you are looking at a table or chair, be sure the legs are securely attached. Does the piece of furniture stand evenly on the floor?

Upholstered furniture pieces make an examination of the framework a bit more difficult. The outer covering of upholstered furniture should hang smoothly. Examine the fabric for durability and ease of care.

The cushioning material up upholstered pieces may be several types. Cellular foams, called urethane or polyfoam, are distinguished by their resistance to wear, their nonallergenic quality, and their mothproof characteristics. Latex foam rubber, another kind of filling has great resiliency and comfort and find out what's inside.

Wooden furniture includes both hardwoods and softwoods. Always ask if the furniture piece is solid or veneer. Veneering is the process where a fine quality wood is used as an outer layer in a kind of plywood sandwich. Veneer makes it possible to simulate high quality woods at a lower cost, and is usually less susceptible to cracking, warping, and swelling than solid wood furniture.

Finishes add beauty and wearability because of the color they give and the protection against moisture they offer. But when you see "genuine mahogany finish" remember: there is a difference between a genuine mahogany table and genuine mahogany finish.

Walton Council Meeting

Walton's regular town board meeting was held on July 8th at 7:30 p.m. in the city building. The city clerk read the minutes and there was one correction. In the last meeting it was said that the city would have to come up with 25,000 dollars for repavement of streets but that money will come from Federal funds or from the local sewer project fund.

Walton's Women Club President, Mrs. Luebbe, asked the council if it would be possible to enter the city in a Community Improvement Contest sponsored by the Federated Women's Clubs and Sears. Mrs. Luebbe said that she is urging and hoping to create individual pride

Pat Boone Presents Concert

Pat Boone Family

Visitors to Fort Boonesborough July 26th will be entertained by Daniel Boone's most famous descendant. A free show by Pat Boone and Family will highlight the Ft. Boonesborough Bicentennial weekend of July 25th - 27th.

Pat Boone, nationally known singer, actor, author, and tenth generation descendant of Daniel Boone will perform with his wife, Shirley a native of Kentucky and daughter of country music star Red Foley and their four dynamic daughters, Cherry, Lindy, Debby and Laury.

The Boone girls have been harmonizing with their famed father and talented mother since childhood. However, it was all "in the family" until 1970, when they accompanied the Pat Boone tour of the Orient. No longer children at ages 20, 19, 18, and 17 they add a refreshing note to an already warm and energetic show.

Pat Boone and the five women in his life travel thousands of miles a year singing, speaking and charming young and old alike. They are coming "home" to Kentucky on July 26th at 8:00 p.m., Ft. Boonesborough State Park.

Limited reserved seating is available at $2.00 a chair. Call or Write Ft. Boonesborough Bicentennial Commission, 101 West Irvine, Richmond, Ky. 608-623-0084.

Ft. Boonesborough is open year round from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. but the weekend of July 25th, 26th, and 27th will provide visitors with numerous free Bicentennial activities.

Melinda Cummins
Reporter: Luellen Wolsing

Three high school students from this area are working in a program sponsored by the National Science Foundation at Thomas More College. They are Laura McMillian and John Bonar from Walton Verona and Melinda Cummins from Simon Kenton.

Twelve people were selected out of the twenty nine that applied and are working in the program.

The first four weeks of the program is a study of water pollution analysis. This time is spent doing lab work which will be applied later.

The main purpose of the program is a pollution study of the Banklick Creek and its tributaries. This takes place in the last two weeks of the program. The time is spent in gathering data which can then be compared to information from previous years.

Jury Trial Was Held

Mr. James L. Allphin

By Luellen Wolsing, Reporter

Charges of reckless driving on June 24th were brought against James L. Allphin and a jury trial was held on July 10th in the city building. Representing the city was Attorney J. Bamberger and representing Mr. Allphin was Attorney Hartman. Judging the trial was police court judge Robert Coyle.

The trial started with selection of the six member jury with both lawyers questioning the prospective members. During these questions six changes were made before the jury was accepted. The members of the final jury were Alonza O'Rourke, Dr. James Kendall, Mrs. Edward Luebbe, Mrs. A. Baker, Mrs. Mildred, and Mrs. Marie Ferguson.

Mr. Hartman moved for separation of witnesses as the first city witness was called, Mr. Ted Stewart. He testified that he was returning from a daughter's church baseball game with nine people and a dog in the truck. Then they stopped at a neighbors house and the dog jumped out of the truck. He stopped to let the children recover the dog and he said that two cars passed him when Mr. Allphin came up behind him. When Mr. Allphin started to pass him he said, "He had no other place to go except into the funeral home parking lot or the telephone pole setting right there at the road when he cut back in front of me and slammed down on his brakes." Later he claimed that Mr. Allphin sat at the stop sign for five minutes before proceeding.

The next witness was Mrs. Stewart and she testified when Mr. Allphin pulled up behind their truck for several minutes he layed on the horn.

Witness for the defense was Mr. James Allphin. He testified that Mr. Stewart's truck was blocking the lane of traffic for five minutes. When he was asked if he had sounded his horn he replied, "Yes Sir, I beep beeped." He also said, "I got a sign out the window motioning me on and there was no room to go I mean there was no room for a truck to pass . . ." He testified that he didn't see any traffic while he was sitting there. He also testified that when the Stewart's truck preceded it was moving about three to five miles an hour. Mr. Allphin stated that when he passed the truck, his truck was in control at all times that he did not dodge a tree or go into the funeral home parking lot but did put on his brakes after he passed the Stewarts. He said that when he reached the stop sign he waited for two cars to pass and then he proceeded.

Both attorneys gave their closing arguments. After that the jury deliberated for a short time and then the foreman, Dr. James Kendall, delivered the verdict of not guilty.

The Spirit of Pioneering

Our early settlers endured many hardships in order to own uninhabited land in the West. They claimed it . . . farmed it . . . worked it until it could provide them with a livelihood. Times have changed, but the spirit of the land lives on.

Mild and gentle as he was brave—
 When the sweetest love of his life he gave
 To simple things; where the violets grew
 Blue as the eyes they were likened to,
 The touches of his hands have strayed
 As reverently as his lips have prayed;
 And he pitied as much as a man in pain
 A writhing honey-bee wet with rain.
 Think of him still as the same, I say
 He is not dead - he is just away.

Handy Hints

How many times a day do you wash your hands? You can't begin to count? Well, every time you do, you're taking away a bit of the natural moisturizing elements in your skin and abetting the normal drying process. One way of overcoming this dry skin due to washing as well as weather conditions is to use a gentle moisturizing soap like Tone. Because new Tone has an exclusive, patented moisturizing system with cocoa butter, it works with nature to help skin feel soft and smooth. You can make every washing a miniature beauty treatment for your hands. Wash thoroughly, working up a rich, fragrant lather, then rinse and dry good. As you dry, push back the nail cuticle to help keep your nails attractive. Your hands will welcome this extra attention and repay you with a prettier look.

"Can" You Price Family's Health?

By: Anna Myers

You cannot safely can your home grown vegetables the way grandmother or mother did it. The Cooperative Extension Service warns it is dangerous to process vegetables other than tomatoes and pickles by any method than by the Pressure Canner. The bacteria responsible for deadly food poisoning cannot be killed by water bath processing. Temperatures of 240 degrees have to be reached through out the container. This can only be accomplished by cooking under pressure.

A pressure canner is expensive to purchase but will pay for itself in one season when you compare the cost of food you can with store prices. The short cooking time saves on fuel cost too.

It can be a combined purchase of several close neighbors and schedule use of it through out the summer.

Some people are afraid of pressure canners, but they are considered safe if simple safeguards and instructions are followed. Complete instructions come with the canner and information is available at any County Extension Office: Boone County, 586-6101 Ext. 17; Kenton County, 356-3155; and Campbell County, 635-2116.

Kenton Cattleman Qualifies For 6-90

Can you get 90 percent of the cows in your beef herd to have their calves within a period of six weeks? If you can, you are eligible for membership in the 6-90 Cowman's Club of Kentucky.

George Finnell, Jr. of Morning View is the first farmer in Kenton County to submit an application for the club. Ninety-five percent of his twenty Angus cows calved between March 12th and April 14th - a period of under six weeks. George joins R.

FARM NEWS

AND ANALYSIS

By
Darwin Foley
Kenton County
Extension Agent

O. Basham of Butler County who was Kentucky's first member.

The purpose of the 6-90 Cowman's Club is to give recognition to beef producers who have developed a management system that allows them to have a shorter calving season.

Applicants with 15 cows or more of which 90 percent or more have calved during a six week period qualify for membership.

Complete rules were mailed with our monthly beef newsletter earlier in the year. Entry blanks are available at my office in the Independence Courthouse.

Curtis Absher, Extension Beef Cattle Specialist says the club is rather exclusive because a cattleman must be a tip manager to meet the standards of eligibility. He must keep his cows and bull healthy. Cows need to be gaining weight in breeding season. This is where quality pastures come into the picture.

Also, it is necessary to keep disease under control. The diseases most damaging to reproduction are brucellosis, leptospirosis, vibriosis, and infectious bovine rhinotracheitis (I.B.R.). We have information about these disease at our office. Also, seek the advice of your veterinarian to keep your herd free of diseases.

You can also improve your herd's reproductive capacity by using our computer to help cull your herd. All you need is access to scales to weigh your calves at weaning time. The computer adjusts for many variables to rank your livestock from best to worst. Call me at 356-3155 if you'd like further information.

How To Face Difficulties

(1 Corinthians 2:1-5; 11 Corinthians 4:7-11, 16)

Henry Ward Beecher once said, "Difficulties are God's errands; and when we are sent upon them we should esteem it a proof of God's confidence - as a compliment from him."

Burke, speaking of this subject, said, "Difficulty is a severe instructor, set over us by the Supreme guardian and legislator, who knows us better than we know ourselves, and loves us better too. He that wrestles with us strengthens our nerves and sharpens our skill, - our antagonist is our helper."

In our lesson today God tells us how to face difficulties. He tells us through His servant Paul.

His Deportment
I Corinthians 2:1

requires a settled determination to stay on the track.
Paul wanted his readers to know of and stand in the power of God rather than the wisdom of men.

His Devotion
II Corinthians 4:7-11, 16

No passage of Scripture in all of Paul's writing better illustrates his devotion to the Lord Jesus than this. He saw himself and all other Christians as frail vessels. No one knew better than Paul that man was made out of dirt. But Paul also knew that frail earthen vessels often carried very precious treasure.

Paul knew what it was to be under a lot of pressure. He was well acquainted with what we call "frustration." But God never allowed him to be so hemmed in that there was no way out.

He knew what it was like, to come to the end of his rope, but he never knew what it was to give up!

He experienced persecution but God never left him to endure it alone. He was often cast down but never destroyed. Even God's children must taste of life in the valley. But this will serve to wet their appetite for the mountain!

Difficulties will come, but when handled correctly they will make God's servant stronger. In the words of E. H. Chapin: "The weak sinews become strong by their conflict with difficulties."

The experienced and committed Christians agree with Paul, "I can do all things through Christ who strengthens me."

To Be Ordained

The New Bethel Baptist Church will be ordaining Greg Yancey into the gospel ministry this Sunday evening at 7:30 p.m. Mr. Yancey is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Omer Yancey of Verona and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Yancey of Verona also. Greg is presently attending Cumberland College in Williamsburg, Ky. He is the pastor of the Alder Springs Baptist Church in LaFollette, Tennessee. The church has requested for his ordination and it is the privilege of his home church to respond to that request.

The ordination council will meet at 5:30 p.m. for the examination of this candidate. Then, the public is invited to join with our congregation for the evening service at 7:30 p.m., which will be the ordination service. Rev. Steve Alford, formerly of Verona, will be the guest speaker for the special service.

The pastor of the church, Rev. Jerel W. Treas, wishes to extend to everyone a personal invitation to be a part of this special service as the New Bethel Baptist Church sets apart this young man from our area to be a minister of the gospel. There will be a brief fellowship in the church basement following the service.

To The Editor:

Dear Mr. Meadows & Miss Wolsing: We would like to extend our appreciation for the excellent coverage we received for our Hay Making Field Day. We really appreciate the cooperation we receive from the Advertiser with both our ads and the news releases we get.

Again thanks, and we look forward to working with your paper.

MOMENTS

Quoting Poetry And Chopping Down Trees

Recently I spent several days in the South Central Kentucky railroad settlement of Waynesburg, half way between Somerset and Stanford on the edge of the famous Kentucky Bluegrass.

I was a guest in the home of Rev. Clyde Rhea, pastor of the Double Springs Baptist Church. Rev. Rhea is an interesting person and more will follow about him as the subject of a future column.

The Double Springs church was begun in 1803 and was so named because of its location near two springs. Although the church moved four times during its history, it secured a location near two each time to keep the Double Springs name. The church records reveal that it was closed from October, 1918, until February, 1919, due to the "flu" epidemic in which many of its members died.

Two members of the church I met were Simeon and George Hale, who are 91 and 89 years old respectively! Their ages do not make them outstanding but I was amazed at the accomplishments of the two.

Simeon, a retired school teacher with 58 years service in Letcher, Lincoln, and Pulaski counties of Kentucky, continues to read and correspond with his friends. He told me he had over 4,000 books in his home, most of which he had read.

Simeon and George have visited every state of the union except Alaska, and they plan to go there later. On one of their trips Simeon was asked, "Well, if you're from Kentucky, you must know Adolph Rupp."

Simeon quietly answered, "Better still, Adolph Rupp knows me!"

An avid sports fan, Simeon always buys a season ticket to the University of Kentucky's football and basketball games. In fact, I was told that Adolph Rupp would let Simeon in the dressing rooms when he was coach of the Wildcats basketball team, a privilege not granted many. U.K.'s Quarterback Club recently honored Simeon with an award and a standing ovation.

The day I visited the Hales, George, who retired with 30 years teaching experience, was resting on the couch. He told me he helped Simeon chop down an old tree the day before. Simeon did the chopping and George climbed upon a nearby out building to check out the direction the tree would fall. Simeon got carried away with his chopping and when the tree fell, it fell toward George on top of the building - and George jumped off, over 10 feet down. He said it kinda stove him up!

Simeon does more talking than George and I guess they complement each other since neither have been married. Both of them said they like women and have seen several young ladies they wanted to marry, but nothing ever developed.

Simeon said, "Nothin' is pretty unless its fat, including hogs, cows, and chickens. That goes for women, too!"

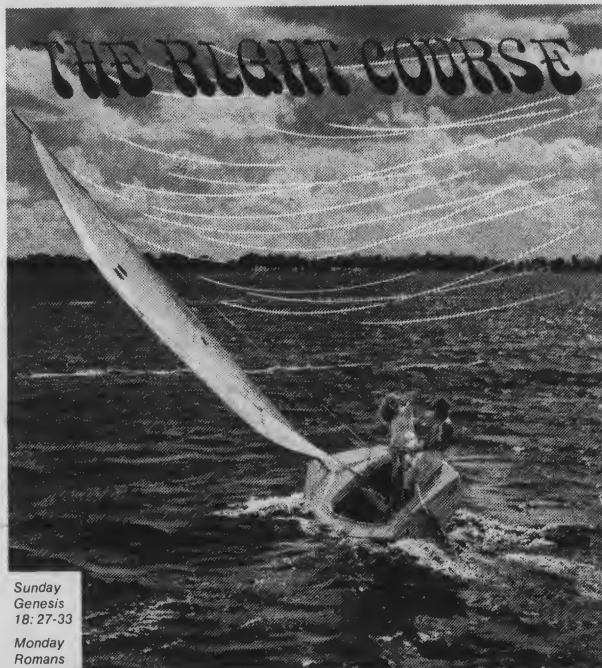

A lover of poetry, Simeon quoted several poems for me, or at least some stanzas from them. His past experience as a school teacher came through loud and clear in his deep, resonant voice, and I almost felt like a young school boy again listening to my favorite schoolmaster.

I asked Simeon what poems he liked best. Crossing the Bar and The House by the Side of the Road ranked high on his list, but the Psalm of Life was his favorite.

While George rested on the couch, Simeon talked about their trip to Hawaii. He said when the young lady placed the lei around his neck and kissed him, he enjoyed it so much he kissed her right back!

After all, how many 90 year old men do you know who fill their days quoting poetry and chopping down trees?

Until I became interested in sailing, I thought boats simply drifted with the wind. It hadn't occurred to me that few sailors would ever reach port in this manner. And before I became earnest about church, I thought people's lives—their joys and disappointments, their achievements and failures—were largely a result of fate or fortune. Luck would long ago have replaced religion if this were true.

Now I know the thrill of sailing into the wind. Sure, tacking to port or starboard requires a zigzag course, and when your craft heels over at that precarious angle, it takes skill to control her. But that's part of the adventure—making headway against a strong wind.

Now, too, I know the thrill of believing in God... of setting a goal, of relying on His power, of devoting myself to reaching the destination. Making headway against adverse winds heels us over—but it's part of the adventure of being a Christian today.

Jaycee Scholarships

Leaving for Louisville are Project Chairman John Weaver, Cindy White, Lou Robinson, Kitty Waller and Lucy Dresman.

Three students from Boone County are attending the 5th Annual Kentucky School of Alcohol Studies, this week, on scholarships provided by the Boone County Jaycees. The School, being held in Louisville, Ky., is sponsored by the Department of Human Resources. Attendees are: Kitty Waller from Walton Verona; Cindy White from Conner High; and Lou Robinson for Boone County. The students were selected on the recommendation of their High School Principal.

Project Chairman, John Weaver, said the school is a learning forum combining both lecture and in depth workshops giving students a new awareness of contemporary alcohol misuse its Causes, treatment and prevention.

Although this is the 5th year of the school of alcohol studies, this is the first year that students have participated.

The scholarship provided by the Boone County Jaycees covers registration, meals and motel accommodation, Weaver said.

Northern Kentucky Has Third Center

Northern Kentucky has its third adult activity center for the developmentally disabled. The Carroll County Adult Work Activity Center, an affiliate of Northern Kentucky Comprehensive Care, began operations on July 1st under the sponsorship of the Carroll County Association for the Mentally Retarded. Its president is Dale Atchinson.

Others are located in the Industrial Park in Boone County and in the George Godge Memorial Center, Falmouth. They also are Comp Care affiliates.

In organizing the Carrollton Center, Atchinson said that a previous survey had disclosed 60 Carroll Countians with disabilities preventing full time gainful employment. Until the present time, he explained, they had not been served by any local agency.

For the time being the center is to be located in the Carroll County High School.

In addition to Atchinson, other Carroll County association officers are Doug Chapen, vice president; Kate Chapman, treasurer, and Miss Ruth Atchinson, secretary.

Comp Care officials report plans are being made for a fourth adult center to be located in Grant County.

Gardening Tips from Extension Specialists at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture

Although commonly considered a spring and early summer enterprise, gardening can be carried on into fall with profit and much eating pleasure. Second and third plantings of crops such as bunch beans, beets, sweet corn, turnips, Bibb lettuce, cabbage, and several other vegetables can be planted any time between July 15th and late August. These late planted vegetables can not only supply fresh garden truck for the table until late autumn but will also often provide better products for canning, freezing, and storing.

Late grown snap beans, lima beans, and collards, for example, are well adapted to freezing and canning. Beets, turnips, carrots, and cabbage are well adapted to storage outside and in the cellar. Actually, in Kentucky, the fall garden can almost be as important as the summer garden.

It is best that plans for a fall garden start in the spring with the grouping of all early maturing crops. If this was done, as soon as one crop is harvested, another crop can be planted in its place. However if this was not done, late garden planting can go on anyway.

It is not always necessary to wait until an early crop is entirely removed. A later crop may be planted between the rows of the early crop - sweet corn, for example, between rows of Irish potatoes and late tomato plants set out in places where early cabbage heads have been removed.

In planting in this manner where earlier crops have been removed, it is not desirable to follow a crop with another of the same kind. To do so is to invite heavier attacks by diseases or insects that may have infected the first crop.

Early peas or beans can be safely followed by late cabbage, carrots, or beets; early corn or potatoes can be followed by fall turnips, spinach, or kale.

Since the cool nights of autumn slow down plant growth, it will take longer for a vegetable to mature in a fall garden. This should be kept in mind when purchasing and checking the average days to maturity stated in seed catalogs or on seed packets in the local store. It will probably be best to purchase seed with the shortest time elapse between seedtime and harvest.

Some of the best quality vegetables are produced during the warm days and cool nights of the fall season. These environmental conditions add sugar to sweet corn and crispness to other vegetables.

Fresh fruits and berries are plentiful during the summer. You may want to freeze some with sugar or syrup for eating later on and freeze others by the dry pack method for use in pies or other desserts or to make fresh preserves and jams during the year. To preserve the quality of the frozen fruit, add ascorbic acid or the commercial preparation containing this preservative.

Senator Dee Huddleston

REPORTS TO THE PEOPLE OF KENTUCKY

Developments In Tobacco Programs

Several developments affecting the tobacco program have taken place in recent weeks. Any change in this program is, of course, vital to Kentucky because the Commonwealth has more than 140,000 burley quotas, 7,600 fire cured quotas, and 16,000 dark air cured quotas.

Perhaps the most significant development is renewed interest in support prices. Earlier this year I offered an amendment to a farm bill raising the support price to 70 per cent of parity. The amendment was adopted, only to be dropped by the Senate House conference committee. In the process of securing passage, we had to beat back three amendments by anti tobacco senators who sought to cripple or eliminate the support program. As a result of some relatively close votes, I think there is agreement among tobacco supporters that we must proceed with extreme caution. While an increase in the support price is entirely justified because of increased production costs, we do not want to endanger the entire program.

I have been exploring the possibility of changing the method of computing the support price by changing from the calendar year to the "marketing" year rather than raising parity to 70 per cent. Preliminary figures indicate this may provide the grower with more long term stability than 70 per cent of parity.

But regardless of what method is used, we must have unity in all segments of the industry as well as careful preparation for the inevitable battle that will occur. Unless we are sure of victory, it may be better to bide our time for awhile.

The other two developments involve the government's decision to allow the leasing of burley quotas to non quota farms, and proposals to allow cross county leasing of tobacco quotas.

I am strongly opposed to allowing leasing of burley quotas to non quota holders because it could lead to instability in the program and allow dilution of the qualified voters in burley referendums. I have introduced legislation to overturn this action by the government.

Finally, several bills have been introduced to allow cross county leasing of one or several types of tobacco. This will be a matter of considerable study by my subcommittee on marketing, production, and stabilization of prices.

All in all, the next few months promise to be active ones as far as tobacco is concerned.

Northern Kentucky Stands To Lose

Northern Kentucky stands to lose $400,000 in federal grants unless "concrete progress" has been made to obtain an in patient facility by Northern Kentucky Comprehensive Care.

Dr. J.E. Willett, executive director of the eight county mental health - mental retardation agency, reported that the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has given the organization until the end of August to come up with "progress".

Comp Care, Willett said, has been hoping to construct an inpatient facility on the tract of land where the new Booth Memorial Hospital will be constructed in Boone County.

In addition, Willett has been talking with the board of the TB Sanatorium in Ft. Wright, for the use of some of the beds at that operation. Comp Care psychiatrists also are attempting to gain admission privileges at local hospitals, a futile move thus far although no attempts are being made.

The $400,000 at stake, Willett said, is allocated for staffing grants to support mental health-mental retardation programs.

Sensible Food Stamp

BY
M. GENE SNYDER
U.S. CONGRESSMAN
4th District, Kentucky

Since 1965 the cost of the food stamp program has increased by 14,203%! That single statistic demands a reform in this highly abused, runaway Federal program launched by the Food Stamp Act of 1964. The Department of Agriculture, which determines eligibility rules for recipients on a basis of "net income," estimates that a minimum of $740 million are wasted every year under the program that in 1965 aided one out of every 439 Americans, but in June of 1975 gave out food stamps to one of every eleven Americans!

The 1964 Act supplemented the income of millions of citizens by partially subsidizing their food purchases, and helped thousands of needy families to have a more nutritious and adequate diet. But abuses quickly set in because of loose eligibility standards. Costs skyrocketed as more and more people took advantage of those standards that were not only liberal, but which became enmeshed in more and more cumbersome, complex, and even contradictory regulations.

By 1967, one of every 157 Americans was receiving food stamps. By 1970, recipients numbered one in 47, and in 1973, one in 17. And, as I've stated, now it's one in eleven.

The Joint Economic Committee of the Congress estimated that as of July, 1974, one year ago, one out of every four Americans was potentially eligible for food stamps under existing regulations! 13.9 million were actually getting stamps then, with the number of eligible persons, 52.5 million.

Because of the Agriculture Department's generous allowances for deductions such as expensive homes and tuition payments for private school educations, in addition to income taxes, union dues and work related expenses, even families with an income of $20,000 a year can qualify for food stamps.

Workers earning hourly wages of $40 and more can go on strike and immediately qualify for food stamps. Students from well off families have been receiving stamps like manna from heaven. Chiselers have found it easy to transfer their assets to others, and then claim eligibility for stamps.

All of this, of course, is at cost, not only to taxpayers, but to the genuinely needy persons, especially the elderly and disabled and infirm. In order to change this miserable, costly, and unjust situation, I have joined in sponsoring legislation that will bring about effective reform.

In this column next week I will discuss some of the important aspects of that legislation.

Questions & Answers

Q.I received an honorable discharge after two years of service in Vietnam. Am I eligible for burial in a Veterans Administration cemetery?

A. Yes. All of the original VA cemeteries as well as most of the cemeteries formerly under other government agencies are now incorporated into a national cemetery system within VA. You would be eligible for burial in any national cemetery having space, except Arlington where the few remaining spaces are reserved for those who die in active duty or retired status and high government officials.

Q. My 20 year old daughter, whose father was killed three years ago while on active duty, plans to be married. Will she still be eligible for war orphans' educational assistance?

A. Yes. Marriage of children eligible for this benefit is not a bar to entitlement.

County Agent's 1/2 Acre by Joe Claxon

The rich and versatile land and water resources of the U.S. support an almost infinite variety of agricultural enterprises. Each year on the 1.3 million acres agriculture uses, 4.3 million persons apply their labor and skills to produce nearly 200 crops, hundreds of millions of livestock, and billions of poultry. All of this results from the individual decisions of nearly 3 million farmers who decide what crops to produce and how many acres to devote to each, and how much livestock to raise.

Most of these decisions and the effort that turns them into reality are supplied by farm operators and their wives and kids. Only about a fourth of the agricultural labor force are paid workers.

That makes farming the only major industry in the U.S. in which family members make up the largest share of the labor force. Even so, it's also an occupation where some of the people involved earn more money elsewhere than in farming.

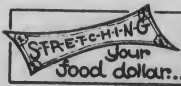

Our farms come in a variety of sizes. They range from the small family farms with a few cows and chickens, a pig or two, a garden, and a few acres to raise food to sell, to very large farms of a thousand acres or more owned by individuals, cooperatives, or corporations and operated by managers and hired labor.

A farmer may run his own small farm or a 320 acre spread where he raises grain and livestock. He may be a cattleman who owns just a small acreage but rents a thousand acres of range country. He may operate a sharecropper with a few acres.

Farms also differ in what they produce and where they produce it. Though some crops and livestock are found in all parts of the country, the kinds and amount vary by region.

Soil conditions, climate, and even far it is to the nearest or best market, influence decisions on what and how much to grow. On the great bulk of farms, the operator also is the owner. The 1969 Agriculture Census showed that 86 per cent of the farms were under sole proprietorship and accounted for 72 per cent of the land in farms. Often a father and son own and operate a farm together.

According to the census, 12 per cent of the farms were operated under partnership. These farms accounted for 18 per cent partnership farms are owned by members of a family.

A Consumer Tip

Fresh fruits and vegetables are plentiful and attractively priced these days, and you may want to can or freeze some for use later in the year. If you're a beginner at canning or freezing or if you want to make sure you know how to preserve food correctly, stop by the county extension office for free how to do it publications.

FEARLESS FORECAST

By: R.W. Lancaster
Thursday, July 17, 1975

If you didn't make it to your favorite fishing spot yesterday you can still catch your limit today and it will be a lot safer traveling anyway the fishing will be good until mid morning tomorrow. If your hair is getting a little thin on top get it cut today and have a massage so if you might be surprised how quick and thick your hair comes back. This is also a good time for painting but it might be a little wet for outside work.

Friday, July 18th

The moon moves in to the fire sign Sagittarius at mid morning so if you need any teeth pulled visit your dentist today and tomorrow and the gums will heal nicely without too much bleeding also a good time for sewing and mending and if my month ahead weather forecast is right it will be too wet outside to do anything else.

Saturday, July 19th

The planetary aspects indicate that this will be a good Saturday to plan your evenings entertainment ahead, it is not too safe a time for traveling so if you invite some close friends in for a good lunch and a gab fast you will have an enjoyable evening, if you prefer to take in a dance or movie drive carefully and you will have fun.

Sunday, July 20th

The moon in the spiritual sign Sagittarius this sabbath why not spend some time with an afflicted friend or acquaintance and you will sleep good tonight, here are some thoughts by Tryon Edwards: Quiet and sincere sympathy is often the most welcome and efficient consolation to the afflicted. Said a wise man to one in deep sorrow, I did not come to comfort you; God only can do that; But I did come to say how deeply and tenderly I feel for you in your affliction.

Monday, July 21st

The moon went in to the Cardinal earth sign Capricorn late last night so plan your home baking for today or tomorrow and surprise yourself and family how much better it is than store bought. Save your home canning for the weekend and you will have better luck after the full moon. But use your own judgement for home freezing as the almanacs and textbooks don't seem to cover that subject, if you have any ideas let me in on your secrets.

Tuesday, July 22nd

The morning hours would be a good time to collect outstanding debts but after lunch you will get some vague promises as the moon squares Jupiter so get out and collect early and then do some shopping at your local market if you want some bargains in staple food items, come cold weather you will be proud of that well stocked pantry and you will have more spare cash for Christmas shopping.

Wednesday, July 23rd

We had a full moon early in the morning and then the moon entered the air sign Aquarius and then at breakfast the Sun entered the fire sign Leo so it might be a good time to see your doctor for a checkup, and if you need any teeth filled or need plate impressions for new dentures see your dentist today or tomorrow and you will be real pleased with the results. This is also an excellent time to pick fruit and dig potatoes and they will have better keeping qualities, also any other root crops like carrots, or turnips, etc.

Consumer Comments On Lawn Mowing

Nancy was mowing long wet grass, and the grass began to back up at the discharge opening. She reached into the chute to brush away a clump of grass, but she reached too far; her fingers were struck by the blade and one had to be amputated. According to the Consumer Product Safety Commission, this is a typical accident one of over 50,000 injuries associated with power lawn mowers last year.

Reel lawn mowers are frequently considered safer than rotary mowers, basically because their blades moved more slowly. However, most consumers choose the more efficient, if more dangerous, rotary mowers, with blades reaching speeds of 200 miles per hour, hurling objects 50 feet or more.

If you are in the market for a lawn mower, keep safety as well as cost in mind.

1. Safety instructions on use and maintenance should be provided with the mower and the machine itself should carry a warning label.

2. The lawn mower handles should have "upstops," which prevent them from rising up when the machine hits an obstacle.

3. The discharge opening should be aimed downwards.

4. There should be a rear guard to prevent your hands or feet from coming in contact with the rotating blade.

5. The engine exhaust should not be directed at the grasscatching bag; sparks from backfiring engine could ignite the bag.

If you would like information on the safe use of power lawn mowers, write to the Consumer Product Safety Commission, Washington, D.C. 20207.

If you have a consumer complaint, contact the Attorney General's Division of Consumer Protection. Write to: Attorney General's Division of Consumer Protection, The Capitol Room 34, Frankfort, Ky. 40601. Kentucky consumers may call toll free on the consumer hotline by dialing 1-800-372-2960.

ULH&P In Process Of Some Refunding

The Union Light, Heat and Power Company is in the process of refunding about $109,000 to its 61,600 gas customers in Northern Kentucky.

The refunds vary, depending on usage. Average refund for the utility's 57,000 residential customers is expected to be about $1.

The refunds result from a decision by the Public Service Commission of Kentucky on ULH&P's request for a gas rate increase. In September 1974, ULH&P asked PSC for permission to increase rates by $2.3 million annually. The PSC granted an increase of $1.69 million on June 5th.

Under Kentucky law, ULH&P put an interim gas rate increase into effect March 19th, pending PSC's final decision. The difference between the requested and approved increases must be refunded. The refunds include state and county taxes and interest at the rate of 6 percent per year.

Refunds for active accounts will be credited to bills. Checks will be sent to customers who closed out and paid their accounts between March 19th and June 5th. The refunds is expected to be completed by early August.

Covington Receives Bicentennial Funds

The city of Covington, Ky., has received a grant of $20,950 to support the "Mayor's Bicentennial Greening Project."

The funds are to be used for the restoration and landscaping of two "miniparks" in Covington's inner city as part of an overall effort to upgrade the city's central section. The parks to be affected are the Sixth Street and the Lemon Street Parks.

These funds are part of a $125 million Congressional appropriation to the U.S. Department of Commerce for implementation of Title 10 of the Emergency Job and Unemployment Assistance Act of 1965. Of this amount, between $2.5 and $4.5 million was transferred to the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration (ARBA) for use in Bicentennial projects.

Eligible projects were those in areas of consistently high unemployment 6.5 percent or above for three consecutive months and in which at least 60 percent of the cost is for labor.

Only 16 Bicentennial projects in the United States were selected for funding in this special program. Of that group four were in the Southeast region of the ARBA one project each in Kentucky, Tennessee, Florida, and Georgia.

A wife is a great comfort to a husband in those distressing times a bachelor never has.

The nearsighted robber ordered: "Allright, everybody get your hands up. Are they up?"

A recent study shows there are two ways to avoid having to pay alimony and they both start with "stay" Single or Married.

A husband can be a great comfort to his wife too. All he has to do is to put REMINGTON tires on her car.

County Agent's

½ Acre by: Joe Claxon

Today's farmer may have several hundred thousand dollars invested in his farm. For example, for some typical one man operations it may take $200,000 for a 360 acre Louisiana rice soybean farm; $321,000 for a 1,950 acre Kansas wheat sorghum farm; $769,000 for an 800 acre Indiana corn soybean farm; and up to $611,000 for a 200 acre farm California vegetable farm. The largest share of the farmer's investment is in land.

Today, a farmer making his living only from farming must sell products worth at least $20,000 to provide his family with a minimum level of living and on return on his investment. It's obvious that not all farms produce enough to earn that much. But many farmers do not even try to want to do so. Some use their farms only for part time operations or retirement residences. On the other hand, some factory type farms brings in hundreds of thousands of dollars a year.

In the early 1970's about 35 per cent of our farms had sales of less than $2,500 a year. These account for only about 2 percent of our food. Some are retirement and part time farms. Others are subsistence farms where family members are underemployed. On the average people living on such farms receive more than 10 times as much income from off farms work as from farming.

About one fourth of the farms sell between $2,500 and $10,000 worth of products and account for about 8 per cent of all sales. Few of these will provide a satisfactory level of living unless twice as much non farm income as farm income. Income to all farm people from off farm sources averages $7,100 a year more than the $6,100 from farming.

Questions & Answers

Q. I worked in a medical laboratory before I was discharged from military service last month. How should I go about getting a similar job with the VA?

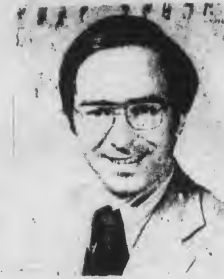

A. Contact the personnel office of the nearest VA hospital for information on employment opportunities at the agency's hospitals and clinics. If you qualify for a Veterans Readjustment Act Appointment, this would eliminate much of the paper work usually associated with Civil Service appointments.

Makes Big Move

The Boone County Association for Retarded Citizens has moved its Boone County Adult Activity Center into its new plant on Kentucky Drive in the Florence Industrial Park. The facility is a far cry from the rugged confines of the old Hebron School. It has 10,000 square feet of floor space and room for expanding as contracts are negotiated.

Above, Kenneth Schmidt, BAWAC director, helps some of his working staff put together and count shelving wire. He also is busy putting finishing touches on the new building and BAWAC is an affiliate of the Northern Kentucky Comprehensive Care and is one of three adult work centers in the eight county region.

By Darwin Foley Kenton County Extension Agent Stockpiling Pasture

Many cattlemen can take advantage of the late summer early fall growing conditions to obtain high quality pasture for fall and early winter grazing. This practice is called stockpiling.

Grasses to stockpile - The best grass for stockpiling is a cool season grass which will retain its green color late into winter. In addition, the grass should be somewhat resistant to low temperatures and have the capabilities of forming a good sod. Kentucky has two adapted grasses which have these characteristics; tall fescue and Kentucky bluegrass. Tall fescue produces more fall and winter growth than bluegrass.

Time to begin stockpiling - Late July early August is the time to begin stockpiling for fall and winter use. Remove cattle from fields to be stockpiled in late July or early August, apply necessary fertilizer and allow the grass to accumulate growth until November or December.

Fertilizer needed - A soil test should be taken to determine the phosphorus, potassium and lime needs. Nitrogen should be topdressed at the rate of 40 to 80 pounds of actual N per acre; lower rates on bluegrass, higher rates on fescue. Kentucky researchers have shown that bluegrass fertilized with 45 lb. of nitrogen per acre had a yield increase of 20 pounds of dry matter for each pound of nitrogen, when nitrogen was applied August 15th and yields taken December 1st. In the same study, tall fescue showed an even greater nitrogen use efficiency with 24.4 pounds of dry matter for each pound of nitrogen applied.

Utilization of Stockpiled grasses - After frost, be sure to graze grass legume fields quickly before the quality of plants deteriorate. After these fields are grazed, the stockpiled field or fields should be grazed. Light stocking will cause a lot of waste as a result of trampling. Unless increased production is efficiently utilized, returns to the nitrogen may not cover costs. To make most efficient use of the high quality feed in stockpiled fields a temporary electric fence can be installed across the field dividing it so the area to be grazed first has a source of water and minerals. Once the animals have grazed this area off, move the fence back, opening up a new strip. This system can be repeated until the entire field is grazed.

In summary, stockpiling of adapted cool season grasses such as tall fescue and bluegrass extends the grazing season, provides a good return of high quality forage for each pound of nitrogen fertilizer applied providing other elements aren't lacking and the nitrogen is applied early, and provides the beef cow herd an ideal place for wintering and calving.

can overripe tomatoes when they are too ripe, they change chemical composition and lose acidity. It's the high acidity of tomatoes that makes them safe to process without using a pressure canner.

To loosen skins, dip tomatoes into boiling water for about 30 seconds, then dip quickly into cold water to cool. Cut out stem ends and peel tomatoes. Leave them whole or cut into halves or quarters.

Pack tomatoes into sterilized jars, leaving ¼ inch space at top. Do not overpack. Trying to get too much food into one jar could cause under processing and spoilage.

Add one teaspoon salt per quart, ½ teaspoon per pint. Seal or adjust lid according to manufacturer's directions for that type of top.

Process in boiling water bath, 35 minutes for pints and 45 minutes for quarts. Water should be boiling hard the whole time. Add more boiling water as often as needed to keep the water level one to two inches above tops of jars. This is what helps assure a good seal.

If you are hot packing tomatoes or fixing tomato juice, process both pints and quarts for 10 minutes.

As soon as processing time is up, remove jars from canner. Do not touch the seal on two piece lids. Complete the seal for one piece tops with rubber rings. Set jars on a rack or cloth, out of a draft, to cool. Allow space between jars for free circulation of air. When completely cooled, check to see that all jars have sealed. If not, reprocess, using a new lid if the top is the two piece metal kind; or refrigerate a jar that doesn't seal and use it within the next day or two. Store in a cool, dry place.

For further information about canning, contact your local Extension Service. The Boone County Office is in Burlington and the phone number is 586-6101, Ext. 17.

The Holy Spirit
In Christian Growth

(John 16:12-15; Romans 8:26-27; Galatians 5:16-17, 22-25)

Things are not unreal just because they are unseen. The wind is not unreal because it is invisible. We know it is real because we see the trees bend before it. We hear the sound of it. We see the power of it. The Holy Spirit cannot be seen, but we see the effects of His indwelling in the hearts of men. We see His fruit of love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, and self control. Surely it requires something real and powerful to produce these effects in a human life.

If a Christian is to grow toward maturity, it is essential that the Holy Spirit be given control of the life.

He Promises
Encouragement
John 16:12-15

Believers are usually keenly aware of their lack of knowledge and understanding of the will of God in certain matters. It is often difficult to know what the Lord would have us to do. Jesus promised that when the Holy Spirit came He would reveal God's truth to His followers.

God's truth must be diligently sought. Nothing short of steady, earnest, and energetic application and effort will bring one to a knowledge of His will. This does not mean that anyone can discover God's will. God must reveal His will to man. He does this through and by the person of the Holy Spirit. The Holy Spirit will take the thoughts and will of God and show them to him who is willing to incorporate them into his life style.

He Procures
Endurance
Romans 8:26-27

Believers are sons of God but they are not super human beings. They are subject to all of the temptations and weaknesses of the flesh. They still possess the urges, drives, and tendencies which may be misused.

Believers are often especially weak in the matter of praying. They often fail to find words by which they may convey their thoughts. The Holy Spirit comes to the rescue and enables the Christian to pray. Thus He achieves endurance for the Christian. Prayer is essential if the child of God is to live the conquering, overcoming, and victorious life. The Holy Spirit makes intercession for us in a manner which far exceeds expressions in words.

He Provides Enthusiasm

Galatians 5:16-17, 22-25.

"Enthusiasm" comes from two Greek words which mean "in" and "God" or "God in us." We are commanded to walk in the Spirit and to live in the Spirit. Such living brings victory over the desires of the flesh. But how does one live? The answer is the indwelling of the Holy Spirit. He inspires the believer. Yes, He excites the believer. He gives a fervor, a zeal, a passion which essentially is life with a capital "L." All of this is not to say that the emphasis is on feelings for the physical body. But when the Spirit controls the will of the Christian there will be fervor and fire, power and passion to walk upright like a child of God ought to walk.

Such a life will be characterized by love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, and temperance.

The Holy Spirit enables the believer to put to death the affections and lusts of the flesh. Those of us who profess to possess the Spirit let us make sure the Spirit possesses us!

MOUNTAIN MOMENTS

The Return Of The "New Home"

Part of my childhood was spent in a hollow in the western part of Middlesboro, Ky., known by most area residents as "Bean's Fork Hollow." I used to be a little reluctant to reveal to "outsiders" that I had lived in such a strange sounding place, but this doesn't bother me now.

I have many memories of my childhood - of the big tree we climbed, of the dogs we had, and of Mom's sewing machine! Dad struggled to provide a living for his six children, and we were taught to "use it up and wear it out." And believe me, we did!

Once a year we got new clothes and shoes. The new shirts and pants had to last my brother and me until school was out. My four sisters got new dresses and they, too, had to last until the end of school. But you know what I had the most trouble with? Not my clothes - they could be patched. Sometimes my patches had patches, and there were no iron on patches then! My shoes gave me the hardest time as a child.

I usually had to really watch my shoes to assure they would last me through the winter. I had to walk about a mile to school and good, warm shoes were important. The shoes Dad always bought my brother and me were called "Brogans." They looked like the shoes "Little Abner" wears in the popular comic strip. But they lasted. And lasted. I don't think I had a pair that didn't last through the winter. Sometimes my classmates teased me about my shoes, but I always had dry feet at school!

Mom spent a lot of time mending our socks and repairing torn clothes. Much of this work she did with her hands and a needle and thimble, and I can still hear her biting the thread into.

One day Dad brought home a treadle sewing machine. It was a "New Home", which I think had been in our family for a long time. It had a wooden cover which set on top to protect the machine head. The machine was used frequently when the children were growing but as they married and moved away, the old sewing machine was quietly pushed into an obscure part of the house and forgotten.

A few days ago, Mrs. J. C. Crigger, who read Mountain Moments, in the Middlesboro Daily News, telephoned me. She said she had purchased Mom's "New Home" sewing machine when my parents sold their home and moved to Florida. Mrs. Crigger was selling some old pieces of furniture and wanted to know if I was interested in the machine.

Well, you can guess what I did! The "New Home", patented in the 19th century, now sits in our kitchen until my wife can decide where to put it.

Yesterday, I lifted the top off the old sewing machine and the imaginary smell of patched clothing and brogan shoes was so strong it almost brought tears to my eyes, and the "New Home" sewing machine has earned a place of prominence in my home.

THERE'S MORE TO LIFE THAN A PRETTY BALLOON!

A bouncy red or yellow balloon is the symbol the world over of good fun and happy feelings.

There's rarely a festival, a fiesta, or a fair held anywhere without the familiar balloon vendor strolling through the crowd, selling happiness for a few pennies. Parents buy them for their kids and young men present them with a flourish to their girl friends.

Just why a balloon is so much fun isn't clear, but one thing is certain—the pleasure never lasts. The air leaks out, balloons unexpectedly pop, careless fingers send them soaring away forever.

But there is a far greater pleasure to be found that will last for an eternity. It is the happy pursuit of a Christian life and you can find out all about it this Sunday — In church.

News For All Veterans

The veterans and the veterans administration are obligated jointly when a veteran receives benefits from the VA. The veterans must furnish the correct information and keep it current, and the VA must provide the proper benefit to a qualified veteran.
"It's not a one way street," the VA assistance officer at the state regional office says. "A veteran can get his check on time, as the law prescribes, if he likewise does what is required by law for him to accomplish."

A computer can deal only with the facts which are fed into it and these facts come from the veteran tied into the coding of the VA input employee, the VA official said.

Many veterans fail to advise the VA of their change of address and as a result fail to receive their checks on time. Likewise, veterans taking training under the GI Bill are obligated to report changes means a delayed or incorrect check. Most delayed checks would be received on time if veterans kept their records current, the official said.

"Naturally, there are human errors since the input employees are normal human beings but these could be corrected quickly if the veteran called attention to the error immediately."

Another important factor that can cause a veteran a problem is some cash checks to which they are not entitled after they have completed training or changed their training schedule. Checks which are for a larger amount than that to which a veteran is entitled should be returned. The VA will issue a new correct check promptly if this is done.

Veterans who cash such checks will be required to refund any excess overpayment before the computer will issue him another regular check.

The VA official said the veteran should report any forwarding address to the post office concurrently when notifying the VA change of address.

The VA issues over six million checks every month to veterans and dependents. As of April of this year 1.6 million of these were for veterans in training.

The extra work involved in reissuing checks and collecting overpayments ties up the routine of keeping all veterans receiving their benefits on time.

"There would be fewer complaints or inquiry letter from veterans and others if the veteran fulfilled his obligation to keep his records current," the official said.

Senator Dee Huddleston

REPORTS TO THE PEOPLE OF KENTUCKY

Senator Walter Dee Huddleston has urged special consideration be given communities of Appalachia when final regulations for the federal flood insurance program are adopted.

In a Senate floor statement, the senator pointed out that in many sections of Appalachia the only alternative to commercial and residential development in the flood plain is construction on mountain slopes of 14 degrees or more at considerably higher costs.

Huddleston said this is part of the reason only 90 of 237 eligible communities in Kentucky have qualified for participation in the program. Communities which do not qualify by a specified time face punitive action such as a cutoff of various federal funds and the disqualification of individuals who wish to participate.

Congress, however, has passed legislation now before the President to delay the punitive provisions for six months. Huddleston urged that a review of Appalachia's special situation take place during this interim.

"The alternative to building in the flood plain of many sections of Appalachia the mountain slope would increase construction costs and expose the structure to the dangers of mudslides," Huddleston added.

"Furthermore, if Appalachian communities participate in the program new construction on the flood plain would have to be flood proofed. This too, would add to construction costs.

"At a time when home mortgage interest rates are still high and our construction industry depressed, it is imperative that we consider carefully any mandated increases in construction costs which might price even more Americans out of the housing market.

Huddleston also cited situations in which 10 per cent of less of the residents of the community are affected and that community chooses not to participate in the program.

"It is perhaps not unusual that a 10 per cent minority would not be able to impose its will on the entire community," he said. "But it is important to remember that the minority will, nevertheless, be subject to severe punitive provisions because the full community largely unaffected by the program failed to participate."

... about your Social Security

Quarterly wage reports and social security contributions for household workers are due by July 31st, according to John Walter, social security district manager in Covington, Ky.

"People who pay a household worker $50 or more in cash wages in any 3 month quarter must send a report of the wages along with the social security contribution to the Internal Revenue Service within one month after the end of the quarter," Walter said.

Quarters are January February March, April May June, July August September, and October November December. Wage reports and social security contributions for the 2nd quarter of 1975 are due by July 31st. Mr. Walter said.

People who employ household workers may file the wage report on a form available at any Internal Revenue Service Office "Employer's Quarterly Tax Return for Household Employees (for Social Security)."

The social security contribution for a household employee is 5.85 percent of covered wages, and the employer pays a matching amount.

Social security contributions help build retirement, disability, survivors, and Medicare protection for workers and their families. People who employ household workers can get a free copy of the leaflet, "Social Security and Your Household Employee," at any social security office, Mr. Walter said.

Sensible Food Stamp

BY
M. GENE SNYDER
U.S. CONGRESSMAN
4th District, Kentucky

In last week's column, I detailed some of the abuses that have sprung up in the $5 billion Federal Food Stamp Program largely because of loose eligibility standards, and cumbersome, complex or even contradictory regulations. These abuses have been enormously costly to taxpayers and have deprived the truly needy.

The Department of Agriculture has the responsibility of defining eligibility standards in determining basic policy under the Food Stamp Act of 1964. It distributes funds to the States, and the money then goes to the welfare departments in the various counties. These applications are made, eligibility determined, and food stamps distributed.

On June 23rd I was one of the 59 Congressmen who joined in sponsoring a bill in the House of Representatives called the "National Food Stamp Reform Act of 1975." Sixteen Senators introduced the measure in the other body.

The legislation would transfer the program to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, since it essentially is a welfare program and administratively can be handled in conjunction with other welfare activities under simplified procedures.

The reform measure would rectify problems brought on by the bureaucratic decision to base food stamp allotments on "net income" and by other administrative decisions in figuring net income, to allow as deductions items not allowed by Internal Revenue in determining income taxes.

The proposal is intended to accomplish the following:

Curtail eligibility of persons with high income;

Conform purchase requirements to what the average American family spends for food, by income range and family size, or 30 per cent of gross income, whichever is less; Close numerous loopholes to end eligibility of the "voluntarily unemployed";

Tighten work requirements; Improve cash and coupon handling methods;

Curtail opportunities for criminal activities.

Because of the seeking out of persons no longer able to achieve eligibility for food stamps, the bill raises the actual allotment to legitimately eligible persons by 29 per cent. In addition it provides a special deduction of $25 per month for elderly persons.

If enacted into law, the reforms I have sponsored will achieve great savings to the American taxpayers. At the same time they will increase benefits to those citizens unfortunate enough to need a helping hand because of age, infirmity, disability or genuine economic hardship.

Questions & Answers

Q. The Veterans Administration provides special housing benefits for some veterans who suffer severe service connected disabilities. What are they?

A. Eligible veterans are provided grants of not more than 50 per cent of cost of specially adapted housing ("Wheelchair homes") up to a maximum of $25,000.

Q. I keep hearing about "vet reps" on campuses of major colleges around the country. Who are they, and what do they do?

A. They are, as the name implies, specially trained Veterans Administration representatives. They assist college going veterans by expediting educational assistance payments, and in many instances, perform "outreach," motivational counseling and other services.

Art Error In Boone Fair Catalog

An error has occurred in the 1975 Boone County Fair Catalog. Art will be entered for exhibit on Monday, August 4 between 2 and 7:00 p.m. It was incorrectly listed as being entered on August 7 in one location.

Sleepy Marlin & Sons At Ky. State Fair

If you hear a fiddler at the 1975 Kentucky State Fair, he won't be on the roof. It will be "Sleepy" Marlin, who will be appearing with his sons on the TV Showcase in front of the Exposition Center on August 12, 16, and 17.

Sleepy Marlin won first place in the International Fiddle Championships seven times during the years it was held at the Kentucky State Fair, from 1950 to 1960. He has also won the Novelty Division of the Canadian National Fiddle Contest nine times.

Originally from Maysville, Kentucky, Sleepy now resides in Clarksville, Indiana. Four of his sons, Jack, Jace, Gary, and Bots have followed their father's lead and become professional musicians and entertainers. For the past 15 years they have appeared with Sleepy on television, at county fairs, and in supper clubs in the Louisville area. Recently, Sleepy was a guest on the nationally televised "To Tell the Truth" show, as a World Champion Fiddler.

Sleepy Marlin and his sons will be playing music to suit all ages at 3:00 p.m. and 7:00 p.m. on the TV Showcase at the State Fair on these three days.

Plant Now

Plant vegetables now for a fall garden. There's still time to put out tomato and cabbage transplants. Potatoes planted now for a late crop will probably store better than those planted in the spring. And broccoli and cauliflower usually do much better in the fall than in the spring. Other vegetables that can still be planted include green beans, sweet corn, and radishes.

Hands Need

Exercise Too

Your hands, like the rest of your body, need exercise even though they're working all day. Exercise helps relieve the tension built up through constant repetition of regular work. And this helps keep hands feeling youthfully supple. Warm up for the exercises by flinging your hands over your head. Keep them there for ten seconds to stimulate circulation. Then, rest all finger tips lightly on table top. Lift it up and tap on table ten times, keeping other fingers down. Do this for all ten fingers. And, to give those hard working hands the same gentle care you give your face, wash with a mild moisturizing soap.

Thursday, July 24, 1975

If you didn't get all your fruit picked or potatoes dug yesterday you still have plenty of time today and if you need new fence try to get the posts set before tomorrow noon but don't stretch the wire until after the new moon if you want it to stay tight. Also a good time for painting and pouring concrete weather permitting. Get your hair cut before tomorrow noon and it will look nice and be slow growing back in.

Friday, July 25th

The fishing will be exceptionally good this afternoon through Sunday night so plan your weekend accordingly and make some record catches, if you don't like to fish or boatrike this is an exceptionally good time for home canning and the produce should be plentiful and reasonable in price if you don't have enough in your garden. If you plan on drying or dehydrating some fruit wait until next Monday or Tuesday and you will have better luck.

Saturday, July 26th

This is a good fun day for everyone, a safe day for traveling and a harmonious time for visiting, you will be well received wherever you go and if you decide to do some shopping just take your time and look the merchandise over and do some comparisons and you should be well pleased with any purchases. Also a good time to eat out and enjoy a good show or dance in the evening. If you happened to buy a new pair of shoes while you were shopping this afternoon you will be happy with the good fit and neat appearance.

Sunday, July 27th

The Moon in Places crossing the equator today should give us a sense of well being and love of our family, as Washington Irving said (Love is never lost. If not reciprocated it will flow back and soften and purify the heart.)

Monday, July 28th

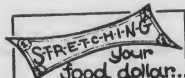

The Moon entered the fire sign Aries early this morning so it would be a good time to pick fruit and also a good time to dry apples, potatoes and onions harvested now should have good home baking qualities and if you do any home baking today or tomorrow you will be proud of your efforts. Today and tomorrow is also a good time to cut weeds and spray for garden pests and you won't have to repeat that chore for quite a while.

Tuesday, July 29th

You can finish any of yesterday's chores today and have the same success but this will be a better day for collections and also a good time to look for an advancement in your position or a raise in pay, if you are applying for a new position try to have the interview during the morning hours.

Wednesday, July 30th

If you need a new permanent wave try to get your appointment anytime between this afternoon and Friday evening and it will look nice and last a long time, and if you need new clothing do your shopping at this time also and you will be inclined to buy items with good lasting qualities and the latest eye appealing color and style. If your husband or son hates to visit the barber remind him to get it cut now and he won't have to go back so often.

For all those who work the land, the time of harvest is a time of culmination, a time of reward and fulfillment, and a time for agricultural fairs where some of the best specimens of man's creative labor are displayed. This has been going on for centuries and is an extension of customs of ancient Greeks and Romans who laid their first and finest fruits on the altars of their temples. They mounted these displays as offerings to pagan gods for the continuity and abundance of the harvest.

This may not have been such a bad idea after all for, as it says in Proverbs, "Honor the Lord... with the first fruits of all thine increase; So shall thy barns be filled with plenty; and thy presses shall burst out with new wine."

Putting history and philosophy aside, it is fair time again and since our modern agricultural events are some what competitive, the selection and preparation of specimens, especially vegetables, might mean the difference between winning and losing.

According to UK Extension vegetables specialists, to better the chances of winning, uniformity in size, shape, color, maturity, and type is essential. Do not, they say, select extremely large or very small sizes. Rather, select the size that is desirable on the market.

Also very important is that specimens should be clean and free of dust, dirt, and spray residue. Select and harvest only clean vegetables, if possible, because most garden products cannot withstand cleaning without changing appearance.

Vegetables like peas, beans, cucumbers, okra, and cantaloupes will withstand light cleaning with a soft brush. Fruits with a waxy surface such as eggplant, tomatoes, peppers, and watermelons can be wiped clean with a soft cloth. Washing should be the last resort but it may be necessary on root crops and some leafy vegetables.

In harvesting vegetables for exhibition, select only those that show no sign of mechanical, insect, or disease damage. A sharp knife is best for harvesting many vegetables and use a spreading fork or shovel to loosen the soil before attempting to remove root crops.

Some vegetables that keep well, like potatoes, onions, and garlic, should be harvested a few days before exhibition so as to allow time for proper curing. Keep them in a cool dark place to preserve color. Other vegetables such as chard, lettuce, sweet corn and beans should be harvested as close to exhibit time as possible. In either case, gather more specimens than needed and then select only the best from each type.

The points given here are the basics for selecting and preparing vegetables for competition and, if followed, will give the exhibitor a better chance of winning. To further enhance the chance for winning, exhibitors are advised to check with their county extension agent for more information on such things as display arrangements, labeling, and how specimens are judged.

One of the best ways to stretch the food dollar is to grow some food yourself and it's not too late to put out some garden plants for fall eating. Bunch beans, beets, sweet corn, turnips, Bibb Lettuce, cabbage, and several other vegetables can be planted on up into August and still be harvested before winter. Check with your county agent for a planting guide.

Neatly arranged mass displays of products at the end of supermarket aisles suggest bargains. These products may be good buys or they may not. Check the prices on other brands before putting items into your shopping cart.

Recourse To The Beautiful Thoughts Of Famous Poets, Philosophers and Writers.

Mild and gentle as he was brave—
When the sweetest love of his life he gave
To simple things; where the violets grew
Blue as the eyes they were likened to,
The touches of his hands have strayed
As reverently as his lips have prayed;
And he pitied as much as a man in pain
A writhing honey-bee wet with rain.
Think of him still as the same, I say
He is not dead - he is just away.

Pizza Pie Has Hamburger "Crust"

Pizza plain and pizza fancy! Pizza thick and pizza thin! However it's served, it's craved with an intensity removed from rationality. For fanatics who crave the pizza tastes, here's an exciting new version "No Dough" Pizza.

Ready in about 15 minutes, it's a cook's dream. And it's easy on the budget as the name implies. The ground beef "crust" economically extended with oats and seasoned with oregano broils done. "No Dough" Pizza is then popped into the oven just long enough to heat the tomato sauce topping and melt the tidy triangles of Mozzarella cheese.

"No Dough" Pizza

- 1 lb. ground beef
- 1 cup quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked
- 1/4 cup chopped onion
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon oregano
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper

1 egg

one 8-oz. can tomato sauce

one 6-oz. pkg. sliced Mozzarella cheese, cut in small triangles

Combine ground beef, oats, onion, salt, oregano, pepper, egg and half of tomato sauce (reserve remaining sauce for topping). Press meat mixture evenly into bottom of a 12 inch round pizza pan or press to form a 12 inch circle on a cookie sheet. Broil about 5 inches from source of heat about 7 minutes. Spread with remaining sauce and top with cheese triangles; bake until cheese is melted about one minute. If desired sprinkle lightly with paprika to garnish.

United In Marriage

Mr. and Mrs. John Reeves

The wedding of Rhonda Fae LaFollette, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond LaFollette of Piner, and John Ralph Reeves, son of Mrs. Ralph Reeves, of Ft. Wright was solemnized at 7:30 p.m. on June 21st at Goshen Christian Church, Piner.

Bro. Marshall Hills of Youngstown, Ohio, performed the double ring ceremony. The altar was lighted with candles centered with an arch of pastel summer flowers.

Bro. Dave Shanklin, minister of Goshen sang "The Wedding Song", "One Hand One Heart", "Sunrise Sunset", and "The Lord's Prayer". Mrs. Marshall Hills accompanied at the organ.

The bride escorted to the altar by her father, was lovely in her all white organza gown. The gown had a high neckline with a key hole opening, full bishop sleeves with Venice lace, a natural set in waist line, and a full skirt with Venice lace trim. On her head she wore a large picture hat trimmed in the same Venice lace. A waist length imported silk illusion veil came from around the crown of the hat. She carried a bouquet of white carnations, yellow roses and baby breath.

Mrs. Delores McHargue of Independence, best friend of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a lovely floor length caped dress of coral floral print with a matching hat. She carried a bouquet of white daisies tipped in coral.

Miss Martha Jensen of Shelbyville and Mrs. Kathi Boh of Florence, college friends of the bride, were bridesmaids. Their ensembles were identical to that of the matron of honor, only in pastel shades of mint green and yellow. They also carried daisies tipped in their dress color.

Little Miss Kristie Brown of Cincinnati, was the flower girl. She wore a dress identical to the matron of honor and carried a basket of tipped daisies.

The ring bearer, Master Steven Bolog of Williamstown, carried a heart shaped pillow with attached streamers and bows.

Dave Stephens of Ludlow was the best man. Other groomsmen were Wayne Griffith of Florence and Dexter LaFollette, brother of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a floor length mint dress with white accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations tipped in mint.

The bridegroom's mother wore a beige floor length dress with matching accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations tipped in pink.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Masonic Lodge Hall, Fiskburg. The bride's table was centered with a three tiered wedding cake with four matching cakes around it. They were decorated in coral, mint, and yellow. The interior of the hall was decorated in pastel streamers and bells. Miss Colleen Connors of Louisville kept the guest register.

Serving at the bride's table was Mrs. Sandy Duncan of Florence, sister of the bride; Mrs. Carole Shetler of west Palm Beach, Florida, sister of the groom; Mrs. Beverly Wood of Flemingsburg, cousin of the bride; and Mrs. Sue Shanklin of Piner, friend of the bride.

After a wedding trip to Gatlinburg the couple resides in the Village of Beechgrove.

The bride is a December graduate of Eastern Ky. University and teaches at Simon Kenton High School. The groom is a 1974 graduate of Northern Ky. State College and teaches at Walton Verona High School.

Situated in Anderson County, this old country store is a symbol of the communications center which catapulted us into the age of modern technology.

As the country opened up, roads and travel improved and the major cities developed. The country store became important because it was the shopping and social center of the small community. So thoroughly dependent were rural Kentuckians on them that life revolved about the country store. Small wonder that politicians recognized quickly what an influence they were in the community.

In recent years, these old stores have somewhat gone modern to compete with the supermarkets and shopping centers in the neighboring metropolitan centers.

Some of the old stores are still being operated by the sons or grandsons of their first owners. Many variations of the old general store have come about in one generation; some have an electric meat box, canned beer, and gasoline pumps out in front instead of hitching posts. The old-time store buildings have grown mellow with age and their peculiar smells.

To most rural Kentuckians the old country store was a place where they came in touch with the world outside, and where the world outside came in touch with them. They were places where boys bought Barlow knives, copper-topped shoes and jean britches, and gangling adolescents purchased their first razors and long trousers. Here the young ladies acquired sweet-smelling cologne, fine calico dresses and their first corsets. There was a sentimental part of life which has created a genuine nostalgia for every person who ever traded at a country store. A great variety of goods were sold there, anything from a needle to a well-padded horse collar.

Many of the country stores were frame buildings with square front, and a good-sized room on one side where excess bags of feed, fertilizer and meal were stored. The storekeeper was generally the local postmaster as well. He stood big in the eyes of the community, as he kept abreast of the times, offered advice and also served as a merchant-broker or factor. This meant that he sold goods all year on credit against the customer's fall crops.

The days of the cracker barrel, lunch at the meat counter, penny candy and sitting on pop cans around the potbellied stove while discussing the world situation, are gone. The convenience of the country store is still available but the glamorous atmosphere and tasteful heritage which were the backbone of our founding spirit, are only fond memories.

SHORT ROWS

By Neryle Shackelford

Gardening Tips from Extension Specialists at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture

When the sun is still low in the sky, when the dew is still on the corn blades, when the fog still hangs over the river this is the best time to work in the garden. In this cool of the dawn, one has more energy to attack the crabgrass and morning glories that seem to spring up over night just to assault and strangle the stickbeans.

But leave off working around the beans until the sun has burned away the god and dried off the dew. Instead, concentrate on pulling weeds out of the cucumber and melon hills and chopping pigweeds out of the sweet potato patch. Beans don't like being bothered while they are wet. As an old time gardener once said, beans are always out of sorts at early morning and if you mess with them at that time, they will spite you by taking the rust or coming down with mildew or something.

In arising early and "getting the goes on the sun", one is in line for some other benefits, too. At that time of day, robins, brown thrashers and wood thrushes start reestablishing their boundary lines in songs which are very pleasing to the ear. Rabbits hop around on the lawn searching for plantain leaves that may have grown a little during the night. And off somewhere in a thicket a raincrow reads the early morning signs and announces the weather report for the day. Only trouble with the raincrow's predictions is that he always forecasts wet weather even in times of drought.

The air is always fresher at early morn. Sweet odors from the honeysuckle on the garden fence or arising from other flowers that may be in bloom at the particular time are more acute. To smell the flowers, to hear the wonderful bird music, and to be greeted by the rabbits and perhaps some wild neighbors as one goes about chopping weeds and raking fresh dirt to the plants certainly makes the garden work more interesting and less laborious.

Getting up with the birds and out among the cabbages and cucumbers is not only salubrious to the body, and quiet to the mind, but it can also lead one into philosophy. There's something about a neat patch of sturdy vegetables one has nurtured from tiny, dormant seeds that makes him feel humble, but at the same time proud of himself. It makes him congratulate himself for his having enough get up to get out and with his own hands and industry grow part of what he needs to eat and makes him full of contentment and self satisfaction. Then the sun gets high and hot enough to sear the back of the neck. Sweat bees start to sting and deer flies to bite. For the rest of the day, gardening stops being fun and becomes just another chore. So, for the rest of year, garden at dawn and in the twilight before dark.

Veterans Qualified

More than 1,200 veterans qualified for Veterans Administration education loans during the first three months of a new program established in December under the Vietnam era Veterans Readjustment Act of 1974.

A Consumer Tip from Extension Specialists at the UK College of Agriculture

While fresh fruits are plentiful this summer, serve them to your family in a variety of ways. They are not only colorful and tasty but also add valuable vitamins and minerals to the family diet. Serve fresh fruit with meals as salads or fruit plates. They are also delicious baked or simmered. And there are many possibilities for fresh fruit desserts, such as cobblers, pies, cakes and puddings. Look through your recipe books for other serving ideas. And don't forget that fresh fruits make good snacks to eat with cheese, ice cream, milk or cookies.

Plant vegetables now for a fall garden. There's still time to put out tomato and cabbage transplants. Potatoes planted now for a late crop will probably store better than those planted in the spring. And broccoli and cauliflower usually do much better in the fall than in the spring. Other vegetables that can still be planted include green beans, sweet corn and radishes.

County Agent's

½ Acre by Joe Claxon

We have had a number of calls about Blossom end rot on tomatoes. This can be a big loss in most home gardens where it occurs. Two control measures are recommended. One is a "more favorable calcium ratio in the soil," and the other, avoiding excesses of soluble ammonium potassium magnesium, sodium salts or other salts in the soil.

The condition usually is associated with unfavorable moisture conditions. Wet weather may bring an excess of the previously mentioned salts into the plants' root zones, or cause a deficiency of calcium salts there. If not enough calcium is taken up by the plant, cell walls collapse on the blossom end of the tomato. This makes an unsalable fruit.

Soluble salts accumulate in the upper few inches of the soil after a prolonged dry spell, or from fertilizer side dressings. When rains come, the salts move into the root zone, and this reduces the calcium ratio.

Calcium can be applied to the foliage as calcium chloride sprays. Use four pounds of anhydrous calcium chloride in 100 gallons of water or four teaspoons per one gallon of water. Spraying at the proper time is a critical item. Sprays usually should be applied 24 to 48 hours after a rain; during periods of rapid growth; or as long as excess accumulated salts are considered a problem.

Sprays may be applied as often as twice a week in problem time. Too much spraying, however, may cause leaf burn.

Leaves curling on the tomatoes is caused by water stress. This can be helped by mulching around the tomatoes and keeping the ground moist. The early blight is with us as always. This condition usually appears when our tomatoes start ripening. It can only be controlled somewhat by a preventive copper fixed spray.

Azaleas in the past few weeks have turned and some look like they have a grayish appearance to them. In most cases this is due to an infestation of spider mites. These little insects are impossible to see without using a microscope but can be controlled. The plants should be sprayed with Miticide and this usually gives satisfactory results. Spray the plant until it drips and as often as needed.

Sauerkraut

By: Nancy Norman

Sauerkraut is an excellent way to utilize extra cabbage. Many recipes are for making it by the crock full but most Kentuckians use the jar method. Here are some instructions taken from one of the canning bulletins for sauerkraut made in jars.

Select good, sound heads of mature cabbage. Remove the outer leaves and hard core and shred finely. Mix cabbage with pickling salt about 3½ tablespoons with 5 pounds of cabbage. Pack solidly into sterilized jars to within ½ inch of top. Fill with cold water to within ½ inch of top of jar. Put on cap screwing band firmly tight.

Fermentation starts right away. In very warm weather, bubbling will stop in a few days which means fermentation is complete. In cool weather, it will take longer.

When fermentation ceases, wash outside of jars, tighten screw bands and process in boiling water bath 15 minutes. Start counting processing time as soon as jars are placed in actively boiling water. If you prefer the crock method or want other information on home preservation, call or visit your Extension Service. The Boone County Office is in the Renaker Annex, Burlington, Kentucky and the phone number is 586-6101.

For Your Child

Participation in sports can be a valuable experience in the physical and emotional growth of any young boy or girl. However, sports can be dangerous if children play without proper equipment or qualified supervision. Before giving your youngster permission to play in a local league, make sure it is well organized and can provide safe facilities and equipment.

The coaches in the league must be carefully screened as well. "A coach should never be more concerned with winning than he is with the safety and enjoyment of the children." Moreover, he should be knowledgeable about the bodily development of youngsters, so that he does not make physical demands on them that could prove harmful." Parents should also have their family physician give the child a thorough examination to assure his fitness to participate.

Towns if possible, organize several levels of leagues, arranged according to the skills and sizes of the youngsters. "Your little athlete will be happier and much safer if he competes with children of his own strength and abilities."

Very Expensive

One of the most expensive foods you can buy, in terms of value for your money in protein, is bacon. Bacon has appetite appeal because of its texture or flavor, but don't depend on it for any great amount of protein.

Resources For Christian Growth

Colossians 4:4-9; Colossians 3:1-4, 12-17

It is strange indeed how some people think it is a calamity to be a small dwarf, yet think lightly of the undersized, undernourished, and feeble souls. "What a man!" we say as we gaze upon the body of the athlete or the movie hero. Perhaps our enthusiasm would not be so great if there were some device to show the measure of his soul-life. It is said that Isaac Watts, the immortal hymn writer, was only five feet tall. Often he was twitted about his stature. To one of his tormentors he replied in a verse, composed at the moment:

*Were I so tall to reach the pole,
Or grasp the ocean with my span,
I must be measured by my soul:
The mind's the standard of the man.*

There are resources available for those who want to grow toward spiritual maturity.

Faith
Philippians 4:4-9

The apostle Paul encouraged his readers to rejoice in the Lord always. He encouraged them to be fair minded and understanding toward all men. In verse 6 he admonishes them to "Be careful for nothing." This meant "don't be over anxious about anything." The cure for anxiety is given in the rest of the verse: "but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your request be made known unto God."

This is a call for personal faith in One who knows and cares and acts in our behalf. God's peace comes and settles the troubled soul when all is committed to His care.

Then the reader is instructed to center his thoughts on things that are honest, pure, just, lovely, and of good report. Such exercises of the dedicated mind always brings the presence of the God of peace.

Fact
Colossians 3:1-4

There are some things which are realities in the life and experience of a child of God. To recognize the fact of these truths will enable him to grow.

An Old No. 6

Do you know what a No. 6 stove iron is? I betcha there are some of you who do. Maybe the "No. 6" threw somebody, but that's simply the method of designating the size of the iron, I think! This particular iron must have been kinda popular since there seems to be quite a few of them around.

My mother used irons when I was a child. I can see her now standing over a hot stove heating them to iron and press clothes for a husband and six children.

Farmer's Calendar

When I was a boy, my east window looked down to the slopes of our hill to the little town and beyond to the sea, or Boston Harbor but I thought it was the sea.

And I had an old telescope perhaps my great grandfather's who had been a sea captain. I would watch the ferries and the tugs and the great steamers, sighting their funnel smoke first behind the islands and waiting till they would appear at last. Especially I would watch the steamers how sometimes their smoke trailed and fled away, or settled and lay heavy as the wet air itself, or streamed out in long black ribbons ahead, till they were eating their own smoke.

Or I would watch the folks on the islands busy about their little white houses or the lighthouse snow bright on the bleak south island. And I thought how lonely a lighthouse keeper must be and how he lived in great storms and fogs.

And sometimes at night I watched as the wild northeast snow would blot out the harbor lights, one by one, till it raced in at last and dimmed my own street light and beat on my window.

So I grew up, like many a New England boy, a landlubber with the sea in my heart, faye to weather, its moods and meaning and like Long John Silver, with a battered old telescope.

with Christ. Baptism testifies to this. The Christian has already been raised to walk in a newness of life. He is now a citizen of heaven. This world is not his home, so he ought to set his affection on things above, not on things on the earth. He may vote on earth but his citizenship is in heaven.

The Christian is dead and his life is hid with Christ in God. This is a fact. Let every Christian reckon himself dead. Dead to the sin way of life. Dead to the appeal of all that is unlike Jesus Christ. Christ is our life and He ought to be our ultimate goal in all of our energies and efforts.

Fortitude
Colossians 3:13-17

It is time for the soldier of Christ to take his stand. He must have the courage, endurance, firmness, resolution, and strength to play the man of God he has been called to be. He must be a man of compassion and kindness, humbleness and meekness, longsuffering, and forbearing. He must be forgiving as Christ is forgiving. He should put on love which welds all of the other graces together. Without love the others would never be complete.

God's peace must be allowed to rule in the heart. God's word in Christ must dwell in the heart of His people. All must be done in the name of the Lord Jesus as thanks is given to God and the Father by Him.

The child of God grows older and watches the body become weaker and less useful, but he realizes that the inner man is being renewed day by day. Thanks be unto God for the tremendous potential for growth available to His children!

Ralph may be known to some of you as the "Clear Creek Parson", the name he uses on his taped radio program "Clear Creek Country."

While we were eating, Ralph punched me and pointed to the grill the cook was using. Sitting there as pretty as you please was a No. 6. Birth on top of a hamburger patty! An old faithful No. 6, used for years to provide neat clothing for perhaps several families, was now relegated to a kind of nondescript existence—pressing a hamburger patty.

And as I sat there, I thought that instead of slaving over a hot stove 12 or 14 hours a day, that old iron should occupy a favored spot in somebody's home.

peace of
GOD

It isn't easy to explain how the Church can help you find strength and comfort. You can't prove it by mathematical equations, but once you experience it, you have no doubts. And, having felt it, you want to share this deep, abiding peace with others.

No matter how stormy it is outside, in the Church you can find peace. Isn't it wonderful to know that you can take all your cares and worries to God and feel His peace and quiet? Then, having found this peace, you can carry it with you wherever you go. Through the Church you can help others find it.

Peace — God's peace — the Church — God's Church. Are you acquainted with them?

Senator Dee Huddleston

REPORTS TO THE PEOPLE OF KENTUCKY

New Personnel

Senator Walter Dee Huddleston said he intends to make sure the Social Security Administration follows through on its promise to detail an additional 10 hearings judges to Kentucky to help eliminate the backlog on federal disability cases.

Huddleston said the hearing judges would be detailed to Kentucky on a temporary basis starting in September, with the objective of substantially reducing the existing backlog by January.

In Lexington, which serves most of Eastern Kentucky, there is only one hearing judge with a backlog of 950 cases.

"The Social Security Administration has promised to work off 600 of those cases by January, and by March 30 they have the goal of dispensing with every case within 90 days after it is filed," Huddleston said.

The senator also reported that the Social Security Administration has promised to send nine new permanent personnel to Kentucky by next March to insure that the backlog does not continue.

"The offices handling disability cases in Kentucky are woefully undermanned and the new permanent personnel are badly needed," Huddleston said.
Louisville has a backlog of 500 cases and the Paducah office has a backlog of 480.

... about your Social Security

A widower with one or more children in his care may be eligible for social security survivors benefits under a recent decision of the U.S. Supreme Court.

Widowers can get information about applying for the benefits by calling or writing any social security office, according to John F. Walter, social security district manager in Covington, Kentucky.

Under the court decision, a widower taking care of his wife's children can get monthly survivors benefits on her record if she worked long enough in jobs covered by social security. Previously, a widow with children in her care could get survivors benefits, but a widower could not unless he proved he was dependent on his wife and was either 60 or over or 50 to 60 and disabled.

A widower's survivors benefits can be affected by his earnings, and only about 15,000 widowers are expected to get payments under the court decision, according to Mr. Walter. Children continue to get social security survivors benefits on either their mother's or father's record.

Generally a widower who doesn't remarry can get survivors benefits until the children in his care are 18. If there are sons or daughters 18 or over who were severely disabled before 22, he can get benefits as long as they're disabled and cannot work.

"The amount of a widower's monthly survivors benefits is based on his wife's average earnings over a period of years, and it may also be affected by his earnings," Mr. Walter said. "He can earn $2,520 or less for this year and still get his full social security benefit. Over $2,520 his benefit will be reduced by $1 for each $2 earned but no matter how much he earns for the year, he can get his full social security benefit for any month he neither earns $210 nor does substantial work in his own business."

The children in a widower's care can get social security checks until they're full-time students and remain unmarried. "The amount of their monthly social security payments may be affected by their earnings but not by their father's earnings," Mr. Walter said.
The Social Security Administration is an agency of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

National Welfare Reform Act Needed

BY
M. GENE SNYDER
U.S. CONGRESSMAN
4th District, Kentucky

A long overdue measure has been introduced in Congress by which critically needed reform in the nation's welfare program can be achieved.

Welfare rolls and costs have steadily increased over the years, but the truly needy have not necessarily benefited by the greater outlays. Together with more than 50 other Members, I have sponsored the National Welfare Reform Act of 1975, H.R. 5143, in a determined attempt to reverse this trend, and more directly target public welfare aid where it is actually needed.

The bill's sponsors think it will save the American taxpayers at least $1.5 billion. Such a savings is all the more important when we realize the inflationary budget deficit for fiscal 1976 may reach $70 billion or more. The proposal to tighten eligibility requirements and crack down on outright fraud, is similar to highly successful measures taken in several states beginning with California in 1971. In that state the welfare caseload was rising at a rate of 40,000 a month until its reform act went into effect in March 1971. In a short time the caseload started to decline by 8,000 a month!

Professional welfare takers must be driven from the rolls of public assistance everywhere. By doing this we can get increased assistance to our needy citizens who have been handicapped by the proliferation of able-bodied "welfare workers" who prefer living off the taxpayers to turning a hand to an honest living. Many Federal social programs need corrective legislation to get the job done. A successful welfare program should aim at getting as many people as possible off the assistance rolls as fast as possible into productive employment. This is the goal of H.R.

The most costly welfare program, and the one subject to the greatest abuse, is that of Aid to Families With Dependent Children. Logically, the reforms zero in on AFDC. The national caseload in that category had doubled in the decade ending in 1965, yet doubled again by 1970 in only five years. Federal outlays for AFDC rose over the last 20 years from $445 million to well over $4 billion. The AFDC segment of the Federal budget shot up 6800 percent between 1937 and 1974!

H.R. 5134 would, among other things, accomplish the following:

Eliminate from the welfare rolls persons with high incomes and others who should not benefit from tax supported assistance; carefully identify outside resources of recipients and require their best use; reduce fraudulent practices; affirm the concept of family responsibility and strengthen requirements for child support since delinquency in this causes many, many welfare problems; strengthen work requirements and provide incentives to find employment.

Questions & Answers

Q. The last Civil War veteran died several years ago. Doesn't this make World War I veterans the oldest living veterans group?

A. No. As of March 1975, there were 1,085 living veterans of the Spanish American War, according to the Veterans Administration.

Q. Suppose a veteran instructed the Veterans Administration to pay proceeds from his National Service Life Insurance in monthly installments? Would his beneficiary have the right to elect another payment option?

A. Yes, but only if option required payments over a longer period of time.

Q. Are Vietnam era veterans taking advantage of current GI Bill education benefits as well as World War II veterans under the original GI Bill?

A. Yes. During the first 97 months of the current Bill, 53.2 per cent of the Vietnam era veterans and servicemen took advantage of their education benefits. This compares to the 50.5 per cent who used benefits during a similar period after World War II under the original GI Bill.

Store Properly

Store potatoes properly to avoid waste. They suggest setting aside any bruised or cracked potatoes to use first and then storing the rest in a cool, dark place with good ventilation. The best temperature for potato storage is from 45 to 50 degrees higher temperatures often cause sprouting and shriveling. And never wash potatoes before you store them, since the dampness may cause them to decay more quickly.

DRIVE CAREFULLY

FEARLESS FORECAST

By: R. W. Lancaster

Thursday, July 31, 1975

If you want your hair to look nice and be slow growing back get it cut anytime today or tomorrow, also a good time to quit all your bad habits such as overeating or smoking and some even your friends don't know about, all kidding aside this is an excellent time to start a diet while plenty of fresh fruits and vegetables are available. If you need fillings or plate impressions try to get to your dentist before tomorrow night and you will be satisfied with his work.

Friday, August 1st

This is a poor day to travel especially the morning hours but it is a good time to buy new shoes or clothing as you will be inclined to buy a good quality merchandise that will still please you long after the process is forgotten. If you decide to stay home the aspects are right for setting fence posts or doing some sewing and mending, the moon enters Gemini tonight so you can expect to hear some choice gossip before bedtime.

Saturday, August 2nd

Next Thursday, August 7th is going to be a good day for selling so if you go through your basement and attic and find some items you no longer need write the ad today while your mind is alert and get it in next week's paper, this is also a good day to take care of legal matters and maybe look over your insurance policies, with this inflation a fire could ruin the average person if he is only insured at yesterday's prices.

Sunday, August 3rd

The aspects indicate a lot of friendliness today so if someone pays you a compliment accept it and think of poet Walt Whitman he once said (I feel about fame as the fellow did who found himself in Heaven. He didn't ask himself whether he deserved it. He just kept quiet and stayed.)

Monday, August 4th

The Moon enters the water sign, Cancer early this morning so you can expect good fishing through Tuesday night. This is also an excellent time to do home canning and if you have time to bake bread or pie crusts filled with fresh sliced apples you will be very popular all evening.

Tuesday, August 5th

A good time for pruning shrubs and planting late root crops that will make before frost, and if you have all your chores caught up such as canning and getting those surplus items ready to sell this weekend just remember the fish will be biting the rest of the evening.

Wednesday, August 6th

The Moon enters the fixed fire sign Leo early this morning so you may as well put on your old work clothes as this is the time to start new construction, pour concrete set fence posts, cut weeds, or spray for plant pests also a good time to pick apples and other fruit or dig root crops, potatoes, onions, etc., if you want good keeping qualities. The fish aren't biting so you might mow the lawn if you want to slow the growth.

Hot & Raw Pack Two Ways of Filling

Which pack should you use when canning fruits and vegetables - hot pack or raw pack? And what difference does it make, anyhow?

Both methods have their advantages, according to Ann Myers, Kenton County Extension Agent for Home Economics.

Raw Pack - The raw pack method calls for packing raw food into the jar, then adding boiling liquid and processing. This method is quicker and easier than the hot pack, but the foods do have to be processed longer in the boiling water bath canner. In the pressure canner, processing times are usually the same, since raw packed foods are thoroughly hot by the time the 240 degrees temperature is reached.

Hot Pack - The hot pack method calls for a short precooking or preheating. Then the boiling hot food is packed into jars and processed. Preheating makes the food pliable so that it can be packed more tightly into the jars. Some fruits keep their color better when hot packed.

Headpace - Whichever method you decide to use for filling jars, be sure to leave headspace. Follow the directions in your canning manual for each fruit or vegetable on how much space to leave at top of jar.

The right amount of headspace gives the food room to expand and also leaves space for the liquid to bubble up into during processing. Without this headspace, some food might be forced out of the jar with the air, causing a deposit of food on the jar rim and ruining the seal.

If you leave too much headspace, food at top might discolor or the jar might not seal if all air is not exhausted during processing. The vacuum created between the top of the food and the lid is what helps cause the jar to seal.

When it comes to closing the jar and doing the right thing to further assure a tight seal, follow carefully the directions that come with the type of lid you are using.

For step-by-step directions on canning all the common fruits and vegetables stop by your county Extension Office at Courthouse, second floor, Independence, for your free copy of "Home Canning of Fruits and Vegetables."

Cotton in Pennsylvania

By 1776, the Quaker state was raising enough cotton to supply its domestic needs... cotton once was grown as far north as Pennsylvania.

And cotton's culture was so well understood in New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland that it was grown there for army use during the Revolution

Today cotton is grown in only 19 states from California to the Carolinas!

A Silk Birthplace

Birthplace of the U.S. Cotton Industry was on a farm designed to produce silk!!!

In 1773, English established mulberry grove plantation in Georgia colony to grow silkworms. The effort failed but... 60 years later, Eli Whitney invented his cotton gin there... A feat that took just 10 days and quickly turned cotton into America's top money making crop.

Listen All Girls!

The Walton Verona Cheerleaders will be sponsoring a mini cheerleading clinic on August 25th to the 28th for all interested girls in the fifth, sixth, seventh, and eighth grades. The event which will be held at the high school, will last from 9 a.m. until noon each day.

The girls will be taught cheers, exercises, jumps, stunts, spirit chants and basic leadership ideas.

The cost for the clinic will be five dollars per girl, the proceeds going into the cheerleading fund.

Any girl may sign up for the clinic by calling 485-7576 or 4641 or by coming to the high school at 8:30 a.m. on the first day of the clinic.

Come on out and learn about cheerleading. It's fun!

Rosemary Newcomer, Walton Verona Cheerleading Sponsor will be in charge of the clinic.

State Regulations Inforce Retirement

State regulations has forced in retirement eight bus drivers for the Kenton County school system.

J.R. "Bob" Walter, director of transportation told the Board of Education that 65 years old mandates retirement.

"Some of them", he added, are among our best drivers. The lower age limit, he said is 18 years of age.

The school system, largest in Northern Kentucky, employees about 100 drivers covering vocational school and special education transportation.

The board also was told that drivers are watching the mud slides and rocky debris on Route 8 west of Bromley.

Should the slides continue and dangers exist, the routes will be changed. Some children living on the west end of the route may be transferred to the Crescent Springs school. They now attend Bromley.

Girls Pick Baptist Team

The Women's Area Churches Softball League will hold a meeting (tonight - Thursday) at All Saints Church Hall at 7:30 p.m. for all managers and coaches in preparation for the tournament which will begin on August 19th.

We invite the public to join us next Tuesday, (August 12th) at the Verona Ballfield at 7:00 p.m. for the ballgame between the Eastern and Western Divisional Champions.

Spotlighting the honor roll this week is the Walton Baptist Church Women's Softball Team. This team has several power sluggers and was the 1972 Runner Up team in the tournament. Their roster consists of the following ladies:

Lil Green
Darlene Darlington
Betty Noel
Rita and Penny Green
Neva Magee
Barb Stewart
Sherry Jackson
Donna Schmidt
Deanna Poore

This completes all the roster rolls for the ten churches in the league.

The Boone County Girls Softball League has just completed its fifth season of play. The league now has 16 teams in 3 divisions, with over 250 players who enjoy the game of softball.

This season the league started a new division with it being called the Minor League made up mostly of players in the 9 and 10 year old group. This division was coached and managed by some of the nicest and talented 16 and 17 year old girls who put in a lot of hard work and time to teach these players how the game of softball should be played.

The American League is made up with players in age of 11 thru 13 years old and this division is about the strongest any division has been in the five years of the league.

The National League is made up of players in age of 14 to 17 and is always very strong, in both offense and defense.

The supervision would like to take this time to say a very special "Thank You" to all parents, players, managers and coaches for all the help they have been to make the league the success it has been.

Also a special "Thank You" goes to the umpires who did an excellent job. For if it wasn't for the job the umpires did the game would not have been complete, so thank you umpires.

So thank you each and everyone of you for your help and we hope to meet again next season on the ball field.

Natural Bridge

Powell - Wolfe Counties

Natural Bridge has excited Americans since long before the days of Daniel Boone; the area is full of Indian relics, shelters and burial grounds. It is been estimated that the formation of this impressive natural arch took more than a million years.

The ridge of which the bridge is a part, is the dividing line for Powell and Wolfe counties; however, the State Resort Park is in Powell, and reference is therefore generally made as such.

The park contains acres of rugged, wooded land which includes many trails leading to some of the other natural and man-made wonders, including a cave, towering rock formations, and such luxuries as a lake, a lodge, cabins, pavilion, swimming pool and camping areas.

Natural Bridge forms an arch with an opening 78 feet in length and 65 feet high. There are more than 15 million pounds of rock in suspension, supported by two immense abutments. The rock at the center of the arch is 40 feet thick and 30 feet wide at the top; and flat enough to actually serve as a bridge.

The view from the bridge is of the magnificent Daniel Boone National Forest. The surroundings are actually what makes this bridge so much more interesting than other similar natural arch structures, notably in Kentucky, Virginia and Utah.

The area was originally owned by the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, and was a very popular excursion trip around the turn of the century. It was turned over to the state about 1926, with the intention that State Ownership and more intensive improvements would give the park the place it deserved in the ranks of national playgrounds.

It was among the first Kentucky State Parks and retains the honor of being one of the most popular State Resort Parks even today.

ICING IN THE MIDDLE—Taking cupcakes to the picnic or packing in lunchboxes? Make sure the icing sticks to the cake instead of the wrapper. Split the cupcakes in two and frost in the middle. Unorthodox but practical.

GREAT GRILLING—When you're barbecuing meat, remember that grilled corn on the cob tastes much better than boiled. Remove the husks and spread with butter, salt liberally and wrap in double thickness of heavy foil. Place 5 to 7 inches above the coals on side of grill for 15 to 20 minutes. Test for doneness by pricking kernel. If no milky substance comes out, it's ready.

Hockey School Registration Begins

The Cincinnati Stingers Hockey School, which will be run from August 10th to August 30th at Northland Ice Center, has received very good response from all age groups, according to Ken Hadden, manager of the Northland Arena. "All indications point to having a full house for all age groups during the three week period. We are getting applications from not only the Cincinnati area, but also from Dayton and Northern Kentucky. There are a few openings left in all age groups, but they are filling fast." All classes will be limited in number in order to provide the maximum amount of professional and personal instruction.

Fruit Tart Is Fabulous

Bake a super summer dessert in minimum oven time. It's quick, yet looks and tastes smashing. Convenient pudding and pie filling is the basis for the custard filling. Make it with velvety evaporated milk to keep it rich and smooth. The crust is flaky tender and sweet. Top the tart with fresh fruits - strawberries, blueberries and pears. An apple glaze goes over all. It's fabulous!

Fabulous Fruit Tart

- 1 cup flour
- 1 tablespoon sugar and few grains salt
- 2 egg yolks
- 1/2 cup softened butter
- 1/4 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 1/2 teaspoon cold water
- 1 package vanilla pudding and pie filling
- 1/4 cup water
- 1 1/2 cups undiluted Carnation Evaporated Milk

Combine flour, sugar, and salt in bowl. Cut in one egg yolk and butter. Stir in 1/4 teaspoon vanilla and 1 1/2 teaspoons cold water. Form into ball. Refrigerate 45 minutes. Roll into crust on lightly floured cloth for 12 inch tart pan or 9 inch pie pan. Place on pan; prick entire surface with fork. Bake in hot oven (450) 5 to 8 minutes or until golden. Combine pudding, water, remaining egg yolk, evaporated milk and remaining vanilla in saucepan. Mix well until smooth. Cook over medium low heat stir constantly until mixture comes to a boil. Pour in baked crust.

For Topping: Arrange 1/2 cup halved fresh strawberries, 1/4 cup fresh blueberries and 1/4 cup thinly sliced pear on top of filling. Heat 1/4 cup apply jelly in saucepan until melted. Spoon over fruit and filling. Chill in refrigerator and serve cold.

SHORT ROWS

By Nevlye Shackelford

Gardening Tips from Extension Specialists at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture

Nearly everyone agrees that vegetables are good, but if some sync in the audience should ask "Good for what?"

Vegetables, taste good, for one thing, and then they are good because of the vitamins and minerals they contain ingredients essential for overall health.

The fresher the vegetables the better, and the two most important vitamins supplied by fresh vegetables are A and C. Vitamin A is necessary for growth, normal vision, and healthy skin conditions. Vitamin C is vital in maintaining healthy gums and body tissues.

Excellent sources of Vitamin A are the dark green and deep yellow vegetables such as chard, collards, spinach, mustard, turnip greens, carrots, sweet potatoes, pumpkin, and squash. Vitamin C supplies by broccoli, brussels sprouts, green peppers, cantaloupe, tomatoes, and Irish potatoes, especially those cooked in their jackets. Dark green leafy vegetables are also good sources of iron.

The way vegetables are cooked or otherwise prepared may determine their nutrient value. There are, two basic causes of nutrient loss in vegetables. One is the physical loss which occurs when edible parts such as outer leaves of some plants are pulled off and thrown away. Another loss results when the skins of some root crops are peeled off and discarded. Then there is the chemical loss when vegetables are held too long in storage, subjected to high temperatures or gathered from the garden too long before cooking.

Cooking procedures often result in nutrient loss and to reduce this, "Three R's of Vegetable Cookery" are suggested.

Reduce the length and amount of water used. Reduce the amount of food surface exposed while cooking.

Also recommended saving water in which vegetables have been cooked for later use in soups and sauces. This liquid sometimes called "pot liquor" contains water soluble nutrients lost by the vegetables during cooking, so when it is simply thrown away, vitamins and minerals go down the drain too.

One thing for certain about vegetables: They are vitally important to the daily diet and, in this brief column, it is indicated why.

County Agent's

1/2 Acre by: Joe Claxon

Popular interest in home gardening has never been higher. Along with the return to the soil there has been increased awareness of natural beauty and a healthy environment for all growing things. Every day the proper use of insecticides, herbicides, and fungicides becomes more important to protecting the environment.

There are more insects in the world than any other living thing and, as our population increases, the competition with insects and other pests becomes more intense.

It is estimated that government agencies, colleges, universities and the chemical industry spends more than a billion dollars per year for research into the life and appetite of insects. This research involves finding biological, cultural and chemical controls. For example, it takes from five to seven years and an expenditure of six to ten million dollars before one insecticide reaches the market. Every step is carefully regulated for consumer protection. Despite all of the research, a product is only as good as its application. Misuse could be harmful.

Here are a few hints for pesticide use developed by the National Agricultural Chemicals Association in cooperation with the National Safety Council.

Read the label carefully before each use. Follow directions accurately (using more than the recommended amount is not only expensive but also possibly harmful).

Disposal of empty containers should be handled as directed. Do not crush or place spray type pressure cans in bonfires or incinerators. Do not store containers where children or pets can reach them and always store the contents in the original labeled container. It is a good idea to keep the containers under lock and key.

Gardening spraying should be kept to a minimum. If the job is done thoroughly each time, you need only spray at regular intervals. When spraying is necessary, do so until the leaves on the plant start to drip, and be sure to cover both sides because insects love to hide and feed on the underside of foliage.

Pesticides properly used contribute immensely to healthier environment and increase productivity while making your garden more beautiful.

UK Circular Tells How . . . Making Your Own Jams, Jellies, & Preserves

A free copy of a new jams and jellies publication is waiting for you to claim it at your local County Extension Office. It's 16 pages are crammed full of recipes for all kinds of jellies, jams, preserves, fruit butters, and marmalades you can make at home.

To help you become an expert at making jelly, there are six pages of special directions and recipes. The booklet also has recipes for fruit butters, preserves and marmalades. The jellies can be sealed with paraffin, but all the rest should be processed in your boiling-water-bath canner for the recommended period of time.

There's just no other way of making certain they won't get moldy and spoil after all your hard work. Once they're moldy, food specialists say you should throw the whole jar of jam, jelly or marmalade away. It's not enough just to skim off the mold, because the rest of the jar is probably contaminated, too.

One timely recipe right now is the Peach Preserves, which calls for 2 quarts of sliced ripe peaches, 4 cups of hot water, and 4 cups of sugar.

Dip peaches in boiling water until their skins loosen, then slip skins off and slice peaches. Make a syrup until they are clear. Remove peaches from the syrup and boil syrup 5 to 10 minutes longer. Place peaches in a shallow pan, pour the syrup over them and let them stand for a few hours or overnight. This lets the peaches absorb the syrup and plump up.

Remove peaches from the remaining syrup, boil syrup until thick, and pour over the peaches. Fill clean, hot jars, seal, and process in boiling water bath canner for 20 minutes.

A quicker recipe that's also delicious is the one for Uncooked Peaches Jam. This calls for 3 cups of crushed or pureed ripe peaches (about 2 1/2 pounds), 5 cups of sugar, 1 package of powdered pectin, and 1 cup of water.

Add sugar to the peaches, mix well, and let stand for 20 minutes. Dissolve pectin in the water, bring to a boil for 1 minute. And add to fruit and sugar mixture. Stir for 2 minutes the ladle jam into jelly glasses or freezer containers, leaving 1/2 inch headspace at top. Cover containers and let stand for 12 to 48 hours—as long as it takes for the jam to set. Cover jam to be stored in refrigerator with a thin layer of hot paraffin. Put top on freezer container. Freeze or refrigerate. This makes about 7 half pint jars or 9 six ounce glasses of peach jam. It will keep a few months in your refrigerator and up to a year in your freezer.

Freezing Corn

Corn can be one of the most delicious products put into your freezer if it is picked at the right stage of maturity; Prepared according to recommended procedures; Gotten from patch to freezer as quickly as possible; and, cooked by correct method when ready to use it.

There are two methods of freezing: Corn - on the cob; and by cutting off the cob, cream or whole kernel style. Corn should be picked when kernels are plump and full of sweet milk. Corn can still be used if more mature as cut off, cream style.

It is essential that you blanch or pre cook the corn to kill the enzyme that cause the corn to become starchy. This is done by cooking corn on the cob in boiling water 4 to 8 minutes depending on size of ear. Equally important is quick and complete cooling of the corn by immersing it in ice cold water till no heat can be felt. Use enough ice to always have ice floating in the water and cool till no heat can be felt on the cob.

After corn is thoroughly chilled, drain on layers of clean towels.

Select the 'perfect' ears to freeze on the cob. These can be packaged by wrapping individual ears in freezer foil or by packing ears in freezer plastic bags, being sure methods are air tight.

Cut corn off remaining ears and scrape pulp away from cob. Then just fill freezer containers or bags with corn, leaving 1/2 inch head space, label and freeze immediately.

When cooking frozen corn, leave corn frozen until ready to put in hot boiling water and cook quickly just 5 to 10 minutes or until thawed out.

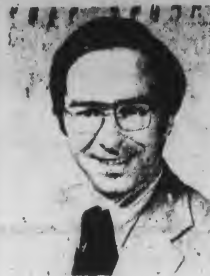

The foil wrapped corn on the cob can be baked in oven by putting frozen corn still in foil in 375 degrees oven and bake for one hour.

What Is A County Fair

By
Darwin Foley
Kenton County
Extension Agent

Coming from a county that had no county fair, and participating in the Kenton County Fair for two years I've seen why a county fair is an important community and county event.

I've seen what goes on at a fair by working there and looking at it from the inside out. I've also seen a fair by watching other events from the outside.

People come to a county fair to see things and to see things happen. You come to look at the 4-H and open class displays. You come to ride the rides of the carnival and to watch main events like horse shows, beauty contests and tractor pulls. You come for entertainment.

Don't Litter!!

During fiscal year 1976, the Kentucky Bureau of Highways maintenance crews will clean up 15,000 miles of litter, apply 65,000 gallons and 100,000 tons of herbicide, mow 200,000 acres, clear 3,000 miles of ditches and remove 250,000 lane miles of snow, as well as repair 100,000 feet of guardrails and 300 bridges.

These displays, and the main events are there because they come from the interests of the people in the county.

People come to county fairs for education as well as entertainment. The prize winning exhibits should reflect the skills of people in the county. Livestock and crop exhibits should reflect top quality production.

and home economics in the county, and its support of the county fair is designed so that this growth can be reflected at the fair. Hopefully your fair can grow from year to year involving more and more events and people. It all takes a lot of work, so helping hands are always welcome. A county fair should reflect individual and county pride. County pride is also community pride.

LEGAL NOTICE

The Union Light, Heat and Power Company has filed an Application with the Public Service Commission of Kentucky for an order approving the following Curtailment Plan for Management of Available Gas Supplies, which affects the gas service furnished in Campbell, Kenton, Boone, Gallatin and Grant Counties, Kentucky. The Company has requested authorization to put the Plan into effect on September 1, 1975. The Public Service Commission of Kentucky has ordered a hearing on the matter for 9:30 A.M. Eastern Daylight Time on August 18, 1975 in its offices at Frankfort, Kentucky.

CURTAILMENT PLAN FOR MANAGEMENT OF AVAILABLE GAS SUPPLIES

In the event of an emergency which necessitates curtailment of gas service, The Union Light, Heat and Power Company of Kentucky (ULH&P) shall curtail gas service to its customers in the manner set forth in the Curtailment Plan which the Public Service Commission of Kentucky (Commission) or other authority having jurisdiction in the matter orders otherwise.

I. Definitions

Special Gas Service Contract Customers: A customer who purchases gas, off-peak and firm, under a Special Gas Service Contract. Such a customer shall not qualify as a Domestic or Non-Domestic Customer.

Domestic Customers: Customers which use gas in private homes, boarding houses, apartment houses, hotels, motels, restaurants, food processors, hospitals and places of like kind where the element of human welfare is the predominant requirement.

Non-Domestic Customers: All other customers not defined as Domestic Customers or Special Gas Service Contract Customers. Winter Period: The consecutive customer billing months of November and December, of one year and the months of January, February and March in the next year.

Summer Period: The consecutive customer billing months of April, May, June, July, August, September and October.

Winter Base Volumetric Limitation: A Non-Domestic Customer's total gas usage during the billing months of January, February, March, November and December of 1972.

Summer Base Volumetric Limitation: A Non-Domestic Customer's total gas usage during the billing months of April, May, June, July, August, September and October of 1972.

Adjusted Winter Volumetric Limitation: A Non-Domestic Customer's winter base volumetric limitation for the gas usage during a winter period as adjusted from time to time by ULH&P to reflect pro-rata curtailment.

Adjusted Summer Volumetric Limitation: A Non-Domestic Customer's summer base volumetric limitation for the gas usage during the summer period as adjusted from time to time by ULH&P to reflect pro-rata curtailment.

II. Order of Curtailment

(1) The Special Gas Service Contract Customer will be curtailed to the extent of its off-peak usage limitation noted in the customer's contract whenever:

(a) ULH&P cannot supply the Special Gas Service Contract customer its full requirements in excess of such customer's Contract Demand without incurring penalties under tariffs of ULH&P's supplier, or without having to purchase additional volumes of gas at premium rates, or without ULH&P operating its peak load manufacturing gas facilities.

(b) ULH&P's supplier curtails delivery and as a result ULH&P determines that it cannot supply the total requirements of its customers.

The off-peak gas of the Special Gas Service Contract Customer shall be curtailed necessary for plant protection, it will not be curtailed prior to other customer curtailment.

(2) Where additional curtailment is necessary after full curtailment of the off-peak gas of the Special Gas Service Contract Customers, ULH&P shall, after giving reasonable notice, curtail those Non-Domestic Customers which use 50,000 cubic feet or more of gas per day on a pro-rata basis by adjusting their Winter and/or Summer Base Volumetric Limitations down to the extent necessary to limit the total usage to the gas supply available to ULH&P. The resulting volumes will be the Non-Domestic Customer's adjusted Winter and/or Summer Volumetric Limitation. For plant protection the adjusted Winter and Summer Volumetric Limitations shall not be less than 20% of the respective Winter and Summer Base Volumetric Limitation. A Non-Domestic Customer consuming over 50,000 cubic feet or more of gas per day and having more than one metering location may, upon mutual agreement with ULH&P, combine its adjusted Volumetric Limitation at one metering location with that of another metering location for purposes of curtailment. ULH&P in writing and receive ULH&P's written consent of the accounts to be affected and the volumes to be combined.

(3) Where additional curtailment of gas service is necessary after curtailment in accordance with paragraph II (2) then gas service to Non-Domestic Customers using under 50,000 cubic feet of gas per day shall be curtailed on a pro-rata basis in the same manner provided in the above paragraph II (2).

(4) Where additional curtailment is necessary the Domestic Customer will then be curtailed on a pro-rata basis.

III. Carry-Over and Adjustment of Base Volumetric Limitation

No carry-over of volumes will be permitted from the Winter to Summer Period or from the Summer to Winter Period. In the event of a curtailment, a Non-Domestic Customer's usage will be significantly reduced by its adjusted Winter or Summer Volumetric Limitation. ULH&P will give such customer notice to cease such excessive usage and, in the event such customer does not cease, ULH&P may disconnect gas service to such customer.

IV. Penalties

Special Gas Service Contract Customers will be subject to penalties as set forth in their contract. As to the Non-Domestic Customers, after the end of the Winter Period and Summer Period the actual gas usage of each Non-Domestic Customer for the period during which curtailment was required shall be compared respectively to the adjusted Winter and Summer Volumetric Limitation, and in addition to the Non-Domestic Customer's regular monthly bill, a penalty shall be charged if such usage exceeds the respective adjusted Winter or Summer Volumetric Limitation. The penalty amount will be based on the same rate as the rate applicable to ULH&P from its sole supplier of natural gas, the Columbia Gas Transmission Corporation. As of June 1, 1975 the penalty as stated in the Columbia Gas Transmission Corporation's FPC filed tariff is ten dollars ($10.00) for each 1000 cubic feet overrun.

V. Action for Excessive Usage

During periods of curtailment, where it appears to ULH&P through its procedure of monitoring monthly usage of Non-Domestic Customers being curtailed, that a Non-Domestic Customer's usage will significantly exceed its adjusted Winter or Summer Volumetric Limitation, ULH&P will give such customer notice to cease such excessive usage and, in the event such customer does not cease, ULH&P may disconnect gas service to such customer.

VI. Penalty Refund

Penalties collected from ULH&P's customers will be added to the refunds received from ULH&P's supplier and held for redistribution and shall be refunded to all customers in accordance with ULH&P's gas cost adjustment provision. If ULH&P incurred penalties from its suppliers as a result of volumetric overruns, the amount of such penalties shall be subtracted from the penalties collected by ULH&P from its customers to determine the amount of penalties to be refunded.

VII. Billing of Penalties

Penalties provided for in Section IV shall be reflected in the customers service bill or the Winter Period on the May bill and the Summer Period on the December bill. Five per cent (5%) will be added to the penalty amount if not paid as indicated in the bill (14 calendar days after mailing date of the bill).

VIII. Emergencies

In the event of a short-term emergency situation where immediate deliveries of additional gas are needed to prevent injury to life or property of an existing customer, ULH&P shall, at its option, have the right to deliver additional gas to meet such emergency needs in excess of any limited volumes specified herein, without incurring penalties. Such emergency volumes are repaid by reduction of future gas purchases by the customer within ninety (90) days of the emergency period.

IX. Exemption

No exemptions from this Plan, other than deliveries pursuant to Section VIII, shall be granted except by order of the Commission, directly through its duly designated Staff, or other authority having jurisdiction in the matter.

X. Amendment, Modification or Clarification

Due to governmental order or rapid changes in gas supply it may be necessary to amend, modify or clarify this Plan. This Plan may be amended, modified or clarified by filing a Motion with the Commission.

XI. Availability of the Plan

Copies of this Plan, together with the address and telephone number of the Commission shall be made available to all customers upon request.

Tensions And Christian Growth

(Romans 12: 1-2; James 1:2-8,12)

Tyron Edwards told of the beautiful and striking reply given by one in affliction. When asked how it was that he bore it so well, replied, "It lightens the stroke, I find to draw near to Him who handles the rod." Henry Walf Beecher declared,

"We are always in the forge, or on the anvil; by trials God is shaping us for higher things."

Life is always lived at its highest and best when lived under some tension and pressure. The strangled musical instrument brings out the sweetest sounds when tension is brought on the strings. So it is with life. Man functions better when under tension.

This means that man needs to learn how to handle that pressure or tension. It can get out of control and be his destruction. Used wisely it can enable him to grow more and more like Jesus Christ. What can man do to help?

He Can Give

Romans 12:1-2

The words of the apostle Paul came to his readers in the form of a plea or an appeal. Based on "the mercies of God", his plea was that they give themselves to God. How strange this sounds in our modern world. We have been taught that to "Arrive" one must "Get" and keep on getting!

God who has done so much for us deserves, not merely our best, but us. That was Paul's plea then: it is the right one for today. It is one thing to be trying to do our best for Jesus, and another thing to let Jesus do His best through us! The answer is given in these verses: "Present your bodies (yourselves) to God." Be to Him a living sacrifice. Don't be conformed to the world's system. Don't allow the world to mold you into its own form, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind. What a challenge!

Are the outward pressures too much for your inner braces? Not if you give yourself in service to God. Only by such giving will you ever know the perfect will of God.

What else can one do to aid in growth under tension?

He Can Grasp

James 1:2-8

Yes, one must come to grips with what is taking place in his life. This does not mean that he needs to understand all of the why's and wherefores."

He does need to recognize that trials are used by God to bring out the best in His child. As gold is refined in the fire, so the Christian is made stronger by his difficulties.

The Christian needs to learn patience. This comes by his faith being tried. He needs wisdom. This comes through prayer. Effective prayer is the result of total commitment to Christ. One must learn not to waver. That means that Christ alone is recognized as the source of one's strength. It will not do to say we trust Christ and then demand our own way about a matter. That's being double minded and unstable. Such praying goes unrewarded.

He Can Gain

James 1:12

The man who gives himself as a living sacrifice to God, and grasps the true nature of his trials and afflictions will gain two grand prizes. First of them is the state of blessedness. "Blessed is the man that endureth temptation." This word has been translated "Happy." It is the settled condition of the heart and soul which God gives to the faithful.

The second reward is the "crown of life". One may be going through such tribulation that he almost despairs of life. But let such a one remember that God has promised him who endures the Crown which is life!

MOUNTAIN

MOMENTS

"Daddy, Who Can I Be?"

"Daddy, who can I be?" my younger son Michael asked me today when I came home from work.

This was not a new question by any means because during the course of an evening, he may ask that question many times.

Michael has a strong imagination, and he is artistically inclined. It isn't unusual for him to sit for hours at a table on the floor, and draw pictures of his favorite (at the time) Super Hero.

In fact, so strong is his imagination that he "becomes" more than one Super Hero in a day.

After supper, Michael came to me and said, "I think I'll be Submariner," a champion of justice who lives in the sea and wears only swim trunks. These hot days make me somewhat envious of the guy!

Hardly more than an hour passed, and Michael asked, "Who can I be?" "I thought you were Submariner," I replied.

Mike said, "no, I changed my mind. I want to be somebody who lives on the land."

This type of back and forth conversation may last for hours, but I'm not too concerned. You see, I think my son is growing and in a sense, exploring the possibilities of what he can become in life.

It amazed me some years ago when occasionally I'd see a cartoon depicting a sloppily dressed hippie type who stated, "I'm trying to find myself!"

Perhaps each of us has thought the same thing. And sometimes we may really wonder who we are. But we may never find out because we change each day. My feelings about people and things are constantly shifting and changing and I sometimes find myself liking someone I never knew before.

When I was growing up, and my sisters liked olives and I couldn't stand them. How I arrived at that conclusion I don't know because I can't remember tasting them during my childhood.

But when I was grown, one day I tasted an olive - and it was good! To this day I regret I didn't experience this taste treat years ago. Think how much enjoyment I missed because I refused to try something different, proving that I didn't know myself.

Many of us grew up with pictures of caravans crossing the sands of the Sahara. Those in the West know that the desert has many faces.

One of our common mistakes in life is to assume that trees make a forest, flowers a garden, clothes a man... that appearances promise reality.

One of the invaluable influences of Christianity upon society has been its distinction between the facade and the truth. Christ taught that men must be known by their faith.

Lack of spiritual concern is the surest way to make the world a desert of trees... a society of people without a sense of responsibility.

Wastelands cry out for reclamation. The Church Christ founded is reclaiming our society for Him. You need its Message.

REPORTS TO THE PEOPLE OF KENTUCKY

Government Regulation

As I travel throughout the state, one of the complaints I hear most often is that government over regulates business, the economy, and the lives of individuals. Many businessmen tell me they spend an inordinate amount of time just grappling with various government regulations, reports, and red tape.

Many members of Congress, as well as President Ford, share that view. Congressional committees in the House and Senate have undertaken a massive review of eliminating those rules and requirements which are unnecessary or even counter productive.

President Ford has named a committee to undertake a similar investigation and he recently convened a meeting of the 10 major regulatory agencies and told them to take a good look at their own operations.

Many economists believe over regulation in some instances hampered economic growth and contributed to the recession.

I think everyone agrees that government regulation is necessary in many instances, whether to promote competition, insure equal treatment or to stabilize the economy. But when regulation unduly interferes with the free enterprise system without any overriding consideration it is not only counter productive, it is just plain stupid.

My view is that many government regulations can and should be eliminated or changed. But it should not be done without careful thought and consideration which I think is going on now in both the executive and legislative branches.

I hope that by the end of this year, or perhaps early next year, Congress will be ready for extensive public examination of the whole regulatory issue with corrective legislation to follow.

Too much regulation can strangle a business, the economy and the individual. The free enterprise system is a great economic machine when not unduly hampered, and government should be guided by that principle.

... about your Social Security

Social Security can make about $101 million available for vocational rehabilitation services for people getting monthly disability benefits in fiscal 1976, according to John Walter, social security district manager in Covington, Kentucky. Fiscal 1976 started on July 1st in 1975.

"That's about $18 million more than was available in fiscal 1975", Mr. Walter said. "It means more disabled people can get rehabilitation training to help them return to jobs."

Social security pays monthly benefits to eligible workers and their families when the worker is severely disabled and not expected to work for a year or more. In selected cases, social security helps pay for vocational rehabilitation services provided by State and local agencies.

In fiscal 1974, over 60,000 disabled people in the U.S. got vocational rehabilitation services that social security helped pay for. Over 13,000 were successfully rehabilitated.

The amount available for rehabilitation services each year is 1 1/2 per cent of the total amount of social security disability benefits paid during the previous year.

The Social Security Administration is an agency of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

Changes For Mental Health

Ronald Singer, Ph.D., President of the Board of Directors of the Northern Kentucky Mental Health Association announces a new office location at 321 York Street, Newport, Kentucky. The Association has had to relocate its office due to the sale of the Northern Kentucky Red Cross Building earlier in the year.

Additional changes for the Northern Kentucky Mental Health Association are elections of officers and board members.

Serving with Dr. Singer, who is Director of Psychology Department at Northern Kentucky State College, are: Vice President, Joseph Meyer, Mrs. Ed Zimmer; Recording Secretary, Mrs. Richard Kron and Treasurer, Rev. Robert Anderson. New Board Members from Campbell County are: John Reeves and Mrs. Richard Vaughn; Boone County: Mrs. Gordon Martin, Albert Parton, John Stephenson and John Weaver; Kenton County: William Bubenzer, Garry Edmondson, Russell Slone and Mrs. Dorothy Tyler.

The Northern Kentucky Mental Health Association is a United Appeal Agency, serving our area in planning and carrying out with other citizens and agencies community mental health education and volunteer training and placement.

"Instruments Of Power"

BY
M. GENE SNYDER
U.S. CONGRESSMAN
4th District, Kentucky

I have often stated my concern over Big Business, Big Labor, and Big Government and that of the three, I fear Big Government most because having police power, it has the last word. Government whose purpose is to serve the people, has ended up in far too many instances throughout the world bullying or enslaving the people.

Human nature, as we all know too well, is corruptible. One always has to be on guard against the tendency. Desire for power over others is a common human failing. And as the great 19th century British historian, Lord Acton, put it, "Power tends to corrupt, and absolute power corrupts absolutely." We have recently witnessed another unhappy proof of that observation in India. Reluctantly, many liberal commentators find themselves half heartedly concluding that Prime Minister Indira Gandhi revoked democratic rule that mainly because of her desire to hold on to power that she saw slipping away from her.

Even the most insignificant bureaucrat in an obscure office of a relatively unimportant government agency in Washington, occasionally can feel the temptation to slap down some citizen group or business by exercising the small degree of power that is his to yield. Whether that use of power would be just or not, the temptation is ever in the offering. Fortunately, the majority of public servants are dedicated to doing a good job, and strive to that end. A few, however, love the power delegated to them via their agencies by Congress, and they don't hesitate to ride hard on any segment of the population that comes within their jurisdiction.

Congress is probably more to blame than the would be tyrants, however, it creates new agencies too quickly, and gives them too much leeway. It legislates program and procedures that too often lack prudent or sufficient restraints over the executive department or bureaus charged with carrying out the legislation. When Congress gives too much power to unelected public servants, those who abuse that power are not subject to the recall of the people.

President Roosevelt, certainly no conservative, said in advance of the impending 1936 election campaign, "In 34 months we have built up new instruments of public power in the hands of the people's government. This power is wholesale and proper, but in the hands of political puppets of an economic autocracy, such power would provide shackles for the liberties of our people." Roosevelt seemed to imply that the power left in his hands would not end up in shackling the people and he was reelected, not only that time, but twice over again. His unprecedented four terms (cut short by his death in office) led to the 22nd Amendment to the Constitution limiting the Presidency to two terms.

Since FDR's tenure, however, the Congress has built many more "instruments of power", some of which have been shackling the free enterprise system which provides the jobs and incomes that in turn provide the taxes upon which our entire government depends. At a later date I will discuss in this column the heavy impact of some of these agencies on our freedom.

Guess Who Pays!

If proposed changes in Kentucky's Air Pollution Control Regulations are approved, we will be forced to install sulfur dioxide "scrubbers" at our generating stations. Our wholesale electric energy costs will increase by approximately 63%. And all for a system which is unproved and unnecessary.

Tall smoke stacks cleaned up the air in London, England. The Environmental Protection Agency's own funded studies have found little relationship between sulfur dioxide levels and health. And EPA environmental regulators admit that sulfur dioxide by itself probably doesn't matter much.

We want the best possible life for all Kentuckians, but we can't understand how squandering consumers' money can improve our quality of life.

FEARLESS FORECAST

By: R. W. Lancaster

Thursday, August 7, 1975

We have a new moon in the fixed fire sign, Leo at 8:30 a.m. so this is the time to start a new venture that you want to last possibly a lifetime, advertise your merchandise or property and make a quick sale but if you are buying expect to hold the property a long time. If you move in a new residence be nice to the neighbors as you will be around them for quite a while. Be extra nice to someone today and you will be repaid before the full moon.

Friday, August 8th

The moon enters the mutable earth sign, Virgo at mid morning so this is a good day to think of your health, get teeth extracted today or tomorrow and the gums will heal nice without too much bleeding, if you need new glasses try to get your eyes examined today or tomorrow. If your health is good you could do some shopping as the aspects indicate some good bargains in quality fruits and vegetables.

Saturday, August 9th

The moon still in Virgo you can finish what you didn't complete yesterday and maybe have time for house cleaning or some sewing and mending while you are in the notion. With the trine between Mercury and Jupiter today you could easily write some nice letters or take care of any legal matters you have been putting off.

Sunday, August 10th

The highest interest rate in the world is what you pay when you borrow troubles you pay in stress and strain and loss of sleep to your body, the only one you have to take care of it. Here is a little ditty I heard somewhere years ago and it helps me I hope it can help you.

*For every trouble under the sun
There is a remedy, or there is none
If there is one, try to find it
If there is none
Never mind it.*

Monday, August 11th

The moon in Libra with good aspects makes a friendly feeling today, you will probably be in the notion of entertaining or visiting. If you want beautiful nails give yourself a manicure before tomorrow noon, and if you want the latest style in clothing shop today or early tomorrow, plan on entertaining at home this evening and you will have an enjoyable time.

Tuesday, August 12th

The moon enters Scorpio at mid day so the fish will be biting until Thursday afternoon and the best fishing will be late Wednesday night. If your hair is getting a little thin on top and you want to stimulate the growth get a haircut this afternoon through Thursday morning and you will be surprised how quick and thick it comes back in.

Wednesday, August 13th

If we are not lucky enough to get some rain while the moon is in the water sign, Scorpio this would be a good day to water your flowers and shrubs as they will absorb the water instead of letting it run off. Also a good time to plant some late flowers or maybe do some transplanting and any painting done now will penetrate the wood and have good lasting qualities.

A Consumer Tip
from Extension Specialists at the UK College of Agriculture

For maximum flavor and keeping quality, milk should be kept at temperatures below 40 degrees. Buy milk last when you shop and place it in the refrigerator as soon as you get home. And be sure your refrigerator is set cold enough and milk warms up rapidly when exposed to hot summer temperatures but takes hours to cool back down below 40 degrees so keep it in the refrigerator except when pouring it. Don't leave milk out on the table during meals or while preparing food.

With the shortage of replacement lids for home canning jars, homemakers may have to do less canning and have to use other food preservation methods such as freezing or drying.

Kentucky county have free how to do it information on different methods of food preservation.

Classified Ads should be in no later than 12:00 noon on Monday.

Fall Bowling Now Is Here

As the summer begins winding down and September is coming up just around the corner, it's time to start thinking about canning your goods from the garden, buying fall clothes for the kids to go back to school, and the new bowling season. Time to get the old ball and shoes out of summer storage and clean them up and get ready to go. But Wait. Have you contacted your fellow bowlers and gotten your team set up? Have you picked out a time spot and gotten signed up? Douglas Martin, General Manager of Roll 'N Bowl and Ten Pin Bowl in Erlanger, Ky., would like to remind everyone that the bowling season is indeed approaching more rapidly than most people realize.

If you don't now have a spot you must act quickly as the new season will begin on August 25th. "People have been signing up for several weeks now, and spots are going fast, but we hope to get everyone in a spot that would like to bowl," said Mr. Martin.

For further information, please call Mr. Martin at 341-6000 or David Martin at 342-7771. Hope to see you rolling with us this fall!

Questions & Answers

Q. I bought my first home with a GI Loan, and am now considering purchase of a new house. Should I obtain a release from the Veterans Administration before negotiating for my new home?

A. Veterans are cautioned to obtain a "release from liability" from VA if the purchaser of a house bought with a GI loan assumes the loan. Otherwise, the seller could be held financially liable should the purchaser default on mortgage payments.

Gardening Tips from Extension Specialists at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture

For best plant growth and production the average garden requires a moisture supply equivalent to about an inch of rain a week. It requires roughly that amount of watering a week to maintain good production if the moisture stored in the soil becomes depleted and no rain falls over a period of weeks.

As a general thing, the weeks of late summer and early autumn are dry weeks a weather factor that could be hard on late gardens. To fight off dry weather should it come, a gardener can irrigate and he can mulch. Mulching will reduce the evaporation and the need for frequent application of water. It will also facilitate water penetration with run off and erosion.

When irrigating a garden, the specialists add, it is much better to give it a good soaking one a week than to water it sparingly over more periods of time. Light sprinklings at frequent intervals do little, if any good at all. As a matter of fact, frequent light waterings could do harm. Such methods of irrigating plants cause them to develop shallow roots which, in turn, suffer more quickly during times of drought, especially if mulches are not used.

As the garden specialists point out, the home gardener has several choices of sprinkling equipment. He can use anything from a common garden hose with an inexpensive spray or fan nozzle to semiautomatic systems. Many portable lawn sprinklers are adequate for the garden.

But probably the best irrigation system for the home garden is a perforated plastic or soaker hose. The hose is placed with holes down along one side of the crop row or underneath plastic mulch. The water is allowed to soak, or seep into the soil slowly. This method requires less water because it places it next to the plant where it does the most good.

It allows for watering in the evening and, since no water is sprinkled on the plant leaves, reduces the chances of foliage disease that could be splashed up from the ground. Overhead watering of plants in the evening is discouraged because of greater chance of foliage diseases.

The garden specialists state that it is best to add enough water to soak the soil to a depth of from 5 to 6 inches. This takes approximately two thirds gallon of water for each square foot, or about 65 gallons for 100 feet of garden space.

Another way to mitigate drought conditions is to cultivate. As soon as the soil can be worked after a shower or irrigation job, crops should be cultivated. This will kill weeds that have sprouted in the meantime and leave the soil surface in a loose, friable condition better able to absorb later showers or irrigation water. But don't cultivate too deeply or otherwise, the plants root that lie near the surface may be injured and the plants stunted or killed.

STRETCHING Your Good Dollars...
A Consumer Tip from Extension Specialists at the UK College of Agriculture

Here's a tip on making a grocery shopping list. An effective shopping list should grow steadily during the week. Keep a note pad in the kitchen to jot down needed supplies. Check the menus and recipes you plan to serve the following week for items that must be purchased. Add advertised specials to the list when they offer savings and when the items fit your overall menu plan. Before leaving for the market, organize the list categories to aid shopping convenience.

Sermon

Becoming Christlike In Relationships
Romans 12:9-21

Shakespeare said, "We must love men ere they will seem to us worthy of our love."

Seneca said: "We are members of one great body, planted by nature in a mutual love, and fitted for a social life. We must consider that we were born for the good of the whole."

It is at the point of human relationships that we seem to be the greatest failures. How fortunate we are as Christians to have the example and the teachings of Jesus Christ concerning this matter. Jesus had much to say about human relationships.

The apostle Paul was greatly influenced by the teachings of Jesus on this subject. In our scripture passage for this lesson he uses three words which help to sum up his admonition.

Honour
Romans 12:9-13

There's a lot of talk about love these days. Many songs are being written and sung about love. It would be easy to mistake what the Bible means when it speaks of love. The writer calls for genuine love. Love that is less than genuine is hypocritical.

Love is to be real in the life of God's people. Evil should bring forth the opposite of love. Evil seeks to destroy all that is of God and God's wrath is to be poured out on all evil. To be like Christ is to hate that which is evil. Good should be cherished and held on to. There ought to be a warm and glowing love for brothers in Christ. Christians are to be eager to show respect for each other. Honor is to be shown.

There is no place for laziness in the life of a child of God. He should work hard and be aglow with the Spirit. The Christians heart should be full of devotion for Him who loves and lives for him.

Rejoicing in hope, patient in tribulation, constant in prayer should be the marks of one who would become more like Christ.

Humility
Romans 12:13-14

The reaction of the Christian to mistreatment is the opposite of that of the World. Instead of hoping a curse will fall upon the one who

MOUNTAIN MOMENTS

A Trip To A Smoky Mountain City

Several times I have mentioned the growing interest in things of the past. My son David, who likes overalls, is an example. A recent popular country song recounted the experience of sleeping in grandma's feather bed, without which pleasure my childhood would not have been complete! Another demonstration of this interest in nostalgia is the popularity of crafts.

Recently I attended a conference in Gatlinburg, Tennessee, in the famous Smoky Mountains. The town is amazing. It is a glittering resort village about fifty miles southeast of Knoxville. Although thousands of tourists visit the town weekly, there is scarcely a gum wrapper seen on the streets.

Gift shops, restaurants, motels, and various attractions keep one busy for many hours and occasionally the sound of Blue Grass music drifts from an outdoor park where a talented group performs twice each evening. (Let me share a secret with you - I like Blue Grass music!)

While in Gatlinburg, I stood for a long time watching skilled candymakers demonstrate the art of taffy making. Machines, such as the oddlooking taffy puller, help with some of the more laborious tasks.

Revival Coming Up In September

Walton Methodist Church will be holding their revival on the week of September 8th to the 14th.

Plans are being made ready now so that the revival will be the best ever.

Make your plans to attend with Walton Gardner as the evangelist who is the district superintendent. See you in September.

wrongs him, he is to pray that God's best will come to the wrongdoer.

The Christian should be concerned about happens to others. He should "feel with" them, their joys and their sorrows. He should live in harmony with others.

Humility must mark the Christian. Haughtiness is repulsive to everyone. Jesus was humble though the world and all in it was His. His willingness to humble Himself and be obedient brought to Him a position and a name which was above every name.

A proper attitude toward one's own worth will enable one to exercise a correct attitude toward the worth of others.

Helpfulness
Romans 12:19-21

The Christian who follows these instructions of the apostle will be a good example to others. The world needs to see these things put into practice. How should one react when he has been wronged? How should one treat his enemy? Can evil really be overcome with good? Have you tried this way lately? You know, it just might open up a whole new world of interest, information, and excitement. Why not put forth a greater effort to become more Christlike in your relationships this week.

One artists I watched did a line portrait on thin sheets of copper, giving a unique quality to the picture.

For fun, you could have your name in headlines printed in a few seconds on a portable roller press.

All of the crafts I saw here demonstrate something to me. We may have grown tired of mass production where individuality is neglected. We are individuals with something to offer and the increasing interest in mountain crafts and similar operations reveals that people are interested in people.

ESCAPE TO WITCH MOUNTAIN

WHERE TO?

He is a mighty small man—almost too small to leave his footprints in the sand. But he is starting out on his own. He is exploring, seeking, learning. Where will his footsteps ultimately lead him?

There are so many courses a child may take—so many that a person of any age can follow. But it is never too late to change direction, even if it seems as if a dead end has been reached. The beauty of life is that the word itself is synonymous with hope.

If the direction your footsteps have been taking you is disappointing, then turn toward the Church. Remember, the Church has survived for centuries against odds that would have annihilated a lesser force. That in itself is reason enough to give it a chance—to see what it has to offer.

American agriculture has already become a major factor in the world's economy. It is likely to become still more important in the future both to the U.S. and to the people of other countries. The shape of that emerging world economy now seems fairly definite. It will include an increasing demand for resources, and increased trade between nations to satisfy that demand. In this setting, U.S. agriculture must play a vital role. We are already the world's largest exporter of farm products, and we have the capacity to meet additional demands in the future.

Certainly, the world is going to consume more resource-based commodities in the future than it does today. For one thing, the world's population is still growing at the rate of some 80 million persons per year. For another, the production of goods will continue to increase as more and more people achieve skills and gain technology.

Finally, there is the simple fact that we keep finding more resources—exploring new areas for such things as oil and minerals and finding new ways of using things that didn't use to be considered resources. Remember that two hundred years ago, coal was a rock, not a valuable resource. A hundred years ago, oil was just something that befouled creeks in Pennsylvania. And today we are looking at the vast untapped potential of the sun, the tides, and the winds. All of these can become energy resources through the use of the man's technology. All are part of our base for economic growth.

That makes America's agriculture one of the top cards. Farming is one of this nation's biggest winners in the international deck. By and large, we do it better than anyone else. Our success in agriculture continues to surprise some people, who find it hard to fit agriculture into their image of America as a high technology producer, that is only because they don't understand that our agriculture represents an even higher level of technology than our industry. The American farmer often uses computers to help keep his records and plan his operations. He uses sophisticated theories and a host of other modern technology to produce food and fiber with maximum efficiency. The investment per worker on our farms is far higher than in our factories.

All of this technology and management builds on a natural resource base second to none. The United States has a huge land area. Even more important, a great deal of our land is located in a temperate climate, with relatively plentiful rainfall. There is no crop growing area in the world to match the American midwest, and our southern and western areas are highly productive too. Couple this resource base with our technology and our highly educated crops of farm operators, and you have the major reasons for our agricultural success.

Insecticides For Cattle Grubs

By
Darwin Foley

Have you tried a systemic insecticide lately. If not, don't let the word systemic discourage you. Systemic means it works in the system of the plant or animal you put it on.

Many of you have probably used Di-Syston on your tobacco bed or Furadan on your corn, alfalfa or tobacco. They are both systemic insecticides which are taken up by the roots of the plants and carried to all parts of the plant.

Did you know you can also control cattle grubs with a systemic insecticide? It should be applied between the middle of July and the end of October while the grubs are still small.

A grub spends most of its life boring through the flesh of cattle. These grubs are either the larvae of the heel fly or the bomb fly.

Grubs finish their developing in the backs of animals where they hatch out and burrow into the ground in the spring. The grub turns into a pupae and then into a fly.

Some people say cattle grubs cost the livestock industry $100 to 300 million a year. Grubs irritate cattle, reduce their performance, and lower their market value. Grubs may reduce the milk production of a beef cow by 500 pounds over a 205 day period. This is enough to produce 40 pounds of growth in a calf. Also, grubby animals require up to 15 percent more feed to produce the same amount of gain as a grub free animal. Grub infested areas of the carcass have to be trimmed and the value of the hide is lowered.

The easiest and most effective way to control grubs is to use a pour on or spot on systemic insecticide. Feeds or mineral blocks containing insecticides can also be used. No insecticide for grubs can be used on dairy cows while they are being used for milking, but dairy cows which are dry can be treated.

Some of the pour ones that you can include are Co-Ral, Neguvon, Ruelene and Warbox. Do not treat with these chemicals after October 31st. Warbox also controls lice. Ruelene also reduces lice and horn flies.

This and additional information is available at my office in a leaflet titled Control of Beef Animal Insects - 1975, ENT 11. Get those grubs now so we can reduce the number of heel flies and increase our income from livestock.

Tips On Job Hunting

Going to hunt for a job after graduation? If so, here are some tips you might consider and some fringe benefits you should insist on before accepting any position.

Only competitive promotions with periodic pay increases for length of employment should be considered. And insist on your first promotion after only four months on the job.

Never accept a job that doesn't give you an opportunity to earn to 30 days paid vacation per year, starting with your first year.

Accept only a job that lets you continue your education and pays up to 75 per cent of its cost. And that may pay full or partial college tuition in addition to your salary.

Very important among your requirements should be an initial allowance to buy new clothes for your job and additional money each month to maintain or replace worn-out clothing. At the same time, request an additional monthly cost of living allowance for your wife and family.

Your new employer should provide leisure facilities such as swimming pools, tennis courts, a bowling center, boats, fishing gear, a golf course, movie theaters, libraries, and craft or hobby shops including a photo lab, all at reduced rates for you and your family.

Guaranteed provisions for unlimited sick leave with full pay, as well as other medical or dental expenses should be paid by your employer. Whenever possible he should extend the same service to your immediate family.

Only consider working for a company if it provides worthwhile discount prices at affiliated grocery and variety stores, laundries, service stations, auto repair shops and restaurants.

Opening your new career, make sure the company will give you an income equal to 50 per cent of your monthly pay after 20 years of service and 75 percent after 30 years, when you retire.

Don't forget to insist on freedom to relocate at your request. And if you are married you should receive one month's housing allowance each time your move is required by the company.

Prospective employers should be willing to give you a bonus of up to $12,000 in cash after your first four years on the job to stay with him another six.

And don't forget to let this employer know that if you are not experienced in the work you would like to be sent to a training school at full pay and receive all company benefits while there.

Your prospective employer should be able to meet all of the requirements and benefits listed here. If he can't drop in to see your local Navy recruiter. He works for an employer who can offer everything you have asked for and more!

Home Economics Freezing Peaches

Now is the time to freeze those delicious late varieties peaches.

There are four ways to prepare the peaches, depending on individual and family needs and likes. You can add sugar by syrup or dry sugar method or freeze without addition of sugar by water pack, with or without artificial sweetener.

Which ever method you choose, you must treat the peaches with ascorbic acid to retain their bright color. Ascorbic acid is available in grocery stores in powder form under various brand names.

In sugar pack, thoroughly mix one third cup sugar with one fourth cup of powdered ascorbic acid. Then just cut the fully ripened fruit into the sugar mixture and gently mix fruit with sugar and pack in freezer containers, leaving one half inch head space. If desired, more sugar can be used but too much sugar hides the fresh flavor of the peaches. Also to be considered is the high cost of sugar and the unnecessary extra calories.

To pack in syrup, it is best to make up a quantity of syrup ahead of time and store in refrigerator till ready to use. For a light syrup mix two cups sugar to four cups water, bring to boil, boil five minutes and let cool. When ready to use add one half part ascorbic acid to each quart of syrup. Cut fruit into syrup and pack being sure fruit is covered by the syrup, leaving one half inch head space. To keep fruit under the syrup, crumple wax paper to completely fill the container, cover tightly and freeze quickly.

If you are on a sugar free diet, cut peaches into solution of one cup ascorbic acid to one quart water. Recommended amounts of sugar substitute can be added to water if preferred. Follow instructions the same as syrup pack.

When using your frozen peaches, it is best to use them while they are still icy and not completely thawed.

Simon Kenton FHA Hold Meet

The Simon Kenton Future Homemakers of America Alumnae held its monthly meeting on Thursday, July 10th at the RECC Building at Nicholson.

There were sixteen members and two guest present. There was a mix up in our program for the evening, but I'm sure each member enjoyed the evening.

I'm sure each member present took home a helpful safety hint given in a short talk by R.C. Richardson who filled in on a short notice. We all thank him.

Our next meeting will be Thursday, August 14th, it will be our "Craft Night", also we will discuss plans for our "Night Out" in September.

We extend an invitation to all past Simon Kenton FHA members to come to our meeting.

Delicious refreshments were served by our hostess, Charlene Fausz.

LEGAL NOTICE

The Union Light, Heat and Power Company has filed an Application with the Public Service Commission of Kentucky for an order approving the following Curtailment Plan for Management of Available Gas Supplies, which affects the gas service furnished in Campbell, Kenton, Boone, Gallatin and Grant Counties, Kentucky. The Company has requested authorization to put the Plan into effect on September 1, 1975. The Public Service Commission of Kentucky has ordered a hearing on the matter for 9:30 A.M. Eastern Daylight Time on August 18, 1975 in its offices at Frankfort, Kentucky.

CURTAILMENT PLAN FOR MANAGEMENT OF AVAILABLE GAS SUPPLIES

In the event of an emergency which necessitates curtailment of gas service, The Union Light, Heat and Power Company (ULH&P) shall curtail gas service to its customers in the manner set forth herein, except where the Public Service Commission of Kentucky (Commission) or other authority having jurisdiction in the matter orders otherwise.

I. Definitions

Special Gas Service Contract Customers: A customer who purchases gas, off-peak and firm, under a Special Gas Service Contract. Such a customer shall not qualify as a Domestic or Non-Domestic Customer.
Domestic Customers: Customers who use gas in private homes, boarding houses, apartment houses, hotels, motels, restaurants, food processors, hospitals and places of like kind where the element of human welfare is the predominant requirement.
Non-Domestic Customers: All other customers not defined as Domestic Customers or Special Gas Service Contract Customers.
Winter Period: The consecutive customer billing months of November and December, of one year and the months of January, February and March in the next year.
Summer Period: The consecutive customer billing months of April, May, June, July, August, September and October.
Winter Base Volumetric Limitation: A Non-Domestic Customer's total gas usage during the billing months of January, February, March, November and December of 1972.
Summer Base Volumetric Limitation: A Non-Domestic Customer's total gas usage during the billing months of April, May, June, July, August, September and October of 1972.
Adjusted Winter Volumetric Limitation: A Non-Domestic Customer's winter base volumetric limitation for the gas usage during a winter period as adjusted from time to time by ULH&P to reflect pro-rata curtailment.
Adjusted Summer Volumetric Limitation: A Non-Domestic Customer's summer base volumetric limitation for the gas usage during a summer period as adjusted from time to time by ULH&P to reflect pro-rata curtailment.

II. Order of Curtailment

(1) The Special Gas Service Contract Customer will be curtailed to the extent of its off-peak usage limitation noted in the customer's contract whenever:
(a) ULH&P cannot supply the Special Gas Service Contract customer's full requirements in excess of such customer's Contract Demand without incurring penalties under tariffs of ULH&P's supplier, or without having to purchase additional volumes of gas at premium rates, or without ULH&P's operating its peak load manufacturing facilities.
(b) ULH&P's supplier curtails delivery and as a result ULH&P determines that it cannot supply the total requirements of its customers.
The off-peak gas of the Special Gas Service Contract Customer shall be fully curtailed before curtailment is imposed upon other customers; however, since all the contracted for firm gas is considered necessary for plant protection, it will not be curtailed prior to other customer curtailment.
(2) Where additional curtailment is necessary after full curtailment of the off-peak gas of the Special Gas Service Contract Customers, ULH&P shall, after giving reasonable notice, curtail those Non-Domestic Customers which use 50,000 cubic feet or more of gas per day on a pro-rata basis by adjusting their Winter and/or Summer Base Volumetric Limitations downward to the extent necessary to limit the total usage to the gas supply available to ULH&P. The resulting volumes will be the Non-Domestic Customer's adjusted Winter and/or Summer Volumetric Limitation. For plant protection the adjusted Winter and Summer Volumetric Limitations shall not be less than 20% of the respective Winter and Summer Base Volumetric Limitation. A Non-Domestic Customer consuming over 50,000 cubic feet or more of gas per day and having more than one metering location may, upon mutual agreement with ULH&P, combine his adjusted Volumetric Limitation at one or more locations only for curtailment purposes. Such customer must notify ULH&P in writing and receive ULH&P's written consent of the accounts to be affected and the volumes to be combined.
(3) Where additional curtailment of gas service is necessary in accordance with paragraph II (2), then gas in excess of service to Non-Domestic Customers using under 50,000 cubic feet of gas per day shall be curtailed on a pro-rata basis in the same manner provided in the above paragraph II (2).
(4) Where additional curtailment is necessary the Domestic Customer will then be curtailed on a pro-rata basis.

III. Carry-Over and Adjustment of Base Volumetric Limitation

No carry-over of volumes will be permitted from the Winter to Summer Period or from the Summer to Winter Period. In the establishment of the Winter and Summer Base Volumetric Limitations a customer may request an investigation as to the proper maximum volumes so determined. If such investigation discloses that the volumetric limitations do not reasonably reflect the normal usage of its equipment that was connected in 1972 or authorized by ULH&P to be installed at a later date, such limitation will be adjusted accordingly. Such request must be made within 60 days of the approval of this curtailment plan and absent such a request the Base Volumetric Limitations will not be subject to any increase.

IV. Penalties

Special Gas Service Contract Customers will be subject to penalties as set forth in their contract. As to the Non-Domestic Customers, after the end of the Winter Period and Summer Period the actual gas usage of each Non-Domestic Customer during the period during which curtailment was required shall be compared respectively to the Adjusted Winter and Summer Base Volumetric Limitations, and in addition to the Non-Domestic Customer's regular monthly bill, a penalty shall be charged if such usage exceeds the respective Adjusted Winter or Summer Volumetric Limitation. The penalty amount will be based on the excess usage applicable to ULH&P from its sole supplier of natural gas, the Columbus Gas Transmission Corporation's rates, each 1000 cubic feet of excess usage being penalized at the rate of $1.00 per 1000 cubic feet over the limit.

V. Action for Excessive Usage

During periods of curtailment, where it appears to ULH&P through its procedure of monitoring monthly usage of Non-Domestic Customers being curtailed, that a Non-Domestic Customer's usage will significantly exceed his adjusted Winter or Summer Volumetric Limitation, ULH&P will give such customer notice to cease such excessive usage and, in the event such usage does not cease, ULH&P may disconnect gas service to such customer.

VI. Penalty Refund

Penalties collected from ULH&P's customers will be added to the refunds received from ULH&P's supplier and shall be refunded to all customers in accordance with ULH&P's gas cost adjustment plan. Penalties shall be refunded to its supplier as a result of volumetric overruns, the amount of such penalties shall be subject to the amount of penalties collected by ULH&P from its customers to determine the amount of penalties to be refunded.

VII. Billing of Penalties

Penalties provided for in Section IV shall be reflected in the customers service bill or the Winter Period bill if not paid by the Summer Period on the December bill. Five per cent (5%) will be added to the penalty amount if not paid within (14) calendar days after mailing date of the bill.

VIII. Emergencies

In the event of a short-term emergency situation where immediate deliveries of additional gas are required to a life or property of an existing customer, ULH&P shall, at its option, have the right to deliver gas in excess of the customer's adjusted Winter or Summer Base Volumetric Limitation to meet such emergency needs in excess of any limited volumes specified herein, without imposition of any emergency penalties or reduction of future gas purchases by the customer within ninety (90) days of the emergency period.

IX. Exemption

No exemptions from this Plan, other than deliveries pursuant to Section VIII, shall be granted to any customer, directly through its duly designated Staff, or other authority having jurisdiction in the matter.

X. Amendment, Modification or Certification

Due to governmental order or rapid changes in gas supply it may be necessary to amend, modify or certify this Plan. This Plan may be amended, modified or certified by filing a Motion with the Commission.

XI. Availability of the Plan

Copies of this Plan, together with the address and telephone number of the Commission shall be made available to all customers upon request.

P.C.A.'s Awarded To Cities

Pedestrian Safety Citations were awarded to the cities of Ludlow and Florence at the 36th Annual Pedestrian Safety Inventory Dinner recently sponsored by the Cincinnati Automobile Club. Otis Hess, former presiding judge of the Court of Appeals of the First Appellate District of Ohio and chairman of the Club's Safety and Legislative Committee, presented the awards. Ludlow, represented by Mayor Buddy Waite, Police Commissioner Ben Clary and Police Chief Robert Highhouse, has had no pedestrian fatalities for eight consecutive years. Florence had no pedestrian fatalities in 1974 and was represented by Jack Prindle, a member of the city's safety committee and Police Captain Bernard McKinley. Mel Otten, manager of the Northern Kentucky Motor Club a division of the Cincinnati Automobile Club and Gayle Connell, manager of the West Licking Division of the Cincinnati Automobile Club was also attending the dinner.

Cincinnati Bell Has Special Machine

Especially equipped to travel rough terrain "off-the-road", a huge new vehicle soon will be drilling holes, setting poles and serving the special needs of Cincinnati Bell line crews. Fat, "high flotation" tires will help it negotiate over soft or uneven terrain where pole lines sometimes go.

You don't just go to a "Truck store" to find such a vehicle. It's put together carefully and incorporates many service and safety features not required by the average truck buyer.

The order for this one was signed December 5th, 1973, Joe Vogelpohl, telephone company supervising motor vehicle foreman, said. Normal waiting time for a truck chassis then was a year to 16 months. Chassis and cab arrived in Cincinnati last November. A front wheel drive axle and some other special chassis equipment were added.

Then the unit was sent to Richmond for the body derrick, winch and etc. It was returned to Cincinnati Bell June 18th.

It has been measured for a set of some very special rock augurs: special because the ground strata in the Cincinnati area is such that the average augur bits wouldn't last very long. Joe explained that the earth in our area is made up of alternating layers of rock and earth. Augur bits that drill right through alternating layers break up after relatively short service in this area.

Joe was told that only New England do drillers encounter the same problems with augurs. The augurs the telephone company uses are made right here in Cincinnati by a company which developed the special design for drilling frozen tundra on the "Dewline" in Alaska.

The price tag on the new vehicle is $37,996. That includes $12,949 just for the chassis and cab, about $500 for special brake safety features, and the remainder for the body, winch, derrick, and augurs. One supplier told Joe that if the vehicle were ordered today, Cincinnati Bell could expect to pay $42,000.

Even at $37,996 the price is a $12,000 jump over the cost of a 1973 model currently in service. The telephone company paid $25,950 for that one.

And, going back a little further, Cincinnati Bell bought a similar vehicle in 1968 for $20,706 and that's a little over a half of the new one's cost. The 1968 model is due for retirement next year. The cost of its replacement . . . ?

Foods That Stretch Budget

Home canned foods stretch the food budget but they're certainly no bargain if they cause botulism, a serious food poisoning that can result from eating improperly canned foods. Therefore, be sure you are canning foods correctly. If you are not certain of the right way to can a particular food, stop by and pick up some information.

Senator Dee Huddleston

REPORTS TO THE PEOPLE OF KENTUCKY

Senator Walter Dee Huddleston has suggested in a Senate floor speech that it may be necessary to change government grading standards "to encourage and reward farmers for producing grain which has maximum quality and protein levels."

Huddleston, who is chairman of the Senate Subcommittee on Agricultural Production, Marketing and Stabilization of Prices, said "inappropriate specification in grading leaves the U.S. grain trade vulnerable to other suppliers in a buyer's market," and that as a result "the U.S. plays a role of residual supplier for the more competitive products like wheat and corn."

Huddleston said the current grading standards do not reflect variance in grain protein, oil or starch content or difference in milling and use characteristics.

"Because of the lack of consideration of composition in grading, high lysine corn, high oil yielding and less brittle corn varieties have not received as much attention from farmers because they get no premium for growing them," the senator added.

"Certainly there would be costs associated with more comprehensive standards, but this could be a transfer of costs," Huddleston added. "Currently processors and users of grain provide this service at high costs, especially since the products they receive are not always what they desire."

"If insurance of delivery of specified products could be achieved, premiums could be expected. At least a share of these premiums would accrue to farmers to insure production of premium grades of grain."

"With incentives for quality, it is not too difficult to foresee a time when high premium grains are shipped in containers to avoid handling damage and insure high quality from farm to consumer."

Huddleston said one area where food marketing costs could be substantially reduced "is in the efficiency of rail movement," and urged greater attention to the need to upgrade existing roads rather than building new ones.

"While I do not deny that there is a need for considerable amounts of abandonment of duplicative track, the Rail Services Planning Office of ICC has proven to my satisfaction that the 34 car-per-year-abandonment rule is not a reasonable basis on which to consider abandonment."

The Kentucky senator also said there are "indications of black marketing of rail cars to country grain elevators."

"Allegedly grain companies charged elevators, and ultimately producers, one to fifteen cents a bushel for supplying cars which were owned by the railroads," he added. Those charges are now under investigation by the ICC.

Fate Of Our M.I.A.'s

BY
M. GENE SNYDER
U.S. CONGRESSMAN
4th District, Kentucky

The U.S.A. again has been taken in by the Communists, this time at Helsinki, where our President met with 34 other heads of state or government to sign an accord ironically called the "Final Act". That name signifies ringing down the curtain on World War II. But Communist acts of perfidy and inhumanity continue in a worldwide assault by subversion and guerrilla warfare.

For years the Soviet Union pushed hard for this "European Security Conference," the purpose of which would be the ratification of U.S.S.R. conquest during and after World War II. The presence of the mighty Red Army enabled the Soviets to place native Communists in key positions of power in Eastern European countries. One after another those countries were taken over totally by Communist dictatorships subservient to Moscow.

In return for our Munich like acceptance of Soviet obliteration of freedom in those countries, we got a lot of empty phrases about peace and cooperation. We refuse to learn anything from the history of Communist duplicity. The Communists tear up every agreement they sign as soon as it becomes advantageous for them to do so. But they've shown the world how they've cowed us against a world wide propaganda victory.

A burning question is what happened to the 1300 U.S. servicemen still missing in action in Vietnam. North Vietnam was heavily supplied in its conquest of South Vietnam with military equipment from the Soviet Union. The Soviets' top expert on guerrilla warfare was sent to Hanoi at the outset of that effort. Moscow was up to its ears in the Communists takeover of South Vietnam from beginning to end.

A fine opportunity has passed us by because we simply don't know how to play Moscow's game or don't want to. That game consists of leverage and pressures against us in one quarter to gain advantage in another area. The Soviets are master chess players. Their pawns are always threatening or checking us. Secretary of State Kissinger could simply have made it plain to Moscow that we would not even consider an agreement at the European Security Conference until Moscow got its puppets in Hanoi to give up every bit of evidence they possessed on our 1300 M.I.A.'s and let observers in to follow up every lead.

It's two and a half years since the Paris agreement ending the Vietnam war. Article 8, section b, of the January 27th, 1973 Accords stated:

"The parties shall help each other to get information about those military personnel and foreign civilians of the parties missing in action."

Hanoi now is blackmailing us inhumanely but in typical Communist fashion with demands for reconstruction aid before cooperating in accordance with that agreement. Meanwhile, parents and relatives of the 1300 suffer the agony of continued uncertainty over their loved ones.

Last year we brought you
$302,670,000 worth of carpeting.
You've got a lot riding on us.

We shipped a lot of carpeting in 1974. We estimate that the manufacturers' value for the carpeting shipped amounted to $302,670,000.

Economy is the biggest reason carpeting companies and so many others choose rail. Consider these figures for the thousands of things shipped by rail each year. The average cost per-ton-mile by truck is three times as much as by rail. Air shipping is forty times the price.

And the fuel crunch has made railroad efficiency more than just a matter of dollars and cents. It's a matter of delivering the goods with the smallest possible use of fuel.

When you put all this together with the reliability of rail shipping you have a good idea why there's so much riding on us. And why you need Southern.

So next time you step on the deep pile of your living room carpet, remember it probably came to you on the floor of a boxcar.

Questions & Answers

Q. I'm a service disabled veteran, and I have Veterans Administration Mortgage Life Insurance coverage on my specially adapted home. How long will this coverage last?

A. The insurance will cover your "wheelchair home" until the mortgage is paid off, the home is sold, or until you reach age 70.

Q. I'm eligible for the Veterans Administration health care program, CHAMPVA, because I'm a 100 per cent service connected disabled veteran. My wife is entitled to Medicare. Can she have her prescriptions filled under CHAMPVA?

A. No. Dependents eligible for Medicare are not entitled to benefits under CHAMPVA.

Q. I was discharged from military service in 1965 before the current GI Bill was enacted, on my eligibility expired as of May 31st, 1974 eight years after the bill was passed. Does the 1974 law which extended GI Bill benefits from eight to 10 years for veterans separated between 1955 and 1966 apply to me?

A. If you hadn't exhausted your benefits by the former May 31, 1974 deadline, PL 93-337 (July 1974) extended them by two years or until May 31st, 1976.

The Siamese — An Exotic Clown

One of the most popular breeds of cats today is undoubtedly the Siamese.

These cats, it is claimed, were once used to guard palace walls in Siam. In 1872, the aristocratic felines were transported from Siam directly into England, where they were exhibited. The cats were then brought into the United States around 1890. At first, the appearance of Siamese Cats at shows caused quite a commotion, but because of their irresistible beauty, they were soon accepted.

The Siamese has quite a distinct, impressionable personality, being loving and affectionate, yet independent and sophisticated. This intelligent animal is very demanding, and it is hard to ignore his loud meow, somewhat like that of a baby's cry. Because of their intense curiosity and activeness, these clowns are usually the center of attention. The cliché "never a dull moment" seems to be the motto of the Siamese cat.

At birth, the kittens are off white in color, a few weeks later, their points begin to darken, and continue to do so throughout life. This color change is gradual, until in the final stages the cat's coat becomes completely the color of his points.

The recognized colors of the Siamese today include: Seal Point, (the original color), Blue Point, Chocolate Point, Lilac Point, Red Point, Tortie Point and Lynx Point.

The most startling feature of the Siamese cat is probably his vibrant, blue eyes.

A wedge-shaped head, (another Siamese characteristic), combined with sleek body contour enhances the majestic quality of this fascinating creature.

Using The Right Jars

Always use special canning jars, and never use the ordinary jars that you buy food in at grocery stores for canning. These packers' jars have not been heat treated and may break during the canning process - and they may not seal properly. Also, don't use half gallon canning jars because food in the center may not get hot enough for safe processing.

Guaranteed Loans

The Veterans Administration since 1944 has guaranteed some nine million GI home loans valued at more than $112 billion.

FEARLESS FORECAST

By: R. W. Lancaster
Thursday, August 14, 1975

The moon starts the day in the water sign, Scorpio and then moves in to fire sign, Sagittarius at mid afternoon so if you want your thinning hair to grow back thick and fast get a haircut and massage early today. If you have any painting to do get an early start and the paint will penetrate and have a good lasting qualities. Anytime today or tomorrow is the right time to take care of legal matters or borrowing money but if you need a favor ask about it before noon today.

Friday, August 15th

This is a safe day for traveling and a good time to enjoy all sporting events except fishing, but some boat racing and swimming would be fun and maybe it would be a good time to learn towaterski. If you would rather shop than participate in sports this is an excellent time to buy shoes or clothing and you may get some bargains in summer wear.

Saturday, August 16th

The moon stays in Sagittarius until late tonight and makes a trine to the Sun at mid morning so plan your day around the entertainment scene. If you decide on a cook out have some friends in and you will really enjoy yourself, if you decide to eat out take in a movie be careful of your driving about 7 p.m.

Sunday, August 17th

The afternoon would be a good time to rest in the shade and possibly meditate as you look out over your flowers, here are a few thoughts from some long ago writer. (Flowers are Gods thoughts of beauty, taking form to gladden mortal gaze; bright gems of earth, in which, perchance, we see what Eden was - what paradise may be!)

Monday, August 18th

The moon increasing in the Cardinal earth sign, Capricorn is the right time to do home baking while the yeast dough will rise high and brown to perfection, also a good time to collect outstanding debts and the aspects indicate you can make some economical food purchases after you finish collecting and the savings will probably be far greater than the interest if you was to put the money on deposit.

Tuesday, August 19th

The moon moves in to the fixed air sign, Aquarius early this morning so if you put your fence posts in the ground a couple of weeks ago this is the right time to stretch the wire and you will have a good tight fence for years to come, also a good time to start new construction and do your painting. If you have any legal matters to clear up try to complete them today or tomorrow before the full moon on Thursday.

Wednesday, August 20th

If you ran an ad in this weeks paper you should be getting results tonight or tomorrow and after you get all your business completed start getting your boat and fishing gear ready as the fish will start biting tomorrow evening and the fishing will be exceptionally good through Saturday night, the old timers say you can't miss when the moon is full and in the water sign Pisces.

McCrystle's Casserole

This is variously known in different households as Alamo Stew and is a magnificent mess of 13 inexpensive ingredients. Besides being delicious and cheap, it can be splashed together in 15 minutes and cooks in 15 minutes.

- 1 cup elbow macaroni
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1 medium green pepper
- 1 lb. ground chuck
- 1 lb. can whole tomatoes
- 8 oz. can tomato sauce
- 1 tablespoon oregano
- 1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
- 1 tablespoon instant minced onion
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 3 oz. mozzarella cheese
- 4 slices American Cheese

Preparation:
Boil macaroni in 3 cups of boiling water for eight minutes in saucepan. Meanwhile open cans of tomatoes and tomato sauce. Cut green pepper in half. Remove seeds. Slice and chop up. Slice mozzarella thin.
In largest iron skillet, 12", melt butter over medium heat. Add green pepper and chopped meat. Cook 4 to 5 minutes, stirring often, till meat is no longer pink.
Spoon in the whole tomatoes and about 1/2 the juice. Pour in tomato sauce. Add oregano, garlic powder, minced onion, salt and pepper. Stir one minute breaking tomatoes into pieces.
When macaroni is ready, drain it into sieve at sink. Add macaroni to skillet mixture. Stir. Then cook four more minutes to blend flavors. Top meat macaroni mixture with slices of both cheeses. Cover skillet with lid and cook 3 minutes.

Preservation
By: Nancy Norman
Feeling nostalgic, curious, or frugal, lots of Kentuckians who never did it before are drying fruits and vegetables this summer. A new publication written by Extension Food Specialists at the University of Kentucky, tells how to do it.
Drying is an easy, cheap way of preserving food. People have been doing it for centuries. In scattered primitive cultures around the world, it's still the main way of putting food by.
Canning and freezing do a better job of holding the taste, looks and nutritive value of foods; but along with a revival of interest in the way things used to be done, there's new emphasis lately on drying foods.
The easiest foods to dry at home are apples, herbs, dry beans and peas, corn, sweet potatoes, green beans, and onions. The simplest, cheapest method is sun drying.
But, in case the weather doesn't cooperate you should dry in small enough batches that you could finish them in your oven if necessary. Foods will sour or mold if they stay warm and damp too long.
Our new publication gives step-by-step directions on drying 8 fruits and 11 vegetables, including those old time shucky beans.
Many fruits need an antidarkening pre treatment before drying. Vegetables should be blanched just the way you would if you were going to freeze them.
Once the food is properly dried, conditioned, and pasteurized it should be cooled and carefully stored away. Use moisture-vapor-proof containers with right fitting lids such as glass jars, coffee cans, plastic freezer boxes, or plastic bags with twist ties.
Dried foods lose some of their vitamins, flavor and color during storage. Plan to eat them within 6 to 8 months.
Reconstituted dried vegetables are especially good in soups, stews, and casseroles. Seasoning them with herbs helps make up for flavor lost in drying.
Dried fruits are good for snacks, and they're great to take along on camping and hiking trips. Reconstituted fruits are good in pies and cakes.
Dried fruits are rich in food energy because of their high natural sugar content. Many are also rich in iron and other minerals. Dried beans and peas are high in protein. Dried fruits and vegetables also supply useful amounts of necessary fiber in your diet. Drying destroys most of the vitamin C in vegetables and in unsulfured fruits. Much of the vitamin A is also lost. Sulfuring helps fruits keep their vitamin A and C.
Since some vitamins and minerals are water soluble, it's a good idea to save leftover water in which you have soaked and cooked dried fruits and vegetables. You could use them in gelatin salads and desserts, in fruit and vegetables juice drinks, and in soups.
For more information on making sulfuring and drying trays and on drying fresh produce, stop by the Boone County Extension Office for your copy of H.E. 3-504A, "Home Drying Of Fruits and Vegetables."

Lunch Prices Going Up

Rising labor costs for cafeteria workers and escalator clauses in the bids on bread and milk have led to an increase in the cost of school lunches in the Kenton County School system.

Members of the Board of Education at the August meeting approved five cent increases recommended by Mrs. Alberta Lanham, director of food services. Elementary school lunch will be 50 cents, junior and senior high school 55 cents and adults teachers and other employees 65 cents.

Labor costs in the form of wage increases, Mrs. Lanham reported, will cost the school lunch program $27,000 for the year.

She also told the board that she expects this year to get some flour and shortening from the federal government.

The Board also adopted the federal program for free lunch and reduce prices. Federal guidelines on family income determine those prices, Mrs. Lanham said.

Cumberland Falls Whitley - McCreary Counties

In the rugged foothills near Corbin, where the Cumberland River cuts its way over a rocky course through the mountainous country, is Cumberland Falls.

The falls, 68 feet high and 125 feet broad, has an average flow of 3,600 cubic feet of water per second. Immediately behind the curtain of water is a recess in the rock wall. This makes it possible to go almost across the river through an arch formed of rock on one side and flashing water on the other.

Below the falls are many whirlpools and rapids in the river as it flows for seven miles through a boulder-strewn gorge, whose cliffs are 300 to 400 feet high.

A winding trail leads from Cumberland Falls half a mile down the river to Little Eagle Falls—small but picturesque. It is said that this spot was regarded as a sacred place by the Indians, who guarded it day and night and even fought a battle (the Indian Battle of Shiloh) in its defense.

A cliff walk is on the south side of the river, on a narrow ledge high above the water which winds around the shoulder of the hill.

The steep slopes and ravines of the area consist of a great variety of forest growth: hemlock, tulip, magnolia, oak, sweet gum, dogwood, yellow pine and large holly trees. Azalea, rhododendron, spicebush, Stewartia, blueberry, St. John's wort and strawberry bush are among the many plants.

Perhaps the most unusual and famous feature of Cumberland Falls is the magnificent moonbow. In the full moon, a spectrum formed in the mist of the falls is more beautiful and visible than a rainbow. It is the only moonbow to be seen in the Western Hemisphere.

DuPont Lodge, named in honor of T. Coleman du Pont, stands on a ridge overlooking the Cumberland River, one mile from the falls. It is the lodge for the state park, which consists of 500 acres of virgin forest given to the State by Du Pont.

The 900,000-acre Daniel Boone National Forest surrounding Cumberland Falls State Resort Park, contains thousands of acres of timber and a variety of wild game including deer and black bear.

The Cumberland River was named by Thomas Walker in honor of the Duke of Cumberland, son of King George II. The forest was Cumberland National Forest until it was renamed in honor of Daniel Boone a few years ago.

Regular Meet Held August 12th

Walton's regular town meeting was held on August 12th in the city building. The first question of the night was about what the cities policy would be on sprinkler systems installed in private buildings. After this was discussed the minutes were read and accepted.

Mr. Leubbe then asked the city about long range projects to furnish all services to locations in Walton that were not being reached at the present time. Specifically, he asked about the sewer project. Mayor Gamble stated that the council planned to provide services as soon as the money was available through matching funds or grants. Mr. Leubbe asked council if he could have a letter to this effect.

Mr. Kilgore then asked the council if they would see to the repair of his yard that was damaged by the sewer project. Mrs. Falls requested that the council if it would repair a lot she owned that was receiving excessive surface water which was destroying the building on the lot.

The water superintendent asked the council to furnish him with a portable two inch water meter at an approximate price of $386 this also includes needed fittings.

Mr. Vest questioned him about the amount of chlorine in the water. The superintendent explained that the Health Department requires a minimal amount of chlorine in the water and in order to stay in this range at the end of the line it was necessary to put a larger quantity in at the beginning of the line.

Mr. Clark then presented the bills for the month. Schweitzer's was $168, 12.11 with 75 percent of the project now done.

Beckman's bill was $39,815.50 with 35 percent of the work completed. Another bill was presented in the amount $6,000.

Federal EPA is giving a partial payment of their grant because of lack of payment on the state's part. Another request was also submitted to EPA. Walton will receive a check for approximately $169,000 from one organization in the near future.

One complaint was made to the council about damage to a yard and lack of proper safety measures taken by the construction company was discussed.

The sprinkler system in a private building was again discussed and it was suggested that a separate meter could be used. The council decided to contact the state fire marshal concerning regulations about sprinkler systems.

Several ordinances were discussed and passed. Yellow lines and yellow caution areas to put around islands in a street were discussed. It was decided that bids would be obtained.

The council accepted a bid on a new truck for the city. The final bid was approximately $3,642.

Dispersements were read and excepted. Due to the high cost of chemicals to purify the water it was decided to raise the price of water being hauled out of the city.

Meat that is to be stored in the freezer should be frozen as rapidly as possible. Freezer temperatures should be zero degrees or lower. Avoid freezing large containers of packaged meat or stacking packages of unfrozen meat too high in the freezer, since the meat in the center may freeze too slowly and could develop some bacterial spoilage before it freezes.

Independence Holds Town Board Meet

Independence held it's town board meeting on August 14th. Mr. Tillet withdrew the motion he had made at the previous meeting. The minutes were read and accepted and the road signs that had been ordered came in last week and these will be put up as the posts are available.

A letter was read from the UMCA about the eight weeks of recreational program held by the city. There were 152 children that participated in the program and 56 of these children were taken to a Red's Ballgame. The council discussed placing a ball diamond at the intersection of Sullivan Drive and Madison Pike. If the owner of the field let the city use the ground, approximately 13 loads of dirt will be needed to cover the rock on the field. The council allowed 1000 dollars for making the ball field.

The council then requested a list of people who had been granted a nonconforming permits.

A letter from TANK that said Independence's request for bus shelters would remain in their active file.

The curfew ordinance was read and discussed. On school children under eighteen are not allowed out after 10 o'clock unless under the directions of their parents or they are working a job. On holiday nights the curfew is 12 o'clock.

A plumbing permits has been granted so the station should be finished by September first. Seventeen men and a truck have been assigned to the new firehouse. On firehouse three, an option has been taken and now zone approval must be granted. There are plans to purchase two used pieces for training purposes until the new equipment arrives.

A light shield or light deflector to block out light from streets lights can be installed for ten dollars at the expense of the citizen. Everyone with old buildings was contacted and agreed to cooperate.

The council authorized payment for street repairs. It also advertised for additional street repair and one bid was submitted and also accepted. The repair work will be done on Kimberly Drive, McMillian, Elizabeth, Dogwood, Cherry, Plantation, Sylvan, and Fleming. The total cost would be $13,834.

The bills were read and excepted. The attorney of Elsmere, Robert Carron, representing the city, requested that the council withdraw the ordinance of annexation on Richardson Road.

Warner Cox then spoke to the council, saying that he felt the vacancy on the council should be filled. He stated the letter sent out signed concerned citizens was "Unfair to Mr. Warren." Fred White called it a smear letter defaming Wally Warren. Ralph Cooper said, "I cannot give you nothing but praise about Linda Foster."

Mrs. Richardson made a motion that the motion dealing with the hiring of a full time police chief be renewed. A letter from Judge O.E. Armstrong concerning the matter of the police chief was read. Mr. Schaller left the chair and asked the council to let the matter wait. The motion was voted on and defeated 3 to 2. Mr. Tillet and Mrs. Richardson voted for the motion.

Growing As A Witness

(Matthew 5:13-16, Acts 8:4-6; Romans 1:14-17)

MOUNTAIN MOMENTS

A Twist Of Tobacco

A few months ago I promised to tell you about my first chew of tobacco, and the other day I was reminded of that promise by a reader.

The two villains who gave me that chew were Hobart and George W. Morgan, an uncle and grandfather on Mom's side of the family.

Pappy, my grandfather, lived in the east end of Middlesboro for many years and his home stands today on Tenth Street.

I spent a lot of time at Pappy's because he seemed to enjoy my company and I know I enjoyed his. Pappy's wife, Big Mama, was mentioned in this column previously. Pappy was a talented country musician. He could pick a guitar, mandolin, banjo, and ukelele, as well as play a fiddle. Mom and Aunt Mary were good vocalists, Uncle Hobart and Uncle Arvel were guitar pickers, and every Sunday afternoon we had a good old fashioned how down. Pappy could really lay down a tune while keeping time with his feet. And sometimes the rafters rang!

One day after our song sessions, Pappy said, "I'm going for a walk. Who'll go along?"

Well, I wanted to go, and so did Hobart. We started toward Cemetery Hollow, a round trip was about four miles. Before we had walked a half a mile, Pappy pulled out a "twist" of tobacco and cut off a chew with an old case knife he always carried. I was about fourteen years old and had never chewed tobacco. Pappy knew this, but he jokingly said, "Let me cut you off a chew."

Hobart said, "Yeah, you're old enough. Go ahead and take a chew."

"All right," I said, and Pappy cut off a piece of that twist no bigger than the tip of my thumb. I put it in my mouth and started chewing. That old strong tobacco was hard to work up. And the longer I chewed the bigger it got!

We walked and I chewed, and every now and then I caught Pappy glancing at me out of the corner of his eye. Hobart, who was walking on the other side of me, had a sneaky grin on his face. But I kept right on trying to do something with that wad of tobacco in my mouth.

By the time we got to the cemetery, I was sick! I was about to turn green, so when Pappy sat down, I flopped down in the grass and spit that mess out! But that didn't help much. I got sicker and sicker and it felt like I had swallowed that whole twist of tobacco. And by this time Hobart's sneaky grin had turned into a smirky smile, and he started laughing.

Somehow, I got home - still sick as a dog. I don't know how long I was ill, but I didn't tell my parents.

Years later it was always a little funny to see the expression on his face when Pappy would say, "Hey, Maynard, how about a chew of tobacco?"

Matthew 5: 13-16

You will search in vain for greater compliments than the three given by Jesus to His followers and listed in this passage. Christians need to be aware of how much the Lord trusts them. God's people need to see themselves as Jesus sees them. They are the salt of the earth, silently but effectively working as a redeeming factor in the world that has lost its way.

They are the light of the world. Whatever the sun is to the physical world, its light, its warmth, its energy, Christians are the same to the world spiritually.

They are as the city set on a hill. How essential was the ancient city, especially in the night. As the wayfaring traveler wandered in the darkness, what a welcome sight the lights of the city would be! This world need the light of Christ gives through His people, but His people need to let their lights shine!

Christians need to be aware of the influence they can have for good in the world.

Acts 8:4-6

Persecution drove the early Christians from the city of Jerusalem. But persecution could not stop their witnessing. It did more to scatter their testimony than anything else. This passage tells us of Phillip's success in Samaria. This is remarkable when we consider the hatred that existed between the Jews and the Samaritans. Phillip was a Jew. He preached Christ (A Jew) unto them. They listened. They believed. They rejoiced. How does one account for such success? What turned the Samaritans so suddenly? Or was the turning so sudden?

Some years before this, Jesus had gone through Samaria. He had talked with a woman of ill repute. Is it possible that her influence as a believer in Jesus had served to soften the hearts of the Samaritans as they listened to Phillip preach?

Another factor involved in growing as a witness is integrity.

Integrity

Romans 1:14-17

The apostle Paul carefully examined the situation and found himself to be a debtor to all men. If a medical doctor were to discover a cure for cancer and keep a secret to himself, would we not count him a dishonest man? Every believer is under a universal obligation to be a witness and to grow as a witness to what Christ has done for him.

Paul said, "I am ready . . ." Are you ready? Paul said, "I am not ashamed . . ." Are you ashamed? You have the words of life; will you share them with the rest of the world?

DESTINY: THE MINOR LEAGUES?

Headed for the "Majors" — that's his dream. But don't count on it, even if he stays in baseball!

For in thousands of cities and towns across America we know that baseball isn't just the major leagues. We know boys on their way up . . . and men on their way down . . . and fellows who have gone about as far as they can go. A real ball player is one who gives his club his best—in any league.

How close this comes to a fundamental conviction of the Church!

Christianity gives a man solid footing for his faith in God and in himself. To achieve the full potential of our God-given talents is primary; to fulfill every dream is secondary.

The Church promises no man earthly success. But it helps us to appraise the gifts God gave . . . to use them honestly and unselfishly. And, startlingly, it points the way to new goals, far beyond our dreams.

Senator Dee Huddleston

REPORTS TO THE PEOPLE OF KENTUCKY

Senator Walter Dee Huddleston recently introduced legislation to provide matching grants to railroads for rehabilitation of deteriorated rails and other facilities and to establish a national rail plan for improving service on a priority basis.

Entitled the National Transportation and Modernization Act of 1975, the legislation also sets up a research program to produce more energy-efficient automobiles and water carriers.

The major thrust of the Huddleston bill, however, is improvement of railroads. He pointed out that since 1970 seven railroads have declared bankruptcy and the industry has a backlog of some $7.2 billion of deferred maintenance and deferred capital improvements.

"It occurs to me that something is terribly wrong with our national transportation priorities when the railroads—our most energy-efficient mover of large numbers of people and goods—transport less than one percent of the people who travel in interstate commerce and less than 39 percent of intercity freight," Huddleston added.

His bill would establish a $6.25 billion five year grant-in-aid program to modernize rail passenger and freight facilities and equipment including main lines, branch lines, feeder lines, yards, terminals, and communications equipment.

The grants would be made on a dollar-for-dollar matching basis to railroads; 70 percent to state and local transportation authorities; and 100 percent federal to the National Railroad Passenger Corporation.

Secondly, the bill requires the Secretary of Transportation to develop a national rail plan patterned after the interstate highway system. It would establish a system of interstate, secondary and branch line rail systems and set forth rehabilitation priorities.

The bill also requires the Secretary of Transportation to submit a railway needs report every two years describing major services which should be provided railroads.

Finally, the legislation sets up a $2 billion five year program for research and development of more energy efficient automobiles, to be administered by the Federal Highway Administration, and a $250 million program for similar research in the water carrier industry.

Huddleston said enactment of the legislation would spur employment in transportation-related industries and save energy by improving energy-efficient modes.

"If we examine the relative energy efficiencies of the various transportation modes, we find that buses and railroads are the most efficient for moving people," he said. "Not surprisingly, the railroads, pipelines and barge lines are the most energy efficient; trucks and airplanes consume the most fuel."

Medals were presented to 34 girls on two Boone County All Star Teams. The Blue All Star and the Red All Star Team played each other on July 4th and July 21st.

The girls were chosen from six teams on their merit of play and the Red All Star Team was managed by Mr. Bob Millay, who was the winners of the first game that was played at Boone Woods with a score of 11 to 8.

However, in the second game, won by the Blue All Star Team the score was 12 to 8 with Jim Lyons as the proud manager.

Zoning Commission Meets For Changes

August 14th was the date of the Northern Kentucky Planning and Zoning Commission. The first case was a zone change of property on the western end of Cody Road. The change was to be from single family homes to mobile home zoning.

The people who spoke against were Ben Rivard speaking for Paul Robinson, Robert Hayes, Laverne Wolsing, Brian Armstrong and Wanda Works.

The people who spoke for the zone changes were Hal Evans, Ruby Heisel, Margie Dawson, Mr. Pierson, Dave Albers, Robert Loomis and his attorney. Reasons stated for the change were inadequate space allotted for mobile homes in Independence and the zoning was improper. In the existing 16 acres of trailer park the residents are restricted to two children and one born while living in the park. Mr. Loomis stated that he was going to build a baseball diamond and swimming pool. There are seventy sites now, but only 31 are occupied but if the change went through he was planning 349. Mr. Loomis stated that it was not compatible to have people in a single family homes driving through the trailer park. At this time he read minutes from a meeting approximately two years ago over a similar change.

Ruby Heisel a resident, said she was in favor of the change so the children in the park would have a place to play. Margie Dawson said, "I love it out there."

In opposition, Mr. Hayes suggested that Mr. Loomis mow some of the extra land for the children to play on. He also wondered how a baseball field could be put on land that had a forty foot grade.

Attorney Bridges, city attorney for Independence asked one of the commission if the park met the city requirements. It was stated that the park did not meet all of the requirements.

The committee that looked into the case reported to the commission and the zoning change was turned down unanimously.

Overnight Stays

Residents of Kentucky made 181,474 overnight registrations in state parks in 1974. This amounted to 44.9 percent of the total 444,085 overnight registrations made. Ohioans contributed the second highest total with 84,370 or 19 percent. Hoosiers were third with 43,576 or 9.8 percent.

Barefoot Driving

State police say that driving barefoot is not only illegal in Kentucky, but is sometimes advisable for refreshing and stimulating the feet of motorists during long summer trips.

Representative Here

Congressman Gene Snyder's District Field Representative, Jim Evans, will be in Room 310 of the Federal Building in Covington for most of the day on Wednesday, August 27th to help residents of the Fourth Congressional District who are having problems with the Federal Government. Those who wish to see Jim should call Congressman Snyder's Covington District Office at 491-0105 for an appointment.

prevent it even being considered.

The pay hike also covers an additional 16,493 top-level Federal officials and high ranking military officers. If the President and the Congress approve an expected 8% cost of living raise for government employees, the added cost of the Congressional and top official raise to the taxpayer this year will be some $49,700,000. If that raise is held to 5% as the President may request, the added cost would be around $34,000,000. Some supporters of the raises said that compared to our annual budget of over $300 billion, this was relatively insignificant.

But the joker in the deal—no joke to taxpayers—is the annual automatic cost of living gimmick, not only for this year but for every year from now on (unless Congress revokes its action or changes the law at a later date.) Herd of taxpayers get no cost of living increases whatsoever!

I have stated repeatedly that inflation starts with the Congress. Any time Congress votes to spend more money than taxes bring in, that body forces the Treasury to borrow money in the marketplace. To the degree that the Treasury borrows from the banking system, our currency is inflated. More dollars are pumped into our total money supply by nothing more than accounting entries in the books of the banks involved. The more dollars the banks create out of this air, the cheaper becomes each dollar in our pockets. That means they buy less. Prices rise because dollars go down in value.

As long as Congressmen personally could feel the tightening pinch of inflation as their own dollars shrunk in purchasing power, there was some hope that the harmful effects of their deficit spending might get through to them. But even that hope has vanished. Now they'll be compensated to offset any new inflation they'll bring about.

Of course, they could always give themselves a raise, but that meant playing with political dynamite each time they'd do so. This fact of life kept such a raise from being enacted ever since March 1969. Since that time, the Consumer Price Index to which cost of living raises are tied, has risen by over 47.5%.

But now, by the back door approach of tying Congressional pay in with that of all other government employees who get an annual adjustment upwards with the CPI, Congress no longer need legislate its own pay hikes under public scrutiny. They'll be automatic. The people's cynicism over politicians can only deepen as a result.

In recent years economic growth overseas has created a new climate for US farm policy. New markets have been opening up all over the globe, as nation after nation reached the economic take off point. Japan increased its US farm imports from $485 million in 1960 to $3.5 billion last year. Western Europe increased its farm product by $5 billion in the same period. And last year the Peoples Republic of China bought more than $650 million worth of US farm exports. The growth in world farm product demand presents a far different situation for US farm policy than we have dealt with in the past 40 years. Rather than holding back production, we face a need to stimulate efficient output both in the United States and in the developing countries. US farm need the income from the export markets which have been taking fully one fourth of their annual output. The rest of the nation is relying on farm exports as the largest single component in our export trade balance, without farm exports, the slide of the dollar in the last three years would have substantially worsened domestic inflation.

The resurgence of the American farm has also played an important role in halting the decline of rural America. The exodus of people from rural areas has all but stopped. Our farm population has stabilized.

Between 1970 and 1973, the population of our nonmetropolitan areas grew 4.2 percent compared with a 2.9 percent rate of growth in metropolitan areas. For the first time in this century, more people moved out of the metropolitan areas than moved into them.

The big cities are rapidly losing their appeal as places to live and work, and as centers of business and industrial activity. Surveys currently show that well over twice as many people prefer to live in rural and small town areas as now live there.

Jobs are now increasing faster in the nonmetropolitan areas too. In the 1960's city jobs increased faster. But, between 1970 and 1973 the number of jobs in non metro grew more than twice as fast as the number of metropolitan jobs.

We also expect America agriculture to play an important role in feeding the world more adequately during the years ahead. We do not see the world entering a period of dire food shortages, and certainly there seems no need for a food shortage if the nations of the world give agricultural development its proper priority. Nor do we expect that US agricultures of the developing countries. However, the world's food output per person has been improving slowly and steadily over the last 20 years, and we expect this can continue. We are still developing new farming technology and making wider use of it. World fertilizer production is increasing. The developing nations still have some major areas of land that can be brought into farm production, and they currently get far lower yields per acre of major crops. Both of these areas offer great potential for the future.

Corn Silage

By Darwin Foley
Kenton County
Extension Agent

Corn silage is an important forage for dairy and beef cattle. When properly made, corn silage is a highly digestible, high energy, high yielding forage. It is easy to preserve, and is easily adapted to mechanization from standing crop to feeding.

High quality corn silage has a high grain content, an olive green color, and a pleasant smell with only a slight vinegar odor.

Corn should be harvested for silage after the ear is well denting, but before all the leaves turn brown and dry. At this stage of development both quantity and quality are near maximum. Harvesting earlier results in silage with a lower grain content, thus it is higher in fiber and lower in total digestible nutrients than that which has denting grain.

Length of cut can have a marked influence on the ensiling process. Corn silage should be cut into particles one fourth to one half inches in length. Particles of this size will pack firmly in the silo. Properly adjusted equipment is a must for silage harvesting. Equipment should be checked before silage making begins to insure sharp and properly adjusted knives and shear bars. Keep the discharge spout adjusted and watch turns and loading procedures to minimize silage loss. Equipment should be checked often during silage making for proper operation.

Lethal gases may occur at any time during silo filling. The greatest danger is 12 to 72 hours after filling, but gases may be present at anytime after silage is put into the silo. Silo gases may appear in any ensiled material, grown on any type of soil under any level of fertilization.

If the gases are present in high concentrations, two of the gases may be recognized by the irritating odor and color. Nitrogen dioxide is reddish brown and nitrogen freezer back on and quickly replace food in freezer. Each container should be wiped with damp cloth as you arrange it in your freezer. Put most recently frozen food in the back or bottom of your freezer and left overs from last year in front or on top to be used first.

Arrange containers to make best use of your space and group similar types of food together.

Now would be a good time to take inventory of number of packages you have and place this near your freezer, crossing off food as you use it or adding numbers as you put new food in.

You'll be surprised as the extra space you will have and your freezer will operate more efficiently with a year's supply of ice removed and new food will freeze more quickly.

tetroxide is yellow. Nitric oxide is a colorless gas that may be present in lethal concentrations without being visibly detected.

A few simple precautions will prevent tragedy or injury from silo gases:

- 1) run the blower 15 to 20 minutes before going into a partly filled silo. Keep the blower running as long as anyone is inside.
- 2) stay out of the silo for at least one week (preferably two weeks) after it has been filled.
- 3) ventilate the silo room for at least two weeks after filling.
- 4) keep the doors between the silo room and barn closed to protect livestock.

5) if you experience the slightest throat irritation or coughing, get into fresh air immediately. Immediate treatment by a doctor is an absolute must.

Tips On Job Hunting

Going to hunt for a job after graduation? If so, here are some tips you might consider and some fringe benefits you should insist on before accepting any position.

Only competitive promotions with periodic pay increases for length of employment should be considered. And insist on your first promotion after only four months on the job.

Never accept a job that doesn't give you an opportunity to earn to 30 days paid vacation per year, starting with your first year.

Accept only a job that lets you continue your education and pays up to 75 percent of its cost. And that may pay full or partial college tuition in addition to your salary.

Very important among your requirements should be an initial allowance to buy new clothes for your job and additional money each month to maintain or replace wornout clothing. At the same time, request an additional monthly cost of living allowance for your wife and family.

Your new employer should provide leisure facilities such as swimming pools, tennis courts, a bowling center, boats, fishing gear, a golf course, movie theaters, libraries, and craft or hobby shops including a photo lab, all at reduced rates for you and your family.

Guaranteed provisions for unlimited sick leave with full pay, as well as other medical or dental expenses should be paid by your employer. Whenever possible he should extend the same service to your immediate family.

Only consider working for a company if it provides worthwhile discount prices at affiliated grocery and variety stores, laundries, service stations, auto repair shops and restaurants.

Opening your new career, make sure the company will give you an income equal to 50 percent of your monthly pay after 20 years of service and 75 percent after 30 years, when you retire.

Don't forget to insist on freedom to relocate at your request. And if you are married you should receive one month's housing allowance each time your move is required by the company.

Prospective employers should be willing to give you a bonus of up to $12,000 in cash after your first four years on the job to stay with him another six.

And don't forget to let this employer know that if you are not experienced in the work you would like to be sent to a training school at full pay and receive all company benefits while there.

Your prospective employer should be able to meet all of the requirements and benefits listed here. If he can't drop in to see your local Navy recruiter. He works for an employer who can offer everything you have asked for and more!

Consumer Comments

Don't let insects "bug" you but don't let pest control salesperson "bug" you, either. If a sales person come to your door offering a free inspection, beware. Our office has received several letters from consumers who complain they spent hundreds of dollars on unsuccessful treatments for insects and found the only thing that was exterminated was their bank account.

If you are told you have termites, beetles or other insects or bugs, don't panic or rush into signing a contract. A warning that your house is in severe danger may be nothing more than a scare tactic designed to convince the consumer to sign a contract which is far more expensive than most other companies.

Before you do anything get the opinion of two other pest control companies as to whether or not there is a problem. If the companies do not agree, or if you have doubts as to whether or not you have insects write to the Director, Pest and Noxious Weed Control, Department of Agriculture, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky.

Once you have determined that there is an insect problem, obtain price estimates for any needed work.

All estimates should be put in writing and each should describe the exact method of extermination to be used. Find out if periodic inspections are included in the cost, and ask that this information and any

Gethsemani Abbey
Trappist, Kentucky
Nelson County

The Abbey of Our Lady of Gethsemani was founded in 1848 by a group of Trappist monks from Melleray, France. Fearful of the unsettled political conditions in France, they were determined to find a home in America for part of their crowded community.

The Trappists are Cistercians of an order that came into existence in 1664 at the Abbey at La Trappe. The Cistercians themselves were founded after a reformation of the Benedictine Order, the oldest in the Roman Catholic Church. This order fasts continually and takes the vows of silence, chastity and poverty. The vow of perpetual silence holds except during conferences with superiors, when in choir or on other special occasions.

They greet each other in silence, with a bow, using sign language for any necessary communication. One monk, who serves as guest master to visitors who come to the Abbey, is temporarily released from his vow of silence.

Through the efforts of the Rt. Rev. Joseph Flaget, first bishop of Louisville, a 1400-acre tract of land (subsequently enlarged) was purchased some 15 miles south of Bardstown. Then, 40 members under the leadership of Dom Proust crossed the Atlantic and began clearing the land and building a home for the chapter.

The Abbey is a rambling, white, stuccoed structure of Gothic design. It was completed and consecrated in 1866. The buildings form an immense quadrangle; one side is the church, 226 feet long with a white spire reaching 166 feet into the air.

The porter's building has a wide, arched entrance. Within this structure are a store, a post office and a dressing room for the only women who are permitted to enter — the wife of a President, or wife of a Kentucky Governor. The Cloister Garden contains many rare shrubs and plants.

The library contains more than 60,000 volumes, including ancient manuscripts and rare old liturgical writings.

The monks are divided into two groups — lay brothers, who wear brown cassocks, and choir religious, who wear white.

The morning devotions begin at 2 a.m.; there is a one-hour mass at 6, and manual labor 8-11:30. The noon meal (vegetables and milk) is served around 11:30. The afternoon is for devotion and labor; vespers at 6 p.m., and after a light repast the monks retire for the day at 7. The lay brothers devote eight hours each day to labor, the choir religious devote four. Theirs is a true Order of Strict Observance.

A Consumer Tip from Extension Specialists at the UK College of Agriculture

"Do it right!" is the first rule of home canning, because eating improperly canned foods can cause botulism, a serious food poisoning. Homecanned green beans, beets and corn have caused botulism outbreaks in Kentucky. These are low acid foods and must be processed in a pressure canner at ten pounds pressure to make them safe from botulism. As an added precaution, boil all home canned vegetables at least 10 minutes before serving them to destroy any botulism toxin that might be present.

Speak when you are angry and you will probably make the best speech you will ever regret.

If you get to the end of your rope, tie a knot in it, and hang on.

When it rains porridge, the beggar always discovers he has no spoon.

If you are at the end of your rope and are tired of paying big prices for tires that do not last as long as you think they should, you have never owned a REMINGTON tire.

ORDINANCE NO. 1975-16

AN ORDINANCE PROVIDING FOR THE COLLECTION OF DELINQUENT PROPERTY TAXES IN THE CITY OF WALTON, BOONE COUNTY, KENTUCKY, PURSUANT TO KRS CHAPTERS 92 AND 134, SAID ORDINANCE PROVIDING FOR THE SALE OF SAID PROPERTY TO SATISFY SAID DELINQUENT TAXES.

WHEREAS, it has come to the attention of City Council that numerous delinquent taxes on property within the city limits of the City of Walton are in existence, and that it appears that there delinquencies will not be satisfied and that the Statute of Limitations on said delinquencies will run making the delinquencies uncollectible; and,

WHEREAS, the City Council of the City of Walton, deems it in the City's best interest to provide a uniform method for the collection of said delinquencies pursuant to Chapters 92 and 134 of the Kentucky Revised Statutes;

NOW, THEREFORE, be it ordained by the City Council of the City of Walton, Boone County, Kentucky as follows:

SECTION I

That pursuant to KRS 92.180, the City Council of the City of Walton, Boone County, Kentucky shall appoint by separate ordinance a City Tax Collector who shall collect all taxes placed in his hands for collection by the City Council, except license taxes and taxes paid by banks, trust companies, building associations and other corporations which shall be paid directly to the City Treasurer. This Tax Collector shall post bond, if any, as is set by the City Council of the City of Walton, Boone County, Kentucky by the said separate ordinance.

SECTION II

That pursuant to KRS 92.637 the City Clerk shall file with the County Clerk a map showing its public ways and its boundaries, and whenever property is annexed or de-annexed, it shall forthwith file amended plats showing its boundaries as changed; and shall file annually with the County Clerk at sometime between 90 and 120 days after taxes become due and payable a statement showing:

- the date taxes become due and payable,
- a list of all unpaid taxes showing tax payers name, the property, address and amount of tax including penalties and interest, if any, the list shall be cumulative and each year shall show all delinquent taxes not barred.
- the name, address and telephone number of the City Tax Collector and the hours within which he can be ordinarily contacted by telephone.

SECTION III

The City Tax Collector shall on the first Monday in each month, pay to the City Treasurer, all taxes and other funds of the City collected by him the preceding month, and file with the City Treasurer an Affidavit stating that the monies so paid are all the taxes or funds that he has collected or received during the previous month. The City Collector shall upon receipt of any tax list, give his receipt for it to the City, and shall, upon depositing with the City Clerk the delinquent tax list, take the receipt of the City Clerk therefore

SECTION IV

Pursuant to KRS 92.650, no property shall be exempt from levy and sale for taxes by the City and, the City shall have a lien for taxes for five years from the date of assessment on the property assessed and on all other property of each person, for all taxes due by him to the City, which lien shall not be defeated by gift, devise, sale, alienation or any other means.

SECTION V

The City shall have a lien on the property assessed for taxes due them respectively for five years following the date when taxes become delinquent, and also on any real property owned by the delinquent tax payer at the date when the City Tax Collector offers tax claims for sale as provided in this ordinance. The lien shall include all interest, penalties, fees, commissions, charges and other expenses incurred by reason of delinquency in payment of the tax bill or in the process of collecting it, and shall have priority over any other obligation or liability for which the property is liable. The lien of the City shall be of equal rank of that of the State.

SECTION VI

All personal property owned by delinquent tax payer shall be subject to distraint, and all property owned by him shall be subject to levy and sale by the City Tax Collector at any time from February 1, after the tax claim becomes delinquent until the tax claim is barred by limitations, unless otherwise provided by law.

When any tax payer becomes delinquent in the payment of the tax bill, covering any property assessed, the City Tax Collector shall first distraint a sufficient quantity of delinquent's personal property in the City to pay the tax claim and the necessary part of this property shall be sold as under execution for cash. Neglect on the part of the City Tax Collector to first distraint and sell personal property shall not affect the validity of the sale of the tax claim, or the lien or the rights of any purchaser thereof.

If no personal property is found or the amount found is insufficient, the notation to that effect then shall be entered on the tax bill. The City Tax Collector, after entering this notation on the tax bill, advertise and offer for sale the tax claims of the City provided for as is set out herein.

SECTION VII

The advertisement of sale of tax claims shall be published pursuant to KRS Chapter 424. The City Tax Collector shall place a copy of the advertisement at the City Building door and in a conspicuous place at least fifteen days before the sale. The sale shall be at the city building door. The City Tax Collector shall, not less than twelve days before the sale, mail to the delinquent tax payers place of residence or business, if such can be ascertained, a notice of time and place of sale. Failure to send such notice shall have no effect on the validity of the sale.

The City Council may fix by separate ordinance, any compensation it deems reasonable for the duties performed under this ordinance by the City Tax Collector. This compensation shall be added, on a pro-rated basis to the tax claims as a part of the certificate of delinquency and paid by the person who pays the tax claim. Any expenses incurred that must be paid before the sale of a tax claim or the settlement of an action by the city shall be paid by the City and shall be added to the amount of the tax claim on a pro-rated basis and paid by the person who pays the tax claim.

SECTION VIII

Any tax claim offered for sale as prescribed in this ordinance shall be sold to any person for cash. If there is more than one willing purchaser at the sale, the one having made the most recent purchase of a tax claim against same delinquent or the same property shall have preference; if there is no such person, the sale shall be made to the person being the first in the judgement of the City Tax Collector, to offer to pay cash in the full amount of the tax claim. When a sale is made the tax bill shall be known as a certificate of delinquency and the City Tax Collector shall subscribe thereon the date of sale, sale price, and the name and address of the purchaser, and the purchaser shall be entitled to a certified copy of the Certificate of Delinquency.

If no responsible bid in the amount of the tax claim is received, the City Tax Collector shall purchase it for the City. In such case, the tax bill shall also be known as a Certificate of Delinquency, and the City Tax Collector shall inscribe thereon the information required when one other than the City is the purchaser.

The City Tax Collector shall return all certificates of delinquency to the City Clerk, after he has made his settlement with the City and not later than June 2, of each year after the year 1975, and the City Clerk shall file the certificates. If the City Tax Collector fails to return the certificates, the claim of the purchaser may file his certified copy with the City Clerk, with the same effect as the original.

SECTION IX

Certificates of delinquency shall bear interest from the date of insurance until collected at the rate of 12% per annum.

Certificates of delinquency shall be prima facie evidence that:

- the property represented by the certificate was subject to taxes levied thereon, and was assessed as required by law.
- the tax bill was valid and correct in all respects.
- the taxes were not paid at any time before the insurance of the certificate.

SECTION X

An uncollectible tax bill or a certificate of delinquency shall embrace the entire tax claim, including the lien provided for in this Ordinance and shall include to be a personal obligation of the delinquent tax payer. Any property while owned by him shall be subject to foreclosure or execution in satisfaction of the judgement pursuant to an action in rem or an action in personam or both, to enforce the obligation, and also shall be subject to distraint or levy as provided in this Ordinance, but no action may be brought to enforce a Certificate of Delinquency until three years after the issuance thereof, and the action must be instituted within five years after the expiration of that three year period. During the three year period the statute of limitations shall be suspended in all respects and shall be continued in all respects for five years thereafter. If the owner of a Certificate of Delinquency proceeds to enforce satisfaction of the Certificate, he may include all other certificates held by him against the same delinquent tax payer, but in so far as the proceedings may undertake to effect a lien foreclosure they shall be governed by the time applicable to the particular property subject to the lien, if that property is no longer owned by the Delinquent.

SECTION XI

The Delinquent Tax Payer or any person owning or having a legal or equitable interest in the real property covered by a Certificate of Delinquency, may at any time pay the total amount of the Certificate to any purchaser thereof, and any person whatsoever may like wise pay a certificate of delinquency when the City was the purchaser. When a certificate is paid to an owner other than the City, the Certified copy of the certificate shall be surrendered to the person making payment, and if he is the person primarily liable on the certificate he may, by exhibiting it to the City Clerk, have it released of record. When a certificate of delinquency has been fully paid to the City the City Clerk shall note the name, and address of the person making payment and the amount paid by him. Payment in such instances by one other than the person primarily liable on the certificate will amount to an assignment thereof. Anyone other than the person primarily liable who pays the certificate or purchases it from an owner other than the City, may, by paying a fee of 50 cents have the City Clerk record the payment of purchase in such recordation shall constitute an assignment thereof. Failure to obtain an assignment shall render the claim of such payor or purchaser to any real estate represented thereby inferior to rights of other bona fide purchasers, payors, or creditors. Any owner of a certificate of delinquency once having paid the assignment fee may have a change of his address noted by the City Clerk without paying any additional charges, otherwise, he shall pay a fee of 50 cents to the City Clerk for entering such change on the Certificate.

If the person entitled to pay a certificate of delinquency sends a registered letter addressed to the owner of record of the certificate, other than the City, and the letter is returned by mail unclaimed, the sender thereof may make payment to the City Clerk, who shall make the necessary assignment or release and deposit the money to the account of the owner of record in the nearest bank having its deposits insured. The Clerk may deduct the sum of 50 cents as a fee for such service. The name of the bank in which the money is deposited shall be noted on the certificate.

If any Clerk fails to pay to the person entitled thereto, upon demand, the money received in payment of a certificate of delinquency, he and his surties shall be liable for the same and 20% interest thereon annually from the time he receives it until paid.

SECTION XII

If a private person is the owner of a certificate of delinquency he may, after the expiration of the three year period provided for herein,

A) institute an action against the delinquent tax payer to collect the amount of the certificate, and any other such certificates subsequently issued to the same owner against the same delinquent, and shall have all remedies available for the enforcement of a debt; or

B) institute an action to enforce the lien provided for in this Ordinance, represented by the certificate that is more than three years of age, and those certificates subsequently held by the same owner against same delinquent or property; or

C) institute one action including both types of actions mentioned in paragraph A and B of this section above, and such joinder of actions shall not be defeated in the event the delinquent tax payer has disposed of any property covered by the lien, but the purchaser of the property shall be made a defendant if the judgment is to effect his interest in the property, and as between them the delinquent tax payer shall be responsible.

If the City is the owner of a Certificate of Delinquency, it shall have, after the expiration of the three year provision of this Ordinance, in addition to the remedies mentioned in the Paragraph above, the right to distraint and sell any property owned by the delinquent, including that on which the lien provided in this Ordinance has attached. Any property sold under such distraint proceedings shall be sold in the same manner as provided for the sale of property in this Ordinance.

Where property is sold pursuant to a judgment of foreclosure, it shall not be appraised as in other foreclosure proceedings and there shall be no right of redemption except as provided for in this Ordinance. If there is no purchaser at a foreclosure sale, the Master Commissioner shall make a deed to the person or persons shown by record to be the owner of the Certificate or certificates of delinquency, and they shall have a pro-rate interest therein in accordance with the amount of their respective certificate.

SECTION XIII

The sale shall be advertised by a written or printed notice posted at the City Building door for fifteen (15) days before the date of sale and by publication pursuant to KRS Chapter 424.

Gardening Tips from Extension Specialists at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture

Although not recommended for gardens with a steep slope, many Kentucky vegetables patches can be improved by fall plowing soon after the crops are harvested.

This is especially true of soils containing clay. If heavy soils such as silt or clay are plowed too wet in the spring, it is all but impossible to prepare a good seedbed. By plowing such soils in the fall, the alternate freezing and thawing action during the winter improves the soil structure and therefore results in a much better seedbed.

But more than just improving the chances of a good seedbed, fall plowing has several other important advantages.

In some cases, fall plowing reduces erosion. If the garden is plowed and left in the rough, water from winter rains and melting snows collects in the furrows, thus reducing surface run off and loss of soil. If the garden area slopes be sure to plow on the contour.

Fall plowing also aids in the control of insects pests. By late autumn, many forms of insects have already established winter havens and late plowing destroys these places of hibernation. Since it is too late for the insects to establish another, they will perish in the cold. Fall plowing relieves the pressure of spring work. As every gardener eliminated. This, of course, permits a little extra time to go fishing.

Fall plowing makes possible earlier preparation of the soil drains with greater speed and warms up faster in the spring. Frequently, springs are wet in Kentucky and plowing is delayed. As a consequence, planting is likewise delayed until the best planting dates for cool season crops are past.

Not the least of the advantages of fall plowing is that it hastens the decay of coarse materials turned under during the process. Crop residues such as crabgrass, and mulching materials such as straw, sawdust, leaves, or whatever plowed under in the spring may rob crops of plant nutrients, thereby delaying harvest and lowering yield and quality. When such materials are plowed under in the fall, they consume some plant nutrients in their decay which may otherwise be lost from the soil through leaching.

Good Taste Never Goes Out

What is it that people miss most about the "good old days"? Memories of picnics, mother's potato salad, and the corner store evoke nostalgia for the past, but some time honored traditions still prevail.

In 1912, one could stop at Richard Hellmann's delicatessen in New York City, chat with him and buy a little wooden boat of his wife's mayonnaise. As the popularity of Mrs. Hellmann's mayonnaise grew, the clever delicatessen owner began selling the mayonnaise in glass jars and soon added a fleet of delivery trucks. Today that began as Mrs. Hellmann's mayonnaise is available around the country, as Hellmann's in the east and Best Foods in the West. Since it was first used for potato salad we offer a recipe for Old Fashioned Potato Salad, as good today as it was in 1912.

Old Fashioned Potato Salad

- 4 cups diced cooked potato
- 1 1/2 cups sliced celery
- 1/4 cup chopped green onion
- 1/4 cup sliced radish
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
- 1 cup real mayonnaise
- 1 tablespoon vinegar
- 2 teaspoon prepared mustard
- 1/2 teaspoon celery seed
- 1 1/4 teaspoons salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper

Mix together potato, celery, green onion, radish, and parsley. Toss with real mayonnaise, vinegar, mustard, celery seed, salt and pepper until well mixed. Chill. Makes 8 servings.

FEARLESS FORECAST

By: R. W. Lancaster

Thursday, August 21, 1975

We have a full moon after lunch today and then the moon enters the water sign Pisces at 5 p.m. so get your fishing gear ready as the fishing will be exceptionally good through Saturday night, the old timers say anyone can catch fish at this time without half trying but if the water is too warm you may have to fish deep.

Friday, August 22nd

Today and tomorrow is the right time for home canning if you are lucky enough to have jar lids, the manufacturers claim they made enough for everybody but a few greedy so called businessmen are creating an artificial shortage so they can rip off the poor consumer, maybe the best way to deal with that type of merchant is to take all our trade elsewhere and do some home freezing, but if you have a few extra lids share them with a neighbor as there will be plenty next year.

Saturday, August 23rd

The Sun enters Virgo at noon today so this is the last month of summer and the young ones can start thinking of all the fun they are going to have when they get back in school, and really if you face the truth, school is a lot of fun, anyone with normal intelligence by planning their time properly can make grades above average and have plenty of time left over for sports or whatever else they enjoy most, the Aries and Sagittarians in sports and the Gemini and Aquarians in talking and debates the Taurus and Virgos in deep study and Leos and Libras acting, the Capricorns wanting to lead, the Cancans, Pisces and Scorpios planning the party so everyone will have fun doing their thing.

Sunday, August 24th

Our chief topic of conversation these days seems to be the inflation and if we look at the cause it seems to boil down to greed, not only in the upper brackets of Government and business but also in the working class and the class that won't work but from what I read the same thing was going on a couple thousands years ago the Roman Pliny said, "The lust of avarice has so totally seized upon mankind that their wealth seems rather to possess them, than they to possess their wealth."

Monday, August 25th

The moon in the cardinal fire sign, Aries is the time to harvest fruit and root crops as anything harvested the next few days will have good keeping qualities also a good time to harvest grain and put up hay. I read in last weeks Advertiser in Nancy Norman column that you can get instructions for home drying of fruits and vegetables from the Boone County Extension Office so that might be a way out of canning after your freezer is full.

Tuesday, August 26th

The rumor is that this will be the first day of school around this part of the country so be extra alert with your driving today, just leave a few minutes earlier and drive a little slower, so what if you are a little late for an appointment. You won't get a traffic ticket for being late. If you have time while the kids are in school this is the right day for home baking and with all the ripe apples available you can give the whole family a delicious treat.

Wednesday, August 27th

The moon went in to the fixed earth sign, Taurus last night so this would be a good time to have teeth filled or plate impressions made also a good time for an eye examination if you need glasses if you have any legal matters you have been putting off this would be an excellent day to give them some attention, today or tomorrow is the right time to start any new buildings or to set fence posts but wait a couple weeks before stretching any wire.

Teachers Hard At Work?

Joseph Sheriff & Dennis Hug

Corn Tortillas

Corn tortillas, popular in Mexican cooking, are patties made from cooked ground corn called "masa" and fried on a griddle. They are used in plain, fried crisp, and in enchiladas and other dishes.

Corny Ideas

Corn and chili flavors go especially well together. Sprinkle chili powder over popped corn with butter and salt. And when roasting ears of corn over charcoal in the barbecue pit, remember to add a dash of chili powder with the other seasonings, before wrapping in aluminum foil.

On To Bigger Things

Melinda Chapman, DeMossville, takes a last look at the books before graduation from the Booth School of Practical Nurse Education.

The Chapmans, mother and daughter of DeMossville, have been close knit for a long time and now that daughter Melinda is scheduled to be graduated from Booth Memorial Hospital School of Practical Nurse Education they will continue that association.

Graduation comes on Tuesday, September 2nd, at the First Presbyterian Church, Covington, and on the next day, Mrs. Robert Chapman begins a year study and clinical work in the same school.

But that's not all for Melinda a 1974 graduate of Simon Kenton High School, and a member of the National Honor Society. She plans to "goof off" a few days and then buckle down to study for her state examinations.

Next, on December 2nd, she takes a big step and goes to Orlando, Fla., to be sworn in as a WAVE in the U.S. Navy.

All of this has been planned for some time, Melinda, so she says, wants to help put her mother through school.

The two have worked together as members of the Piner Fisksburg Life Squad and before she entered the Booth School, Melinda took first aid courses and liked them. Hence, her decision to become a nurse.

The contest was sponsored by Ande's Arab Acres, with Mrs. Mary Ann Wilson and Mrs. Jo Ann Williams assisting in the running of the contests. The corsages presented to the Queen and Princess, were donated by Wicklund and Miller Greenhouse of Independence.

When Words Fail Us We Still Have Recourse To The Beautiful Thoughts Of Famous Poets, Philosophers and Writers.

Mild and gentle as he was brave—
 When the sweetest love of his life he gave
 To simple things; where the violets grew
 Blue as the eyes they were likened to,
 The touches of his hands have strayed
 As reverently as his lips have prayed;
 And he pitied as much as a man in pain
 A writhing honey-bee wet with rain.
 Think of him still as the same, I say
 He is not dead - he is just away.

REPORTS TO THE PEOPLE OF KENTUCKY

Daylight Time Madness

It never ceases to amaze me what government agencies and departments can do by way of justifying their own pre conceived notions and plans. A good case in point is daylight saving time. For two years now we have experimented with extended daylight savings time on the theory that it would lead to a savings of energy. I said at the time year-round DST was instituted that it would not save energy and I held to that view even after it was shortened to eight months. Now the Department of Transportation has recommended that the eight month DST be continued for another two years. This was done despite acknowledgement by Transportation Secretary Coleman that the evidence of energy savings is "inconclusive" and any possible savings are "small and difficult to isolate."

How is the reason! At the same time the government is recommending extending daylight saving time it admits there is little or no evidence that it does any good.

I joined with Senator Ford in urging the Senate Commerce Committee to reject the administration proposal. While the benefits are nebulous at best, the adverse impacts are very real and concrete to the radio stations experiencing frequency interference, to construction workers exposed to new early morning safety hazards, to families inconvenienced by shifts in school starting hours or fear for their children's safety or to farmers and other working people whose days have been disrupted.

Senator Ford and I have a bill before the Commerce Committee which would shorten DST by five weeks. We have urged the Commerce Committee to act on our proposal quickly because winter is fast approaching, and another month DST with all of its attendant problems is unjustified.

But regardless of the outcome, I find it amusing and disheartening to see a government agency admit it has no proof to justify its recommendation, and yet proceed with it anyway.

School Busing

BY
M. GENE SNYDER
U.S. CONGRESSMAN
4th District, Kentucky

Some time ago I asked the Library of Congress to ascertain costs of courtordered racial busing of school children where it was already in effect.

The Library obtained for me some scattered figures as of April, 1974, from school officials in different areas of the country. The figures are far from complete, and have not been updated, but inasmuch as such busing will be a fact of life in Jefferson County and Louisville in a very short time, you may be interested in them. They clearly show the vast amounts of fuel being used in this era of growing fuel shortages and rising prices.

Alexandria, Virginia used 98 buses per day to bus 6,200 of 18,000 students in the system. It woned 28 buses, each hauling 66 passengers. Those buses averaged 7,000 gallons of gas a month. In March, 1974, 6,100 gallons were used at 24 cents a gallon, and total fuel cost was $1,464 for the 28 buses. The other 70 buses were chartered, but no charter cost was given. Cost of a new bus was $8,200.

Memphis, reported using 207 buses to bus 30,398 students for racial purposes and 481 for special education. New 66 passenger buses cost $7,000 to $8,000 each. 78,630 gallons used each month at 24 cents a gallon came to $18,871.

Nashville, used 327 buses $8,000 for 66 passenger gasoline buses, and $17,000 for 84 passenger diesel buses. In 1972, 191,347 gallons of diesel fuel and 913,416 gallons of gasoline were used to transport 47,749 out of a total of 82,686 students in the system. By February, 1974, gas was up to 32 cents a gallon and diesel fuel was up to 25 cents a gallon.

Norfolk, reported new buses unavailable. It used over 200 buses of a city owned transit firm to bus over 27,000 of the system's 50,000 students. 8,000 were transported before desegregation, but on public buses. Fuel costs were not broken down, but this statement appeared: "The whole busing program costs the school district approximately $1.5 million per year."

Oklahoma used 308 buses to bus 26,000 of 54,691 students. 15,000 has been bused before court ordered racial busing became effective in 1972. Its 72 passenger buses cost $11,000 each. Approximately 3,200 gallons of gasoline were used each day. Gas for the 113 buses owned by the school district cost 22 cents per gallon; 196 contracted buses used gas the contractors paid 46 cents a gallon for.

San Francisco estimated busing costs for its 1973-74 school year at $2.5 million, with only 18,000 to 19,000 elementary and junior high students being bused out of a total of 76,000. By 1976 all grades are to be integrated. Monthly fuel costs for 228 buses ran between $8,516 and $13,211 and its 66 passenger buses cost $14,000 apiece, and its 91 passenger buses, $38,000.

Accepting The Challenge To Grow
(II Timothy 1:6-10; 2:1-7)

In his book, "The New Man For Our Time," Dr. Elton Trueblood makes this statement: "The only hope of being contemporary is to be more than contemporary." The same author continues, "The man who is wedded to his time will soon be a widower."

Man must grow to stay alive. He may exist without growth but life demands room to expand. One of life's greatest challenges is the challenge to grow. You don't have to stay like you are!

For the one who desires to grow, God has provided many precious jewels to hold onto.

Jewels,
II Timothy 1:6-10

The believer has been given the person, the presence, the power of the Holy Spirit to indwell his life. This precious Gift must not be neglected. One would not think of neglecting an ordinary guest in his home. How much less should we neglect the person of the Holy Spirit! God has given us the precious gifts of power, love, and a sound mind. God has equipped the believer with courage. This courage comes from an awareness of the presence of the Holy Spirit within us. It is God's gift of love that enables us to love one another, and to love even our enemies.

The gift of a sound mind which leads to self discipline is another gift of God. With these gifts from our Creator and Redeemer how can we be ashamed of the testimony of our Lord? God has saved us, and called us with an holy calling. This has come to us, not by human merit or human strivings, but because God willed it by His grace. God's eternal purpose concerning our redemption was revealed in the coming of His Son Jesus Christ. This was not some after thought of God, but was God's plan before the world began!

The appearing of Jesus has brought to light the truth that death is not the end. Life that goes on throughout the ages - God's kind of life - is the result of believing the Gospel.

The Christian receives his strength to grow from Christ Jesus.

MOUNTAIN MOMENTS

My Teacher Came To See Me!

For almost a year now I have been interim pastor of the First Baptist Church, Harrogate, Tennessee, a small settlement near Cumberland Gap. Originally planned by English land developers to be a residential area near what they hoped would be an industrial center in Middleboro, Ky., Harrogate is becoming highly residential due too, if nothing else, the population growth.

Lincoln Memorial University is located here in recent years has experienced a surge of growth under the sometimes daring leadership of its president, Frank Welch. My freshman year in college was at LMU where I was fortunate to have as my professor of speech and drama the very capable Earl Hobson Smith, who also taught Jesse Stuart! Stuart received national recognition through his writings which include several books about his teaching career.

During my student days at LMU I became one of the "Lincoln Players," a drama organization at the college. The players were presenting Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream," and the events surrounding my participation in the play will be discussed in a later column.

Before I wander completely away from the subject, let's go back to Harrogate's First Baptist Church where I sit as I write these words, I mentioned that I am interim pastor, which means I minister to the church while the congregation seeks a pastor. When he is called, my task is completed, which expels the term "interim" or "in between" pastors.

Two members of the congregation are very close to me. I have known them since 1949! You see, one of them, Willard Bush, was my fifth grade teacher; and his sister, Mildred Bush Britton, taught my sixth year.

When I was in the fifth grade I had acute appendicitis and underwent emergency surgery. In fact I almost died, but a very capable Dr. Will Evans quickly performed the then delicate operation on a Sunday evening, saving my life.

While I was in the hospital, Mr. Bush came to visit me. It thrilled me beyond words! My teacher had come to see me. Mom and Dad, my grandparents, uncles, aunts, and cousins all came to visit me but it meant most to me that my teacher was there!

In those days recovery from an appendectomy took almost a month and I missed a lot of school.

When I returned to class, Mr. Bush gave assignments to the class and worked with me personally, so I could catch up with my classmates.

I hope there are still public school teachers who are as dedicated as Willard Bush because their contribution to democracy and the old fashioned American way of life has a value that is priceless!

Only the athlete who strives and who strives lawfully will win the crown. Only the farmer who labors will harvest a crop.

THE SIZE OF THE CREATURE

No doubt the dinosaur thought—if dinosaurs thought at all—that he was big enough, powerful enough to survive anything. But the dinosaur is extinct.

Man used to think that his brain, his cleverness, his frightening weapons made him a cinch for survival. Now we talk seriously about man's "hope of survival."

No wonder the dinosaur has become fascinating. Poor fellow—so big and powerful and extinct. Surely if he'd had our intelligence and our nuclear war-pipe, he'd have made it!

But there's always that gnawing uncertainty—maybe it takes something else!

Come to church and you'll be rubbing shoulders with people who are sure it does. For them, mankind's hope is not in the size of the creature . . . but in his soul.

Jesus
II Timothy 2:1-2

The apostle Paul reminds the young preacher Timothy that he can be strong in the grace that is in Christ Jesus. The Christian who wants to grow must not forget the Source of his strength. As the branch cannot bear fruit, or grow, apart from the vine, neither can the Christian grow apart from Jesus.

Jesus is all and in all for the Christian. Jesus said, "Without me ye can do nothing."

Paul knew that Timothy would grow in grace as he shared with others what he had learned about Jesus. It is our privilege and responsibility to pass on to faithful men the truths we have come to grasp in our own lives. Faithful men will then pass it on to others. Would you and I be classed among the faithful or the unfaithful by this test?

Accepting the challenge to grow involves the exercise of good judgment.

Judgement
II Timothy 2:3-7

The last verse in this passage calls for consideration of all that Paul has said to Timothy. It also contains a promise oothat the Lord will give understanding in all things. The Christian who would grow must think these things through. As a soldier undergoes rigid training and self discipline, so must the soldier of the Cross. As a soldier must not get the entangled with the business of this world, so the soldier of Christ must seek only to please Christ.

Energy Talk

It is not easy to describe the enormous output of the sun's energy. The sun gets its energy from thermonuclear reactions near its center. They release so much energy that scientists believe the sun could shine for about 10 billion years with little change in its size or brightness.

If the sun were enveloped in a sheet of ice 40 feet thick, it would thaw its way out in only one minute. The energy received at the earth's surface amounts to more than 4,000,000 horsepower for square mile.

Because the sun's energy is so strong, man has had to develop items for protection, and he has invented sunglasses for his eyes and umbrellas to shade himself. One of the latest developments is sunfighter film which when placed on windows effectively screens out the sun while letting the light come in.

Questions & Answers

When buying canned fruits or fruit drinks, check the label for a statement such as "vitamin C added" or "enriched". Usually the enriched juice costs no more and you need vitamin C in your diet every day for good health.

Exotic Animals

by Sue Johnson

If you are an animal lover, you probably own a dog, a cat or possibly fish, hamsters, rabbits or other common pets. Because of today's society and knowledge, these pets are simple to take care of, and they are contented and happy to live in our environment.

But, one of the unfortunate fads among animal lovers today is the buying, selling and raising of exotic pets. (By "exotic pets" I mean those other than the common house pets. For example: monkeys or specific species of the big cats.)

Owning a boa constrictor or an ocelot may be a symbol of status to some people. Others believe they are helping to preserve the endangered species by owning exotic pets. Of course, this is not true. In fact, for each of these animals that arrives safely to a private owner or a dealer, countless others die during capture or shipping. If the animal should survive after he reaches his destination, he usually dies soon. The new owner does not know how to properly take care of the animal. Though he means well, he doesn't have the knowledge to provide for the animal's environmental or nutritional needs. Also, most veterinarians just are not trained to care for exotic pets.

These animals were not meant to live with humans. The cuddly, playful lion cub eventually grows into a rather large, hard to handle problem. What then? The animal is dumped into a shelter, or more often, a zoo. Of course an expert can successfully raise these exotics, but only by devoting his whole life to that purpose. This hobby should be left only to the experts, not to the dog-cat owner.

A bill was passed in 1973 which makes it illegal to import, own or sell any animals on the endangered species list. (Except for animals owned before the law was passed.) But the business has simply moved underground.

The best way to halt this inhumane business is to stop the demand for these animals, by not buying or placing orders for them.

For those of us who really love animals, let's show it by not being selfish. Let these rare exotics live peacefully where they belong.

From The Start

An assortment of cheese can provide a happy ending to your company dinner with a minimum of fuss and flurry. Just remember to remove cheese from the refrigerator early enough to bring it to room temperature.

Twenty minutes to an hour should be long enough to bring out the best in flavor and texture of cheddar and blue cheese. Bring on butter for crisp crackers, and a bowl of icy chilled fruits.

Rare, medium or well done beef? The rule is "as you like it". For accuracy, use a meat thermometer for roasts.

Less tender beef cuts - such as pot roasts, round steak and beef for stews - are cooked "well done" to develop their full flavor and tenderness.

Use low to moderate temperatures and don't overcook.

While we're on the subject of beef, fresh ground beef is at its best when you cook it within 24 hours after it is purchased.

If you want a really festive dessert, try this on your guests: coffee ice cream in the bottom of the dish followed by a spoonful of creme de cocoa and a collop of whipped cream. For the final crowning touch, add 1/4 cup of drained fruit cocktail.

Chop herbs very fine to allow some of the flavoring oils to escape. Heat chopped herbs in melted butter and add to vegetables after it has been cooked.

If you're ever confused as to just when to use the waste disposer and when to use the trash compactor, remembering this slogan "compact the trash and grind the garbage".

Staggering Statistics: The cattle population in India is 240 million head - as much as the U.S. and Soviet Union combined. On the other hand, the hog population in China is a whopping 237 million - more than four times in the U.S.

Cover breads loosely with foil during the last 5 to 10 minutes of baking if crust browns too quickly.

Lunch Brunch Tuna
Get the school year off to a good start. Make back to school lunches a treat. Tempt your lunch bunch with Tuna Chip Krr-unch Sandwiches. Prepare them ahead of time and the filling stays moist because of the velvetized evaporated milk in it. Assemble, then place the covered sandwiches in the freezer. An hour before lunch, coat, crunch, and bake them. They're terrific.
Tuna Chip Krr-unch Sandwiches
1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 1/2 cups undiluted Carnation Evaporated Milk, 1 1/4 cups drained tuna, 1/2 cup undiluted cream of mushroom soup, 2 teaspoons snipped parsley, 2 drops of hot pepper sauce, 1/4 cup finely chopped onion, 3 eggs, 12 - 14 sandwich sliced white bread, 3 cups finely crushed potato chips.

Stir lemon juice into 1/2 cup milk until milk thickens. Combine with tuna and mushroom soup, parsley, hot sauce and onion then one egg in bowl. Mix well. Cut crusts off bread; keep slices equal in size. Spread each of 6 or 7 slices with slightly more than one third cup of tuna filling. Top each with second slice. Cut sandwiches diagonally in half. Place on greased cookie sheet; cover with plastic wrap or aluminum foil and place in freezer for 45 minutes. Combine remaining evaporated milk and 2 eggs and beat well. Dip frozen triangles into egg mixture, then potato chips. Place on cookie sheet and bake in slow oven for 45 to 50 minutes.

Sand and Sandwiches
Beaching It - that all American summer pastime - is taken up by thousands annually for the purpose of relaxation and body beautifying. The moment of truth may come when among all that suntan lotion and chaise longues, no one has thought much about lunch.
Next time you pack your beach bags, just tuck in a few can of chicken spread and make a great baked over the coals sandwich in minutes. If you wish, make a sandwich at home, wrap it in foil and carry it to the beach ready to eat.
Barbecue Chicken Sandwich

10 thin rings red onion

County Agent's*1/2 Acre by: Joe Claxon

Farms with $10,000 to $20,000 product sales account for 10 percent of sales and 13 percent of the farms. Farming is generally intended to be the main occupation of the operators, but income from these farms does not provide much more than minimum living standards and little or no return on investment. Nonfarm income averages four fifths of the operators' farm income. This is considerably less than the off farm share for smaller farm operators.

The rest of the farms, about 700,000 are gradually growing in number. These have gross sales of $20,000 or more, and account for 80 percent of all farm product sales. Among these farms are more than 70,000 with sales of at least $100,000 a year. They represent only 2 percent of the farms but have 38 percent of the sales including about 70 percent of our vegetables, half of our fruits and nuts, and 55 percent of all poultry and poultry products. To sum up, the average size of our farms is 385 acres; farmers sell livestock and crops valued at over $23,000 per farm; and their average net farm income is $6,1000 a year.

Farmer are becoming more specialized. A major change is the trend toward raising fewer kinds of crops or livestock buying more of other seeds and feed, and using more mechanical equipment such as tractors and milking machines. Today, the average farm has less than three major enterprises, compared with over five before World War II.

Although there still are some advantages to diversified farming, there are important reasons for specializing. It takes a high degree of skill and knowledge to compete successfully in producing just one farm product. A farmer who does well uses a knowledge of genetics, land and water conservation, and business management. Even the specialized farmer performs many different jobs with complex tools and machines. He combines science and machine power with the ancient art of tilling the soil.

A Successful Fair

By

Kenton County
Extension Agent

I hope you enjoyed this year's Kenton County Fair as much as I did. There were a lot of new things to see. Miss Kenton County Fair was held at the fair grounds for the first time. Mrs. Curtis Cooper did a tremendous job in seeing that every detail of the contest was taken care of.

The addition of a new 1,000 seat grandstand facility really made a difference this year. The seats were put together and put up by the 100th Division Corps of Engineers Reservists from Ft. Thomas.

Exhibitors should have been well pleased with the judging of their entries. Some very knowledgeable and professional judges placed the entries and often gave reasons. These people deserve nothing but appreciation and praise for giving their time and effort.

The list of volunteers who gave their time to the fair included Fair Board members, Boy Scouts, Volunteer Firemen, 4-Hers gate attendances, and many more. I think it would also be great to list all the winners and entries but time and space does not allow.

As I said earlier this month, a county fair should be educational and entertaining in a way that benefits the community and county. The State Department of Agriculture lends support to county fairs by allocating up to $2,000 to local fairs meeting certain standards or requirements. Among other things, a local fair, to be eligible must run for at least three consecutive days, and must offer classes for both youth and adults. The state aid is allocated on a matching fund basis only for approved agriculture classes which have a minimum of three entries and three exhibitors.

Major youth events at the Kenton County Fair resulted from the Kenton County 4-H Program. Four 4-Hers displayed exhibits in the 4-H Building, had 4-H Horse shows, Beef, Dairy, Rabbit, and Dog Shows and even a prince and princess, king and queen event. If you are between the ages of 9 and 19 get ready for next year's fair by joining 4-H this fall. Call Diana Schneider, 4-H agent at 356-3155 for more information.

What To Do If Your Freezer Quits*Anna L. Myers
Kenton County
Home Economics

"If your freezer quits, don't panic. Play your cards right, and you won't end up dumping spoiled food into the trash," says Ann Myers of Kenton County Extension Agent for Home Economics.

Food in a loaded freezer will usually stay frozen for 2 days even in August heat, if you don't open your freezer. However, if it's just half full, food will only stay frozen about one day.

Maybe your freezer has stopped because of a power failure and you don't expect the electricity to come back on for several days. Or maybe the repairman you called can't get the freezer fixed for a day or two. In either case, you'll need to buy dry ice and keep the food frozen.

"You can cover the freezer with blankets or quilts to help it stay cold, but do not cover the airvent, in case the freezer comes back on."
